FOR SALE

A farm of exceptional reputation, being the old homestead farm of the late Alex. Smyth, situate in the Township of South Fredericksburgh, known to be perhaps the choicest agricultural district in this or the surrounding countries. This farm is described in the deed as 155 acres, but a surveyor's measurement placed the acreage at 170. All work done in a very choice quality; exceptionally well drained, well watered and attractively laid out. Situate on this farm is a very fine brick residence with hardwood floors throughout, excellent cellar with perfect drainage and cement bottom, and a good furnace; also a good tenant house, good barns and stables, drive house, pig pen and hen house; also a windmill for watering stock and a new silo. Farm exceptionally clean and totally free of hernick or wild mustard. In addition to the consumptions of a large family, this farm will give a return for the present season of considerably over $4000.00. The farm is situate within ½ mile of the Hamburg Road, which is becoming almost equal in perfection to the Napanee and Kingston Highway, giving a splendid road to the lake, which is about 3 miles distant, and to the Lake Shore Road leading to Kingston, and Glenora, and also within seven miles of Napanee. This farm is extensively known throughout the district for its production of high grade seed grain, and the demand for that product has become without sufficient to consume the entire crop. This can be verified by a reference to the Agricultural Office at Napanee.

This farm is in excellent producing condition at present which can also be corroborated by a reference to the said Agricultural Office at Napanee which office is exceptionally well in touch with this particular farm.

The farm is owned by the estate of the late W. G. Schell, whose recent death has caused it to be placed upon the market, and for the sake of quick sale will be sold on favourable terms.

For further particulars apply to T. B. GERMAN, Barrister, Napanee, Ont., or to the widow, MRS. W. G. SCHELL, on the premises. 52d

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Nelson Shannon.

On December 30th, 1926, there passed peacefully away at the home of her sister, Mrs. Will Shannon, Newburgh Road, in her 74th year, a very highly respected lady in the person of the late Mrs. Nelson Shannon.

Deceased spent nearly all her life in and around Napanee, with the exception of some few years spent in the West after her marriage. Her maiden name was Almeda Asselstine, and was twice married, first to Mr. Jas. Wagar, a brother of Mr. Hayes Wagar, a resident of Newburgh, who now lies very ill at his home; and next to Mr. Nelson Shannon, a brother of Mr. Will Shannon, who predeceased her some years ago. One daughter was born of the first marriage, Mrs. John Wagar, of South Napanee, who with four children, are left to mourn. Since her husband's death deceased has divided her time between her sister's and daughter's home.

A woman of very sterling qualities and exemplary character, a good neighbor and friend in time of need and sickness, she will be very greatly missed.

Her funeral was held on Friday, Dec. 31st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Will Shannon, Newburgh Road, and was conducted by the Rev. P. Rhyndress. The remains were placed in Riverside vault to await burial in the spring.

Deepest sympathy goes out to the sorrowing relatives who are left to mourn a loving sister and mother.

D. W. Cronk

The death of D. W. Cronk, which took place at his son's residence, Glen Tweed, on Sunday, December 12th, 1926, after a long illness, removed one of the best known and most highly respected residents of the township and district. He made many friends during the sixty-four years of his life, by his genial but gifted ways, his splendid character and goodness. He devoted his life to those about him. As a testimony of his popularity, nearly one hundred relatives and friends visited him the day of his death, each one being called by name and smiled upon by him.

The late Mr. Cronk was born at Long Lake, eighty-four years ago, and resided all his life, except a few years of his youth being spent at Moscow.

Up until a few months ago he was active in his home and community life, but from that time his illness confined him to his home. He was married to Nellie Smith on Christmas Day, 1868. Besides his sorrowing wife he leaves to mourn his loss one son, Percy; two sisters, Mrs. Geo. A. Drew, Hanna, and Mrs. James Love, Long Lake, and three brothers, Jacob, Sharbot Lake; David John, Mountain Grove, and Alvera, Long Lake. He was a Conservative in politics, a Methodist in religion, and Superintendent of Long Lake Sunday School for thirty years. He was a member of the County Council for three years, and served as Councillor for a number of years. The following lodges, which he was a member in good standing, took part in the funeral ceremony: St. Andrew's, No. 457, A. F. & A. M., Arden; Rose Flower, No. 297, I.O.O.F., Parham, and Maple Leaf, No. 73, P.A.P.B., Mountain Grove. His Pastor, Rev. Mr. Gall, Long Lake United Church, preached the funeral sermon, speaking in terms of praise of deceased, as a loyal friend. Interment was made in Mountain Grove cemetery. The floral tributes were: Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Black, wreath; Mayflower, I.O.O.F., wreath; St. Andrew's, A.F. & A.M., wreath; brothers and sisters, wreath; teacher and pupils of Long Lake Public School, a spray.

CAMDEN EAST

Mr. and Mrs. C. Histed, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Histed and children, Mrs. Alex. Smyth and Miss Reta Truelove, of Kingston, and Mr. and Mrs. Elgin McWilliams, of Bethel, were entertained at the home of Mr. Garnet Jeffrey on Thursday evening.

The many friends of Mrs. S. Brien are sorry to hear of her serious illness.—The Wilton Dramatic Club intend putting on a play here in the Town Hall, Camden East, on evening, January 19th, in aid of the Public Library. Music furnished by an orchestra. Don't forget the date. — Mrs. A. Smyth and Miss Reta Truelove have returned to their home in Elginburg, after spending a week with the former's sister, Mrs. Myrtle McWilliams.—The election passed off quietly on Monday, Mr. Jas. Fisher, of Moscow, being elected Reeve.

Mrs. Winter and Hazel were in Kingston for New Years.

Mrs. Hill and Waldemar were at Mrs. Switzer's, Switzerville, during the week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Nugent at Mrs. Madden's.

Mr. and Mrs. Orison Benn and small son spent New Years at Mrs. Bowerman's.

Mrs. Herris is spending a week with her sister, Mrs. Wagar.

Mr. H. Wager, who suffered an attack of apoplexy two weeks ago, is still confined to the house.

Mrs. E. Boyce spent the holidays in Napanee.

Mrs. Clarke, of Napanee, was a visitor during the week with her sister, Mrs. Shortle.

Mrs. Almeda Shannon passed away on Wednesday of last week, at the home of Mr. William Shannon, Napanee Road. The deceased lady made her home with her daughter, Mrs. John Wager, Napanee, and was on a visit to the Shannon home when she was stricken with the sickness which caused her death. Mrs. Shannon frequently visited in Newburgh with Mrs. H. Wager, and will be missed by many friends in the community. Her funeral was held at the home of Mr. Shannon, and the remains placed in the vault at Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Fox, of Bellville, renewed acquaintances in Newburgh during the week.

St. John's Anglican congregation held their annual "at home" on Monday. After the usual treat and programme, dancing and cards were indulged in for a time. The proceeds go to the repairing of the church. Another party will be held on Jan. 18th.

Misses H. M. and E. Paul, Mrs. Floyd Switzer, Mrs. Shier, Miss Frances, with Clancy and Bob Shier, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Jos. Paul.

—Our little friends, who have been quite sick and under the doctor's care were Vera Allen, Bruce Allen, Laura Allen, Gertie and Harold Clark, and all are much better, which we are pleased to report.—The regular meeting of the Colebrook Ladies' Aid will be held at Mrs. Arley Clark's, this Wednesday night. We are looking for a good attendance.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

One of the largest votes in the history of Napanee for a municipal election was polled on Monday, due, perhaps, to the keen interest taken in both candidates for the Reeveship.

One new face will be seen at the Council Board this year, Mr. Arthur Kimmerly, who headed the poll.

Following are the returns :

NAPANEE

For Reeve,—	West Ward No. 1	West Ward No. 2	Centre Ward No. 1	Centre Ward No. 2	East Ward	Total
F. S. Boyes	81	140	90	143	145	599
G. J. Tustin	121	105	100	83	77	486
Majority for Boyes						113

For Councillors,—
Arthur Kimmerly	125	165	104	122	98	614
J. M. Simpson	97	121	105	129	129	581
Wm. Jewell	114	136	113	116	86	565
W. H. Dunbar	59	128	81	139	145	552
Wm. Howitt	109	120	96	111	110	546
J. H. Fitzpatrick	137	114	89	106	96	542
Thos. Huffman	50	58	47	73	94	322
Fred. A. Perry	33	61	43	61	47	245

The first six Councillors are elected.

After the compilation of the returns were completed, the meeting was called to order by Mr. W. A. Grange, and short addresses were given by the candidates.

Mayor-elect Edw. J. Roy wished to thank Messrs. Simpson, Tustin and Boyes for withdrawing and giving him the office by acclamation. He referred briefly in his address to the connection which his firm, The Napanee Iron Works, had with the firm of Quinlan & Robertson, paving contractors, which was a reply to the pointed remarks made by Messrs. MacGregor and Howitt at the Nomination meeting. He would like to see the streets of our town better lighted, and also thought the Council should work with the Board of Commerce, and the citizens should work with the Town Council and all endeavor in every way to make Napanee a better town.

Reeve-elect Boyes thanked all for their kind support, and said that he had become so excited that he forgot to vote. He felt sure that the Council would work for the very best interests of the town.

George J. Tustin said he did not feel it any disgrace to be defeated by a man of Mr. Boyes' calibre, and was pleased that the election had been free from any personalities, for which he thanked Mr. Boyes. In closing he heartily thanked all who had supported him.

Arthur Kimmerly, who headed the poll, thanked the electors for the great confidence they had placed in him, and assured them that he would endeavor to not betray that confidence.

J. M. Simpson said he had weathered four campaigns and had run second. He thanked the electorate for their splendid support. In closing he voiced the wish that the citizens would take more interest in the proceedings of the Council and attend the meetings.

Wm. Jewell assured the electors that he would do everything he could to keep down the tax rate, but he would like to see some improvements, such as better street lighting and repairs to the debt of the town and thought it was time for the electors to look seriously upon the situation.

Academic Dress.

Academic dress is a sort of scholar's badge consisting of gowns, hoods and caps, copied or adapted from styles long prevalent in England, the combination of articles being so arranged as to indicate the degree or academic status of the wearer. The code was formulated by an intercollegiate college commission chartered by the University of New York and has been adopted in many American colleges. There are three distinct types of gowns and hoods—the bachelor's, the master's and the doctor's. The bachelor's gown is most commonly worn and has long pointed sleeves; the master's gown has long closed sleeves with a slit through which the forearm protrudes; the doctor's gown has velvet bars on round open sleeves and velvet facings down the front. Caps worn with such gowns are the regulation mortar boards with black silk tassels.—Philadelphia Press.

Remembering Faces.

Hotel clerks have a way of recognizing guests as soon as they sign a register. The most successful hotel keepers have to have this power of remembering the faces of their guests and all about them or they would soon lose their custom by the mistakes they would make.

Bank cashiers carry in their memories the faces and signature of most of the customers of the bank.

Detectives, too, get into the habit of remembering the faces of every one with whom they have to deal, whether criminals or not.

"I don't think I have ever forgotten a customer," a clerk in one of the big safe deposits recently said. "There are hundreds of safe deposit boxes rented in our vaults, and I can generally remember, without referring to our books, the name, number and password of each customer."—Exchange.

Charley Horse.

"Charley horse," dreaded by ball players, is an ailment consisting of displacement and stricture of the muscles of the leg, often the sartorial muscle. The trouble is commonly brought about, not by running, but by quick stopping at bases. The player who "stops on his feet" is almost certain to acquire the ailment in a short time. The overworked muscle, slipping out of place, knots itself into a great lump and exerts pressure on the surrounding muscles, producing lameness.

Massaging will bring the muscle back to place, but the trouble returns at the next serious strain.

When you see a player make a long slide which appears unnecessary, the reason is that he prefers to scrape off a little skin rather than raise chances on "horsing" himself by stopping standing up.—Exchange

Benson—"I lost my silk umbrella yesterday at the club."

Townes—"Too bad! But you'll get it back, won't you? Aren't your initials on it?"

Benson—"Well, come to think of it, there are some initials on it, but they aren't mine."

FAREWELL PARTY FOR MARYSVILLE FAMILY

On December 19th the friends and neighbours of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Drumney gathered at their home to present them with a purse and an address before their departure for Rochester. The time was spent in dancing and other amusements. The address, read by Tom Currie, Jr., was as follows:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Drumney,—We, your friends and neighbours have taken the liberty of invading your peaceful home this evening, in order that we may express to you a little of our feelings of respect and love upon the eve of your departure from our midst. We could have wished you to abide with us to the end, but it is something of a solace to know that we may have the pleasing prospect of seeing you annually at least, and renewing the fellowship with you which we have prized so much.

You have ever been good neighbours and kind friends, always willing to lend a helping hand in time of need.

We feel that it would be very ungrateful on our part to allow you to leave Marysville without showing a little appreciation of your kindness. We, therefore, ask you to accept this purse as a token of good will from those of your friends who have gathered here to-night. In leaving us you may be assured you are carrying with you our best respect. And our heart's desire is that you will in your new home, have health and prosperity, not forgetting the friends of your old neighbourhood.

Signed on behalf of your neighbours,

TOM CURRIE, JR.
JOSEPH HARRIGAN.

MAPLE LEAF INSTITUTE

The December meeting of the Maple Leaf Institute was held at the home of Mrs. W. R. Smith and Mrs. Harold Brandon, Morven, on December 16th. The meeting opened with the President in the chair, Community singing, Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer. Roll call was responded to by seventeen ladies. The business part of the meeting was then taken, after which Miss Cummings gave a reading, entitled "The Legion of the Christmas Rose". Music was then given by one of the members. Collection was taken, which amounted to $1.15. Mrs. Harold Brandon donated a dollar. All then joined in singing "God Save the King", after which our Christmas Novelty Sale, in charge of Mrs. Sperry Fraser, was held, which amounted to $6.00, with one article yet to be sold. Lunch was served by the committee in charge. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered our hostesses, and also the lunch committee. Our next meeting is to be held at the home of our President, Mrs. Fraser Lampkins, on January 13th.

Miss Beatrice Sazer, Secty.

To the Lonely and Sorrowful in Napanee and Vicinity

Here in a world of trouble where loved ones must depart, Leaving the left one lonely, bereaved and sick at heart;
Burdened with grief—sore-pressing
—by reason of that vacant place,
Hard in its understanding, ne'er seeing that once-loved face.
But, friend, have you not forgotten that Man of sorrows and grief,
Who is not dead but living and longs to give you relief?
I wonder, to-day have you sought Him; for help have you asked Him much?
Did you know that He was able to meet your need as such?

And many of you are worried with cares that pass the day,
I wonder if you knew He waited until you took time to pray?
And didn't you feel the burden (pressing you down indeed)
Didn't you feel it lifted when you told Him all your need?
But you found it hard to trust Him and you kept on worrying o'er,
Till sickness came and warned you that you must worry no more,
When you learned upon His promise you found His Word was true,
Then up rose the sad, distressed one, God is Life to the dead in you!

To friends you looked for comfort; perchance they gave you none,
You looked to them for counsel, but failed what they might have done,
So disappointment tore you till death you thought was best,
All life and power left you and gone that youthful zest,
But didn't you know the Lordship of Christ who could sustain
The very weakest vessel and alleviate the pain?
And didn't you know He was safest and better than any friend,
And never will forsake you from now world without end?

So now why not just trust Him, on Him lean for repose?
He knows just absolutely your cares and all your woes!
He sees the deepest sorrow—He feels it heavily pressed,
But He can cure the sickness, so do not be distressed!
Just lean on Him each moment and in His love remain,
Hold nothing back, but give Him yourself—His royal claim;
And oh! What joy will fill you—for you who hear the call,
Who rest in Him forever, who've found Him all in all!

Doctor X is an famous for his illegible penmanship as for his medical skill.

One day he dropped a note to a friend asking him to spend the evening with him, and suggesting cards and a little music. The friend did not turn up.

When he next met him, Dr. X said, rather reproachfully, "Didn't you get my note?"

"Of course I did," said the friend enthusiastically. "I took it to the chemist at once, and he made up the prescription. It has done me a world of good."

Winter Foods That Feed.

Dried figs contain more than three times the nutriment of fresh eggs. Figs are justly entitled to a place among the food fruits. In the dry state or stewed they are an excellent food for children in cold weather. About five ounces of figs and a pint of milk make a sustaining meal for an adult. Weight for weight, dates are more nourishing than bread. In desert tracts this fruit is often almost the only source of nourishment for men and women, camels, horses and other animals.

Stockings Over Shoes.

Our neighbor's daughter was to be married. Mother went over at the last moment to see her and to arrange her veil. Just as she was about to step through the folding doors into the room where the ceremony was to be performed mother noticed her feet. She had drawn on a pair of white stockings over her slippers and they were still on! She was quickly drawn back and there was a scramble to pull them off and start in again.—Exchange.

Delayed for Refreshments.

The hour was set for the wedding, but the bride did not appear. After an hour's wait the clergyman said he could wait no longer. "Oh, please just a little longer," the mother said. Another hour of waiting and then a jubilant voice called out: "Oh, Susy, the beer has come, the beer has come!" and the bridal party immediately scampered before the weary minister.

Platinum.

Platinum was discovered by white men in gold mining in Colombia, South America, in 1735, and it was thrown away at first as valueless. It was first taken to Europe in 1741 and was found valuable commercially, especially in the manufacture of chemical utensils. It is only in the last half century that it has been used to any extent for jewelry purposes.

Rule to Attain Old Age.

Sir George Birkbeck says: "I have aimed at health and happiness, and when confronted by a formidable obstacle I have first tried to knock it over; failing in this, to get around it; if not to get under it; and if these maneuvers failed I have been content to lie down in its grateful shade, finding it as a beautiful blessing in disguise."

Pepys at a Feast.

Pepys' account of the lord mayor's banquet which he attended in 1663 illustrates the earliness of the proceedings at that time. He made his way to the Guildhall at noon, "went up and down to see the tables" and then had a drink, refusing wine in consequence of a vow, but persuading his conscience that he might indulge in hippocras, a compound of wine and spices. Soon after 1 o'clock came the lord mayor, "and so all to dinner." Afterward Pepys strolled about the ladies' room, but could not discern one handsome face there and, "being wearied with looking upon a company of ugly women," went off to Cheapside to see the pageants, "which were very silly." Thus the lord mayor's show in those days came after dinner.—London Standard.

WEDDING BELLS

Martyn—Woodcock.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on December 25th, at 6 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Woodcock, 251 John St. West, Oshawa, Ont., when their only daughter, Laugetta Mae, was united in marriage to Charles Andrew, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Martyn Brook St., Whitby, Ont., the Rev. J. T. Ball, of the Pentecostal Church, Oshawa, officiating. The occasion was made more truly festive, the 25th being the silver wedding anniversary of the bride's parents. The decorations were silver and white. As Miss Reva Ball played the wedding march, the bride entered the parlor on her father's arm, following the flower girl strewing petals in her pathway. The bride looked very charming in an orchid georgette dress with silver trimming with hose to match and black satin shoes, and carried a bouquet of white roses and carnations. The bride was attended by Miss Gladys Tomlinson, in apple blossom green trimmed with gold, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Vernon Woodcock, brother of the bride, supported the groom. Grace Martyn acted as flower girl. The bride's mother was dressed in a pretty gown of black Duchess satin with white trimmings. The groom's mother wore a navy blue satin trimmed with gold. After the ceremony a very enjoyable dinner was served. In the centre of the table was the four-tier wedding cake with silver decorations, the top ornament being a neat gold one, above, and white ribbons from ceiling to cake. The happy couple left for Toronto, under a heavy shower of confetti. After their return to Oshawa they will live for a time with Mr. and Mrs. Woodcock, where they will reside. The bride was the recipient of numerous beautiful and useful gifts. Messages, cards, letters of congratulations were received from those who could not be present, as well as by the thirty-nine who showered them with good wishes. Among the out-of town relatives were: Mrs. D. D. Hartwell, Arden, Ont.; Mrs. Sara Miller, Newburgh, Ont.; sister of Mrs. Woodcock; Livingston and Mary Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Bailey, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Brown and daughter, Lucy, Solina, Ont. The bride's parents were also the recipients of many fine silver gifts, some from those who hold them in great esteem, having known them for the past twenty-five years and longer. Much credit is due L. Miller, C. Bailey and W. Cannon for the beautiful bed decorated car for the bride and groom's honeymoon.

A Remedy for Earache.—To have the earache is to endure torture. The ear is a delicate organ and few care to deal with it, considering it work for a doctor. Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil offers a simple remedy. A few drops upon a piece of lint or medicated cotton and placed in the ear will do much in relieving pain.

4 KING SENT TO COVENTRY.

How Nobility Boycotted Spanish Court With Success.

It is interesting to recall that a Court was once boycotted with complete success, not by sturdy Republicans, but by blue-blooded aristocrats. The Court was Spain, and the time was the early seventies of the last century. Isabella, ill - fated, been bundled off the throne and over the frontier because of her levity. The second son of King Victor Emmanuel, Amadeo, Duke of Aosta, consented, after much persuasion, to become King of Spain in her place.

He meant well. No country ever had a more conscientious ruler. But he was, though he did not know it, the nominee of a faction; and that faction did not include the old families and the leaders of society.

All these were friends of the frivolous Isabella; and they swore a solemn oath that, as they were not powerful enough to dirge Amadeo out, they would freeze him out by a campaign of slights and insults.

The trouble began because Amadeo's political supporters, though not "in society," insisted upon being asked to his parties. As soon as they received their invitations (writes Francis Gribble in John o' London's Weekly) the aristocracy gave the King to understand that they really could not frequent a palace in which they would be expected to associate with people of that sort. Parties, however, had still to be given, and the royal reception rooms had, somehow or other, to be filled.

As they could not be filled with dukes and duchesses, they had to be filled with butchers, and bakers, and candlestick-makers and their ladies. These, unfortunately, knew neither how to behave nor how to dress at drawing rooms and levees; and the climax was reached when one of the butchers—or perhaps it was one of the bakers or candlestick-makers—bought a new bolled shirt to wear when attending the ceremony to which he had been bidden.

It was a beautiful bolled shirt—the best that money could buy. It was delivered in a beautiful box; and the box was embellished with a beautiful pink paper frill.

Unhappily, the purchaser did not understand that the paper frill was intended only to adorn the box. He imagined it to be an integral part of the shirt, added to it to enable the wearer to make a braver show. He put it on together with the shirt; and he was still wearing it, together with the shirt, when he made his bow to the King.

That was one of the stories which delighted Isabella in her exile. She was even more delighted with the story of the unsuccessful attempt of Amadeo's Queen to conciliate feminine opinion by reviving an old Spanish fashion.

Her majesty caused it to be announced that, on a certain festive day, she proposed to wear that beautiful old Spanish garment, the white lace mantilla. Her expectation was that all her subjects would be pleased, and that everybody who was anybody in Madrid would follow the example.

But that was not what befell. On the contrary, the whole of the aristocracy realized that Queen Maria Victoria had delivered herself into their hands. They bought up all the white lace mantillas to be found in the shops. They collected all the notorious women of Madrid, attired them in these white lace mantillas, and sent them to the Prado in their places; while all the fashionable women by common consent wore black.

Many other annoying things had happened, but nothing had been half so mantillas seems to have been the last straw. It decided Amadeo to abdicate; but even the announcement of that decision brought no revival of politeness.

On the day of the King's departure there was no guard of honor either in the streets or at the railway station to speed the parting—omnibuses to make sure that he really went. No special train was provided, and the party was crowded into an ordinary first-class carriage.

Increase Diamond's Brilliance.

The scintillating brilliance of diamonds is to be increased fourfold, and stones lessened in cost, if the invention of two Antwerp gem cutters is perfected. Working in a gloomy, poorly equipped shop, these two men, whose names have not been revealed, suddenly decided that progress in their art had not kept pace with other industrial science. After six months' research, often working till nearly daybreak, they found a method of cutting and polishing diamonds which gave 58% reflections, instead of the usual 11%, besides yielding a fire that had not been obtained since the days of ancient Egypt. Moreover, under this process, the stone loses almost nothing in its cutting and the smallest chips may be made to glow as brightly as any princely gift of several carats.

Protein in White of Eggs.

The purest example of protein is the albumen in the white of egg. Protein is found not only in eggs, but all lean meats. Also in vegetables and cereals in much smaller proportions, some vegetables having only a trace, while others, such as peanuts, having more than the best beefsteak.

Great Men Never Die.

A South American Hobo.

Santiago, capital of Chile, is the home of the roto Chileno, or broken Chilean, most picturesque and unique character this continent has developed in South America, and as far as that continent is concerned he is a unique type. We find this queer specimen of the real poor people everywhere, but in no other South American country but Chile do we find this wonderfully resourceful, unstable, deceitful, ragged, drunken, criminal species of tramp. He earns a livelihood by begging, doing odd jobs and thieving. The last is his mainstay. In his hands stealing has become a fine art. The Chilenos have a saying that he will steal your socks without touching your boots. A long, jointed wire with a hook at the end is his favorite tool. If a window on the street is left unguarded he will with this simple contrivance successfully remove from the interior everything but the heavy furniture.

Don'ts For Poets.

Arthur Guiterman in a recent interview gave a list of negative commandments for would be poets. "Don't think of yourself as a poet and dress the part," he says. "Don't frequent exclusively the company of writers. Don't complain of lack of appreciation. (In the long run no really good publication ever fails to appreciate.) Don't speak of poetic license or believe that there is any such thing. Don't use 'e'er' for 'ever,' 'o'er' for 'over,' 'then an' for 'and' time for 'when' or any of the 'poetical' commonplaces of the past. Don't say did go' for 'went.' Even if you need an extra syllable Don't—don't write hymns to the great god Pan. He is dead; let him rest in peace! Don't write what everybody else is writing."

What Held Her.

Dinah Snow was a colored cook in the home of Smith. One morning on going to the kitchen Mrs. Smith noticed that Dinah looked as if she had been tangled up with a rond roller.

"Why, Dinah," exclaimed she, "what in the world has happened to you?"

"Wa'n' me, hushan'," explained Dinah. "He done went an beat me ag'in, an' jes' fo' nothin'."

"Again!" cried Mrs. Smith, with increasing wonder. "Is he in the habit of beating you? Why don't you have him arrested?"

"Been thinkin' of it several times, missy," was the startling rejoinder of Dinah, "but I hain't had de heart nor money to pay his fine."—Exchange.

India's Hoarded Gold.

For many years London has been steadily drained of her gold by India. In ten years India has absorbed from London £70,000,000 of new sovereigns and hoarded them away. The coolie has learned that silver rupees are a poor investment, and he will not exchange them into anklets or a nose ring for his wife, as over 30 per cent of the silver is lost in the melting while the gold sovereign preserves its value whether he keeps it as a coin or melts it. When a native prince or rajah buys a sovereign with it. He has come to understand the ins and outs of the matter only the gold coin, which he knows he can always realize on at its original value.

African Fashion Notes.

The prettiest dress of the Mpongwe women is a cloth drawn up under the arms, a scarf on the shoulders and a handkerchief folded over the coiled hair in a high stiff fold set well up on the head, rather like a child's idea of a crown. There is a great fancy for purples and lavenders set off with handkerchiefs of red and a sudden keen note of gilt. With black there will be a touch of most delicious bright green. A cloth and a scarf worn by a woman of beautiful posture—and a Gaboonaise is always that—have a certain nameless charm; the movements of the body, the wind that blows from the sea—these renew and display the folds of the garment so that the eye is intrigued.—Atlantic.

But None For Him.

"Any letters for me?"

"What name?"

"Jason Howlet."

"No mon."

"That's strange."

"Expecting any?"

"No, but Ernest Publeiton was reading the other day that there was enough letters sent through the postoffice last year to give every man, woman and child twenty-three each, an' I thought I'd come in for my share."

An Oversight.

"What do you think of his nerve?" exclaimed the old man, who was notoriously tricky in business. "He called me a barefaced robber!"

"Oh, well," replied the man who knew him, "probably in his excitement he didn't notice your mustache."

Another Reason.

"They call her the human graphophone."

"Just because she buzzes a bit?"

"It's on account of the airs she puts on."

Great Knowledge.

"Does he know anything about a car?"

Where Are They?

Where are the unsuccessful children of yesterday whose musical education was complete when they had learned to play "The Maiden's Prayer" and "Mounstery Bells?"—Life.

HOUSE PLANTS IN WINTER

(Experimental Farms Note)

It is rather difficult to keep house plants in good condition throughout the long winter, hence a few hints may prove useful. Some house plants make little growth during the winter and, while they are thus at rest or nearly so, they should be given just enough water to prevent the roots from drying up. This applies particularly to palms, hydrangeas and fuchsia, the two latter being kept in a cool place. Plants which are growing should be kept well watered, but it is important to see roots will rot and the plant not thrive. This often happens to large ferns. Plants should be watered only when the soil is becoming dry, and then thoroughly, not every day as is often done.

Geraniums must be kept close to the window and in a window where they will get much sunlight to have them bloom well. Most blooming plants, such as geraniums, cyclamens, impatiens, spiraea, and bulbs, do better if kept in a moderately warm or cool room than in a warm one.

Spraying plants, such as ferns, palms, rubber plants and aspidistra, every three or four weeks is desirable. For aphis, souse the plants in strong soap suds or some tobacco preparation several times at intervals of a few days and, for scale insects, loosen them with a soft tooth brush or finger nail, and wash off with scapy water or some tobacco preparation, and repeat from time to time.

Dominion Horticulturist.

Miller's Worm Powders, being in demand everywhere, can be got at any chemist's or drug shop, at very small cost. They are a reliable remedy for worm troubles and can be fully relied upon to expel worms from the system and abate the sufferings that worms cause. There are many people that rejoice that they have available so effective a remedy for the relief of their children.

"Rubber heels."

"What shall I rub 'em with?"

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can check them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery that does 2-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and stops the irritation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

The Right Not to Laugh.

If one were to accuse you of poisoning your grandmother you would presumably smile in insulted fashion and go about your affairs without feeling any burden of accusation. But if one accused you of lacking a sense of humor you would first of all resent it indignantly, and, furthermore, for no indefinite time to come you would be conscious of a desire to disprove the charge, scrutinizing anxiously every phrase that might conceal some subtle hidden test, emitting now and then forced laughs on suspicion. Perhaps you boast your emancipation in many fields where public opinion evidently counts for naught, a straw but when you please; you object to the insignia of mourning; you flaunt your readiness to discuss any subject in mixed company; you do or do not serve butter at your dinner table. Yet you are afraid you may not well in the right places. Many a one who proclaims his right to individuality of opinion fears to assert an equally inalienable right not to laugh. Deep in his heart he dreads the withering accusation that he lacks a sense of humor.—Burges Johnson

Death and Life Masks.

In the preparation of death masks the usual method is to cover the face of the dead body with oil and then apply plaster of paris. The oil prevents too close adhesion to the skin and makes it possible to remove the plaster when it has hardened. A mold is thus formed, into which fresh plaster is poured. The resulting cast is the death mask. Death masks are of course exact resemblances of the faces from which they are made, and their value is impaired only by the changes of contour which may have been caused by death itself. The custom of taking death masks is very ancient and widespread as well, for we find them of wax, the Egyptians of this gold plate. A few specimens have been found among the Assyrian remains. Life masks are similarly made, but mobility of expression is necessarily sacrificed.

Beaumont Greater Than Fletcher.

Francis Beaumont is most renowned for his share in writing Beaumont and Fletcher's plays, a partnership probably unequaled in the history of literature and very seldom rivaled. The Brontës novelists, who ultimately quarreled, Erckmann and Chatrian, and the English novelists Besant and Rice are some other well-known pairs, although Sir Walter Besant went on writing successfully for years after the death of his colleague. In the Elizabethan partnership it was otherwise. Fletcher, though the elder man, outlived his friend for more than nine years and proved himself the lesser poet. Beaumont was laid to rest in the poets' corner of Westminster abbey, which he has sung in such noble verse.—London Globe.

"I don't know what I'm ever going to make out of that son of mine," complained the self-made business man.

"Maybe your son hasn't found himself yet," said a friend. "Isn't he gifted in any way?"

"Gifted? I should say he is! He ain't got a thing that wasn't given to him."

BOAT STEERSMAN'S PROBLEMS.

Jugo-Slavia Is Not So Unified as Patriots Could Wish.

Dr. Aurel Trouba (according to one of the books now trying to make a nation out of the South-Slavs) from the distance it would look to us as if it was a task as looking a nation out of the Russians, Dutch and Germans. But the Czechs and Slovenes, at all events, and so are the Croats, Serbs and Bosnians. And how the English and Germans love one another! Dr. Trouba has got some pretty and hopelessly described analogies for his world war, the Croats are the boat steersmen of Austria and the Serbs assume Austria. The fortune of war gave the Croats and Slovenes to the triumphant Italians as trying to set up a ring country of their own or at least guarding their coasts. So there was the kingdom of Jugo-Slavia, the Kingdom of Serbians, Croats and Slovenes and Bulgarians.

Of course some things in common. They are the south wet, they command that coast-line which offers 2 across Central Europe a thousand years ago, they have the same kind of mountains, the same kind of flat irruption, the same interesting and unsolved problem of how to live together and avoid civil war. They have customs, even dialects and costumes in common, and the differences between the Croats are complaining but not to the point of fighting. Serbs, education and religion, Dr. Pavlitch, author of the book, would not mind. Differences from the Tripartite Croatian and one of his people (70) in question are the new circumstances he and Wilson Washington that Giving and Receiving.

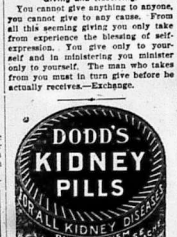
You cannot give anything to anyone, you cannot give to any cause. From all this seeming giving you only take from experience the blessing of self-expression. You give only to yourself and in ministering you minister only to yourself. The man who takes from you must in turn give before he actually receives.—Exchange.



The Many Purpose Oil.—Both in the house and stable there are scores of uses for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Use it for cuts, bruises, burns, scalds, sore throat and chest. Horses are liable very largely to similar ailments and mishaps as afflict mankind, and are equally amenable to the healing influence of this fine old remedy which has made thousands of firm friends during the past fifty years.

Romance of a Railway.

The Uganda railway possesses a history unrivaled for romance. Not only does it run through wild jungle, traversing valleys thrown across deep gorges and climb mountain passes to a height of 8,200 feet, but in its early days it received far too many unwelcome attentions from the natives. It was found that rolls of telegraph wire became quite the rage in feminine fashions, while in the hands of sturdy warriors bolts and nuts became formidable weapons. The floods of the rainy season are now the only untoward occurrence that break the ordinary routine of the line. — London Chronicle.

Brilliant Bits.

Here are some choice cullings from recent novels:

"Her plea fell on dumb ears."

"Their eyes clung together."

"His arms went round her like calipers."

"He became aware of a thick, muddy skin."

"Beautiful women had turned to gall in his tongue."

"The moon fell. He saw it crash silently into the lake."

"Dorsey hung on her words as if dangling over a chasm."

"He stood in a litter of shavings and bits of board with a kindling eye."

The Black Cap.

A small, limp piece of black cloth is, according to ancient custom, put on the top of the judge's wig in England before he passes sentence of death and is properly called the "sentence cap," or "black cap." Covering the head was a sign of mourning among the Israelites, Greeks, Romans and Anglo-Saxons and is referred to in Samuel ii. 15:30. Putting on the black cap is not a grim sign of revenge of the law, but is rather a token of sorrow, expressing the regret the judge feels at having to condemn the prisoner to death.

Sizes of American Flags.

The garrison flag of the United States army is made of bunting, with 36 feet fly and 20 feet hoist; 13 stripes, and in the upper quarter next the staff is the field or "union" of stars, equal to the number of states, on blue field, over one-third length of flag, extending to the lower edge of the fourth red stripe from the top.

IN MEMORIAM.

In sad, but loving memory of my dear mother, Mrs. Harvey Bradshaw, who died January 9th, 1919; also of dear Grandma York, who died in January, 1926.

Peaceful be thy sleep, dear mother,
Take a rest to breathe my name.
In life I loved you dearly,
In death I do the same.
Oft I think of you, dear mother,
And my heart is sad with pain;
Oh, this world would be a Heaven,
Just to hear your voice again.
You are gone, but not forgotten,
Never shall your memory fade,
Sweetest thoughts shall ever linger
Around the grave where you are laid.
—Daughter, Lottie Nelson,
Calgdonia, N.Y.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of Leonard B. McCabe, who died on January 8th, 1925.

There is someone who misses you, dear father,
And finds the years long since you went;
There is someone who thinks of you sadly,
But tries to be brave and content.
We think of him in silence,
No eye can see us weep,
But ever in our aching hearts
His memory we will keep.

Smith was congratulating Jones on the occasion of his silver wedding, when Jones inquired if Smith ever heard what the schoolboy once said about marriage. Smith had not. "Well," explained Jones, "the youngster was asked by his teacher to explain the word 'matrimony'. 'Please, ma'am,' was the reply, 'father says matrimony ain't a word—it's a sentence."

ODESSA

The social dance, given by the members of the band on Monday night in the Town Hall, had a very large attendance. Nearly one hundred couple enjoyed dancing to the excellent music furnished by the Keech orchestra, of Kingston. The object was to raise money for current expenses.—We feel proud of our local band, and all encouragement should be given them in their efforts.—Among the Christmas visitors were Mrs. Ernest Sharpe and daughters, Dorothy, Kathleen and Jean, and son, Jordan, of Toronto, with her brother, Oswald Snider; Mr. and Mrs. Bert Snider, of Belleville, with Oswald Snider; Albert Judge, Hamilton, with his mother, Mrs. James Judge; Mrs. Sloan and daughter, Miss Mabel Sloan, R.N., of Kingston, and Mrs. Chas. Sommerville with Mrs. Lewis Snider.—Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Hagerman, of Sydenham, were week-end guests of Mrs. Lewis Snider.—Mr. and Mrs. Pinlander Rose, Westbrook, were Sunday guests of Mrs. D. Rose.—Mr. and Mrs. George Freeman and daughter, Vera, of Sydenham, spent Thursday with the former's sister, Mrs. Lewis Snider.—Dr. Lindsay spent Christmas at his home in Sydenham; Mr. and Mrs. Cunningham, with relatives in Frescott; Mrs. Douglas Emmons with her parents in Kingston Mills; Mr. and Mrs. James Denyes with the former's son, Horace Denyes, and New Years with the former's daughter, Mrs. Stanley Sproule; Miss Mary Milsap with her niece, Mrs. Clarence Smith, Westbrook.—Mrs. Orange Babcock spent the week-end with friends in Kingston.—Mr. and Mrs. George Lucas left on Tuesday to visit her sister, Mrs. Scott, Montreal.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Gilbert and daughter, Miss Grace, left last week to make their home in Rochester, N.Y.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Wolfe, Mrs. C. A. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Anderson and daughter, Miss Doris, of Napanee, spent New Years the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Holmes.— The municipal election was held on Monday. The following were elected: W. C. T. Loyst, Reeve; Andrew C. Miller, Deputy Reeve; Frank Smith, David Fraser, Aylsworth and John Kenny, Councillors.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

We are having quite moderate weather at present, with flurries of snow occasionally.—Christmas passed off very quietly, with quite a few Xmas visitors.—Mr. and Mrs. Roy Samson with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Simmons; Mr. and Mrs. Elden Kirkpatrick with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. Hyland.—Mrs. J. E. Brown and little Betty, of Napanee, spent a few days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Simmons.—Mrs. Wm. Dunn has been on the sick list, but is better at time of writing.—Mr. Francis Dunn has been busy sawing wood in our neighborhood. — Mrs. Everton Peters is with her father, Mr. Sexsmith, of Selby, who is very ill. We hope he may be better soon. —Mr. and Mrs. J. Samson, of Newburgh, spent an evening with Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Simmons.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Amey motored to Kingston on Sunday to visit sick relatives at the General Hospital.

—A Child Welfare Clinic for the pre-school child is held each Thursday from 2 to 4, in the Council Chamber, under the direction of Victorian Order of Nurses. 22tf

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The sermon subject for Marlbank and Tickledville will be "Telling the King's Household", and for Tamworth an illustrated talk on "Our Mission Work in Japan." The services given in Tamworth on Sunday night will be given at Reidville on Monday night and at Marlbank on Tuesday night.

The Week of Prayer will be observed in Marlbank on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights of next week. The Week of Prayer services are being well attended at Tamworth.

At the C. N. R. station last Monday morning there was a very noticeable exodus of our Christmas and New Year guests, by reason of which the inmates of the parsonage, as well as those of other homes, are feeling lonesome.

Mr. and Mrs. Ross Sexsmith, of Napanee, were guests at the parsonage for a part of the holiday week.

—Mr. R. L. Sexsmith, District Representative of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Co., at Napanee, is receiving congratulations these days on his success in qualifying as a member of the One Hundred Thousand Dollar Club of the Company he represents. This is a particularly good showing for Mr. Sexsmith to make in a territory such as he covers and especially the first year he has been in the Life Insurance business. We understand Mr. Sexsmith will get a free trip to Murray Bay, Quebec, when the Club take their annual outing.

—St. Andrew's Church has celebrated the holiday season with appropriate Christmas and New Years services, the sermons being delivered by the Rev. A. J. Wilson and Rev. Dr. MacFadyen. The music was well chosen and rendered by a full Choir under the direction of Mr. MacGregor. The church was beautifully decorated with evergreens and the pulpit platform being especially lovely with massed greens and stars of light peeping through the boughs. Mrs. W. A. Daly was in charge of the decorating and afforded the congregation greater pleasure in the Christmas services by giving the church such a wonderfully festive atmosphere. It seemed like a welcome home to the young people who are away for so much of the year, and gave fresh pride in St. Andrew's to those who are always in their seats at Sunday services.

TRINITY CHURCH CONCERT

The music lovers of Napanee will be pleased to know that Prof. Leo B. Riggs, Organist and Pianist, and Mrs. Riggs, Soprano Soloist, will be the artists at Trinity Church, on Friday evening, Jan. 14th.

An appreciation of their ability is taken from the Belleville Intelligencer, regarding concert work in that city:

"Prof. Leo B. Riggs excelled any previous records he had achieved in his enviable career as a musician, in the rendition of Liszt's Rapsody. His interpretation of this loveliest of compositions was a revelation of the magnificent artistry of the selections. Mrs. Riggs' solos were superb and delighted the audience, who were loth to let her stop singing."

NAPANEE HOCKEY ALL SET AND "RAVING" TO GO

The Annual Meeting of Napanee Hockey League was held in the Town Hall, on Tuesday night.

The officers for the coming term are already on the job, so that the hockey fans will see our boys in action against teams from Trenton, Belleville, Kingston and Gananoque. The League will be under way next week. Tuesday night our boys will have a workout in an exhibition game. Now all we want is your presence at the game. Leave your radio alone on Tuesday night and tune in at the rink. We have some of the finest material in the country, so turn out and give them your support.

The following are the officers :—
Hon. Pres.—Geo. Gibbard.
Pres.—Harold Anderson.
1st Vice Pres.—W. J. Wiggins.
Secty.—J. MacGillivray.
Treas.—Paul Blute.
Executive—J. L. Murray, Chairman; Mayor E. J. Roy, A. E. Caton, J. McPherson.
Manager—Bill McLaughlin.

FALL DOWN STAIRS FATAL TO WOMAN

Depauville, N.Y., Jan. 3rd.—Injuries sustained when she plunged down a flight of stairs at the home of her daughter in Frankfort, N.Y., Wednesday, at 9.30 p.m., proved fatal a few hours later to Mrs. Phoebe A. Campbell, a summer resident of this village.

Mrs. Campbell was at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Ella Bradshaw, having been there a few weeks ago to spend the winter. Upon retiring Wednesday evening, she mistook a back stairway door for the bathroom door and plunged headlong to the bottom. She sustained a fractured skull and several broken bones. She only partly rallied and passed away at 1.15 a.m. Thursday.

Mrs. Campbell was born in West Plain, Ontario, Canada, in 1855, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Bradshaw. She was married to Adam Campbell, of Croydon, Ont., Canada, in 1872, who died eight years ago.

Surviving are seven children :— Mrs. W. K. Bradshaw, Frankfort, N.Y.; Mrs. D. W. Norton, Depauville, N.Y.; James E., of Rochester, N.Y.; Wilbert H., Newburgh, Ont., Can.; Lachlan T., Rochester; Vernon R., Depauville, N.Y.; Leeman G., Kingston, Ont. Also twenty-one grandchildren, and two brothers, Harvey Bradshaw, Roblin, and George Bradshaw, of West Plain.

The body was brought to the home of Mrs. D. W. Norton, for funeral service, Sunday p.m. and was taken to Tamworth, Ont., and placed in the vault for burial in the spring.

Swastika Club Dance.

A most enjoyable affair was the holiday dance given by the girls of the Swastika Club on December 29th, in the new Foresters' Hall. The guests were received by Mrs. Harold Anderson, Mrs. B. F. Davy, Mrs. E. J. Pollard and Mrs. E. J. Roy. The ball-room was gayly decorated with club colors, blue, grey and red. The central lights were shaded by streamers in the same colors, from which swung the Swastika emblem, and the walls were hung with Swastika banners. One end of the ball-room was a latticed bower, hung with Japanese lanterns, where Walters' Eight-piece Orchestra furnished excellent music. Refreshments were served during intermission, after which much merriment followed seeking for partners for the supper dance which formed into a lucky number dance, the prizes for which were won by Miss Mildred Brown and Mr. W. K. Huston. The souvenir of the baseball dance were won by Mrs. Taylor and Mr. Forsythe. Following the special dances were the best moments of the evening, when the Swastika girls displayed for an old time waltz. An unusually large crowd was present, including many holiday visitors and out of town guests.

Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and Kathleen take this opportunity of thanking those kind friends and neighbors also Dr. and Mrs. Strachan, for the beautiful gifts, and extend to them a hearty invitation to visit them in their new home. 1ap

WESLEY

The Young Men's Class of Wesley United Church held their annual oyster at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Paul on Friday evening. About fifty members of the class and their friends sat down to supper after which the young people played games, listened to the radio, and enjoyed a musical programme put on by some of their numbers. Perhaps the most interesting of all the games was the bean-bag, in which nearly everyone took part. After watching the Old Year out and the New Year in the crowd dispersed, after thanking Mr. and Mrs. Paul for their hospitality and wishing them A Happy New Year and many more of them. — Visitors: Mr. Meacham Breault, of Detroit, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Breault; Mr. and Mrs. Perry Moore, of Windsor, at Mr. Clancy Moore's; Mr. Austin Clancy, of Detroit, at home; Mr. Clarence Price, of Varsity, with his mother, Mrs. R. B. Price; Mr. and Mrs. Clancy Moore at Hubert Wartman's; Miss Marjorie Ramsay spent the week-end with Mrs. Lillie Price; Mr. and Mrs. Geo. A. Drew and family at Allen Moore's; Miss Daisy Moore at J. R. Hanna's; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nugent at Ed. Sexsmith's; Mr. Hubert Cook at Mrs. Charles Lochhead's; Mr. Russel Price at Wm. Ramsay's; Mr. Fred Miller at Joseph Paul's; Mr. McConnell at Mr. Ed. Sexsmith's—Mrs. Ware Clancy spent a few days in Newburgh last week.—Miss Hazel Sexsmith has returned home, after having spent a few days at Forest Mills.

Building a Small House.

When the prospective owner of a small house determines at last to build the home to which he has been aspiring for, perhaps, many years, he faces the consideration with the realization of a complex problem—the necessity of harmonizing the ideal that has formed it his years of anticipation with the stern realities of the actual building. Concisely stated, his problem is this: To combine the five desirables—space, charm, distinction, utility and comfort —with the sixth, economy, within the apparently limited allowance of the small home. Sometimes he succeeds in this. Generally he yields to the difficulties presented and sacrifices one or more of the desirable qualities, thankful to get a finished house after all the dissension ensuant with building progress. When, however, a home builder succeeds in the combining of all these qualities in the construction of his house the achievement is worthy of record.—Raymond Comstock in Countryside Magazine.

Never Eat What You Dislike.

I am constrained to protest against the advice given mothers to oblige their children to eat food which they dislike. Most grown people have their likes and dislikes, and if it were punishment to them to eat a despised article how much more so it is to a child to whom small quantities loom as tragedies! The child's distaste should not be discussed, simply ignored until he has forgotten how much he hated a certain article. There are so many good and nourishing things that if one is at all disliked how much better to substitute something else, thereby avoiding issues and friction, which every one knows are harmful to a child's nerves and health and disposition as well. And, as for letting a child go without his needed nourishment till next meal if he refuses one article, the injustice of it is too apparent to need comment.—Woman's Home Companion.

Big Guns Not New.

Modern howitzers and siege guns are giants of destructiveness, yet, making allowance for time and experience, we must still admire the good old burghers of Ghent, who 500 years and more ago turned out an iron "bombarde" that weighed thirteen tons. This prototype of the up to date siege gun had a bore twenty-five inches in diameter. Out of it was projected a granite ball that weighed 700 pounds. Phone guns as big were cast half a century later at Constantinople. And when only a little over 100 years since an earlier British fleet was fighting its way into the Dardanelles these big guns crippled six of the English men-of-war and killed or wounded 126 of those on board. One gun of this type weighed eighteen and three-quarter tons, had a twenty-five inch bore and fired a 672 pound stone shot.

Jack Wilder—"I've a book I'd like you to read. Shall I send it to you?" Miss Hyse—"Goodness, no ! I can't find time to read even the books I ought to.

REMEMBERING DATES.

Mark Twain Had a Good Scheme and He Didn't Patent It.

"Dates are hard to remember because they consist of figures. Figures are mostly monotony stretching in one direction, and they don't take hold. They form no picture, and so they give the eye no chance to help. Pictures are a thing. Pictures can make dates stick. They can make nearly anything stick, particularly if you make the pictures yourself. Indeed, that is the great point—make the pictures yourself. I know about this from experience. Thirty years ago I was delivering a memorized lecture every night, and every night I had to help myself with a page of notes to keep from getting stuck—I confess. The notes consisted of lightships of sentences and were eleven to the moment, and they ran something like this:

"'In that region the weather—'

"'At that time it was a custom'—

"'But in California one never heard'—

"Eleven of them. They initiated the chief divisions of the lecture and protected me against slipping. But they all looked almost alike on the page. They formed no picture. I had them by heart, but I could never with certainty remember the order of their succession. Therefore I always had to have those notes by me and to look at them every little while. Once I mislaid them. You will not be able to imagine the horrors of that evening. I now saw that I must invent some oath or profession. So I got ten of the initial letters by heart in their proper order—I, A, B, and so on—and I wrote on the platform the next night with these marked in ink on my two finger nails.

"But it didn't answer. A large frock of the fingers for awhile; then I lost it, and after that I was never quite sure which finger I had held last. I couldn't tick off a letter after using it, for, while that would have made success certain, it would also have prevented me from curiously. There was curiosity enough without that. To the audience I seemed more interested in my finger nails than I was in my subject. One or two persons asked me afterward what was the matter with my hands.

"It was now that the idea of pictures occurred to me, then my troubles passed away. In two minutes I made six pictures with a pen, and they did the work of the eleven catch sentences, and did it perfectly. I threw the pictures away as soon as they were made, for I was sure I could shut my eyes and see them any time. That was a matter of a century ago. The lecture vanished out of my head more than twenty years ago, but I could rewrite it from the pictures, for they remain."—Harper's Magazine.

COWED THE BAD MEN.

A General Who Didn't Fear Risking a Shot In His Back.

General Franks, a leader of many a dashing charge in India, held a unique position among his soldiers. They loved him for his courage, but were sometimes irritated by his strictness in the exacting severity he was unexpectedly lenient when a large occasion demanded it.

One day when the regiment was "firing blank" a bullet whistled by him. He did not stop the firing, but when the number of rounds ordered had been completed he rode up to the line and said:

"Boys, there's a lad shot in the Tenth. He nearly shot my trumpeter, and what should I have said to the boy's mother? I don't want to know the blackguard's name. The officers will not examine the men's pouches."

This was on the eve of a campaign and before action the sender major came to him and said: "Don't put your self in front of the regiment tomorrow, sir. You know there are always one or two bad men in a regiment."

"Thank you, major," was the reply. "It's very kind of you. I might have given you a step."

When the Tenth was drawn up for the final advance he put himself at its head and rallied:

"Boys, I'm told ye mane to shoot me today. Take my advice and don't shoot Tom Franks until the fighting's done, for ye won't find a better man to lade ye!"

The regiment answered with a cheer and carried the Sikh batteries with the bayonet rather than run the risk of showing the beloved old fire-eater at their head.—Washington Star.

More to Be Feared.

"Don't you get tired of finding fault?"

"No," replied the patient man of responsibilities. "I suppose people have a right to discover faults if they can, but I object to is the man who assumes that faults exist and never troubles himself to investigate."—Washington Star.

Origin of the Gypsies.

When the gypsies first appeared in England in the fifteenth century the name gipsy was given to them by the English people, who believed them to have come from Egypt. This, however, is a similar mistake, called them Bohemians. But a careful study of this race, and especially of their language, shows that they came originally from India. The gipsy language is derived from the Sanskrit, as are the other Aryan languages of India. A similar error was made by the English when they called a distinctively American bird a turkey, under the impression that it was an importation from the Ottoman empire, and by the French when they called the same bird coq d'inde, believing that it came from India.—Christian Herald.

Mrs. Robert Kadz was looking for her husband, and not finding him at the village grocery she went to the barber's shop. The proprietor met her at the door, and enquired what she wanted.

"Bob Kadz here?" she asked.

"No, madam, we do not," replied the barber as he closed the door.

Birds and Traps.

Curiously enough, many birds, instead of fearing traps, develop a fondness for them, probably because they find them a source of ample food which can be secured without danger to themselves. While this trait occasionally is something of a nuisance to the trapper, it often is of great assistance. It is believed that birds, having learned to recognize traps, will be apt to go to them for food in the course of their migrations, and so, when caught, will furnish material for ornithologists' reports.

To Remove Lead From Gunbarrels.

Chemically pure and strong nitric acid will dissolve the lead in a gun barrel, and will not injure the metal of the barrel unless the acid becomes diluted with a little water. To remove the acid, pour all of it out and wipe the gun dry with a rag soaked in olive or cottonseed oil. Do not get the acid on the hands or clothes. If by chance this happens it should be washed off immediately with water and then some weak alkali.

Productive Denizens of the Sea.

The teeth of the shark are annually and are utilized by manufacturing jewelers in ornaments of one kind or another. From the blood of the sea mammals we now get the basic substance for a very superior kind of waterproof glue, which is used in the preparation of laminated or built-up wooden stock from which the propellers and other parts of aircraft are today fashioned.

Mistake Too Often Made.

It is true that out of the crosses and vexations of life, its petty cares and troubles as well as its great griefs, is to come the discipline that makes souls fine and strong. But we mistake our province when we allow our own ill temper and selfishness to supply such material to our neighbors. They will find all necessary hardships without our adding to the number.—Exchange.

Saw It in Different Light.

Mr. Bilbus (greatly bored by the play)—"Maria, that fellow is positively the worst stick I ever saw on the stage. He makes love to that pretty little countess like a hippopotamus trying to court an angel." Mrs. Bilbus (much interested)—"He does, John; he does. But hush, Gladys seems to recall the days of our courtship, John!"

The Veter's Puzzle.

Isn't it passing strange that wherever two humans repair to one office the public mind becomes obsessed with the fact that one of them is a hang-up patriot and the other is a doleful dirt and a vociferous Hooligolyte, the only difference of opinion being as to which is which?—Houston Chronicle.

Seamen's Watches.

In the time division of the 24 hours of the day into watches on board ships at sea there are five watches of four hours each and two of two hours, every watch having its distinctive name. Beginning at noon, the afternoon watch is from 12 m. to 4 p. m.; first dog watch, 4 p. m. to 6 p. m.; second dog watch, 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.; night watch, 8 p. m. to 12 midnight; middle watch, 12 midnight to 4 a. m.; morning watch, 4 a. m. to 8 a. m.; forenoon watch, 8 a. m. to noon.

Unusual Family Record.

A man astonished a friend a few days ago saying casually that one of his sisters was buried a hundred years ago! As his own age was sixty-five, the case needed an explanation, which he gave. The sister buried in 1819 was the first of a family of 22 children, and she died in early infancy. The man was the youngest member of the family and was born in 1854, 35 years after his sister.—London Chronicle.

Shark by No Means Valueless.

From the hide of a 500-pound shark it is possible to obtain ten square feet of leather, and the stomach furnishes a raw material which can be made into leather with the appearance and texture of ground kid, according to the New York Evening Post. The liver will yield anywhere from 10 to 15 gallons of oil and the dorsal fin, when dried, will bring about $2.50 among oriental epicures.

Language of Eskimos.

Eskimos are scattered through Greenland, Canada, Alaska and Siberia to the number of about 32,000, all of whom seem to speak the same stock language, using the same stem words and affixes. The chief characteristic of the language is that single words of complex structure are used to express ideas that in English would be conveyed by a whole sentence.

Improvement in Photography.

The business of making photographic enlargements has been greatly simplified by the construction of a vertical enlarging camera which is suspended overhead and projects its light down upon a sensitized sheet which is placed on a table under it. The arrangement and manipulation of the paper is much more conveniently done in this position.

Impertinent Petitions.

When we are invited to a banquet we take what is set before us; and were one to call upon his host to set fish upon the table or sweet things, he would be deemed absurd. The Legionaries.

No other regiment in any existing army undergoes such Spartan training as the French Foreign Legion, of which a detachment is now in the fighting line. When at their headquarters, Sidi-bel-Abbes, the legionaries are marched off for occasional training trips of 300 miles or more. This is continuous daily stages of 24 miles, with only five minutes' halt every six miles. Gen. De Negrier, who commanded them in Madagascar, said: "Some soldiers can fight the legionaries can die." Their record shows how they fall in action. In the Crimea, in Mexico fighting for Maximilian, and in Spain, their losses were enormously heavy. Of 4,000 legionaries sent to aid Queen Christina in 1866 against the Carlist, only 500 returned to Algeria.

Household Hints.

Roll biscuits thin and use two cuts for each biscuit, laying one on top of the other. They are dainty and break evenly.

When frying cornmeal mush dip each slice in cracker dust. This makes a brown, crisp crust and also prevents the lard from splashing over the range.

Before using tea spread it on a sheet of paper and place it in a warm oven but not even for a quarter of an hour. This improves the flavor and strengthens it, making the tea last longer.

LIVED UP TO HER MOTTO

Indianapolis Woman Had Made a Rule and Intended to Let Nothing Stand in the Way.

She is one of Indianapolis' most successful business women—naturally, too, one of its best-natured ones. And when that small nephews idealize her quite as much as do her business associates. One afternoon she had promised them a party out in the country and a wiener and marshmallow toast by the fireplace of their old country home. But far two days it rained and on that afternoon it was raining, too. The three youngsters piled into her office, their faces all full of disappointment. But she smiled at them. "Get your waterproofs," she commanded.

"Why, are we going?" they asked in amazement.

"Why, of course," she mimicked their tone. "My car can get over worse roads than that."

They rushed away after their coats and the woman next her—began to present against her making this trip. "It's something that isn't necessary," she began.

"But it is something that is necessary," the other interrupted. "It's the recreation I'd planned and my recreation is as necessary as is the work you're doing in my mouth. You know that a rain like this couldn't keep me away from my work—neither will it keep me away from my play. That's the motto I've adopted for life, and it's a very efficient one, too."—Indianapolis News.

COWS KNEW THEIR MISTRESS

Woman Who Had Lost Pets Had No Trouble at all in Proving Ownership of Them.

A happy reunion took place at the union stockyards, Herr's island, Pittsburgh, an exchange declares, late the other evening, when Mrs. P. J. Riley of Fox Chase road, O'Hara township, rescued her four stolen cows, awaiting their doom at the hands of the executioner.

During a heavy rainstorm the other afternoon the animals were stolen from the pasture and driven to the stockyards and sold. County detectives traced the cows, but among the hundreds of other "hosstes" were unable to identify them. Mrs. Riley was sent for. As she stepped into the big open stockpens among the animals for a time threatened serious consequences. When it had subsided, the detectives who were with Mrs. Riley were amazed to see four of the cows rushing toward the woman. Brushing their heads against her shoulder, the animals cooed and mooed soft expressions of relief. Overjoyed, Mrs. Riley grasped each around the neck in turn, stroking their glossy coats and petting them.

When their mistress left the big stock yards, the cows followed her obediently as well-trained dogs, and when last seen were wending their way to their home on Fox Chase road with their mistress.

Valuable New Metal.

A new invention, called conducting aluminum, which is said to be creating a profound impression, has been made by Dr. George Gin, of the Gin Research Institute, at the aluminum trade, states Consul Philip Holland, Basel, Switzerland, in a recent report. The new metal is produced by putting the ordinary aluminum through a special patented process, by which it acquires the same mechanical qualities and capacities as bronze, copper and brass without changing its specific weight. It is said that the price of the new metal can be kept within very low limits, so that, even at the pre-war prices of other metals, it will be able, by reason of its smaller specific weight, to compete with copper and brass very favorably. The fact that the new metal is a conductor will make it especially in demand in the electrical trade.

Valuable Tool Chest.

War created many ingenious devices, developed in the time of stress to aid the fighting men on the battle-front, the capable of adaption to the needs of peaceful industrial armies. One of these is a mobile tool chest, described in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It resembles a field artillery caisson, in which are packed implements and supplies in great variety and quantity, and is recommended for building contractors, lumbermen, road builders and others who require a compact, easily moved outfit carried. Among the articles packed in the box are shovels, mattocks, mallets, sledge hammers, pliers, wrenches, extra handles for axes and picks, ropes, pulleys and wire, besides many others.

Naughty Arthur.

David and Arthur shared a bed together, but did not get along well in doing so, for nearly every night there was some disturbance between them.

"Well, what is the matter now?" mother called from the foot of the stairs one evening on hearing loud talking in their chamber.

A little voice floated down to her: "I can't get into bed, 'cause Arthur's kicked around in it till he's all unmade it."

Animated Conference.

"What's going on in the parlor?" asked the old friend who had come in the back way.

"Meeting of our own foreign relations committee," answered Mr. Cumrox. "Mother and the girls are talking over the family affairs of my oldest daughter, who married one of those overseas nobelmen."

A scientist says that four hours' sleep a day is enough for anybody. Certainly! One can take the rest at night.

Fatherhood.

Referendum is a Latin word now Anglicised. This and several kindred words are derived from the Latin verb, refero, I bear, I carry, I give back, from re, back; and fero, bear. The word referendum is a neuter noun, and means the submission of a proposed public measure or law, which has been passed upon by the legislature, to a vote of the people for confirmation or rejection; that is, the legislators refer or carry back the measure to the electorate.

Derivation of "Flannel."

Some of the earlier philologists claim that the word "flannel" was originally written and pronounced "flannen," and that it was essentially of Welsh origin, being derived from the Welsh "gwlannen," wool, but this derivation is considered doubtful by more modern lexicographers, who regard its derivation from the Danish "flanel," old French "flanelle," or the Italian "flanella," as more probable.

Protecting Linoleum.

One woman spreads two newspapers over her linoleum while preparing her meals, one in front of the sink and the other near the stove, as she has found that in this way the covering remains fresh considerably longer than otherwise. When the meal is cleared away the papers are thrown out, and with them no little grease or small particles which would have soiled the floor.

Bringing the Dead to Life.

The remarkable claim of ability to bring the dead back to life has been made by a Burmese lady doctor at Rangoon. The treatment is said to consist of seven days' application of internal and external remedies. The lady states that when revivified the dead person has a new mind and better features, but the treatment must be continued for a month.

Remembered by Wise Saying.

One of the most ancient of the famous shoemakers was Rabbi Ochanon the shoemaker, who lived in the second century and held that "an association established for a praiseworthy object must ultimately succeed, but an association established without such an object cannot succeed."

Flotsam and Jetsam.

These are the names given in English law to goods lost at sea. Flotsam is defined as "when the goods, cast into the sea, remain on the surface of the waves," and the term jetsam is applied to goods which are cast into the sea and which sink or remain under water.

Weather and Health.

An Italian savant, as a result of investigating 24,528 cases, exclusive of contagious diseases, has concluded that morbidity is least in the windy periods, especially in winter, when the highest morbidity accompanies periods of cloudy skies.

Roused to Indignant Protest.

It had been the custom to give the twins, Jane and John, identical presents alike. One day they got into a quarrel and John became quite angry, exclaiming, "I only have anything by myself; I can't even have my own birthday in peace!"

Lines to Be Remembered.

Make up your mind to the prospect of sustaining a certain amount of pain and trouble in your passage through life. It will make you thoughtful and resigned without interfering with your cheerfulness.—J. H. Newman.

Use Is the End.

The distinction and end of a soundly constituted man is his labor. Use is inscribed on all his faculties. Use is the end to which he exists. As the tree exists for its fruit, so a man for his work.—Emerson.

Fuel in Scandinavia.

In Scandinavia wood is the usual fuel, while the towns and villages are electrically lighted by waterpower. Norway has no coal, but Sweden has quite lately discovered that she has good supplies.

Many Try, but Few Succeed.

After a man has learned to dance and play golf his great trouble in life is to get a full day's work between 10 a. m. and noon.—Washington Star.

When Paper Really Was Scarce.

A hundred years ago paper was so dear in this county that butchers used to give their customers the meat wrapped up in a large vegetable leaf.

Otherwise Occupied.

"Nobody," said Mr. Groucher, "is generous enough to sympathize honestly with other people's troubles when he has a toothache of his own."

Optimist and Conservative.

Although a conservative is not necessarily an optimist, I think an optimist is pretty likely to be a conservative.—Henry James.

Johnson's Electric Wax Polisher for polishing hardwood floors. Saves hours of work; is easy to use as a Vacuum Cleaner. We rent you one at $2.00 a day. Wallace's, Agents for Johnson's Floor Wax.

Fortunate Landowners.

The old windmill on the famous Wimbledon common, a few miles east of London, has been shorn of the chief features that has made it a landmark for many generations. Its four sails, which could be seen many miles away, have been removed, the common conservators having been advised that owing to their great age they were a danger, not only to the structure, but to those living in the mill house underneath. The old windmill professes a strange appearance without the sails.

Hot Cross Buns.

Eating hot cross buns on Good Friday is an old custom, dating back to the early centuries. All manner of superstition seems to attend the custom. One is that the eating of buns on Good Friday prevents the house from fire. Another, that hot cross buns hung up in the kitchen will insure prosperity for the coming year. Hot cross buns baked on Good Friday and hung over the front door will ward off evil, is another.

Reason for Program.

One of the churches has recently installed a motion picture machine. The Sunday service consists of an address by the pastor, followed by the pictures. The children grow impatient waiting for the pictures, and when I suggested to little Bonita that the pictures ought to be shown first and then permit the children to go home she promptly replied: "Yes; but then nobody would stay."—Exchange.

Mother's Mistake.

A little girl asked her mother: "Why did you go to the hospital to get me? Her mother answered: "Because I wanted a nice little girl and you are a nice little girl, are you not?" The little girl, thinking of her baby brother Jack, answered: "Yes, I am a nice little girl, but you made an awful mistake when you went and picked Jack out."

First Pullman Car.

In 1863 the Pioneer, named by the inventor, was the first Pullman car to be operated on a railroad. This invention, which has been a great convenience in travel, was first used in the United States. The Pioneer was built on the same lines as the Pullman cars now used.

Would Be Missed.

One day while out in the yard playing with his new knife my little boy broke the blade and came in feeling badly about it. I told him I was sorry, too. He thought about it a little while, then he said: "My, but my pocket will be lonesome without my knife."—Exchange.

It Has Been Done.

Make 'em cry? Any onion can do that! But you show me a vegetable that can make people laugh.—New York Herald. An evening at romance, aged on its way by a good pitcher, has, upon landing, been known to cause uproarious mirth.

No Use to Baby.

One of the gifts to the new baby was a tiny hairbrush. When Bobby the baby's brother, saw it, he thought it was a toothbrush. "See," said Bobby, "he can't use this cause he was borned with an empty mouth."

Rule for Success.

We must be able to stand a lot of hard luck and disappointment, the loss of temper from time to time, but if the faith and courage exist and are not permitted to log, success is positive.—Bottles.

Multiplying Stop Watch.

For timing work the dial of a Swiss stop watch carries additional marks so to indicate at any point of elapsed time what the corresponding output an hour would be.—Indianapolis News.

Stop Up Mouse Holes.

Take a plug of common washing soap, stop the hole with it, and you may rest assured, you will have no further trouble from that quarter. It is also good for rats and ants.

Suppose There's No Hair?

A new York inventor has created an electric hair dryer to use with an ordinary electric hair dryer so that a person's hair can be given a light bath and dried at the same time.

Time's Revenge.

A woman's face may be her fortune but the big difference is that instead of compounding interest as the years go by it loses in principal.

Sufficient Excuse.

Jimmie's teacher asked him why he was late, and he replied: "Nobody waked me up, so the wakeup bell in the clock didn't ring."

Condensed Wisdom.

The easiest and most direct way to go to the devil is to try to live according to some one else's conscience. —New York Sun.

Prayer.

"To-day men are seeking on a genuinely spiritual basis for civilization," says the Rev. D. S. McComb, in the "Contemporary Review."

"Recent philosophy is at one with the teaching of religion in affirming the existence and neariness of a world greater than that which meets the outer senses. We poor mortals in the process of evolution, stumbling, falling, harassed, now visited by gleams of a sudden intuition, now plunged in darkness, ignorant of our powers, slowly discovering them, exploring, striving, listening, are not alone in our earthly wanderings; we are already, though we may not be always conscious of it, citizens of a higher world. From that higher world, as A. Paul, a Pascal, a Browning, have believed, there flash at rare moments messages, fragmentary revelations of the possessor of life and light and love.

"This spiritual world is not closed to us. In the silence we can listen to the Divine voice and distinguish it from the voice of our weaker self and of the world without. Hence prayer is a school of spiritual education by which we who pray advance from day to day in the knowledge of the best things of life. Inherited prejudices die out, new and large aims are revealed, a sense of brotherhood is born, large ideals for self and for the world are gradually formed, and the forces making for a new and better world order are generated.

"Prayer reminds us," says Amiel, "of pardon and duty. It says to us: 'You are loved—love; thou hast received—give; upon usual die—labor within; thou canst; overcome anger with kindness, and overcome evil with good.'"

Jud Tunkins.

OBITUARY

The death occurred at her residence, Centre Street, on Monday evening, Dec. 27th, 1926, of a respected citizen of the town, in the person of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Benn, beloved wife of the late Jas. S. Benn.

Mrs. Benn was born at Newburgh, on May 24th, 1864, being the second daughter of Mrs. John S. C. and the late Mr. Shorey. Mrs. Benn lived in Newburgh for several years, moving from there to Richmond, thence to Napanee, where she resided until her death. She leaves to mourn her loss, two daughters, Mrs. O. T. Schillemore, Napanee, and Mrs. J. J. Dolan, Rochester, N.Y.; two sons, John P. Benn, Sharp's Corners, and J. Hammel Benn, Detroit, Mich.; her mother, Mrs. John S. C. Shorey, Newburgh; three sisters, Mrs. C. C. Scriver, and Misses Clara and Emma Shorey, Newburgh; and three brothers, J. Ed. Shorey, Canniton; W. D. M. Shorey, Toronto, and P. D. Shorey, Milton.

The funeral took place from her late residence, on Thursday afternoon at 1.30, and was conducted by Rev. W. R. Tanton, Pastor of Trinity United Church, of which the late Mrs. Benn was a member. Mr. Tanton spoke of the life of the deceased, also of her devotion to her children. Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Black rendered a very appropriate duet.

The high esteem in which the deceased was held was evidenced by the large funeral attendance, also by the many floral tributes, which were:

Wreath, inscribed "Mother"—sons and daughters; wreath, Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Benn, Syracuse, N.Y.; wreath, Staff of Edwards' Dept. Store, Rochester, N.Y.; pillow, Mr. and Mrs. O. T. Sculthorpe and family; spray, mother and sisters, Mrs. John Shorey and Misses Clara and Emma Shorey, Newburgh; spray, Mr. and Mrs. J. Ed. Shorey, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Lemon, Canniton; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Paul and Mrs. Scriver, Newburgh; spray, Judge G. and Mrs. Deroche, Belleville; spray, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Benn, Toronto; spray, Mrs. K. Pope, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ostrom, Belleville; spray, Robinson Co. staff, Napanee; spray, Miss Hilda Stout and Vera Austin, Tweed; bouquet, "Live Wires", Trinity Sunday School.

The bearers were D. L. Green, E. J. Corkill, W. Dunbar, H. Creighton, G. Shibley and C. S. Dennison. The remains were taken to the Newburgh cemetery for burial.

NEW BANK MANAGER

Mr. W. A. Reid, who has just been appointed Manager of the Yarker Branch of the Bank of Montreal, has had wide experience in banking in various parts of the Dominion. He is a native of Ottawa and entered the service of the Bank in 1906. In 1917, while Accountant in the Bank's branch at Rossland, B.C., he enlisted as a gunner in the 68th Battalion, Canadian Field Artillery, and proceeded overseas, serving in France in the Spring of 1918 until the end of the war. On his return from overseas in 1919 he re-entered the service of the Bank as Accountant in the Sarnia, Ontario, Branch. In 1920 he was appointed Manager of the branch at Holstein, Ontario, and after serving there for four years, was transferred to the Managership of the Thorndale, Ontario, Branch. During the past eighteen months he has been serving in several of the branches in Toronto.

Mr. H. P. Ferrier, whom he succeeds, has been promoted to the Managership of the Ayr, Ontario, Branch.

Commencement Exercises of Victory Memorial Hospital

The Commencement Exercises of Victory Memorial Hospital, and the Jane McAlister School of Nursing of Waukegan, Ill., was held at Memorial Hall, on Dec. 28th, 1926.

The Graduates looked very nice in their white uniforms and caps, and wore corsage bouquets of yellow tea roses.

The ceremony was opened by the President of Hospital Board, Rev. Howard Tamister.

Invocation—Father Halleman.
Song—Mrs. Bellews.
Address—Dr. Osgood.
Introduction of Graduates — Miss Collins, Principal of Training School.
Presentation of Pins—Miss Hutchins.
Presentation of Diplomas — Dr. Knight.
Benedictstory Address — Rev. D. Feater.

In the evening the Glen Flora Country Club gave a dance in honor of the graduates and their friends.

Among the graduates of this class were five Napanee girls, viz., Miss Hazel Pennell, Miss Anna Pennell, Miss Vivian Exley, Miss Edna Carnahan, Miss Annie Conner.

Musical Treat in Trinity Church

A musical treat is promised the people of Napanee and vicinity, on Friday evening, January 14th, when Prof. Leo B. Riggs and Mrs. Riggs, of Belleville, (late of New York City), will present an evening's program of unusual merit. At a concert given in Bridge St. Church, Belleville, recently, we quote the following appreciation: "In the programme there was nothing more beautiful than Prof. Leo B. Riggs' selections or the organ. His rendition of a group of three selections, Mendelssohn's Spinning Song, Roff's La Fleuse and Hollins' Overture in C Minor, was undoubtedly a masterpiece. His sympathetic touch and marvellous expression was appreciated to the utmost by all."—Belleville Intelligencer. Prof. Riggs has been for some years Organist at the Hotel Astor, New York, and was one of the pioneers in broadcasting organ music for the National Broadcasting Co. of America. 1a

LENNOX AND ADDINGTON HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The members and friends of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society who attended the meeting on Friday last, were treated to a lecture by the President, Mr. W. S. Herrington, K.C., which was different from anything heard there for some time.

The lecture, which was entitled "The Newspapers of the County" was full of local interest. The lecturer gleaned from the old files of the various papers characteristic passages which not only showed the history of the newspapers themselves but cast light as well on some of the important movements in the life of the counties during the last seventy or eighty years.

The lecture was not a mere list of historical facts. The facts were there, of course, but the author's sense of humor, with the lighter touches, his fair and honest criticism of the papers past and present, his views as to the place of the newspaper in the life of any community, relieved what in other and less skillful hands might have been a rather dull subject.

One of the brightest bits in the whole lecture was that on the "Planting." This section, the lecturer informed his audience, was not composed by himself. He did not divulge the author's name, but it is believed around that the gifted and polished daughter did it. Judging by the way this section was received, the author is appreciative more or less from the same hand.

The work of the Historical Society is to stimulate interest especially in local matters, and the Lennox and Addington Association is fortunate in having as its president one who has done so much original work along these lines.

COUNTY WARDEN.

Now that the smoke of Municipal battles has disappeared, the question arises—who will be Warden for the County of Lennox and Addington for 1919? It is about twenty-three years since Napanee has been honored with that office, and some of the municipalities have had the Wardenship more than once during that time.

The Reeve of Napanee has had some seven or eight years experience on municipal boards, a success as well, and while we have no way of knowing his feelings in the matter, the citizens of Napanee feel that it is their due and by right the Warden for 1919 should be Mark F. Graham, Reeve of Napanee, and would commend his election to the members of the County Council.

NEWBURGH.

The item from Bicknell's Corners last week, with reference to an oyster supper at Mr. Dunwoody's, may be regarded as a terminological inexactitude.

The contract for the Receership between Mr. W. W. Adams and Mr. C. F. Shorts, was a good-natured but spirited one, and resulted in the election of the former. It is noticeable throughout the country generally that there are few changes being made in municipal governments, during the period of the war any mistake that were made, by public men were more than edunterbalanced by the opportunity they have had to show the best that was in them, and if they measured up reasonably well to those opportunities, the people are willing to try them again rather than new men just entering through the new mill might do equally as well.

We have been somewhat fortunate with regard to the number of deaths that have taken place in our village from the common scourge. A number of our families, however, have been called to pass through severe trial in the loss of some of their members who have passed the great dividing line in other places. Since last December two families have been thus afflicted. Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Conway have lost their second son, Bert, who died in Regina, while his wife was away on a visit to the Coast. Bert Conway was a young man of fine qualities and good business ability. He was engaged in the sale of different manufacturing articles, and his business extended from Montreal to Vancouver, and in this district it will be made of himself and his business an unqualified success.

On Monday, a message came announcing the death of Percy Patterson, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Patterson, Percy, after graduating in Arts took a Science course at Queen's University, and was for some time before his death engaged as Chief Engineer of the Mond Nickle Co. of Creighton, Ont., where his services became invaluable to his employers on account of his ability and faithfulness. We extend our sincere sympathy to these bereaved families.

There are quite a number of sick people in the village at present, although Mrs. Dr. Gardiner and his daughter, Miss Lillith, Master Stewart, son of Frank Gandier, Master Keenan of Madigan, and in the home of Mr. E. Gandier, Mr. Gilbert Palmer, son of President Palmer of Toronto, is under the doctor's care, all with more or less serious attacks of the prevailing epidemic. Mrs. Breeze is also sick at the home of her father, Mr. Chas. Wilhamis, she being taken so suddenly that she was unable to get to her home. We hope that next week we may be able to report all sick people better.

Mrs. Archie Reid was called last week to the home of his son, Walter R-il, of Camdenton, on account of the serious illness of his wife. The young woman died a short time before Mr. Reid arrived.

Next Monday evening the grand concert in the Standard Bank Hall next Tuesday evening. Enterprise Dramatic Club of Toronto, a number of exciting comedy, "Uncle Rube". Don't miss it.

Recall Orderlies, the most pleasant the cheap, and most genial lavatory. Sold only in Napanee at Wallace's Bazaar.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

To the Editor of The Beaver.

Dear Sir,—I noticed in The Beaver of the 27th ult. a letter from E. P. Shephard, complaining of the action Mr. W. Fretts has taken with regard to the horrible state of the Hamburg Road. Now, as I am personally interested in this matter, I must crave a small space in your paper for a reply to that letter. Any person who has travelled over that road knows full well that Mr. Shephard knows very little about it, and perhaps seldom, if ever, uses it. As I have drawn milk along the road for at least four years, I know a little about it, and how well do I remember the spring of 1917, when the wheels of the wagon dropped into a rut and turned the platform and milk cans upside down and me scrambling to save myself. Perhaps if Mr. Shephard had experienced that I am pretty sure he would have spoken a different story even at the risk of going against some of his pals, and Mr. Fretts would have had at least another supporter in the action he has taken, but he thinks he has a grievance and gives vent to his feelings through the public press of what he calls the arbitrary proceedings of Mr. Fretts and yelping about the increased rates to put this road in order. Now, Sir, I must ask him the question, how much of the rates have been used for similar accidents as I have mentioned caused by these roads. I think it would be much better for our representatives to study the interest of the ratepayers by putting this road in order and not merely to pay out accident claims, and if something isn't done, me, possibly have to pay out for a life. He surely has not need to come out of his cave shrieking about rates over a road of this kind, who would complain of a small rate considering a period of years, if they had a good road to travel on? Surely it would be the cheapest in the end. Whenever there is a live man comes forward and demands an improvement in whatever sphere of life, to try his best to put us on a higher plane of civilization, there is always this class of a "pre-historic man" shouting "rates! rates!". He does not need any improvement, always willing to abide by the old order of things. As Mr. Fretts' action was directed at the Council as a body, Mr. Stephard would have us believe it was meant for an individual. What does he mean? Perhaps he would kindly explain this point, and would he have us also believe that the Council is appealing this case, after not having the courage to put in a defence at Napanee? If so it is high time to compel our representatives to spend the rates on what they are intended for, and not in such Hunnish methods of fighting the ratepayers in the Law Courts when they demand their just rights.

Yours sincerely,

W. H. WOOD.

IRVIN S. COBB ON SALVATION ARMY.

From "The Saturday Evening Post"

I have yet to meet any soldier, whether a brigadier or a private, who, if he spoke at all of the Salvation Army, did not speak in terms of fervent gratitude for the aid that the Salvation Army are rendering so unostentatiously and yet so very effectively. Let a sizable body of troops move from one station to another and hard on its heels came a squad of men and women of the Salvation Army. An army truck may bring them, or it may be that they have a battered street to move them and their scanty outfits. Usually they do not ask for help from anyone in reaching their destination. Thus find lodgment in a wrecked shell of a house or in the corner of a barn. By main force and awkwardness they set up their equipment, and very soon the word is spread among the troops that at such-and-such a place the Salvation Army is serving free hot drinks and free doughnuts and free pies. It specializes in doughnuts, the Salvation Army in the field does, the real old-fashioned, home-made ones that taste of home to a home-sick soldier boy.

I did not see this, but one of my associates did. He saw it last winter in a dismal hole on the Toul sector. A tide of our troops were fleeing a long hike through rain and snow, over roads kneed-deep in half thawed, icy slush. Cold, and wet and miserable, they came tramping into a cheerless, half-empty town within sound and range of the German guns. They found a reception committee awaiting them there—in the person of two Salvation Army lassies and one Salvation Army Captain. The women had a fire going in the dilapidated oven of a vanished villager's kitchen.

One of them was rolling out the batter on a flask with an old wine bottle for a rolling pin and using the top of a tin can to cut the dough into circular circles. The other woman was cooking the doughnuts, and as fast as they were cooked the men served them out, spitting the to-bones, wet boys clamoring about the door, and nobody was asked to pay a cent.

R.C. BISHOP BOOSTS S. A.

Says Did Much Good Work for Social Welfare of Canadian Troops.

That there is no race or creed in the appeal of the Salvation Army for one million dollars to carry on the splendid war work it has undertaken for soldiers and to continue its campaign in France and Germany until the last Canadian soldier is home, is evidenced by the hearty endorsement that comes to the Headquarters of the Army from Rev. N. F. Fallon, Roman Catholic Bishop of Peterboro, Ont. Bishop Fallon spent some months with the troops at the front, and is in a position to know what is being done there by the many social organizations. He writes to Lieut.-Colonel Rawling, 394 Clarence Street, London, Ontario, as follows:—

"I am in receipt of your letter of the 25th instant, and I beg leave to tender you my sincere thanks with the good wishes it contains. I heard and saw much of the good work done by the Salvation Army for the social welfare of the Canadian troops fighting in France and Flanders. Every organization which contributes to this cause has my deepest sympathy, and I am glad to know that your society is doing valuable and effective service."

YOUNG—RUSSELL.

A very pretty wedding took place at noon, New Years Day, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alonzo E. Young, Green St., Deseronto, when their eldest daughter, Alberta Pearl, was united in matrimony to Mr. Franklin Ford Russell, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Thos. Russell, Selby. The Rev. S. Tucker, Pastor of Deseronto Methodist Church, officiated, and Mr. Harry Young, brother of the bride, played the wedding march. The bride, who was unattended, entered the parlor, which was tastefully decorated for the occasion, on the arm of her father, and was preceded by her little cousins, Miss Helen B. Cook, B.Ped'l., and Miss Rebecca Smith, Deseronto, carrying a basket of pink carnations. The bride was prettily attired in a gown of white silk crepe-de-chine, and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond necklace, and to the flower girls rings with pearls. After the ceremony the happy couple and seventy guests sat down to a sumptuous dinner. The bridal couple left on the 3.30 train for Toronto, Hamilton and Carlisle. On their return they will reside near Selby. The popularity of the bride was plainly shown by the many beautiful gifts.

Soldiers Home Coming Campaign

War Work and After-War Work of the SALVATION ARMY

"FIRST TO SERVE—LAST TO APPEAL"

The Salvation Army has for 53 years been organized on a military basis—inured to hardship, sacrifice and service. It is always in action, day and night. It has maintained Military Huts, Hostels and Rest Rooms, providing food and rest for tens of thousands of soldiers each day. 1,200 uniformed workers and 45 ambulances have been in service at the front—in addition to taking care of the needs of soldiers' families here at home, assisting the widows and orphans, and relieving distress arising from the absence of the soldier head of the family.

Notwithstanding all the Government is planning to do, notwithstanding the pensions and the relief work of other organizations, hundreds of cases of urgent human need are constantly demanding the practical help the Salvation Army is trained and equipped to render.

The Salvation Army Million Dollar Fund

January 19th to 25th.

While it could do so, the Salvation Army has carried on without any general appeal. Now the crisis is arising with the return of the 300,000 soldiers. The budget for essential work during the coming year has been prepared. A million dollars must be raised to continue the after-the-war activities, which include:

Hostels for Soldiers

Salvation Army Hostels are vitally necessary for the protection and comfort of the soldier at the many stopping places between France and his home here in Canada. These Hostels provide a bright welcome, good food, clean beds, wholesome entertainments at a price that all can afford. Many soldiers have not and have a right to, but to WHERE would they go?

Care of the Wives, Widows, Dependents and Orphans of Soldiers

Scores and hundreds of cases could be cited where soldiers' wives have been comforted by the assurance that the Salvation Army has stepped in to relieve their distress from financial worry. Many widows and orphan children are homeless—food, winter fuel, clothing and funds exhausted by sickness and other troubles. They are taken to Salvation Army Emergency Receiving Home. Winter and 200,000 soldiers returning increase the demands on the Salvation Army, which must be met.

Keeping the Family Unit Intact

The women of the Salvation Army on their visiting rounds, throughout the year, only impossible. In the discharged soldier out of a job? They find him one. Is the wife sick, or the home sorely needing help, the children neglected? They nurse the wife, mother the children, wash and cook. Is there urgent need for food, fuel, clothes or medicine? They are supplied. It takes money, of course, but more important is the loving spirit of service in which the work is done.

When the Soldier Needs a Friend

The Salvation Army provides for the boys with hot coffee, the pipe, chocolate, magazines, writing materials, and the cheerful word which helps them in their need. Until the last blessed soldier boy is re-established in civilian life, will we not help the Salvation Army to continue its work and make this boast be ours:

The service of the Salvation Army, founded on sacrifice, demonstrates the true spirit of the Master. It is directed to the extension of the Kingdom of Christ. For two generations the Salvation Army has stood out and out for God.

It approaches practical problems in a practical way and achieves RESULTS. It co-operates with all—overlaps none. It recognizes neither color, race nor creed. It is always in action, day and night. No organization does greater work at less cost. To carry on its great work it must have financial help, and on its behalf members of the Dominion Government, business men and returned soldiers endorse this appeal for funds.

OTTAWA WINTER FAIR.

The Ottawa Winter Fair have announced a Pure Bred Stallion sale in connection with the Show which opens in Ottawa 14th. Owing to the fact that the Ontario Stallion Enrollment Act has eliminated Grade Stallions the Provincial Department of Agriculture requested that a Stallion sale be put on at the Ottawa Winter Fair to supply the demand for pure bred sires in Eastern Ontario. Making into the question very closely an auction sale of pure bred stallions is necessary to the competition in the regular classes.

Early indications, since the entries have started to come in, are that the Ottawa Winter Fair will be a record one this year. Great enthusiasm is being shown on the part of Horse Breeders in the Harness Horse classes and the night performance of horses in harness and under the saddle will rival any previous horse show.

The Poultry Show will also be a record one as shown by the great demand for prize lists and information on the part of Poultry Breeders. The prize list classification for Poultry is one of the most complete and the prizes offered are, with out doubt, the best of any poultry show in Canada.

Daughters of the Empire

WOMEN'S PATRIOTIC SERVICE AND RED CROSS WORK THROUGH THE "I. D. E. LOYALIST" CHAPTER, I.O.D.E.

The above Chapter and Committee are much indebted to Mrs. Geo. Shorey, Palace Road, for donating a quilt for the French refugees, and bringing in last week 4 pairs of socks, which she had very kindly knitted for us. Mrs. Shorey's shoes is also most kindly making up refugee garments which she asked to have furnished her.

The Convener and members of the local Belgian Relief Committee desire to thank sincerely Mrs. Lund, Kingston Road, for a valued donation of men's clothing; also Mrs. H. E. Smith, for a donation of children's clothing.

In this connection, we would ask anyone having clothing in good condition that they can spare to send same in to us, as it is much needed both in Belgium and France,—that formerly for the Belgians should be sent to Mrs. F. S. Richardson's residence, John Street; that for the French should be sent to our work room either on Tuesday or Thursday afternoons, and in each case marked clearly with donor's name, so that same may be acknowledged.

The Executive and members of the Chapter desire to thank Mrs. E. Joyner, of Kingston, very much for a donation to its funds.

We wish to thank Mr. McClew for very kindly lending us some shingles some time ago for the Belgian relief, both of which are valuable aids.

Much interest has been manifested in the little red mitred stockings particularly when it once became known that the object of the collection was to aid the saddened and needy children of heroic France. All holders of these stockings should return them at once to those from whom they were received. Next week it will probably be possible to give an account of the result of the campaign in this locality, and something of the total result which the "Friends of France" will report to us.

Now that the holiday season is over, DO MAKE IT A POINT to be at the work-room either on Tuesday or Thursday afternoons, or on both days, so that we may make a creditable showing with our refugee work of sadly needed.

Higgins' White Hellebore, mixed with cement, is recommended to stock men for lice on cattle. Sold at Wallace's Drug Store.

The Red Cross Society

A most interesting letter has just been received from Mrs. H. Will Wilson, of Switzerland, formerly of Napanee, enclosing a cheque for $50.00. Mrs. Wilkson has been a most enthusiastic Red Cross worker in Switzerland during the war, and many a soldier has been helped financially through her kindness. The many donations received in the Napanee Red Cross from her, have been greatly appreciated.

An appeal has been made for socks for the sailors. As the Navy has been a wonderful part in this war, we ask our workers to take up this appeal by coming to our work-room on Saturday, when yarn will be given out for this purpose.

There is still sufficient work to be done for the Belgians. Our work room will be open this Saturday, when we hope for a good attendance as this Belgian work is a very important part of our Red Cross work.

HARROWSMITH.

A pleasant event took place in the Methodist Church on Monday, Dec. 30th, at noon, when Miss Edith E. Hoffman, High Falls, became the bride of Barney Smith, Sunbury. The young couple were attended by Lawson Smith, brother of the groom, and Mrs. Smith, as matron of honor. The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. Wilson Stewart. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Hoffman, High Falls, where a bountiful repast was partaken of. Mr. and Mrs. Smith will reside in Sunbury.—Among the many visitors who spent Christmas and New Year's with friends and relatives were: Mr. and Mrs. D. Gibbs, Argyle, at John Stewart's. Mr. and Mrs. A. Hunter, Dr. Morley Day and family, Belleville, at Dr. P. L. Day's.—Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Shibley spent New Year's with the latter's mother, Mrs. Geo. W. Smith, Colin's Bay.—A number of young people drove to the home of Wm. Lee on Friday night last and spent a pleasant evening welcoming back E. E. Lee from England.—Miss Annie Baker, of Toronto, is spending a short time with her sister, Mrs. Alfred Lee.

Over Sunday Blouses. Dress-Up Waists

Every One Exquisitely Sweet and Charming

Just about this time of year many women will be looking for a pretty little waist just to wear out for an evening, or over Sunday, and Fashion has amply provided a variety of styles. Foremost and best are those charmingly exquisite Waists which feature the round collarless neck-line, or the trig high collar, or the ever popular convertible collar. Of course there are numerous other style points which are pleasing, such as pleats, tucking, embroidery and buttons.

Crepe-de-chene and Georgette are the materials liked most for the finer waists, while Habutai, Voile and Lawn are meeting the demands for the popular trade.

Prices in Crepe-de-chene range from $4.25 to $8.50.
Prices in Georgette range from $5.95 to $15.00.
Prices in Habutai range from $3.50 to $6.50.
Prices in Voile range from $1.25 to $5.50.

Women's Fur Coats in Durable Muskrat, and The Ever Adorable Hudson Seal (Dyed Muskrat)

New-Years was ushered in amid snow and winds, and milady who desires to be warm and comfortable, must don her Fur Wrap if she is lucky enough to own one. For the women who is wanting to buy, we have still several desirable Coats from which to choose. Fur prices are higher than last year, but up to the present has not interfered with sales at our store, because all over the country we are offering the best values, to sell only reliable merchandise, to sell at one price, and to back up every transaction we make. Here are some of our sterling money saving values:—

At $169.00 we are offering an exceptionally good coat. This garment is made from fine well furred skins, and is lined throughout with brocaded poplin. Coat is 42 inches long, drapes to a sweep of 78 inches. Has large muffe collar, fur cuffs and crochet buttons. One only, size 42.

In another make of Coat are dyed Hay Bay skins, (which are noted for wear), we offer a marvellous value. These Coats measure 40 inches long, and are finished with half-belt. Lined through with good Satin. Special price of $175.00. Sizes 38, 38, and 40.

Civet is used on the collar and cuffs to make this charming Coat of excellent quality Hudson Seal, (dyed muskrat). It drapes from the shoulder 42 inches down to a generous sweep at the bottom. Smartly styled and well lined. This model has pockets, of course. Priced at $225.00. Size 36.

One only Ladies' Persian Lamb of superb quality, is marked to clear at $225.00. One who prefers this make of coat will find our price surprisingly low for a coat of this quality. It is lined with good Satin, measures 40 inches in length.

Several very excellent Coats are also obtainable in Natural Muskrat. Considered from every angle, they represent most for money invested. Are to be had in season's most attractive wearable styles. Priced at $79.00, $75.00, $86.00, $110.00 and $125.00.

WE GUARANTEE YOU WE LEAD IN FUR VALUES.

A Splendid Clearing Special Line of Men's All Wool Mackinaw Coats is Offered from Our Men's Clothing Department

Regular $12.50 Values Marked Down to Clear for $8.50

YOU YOUNG MEN WHO GO TO SCHOOL, WHO SKATE, WHO SNOW SHOE; YOU OLDER MEN WHO HUNT AND TEAM AND DRIVE, AND CURL; YOU MEN WHO LIKE SHORT COATS, AND TO EVERY OTHER MAN WHO LIKES A BARGAIN, WE OFFER THIS ALL WOOL $12.50 MACKINAW COAT FOR $8.50.

This has been a splendid season for Mackinaw Coats, and these are the over-buys. It would be great business if we could always buy just enough of every one line. But we can't. We are human, so on this little block of "over-buys", which is only eight in number, we are willing to sacrifice to clear. They are in Plaids in Fawn and Brown mixtures, and are cut in Norfolk style with all around belt. The sizes are three in 38, two in 40, two in 42, and one in 44.

Stanfield's Unshrinkable Green Label Underwear

On Sale for $1.50 from $2.00

In this special clearing of Men's Underwear, we have only five dozen garments to clear. These garments are made in Truro Nova Scotia, by one of the largest and most successful manufacturers of Underwear in Canada. They are made from a pure wool yarn, which is strong and durable, and when skillfully woven, produces a garment of unusual merit. For the man who works outside, or any man, to purchase a season's supply ahead, would be good business, because wool prices will be as firm for next season as they have been during the war years. This Underwear is to be had in Grey color only. Sizes from 38 to 44. ROBINSON'S MEN'S WEAR SERVICE SPELLS UNEXCELLED VALUES.

LATE JAY SHERWOOD TAYLOR.

Jay S. Taylor was born fifty-three years ago, viz., on January 10th, 1866, on his father's farm, near Shannonville, in the Township of Tyendinaga. While Jay was yet a child, the family moved to Centreville, where they remained some years; then to Tamworth, where, with the exception of a few years spent in New Jersey, U.S.A., and some time in Belleville, he remained until his decease.

On December 19th, 1894, he was married to Miss Catharine DeMille, of Belleville, and began business in Tamworth as an Undertaker and Furniture dealer. After twelve years of happy married life, on April 18th, 1906, Mrs. Taylor died, and after two years, with the care of a little family, he married Miss M. M. Coulter, of Tamworth, who still survives him.

After twenty-four years of business life, his health began to fail one year ago last December. He spent the months of May and June last in the General Hospital at Brockville, and at the home of his brother, C. M. Taylor, of Lyn, but disease had apparently fastened upon his system and he grew no better, but gradually failed until the end came at 2 o'clock, November 27th, 1918, at the family homestead in Tamworth. He was an official member of the Tamworth Methodist Church for some years before his health failed, acting as Secretary Treasurer of the congregation, which position he resigned when his health became impaired. He was also a member of the Trust Board of the Continuation School in Tamworth from the time of its establishment until his decease. He was the father of five children, four daughters and one son, David, who died in infancy in 1906. He leaves to mourn his loss, a widow, one brother, C. M. Taylor, of Lyn, and four daughters, viz. Bernice, now in training in the General Hospital in Kingston; Edna, Maud and Ruth, who still remain at home.

The funeral service, which was largely attended, was held in the Methodist Church, Tamworth, conducted by the Pastor, the Rev. S. G. Horke, who addressed the congregation from Isa. 38 1. The remains were placed in the Tamworth vault to remain until interment in the family plot in the Centreville cemetery.

A gentleman given to habits of extravagance found himself in the bankruptcy court and was severely questioned by the presiding official.

"At what precise date did you first find yourself in trouble?" asked the judge.

With an air of the utmost perplexity the gentleman gazed around the room until his wandering eyes fell upon the anxious countenances of his creditors; then with a genial wave of his hand in their direction, he said, pleasantly

"Oh, you must mean these gentlemen's troubles. I can't say I've had any myself."

And, on thinking the matter over, the judge agreed with the bankrupt's opinion.

Wagner and His Dog Peps.

Richard Wagner's fondness for the faithful dog Peps is well known. At the time when almost all the musical world had turned against him, he could sometimes in his walks with the dog declaim aloud against his foes. Then the dog would push backward and forward, barking and snapping, as if helping his master to defeat his enemies. When Wagner returned home from an excursion to some other city Peps would always receive a present as well as the other members of the family. "Peps received them joyfully," he writes to a friend after one of these excursions. When the time came for the little life to be ended Wagner scarcely left the dying dog's side. He even put off two days an important journey because of Peps' illness and death. He writes afterward to his friend Praeger:

"He died in my arms on the night of the ninth, passing away without a sound, quietly and peacefully. On the morrow we buried him in the garden beside the house. I cried much, and since then I have felt bitter pain and sorrow for the dear friend of the past thirteen years."—Argonaut.

Condensed Language.

"Samoo has an odeo language, and there it was I got my inspiration," says Gelett Burgess in "Burgess Unabridged." "Can't we make English as subtle as Samoan?" I wondered. There they have a single word, meaning, A party to suppose ing which requires neither acheter, nor ni aproyty woman. Another beautiful word describes A man who climbs out on the limbs of a tree and breadfruit trees to steal the breadfruit of his neighbor. Sulia means "Change the subject you are getting after." Here we anything word expresses a familiar situation. To look on owl-eyed while others are getting gifts." Here we anything in English as charmingly tactful as this? No, our tongue is almost as crude as pidgin English itself, where piano is "Box-you-fight him-cry."

His Second Thought.

A politician named Blank got a place for a clerk during one of the sessions of the legislature of his state. The clerk was very grateful. At the end of the session he came around to Blank and said: "Mr. Blank, I want to tell you how much I am indebted to you for your kindness in getting me the place I have had. It meant more to me, Mr. Blank, than you think. I thank you from the bottom of my heart. Any I want to say, Mr. Blank, that if there ever comes a time when I can do anything for you—anything at all—you are to command me. I will do anything you may ask me to do. I am at your service."

Blank thanked the man, and he started to go. As he reached the door he turned and said, "Of course, Mr. Blank, I would prefer that it should be something honorable."

ELOQUENCE IN BRIEF WORDS

General Pershing May Be Said to Hold the Record, but There Have Been Some Others.

There are many four-minute war time speakers, but so far as known there has been but one four-word war-time speech. That was the sententious utterance credited to General Pershing. It was delivered at the tomb of Lafayette on the first of last September in the presence of a number of distinguished persons who crowded about the flower-covered grave in the quaint old cemetery.

"Lafayette, we are here!" said General Pershing.

There are other sententious speeches in the annals, but it is doubtful if one can be found that combines as much sentiment with its brevity.

An exchange recalls a remarkably brief dedication speech uttered by Richard Mansfield on the occasion of the opening of the Garrick theater in Philadelphia. The eminent exponent of the drama took no advantage of the opportunity afforded him. He came to the front, cast a complacent glance at the expectant throng and then gracefully waved his arm and said:

"I dedicate this building to theatrical art."

This was very nearly as brief as the ordinary boat christening.

Which recalls an incident that happened many years ago at one of Cleveland's early-day shipyards. It introduced a peculiar combination of brevity and novelty.

A big schooner—they were all wooden boats at that time—was ready for her first dip into the waters of the Cuyahoga.

A pretty young woman, a relative of the owner, had been selected to swing the bottle of wine against the prow of the boat and say, "I christen thee J. G. Frothingham," if that was its name.

Everything was in readiness. The last prop awaited the final blow, the bottle was poised in air. The yard manager waved his hand. The bottle struck the side of the ship.

Unhappily, there was a defect in the glass. The bottle collapsed in an unexpected manner and threw its contents all over the young woman's nice white frock. Consequently what she said was this:

"I christen thee—good gracious!"

And the staunch, three-master Good Gracious gracefully slid into the water.

Save Milk and Save Lives.

Whipped cream desserts and lots of butter on bread mean that milk which babies need is being sacrificed to pamper adult appetites.

The childrens' bureau of the United States department of labor is trying to save 100,000 lives of young children during this second year of the war. Clean milk is a food babies must have to thrive; if they are not bottle-fed their mothers need to drink it for them.

With the appalling rise in the price of grain, and the scarcity of labor, farmers are selling off their cows and plant nearly so much milk is being produced as heretofore. This in face of the fact that malnutrition of little children means certain death to so many—lives needed to replace the awful waste of war.

In order to save whole milk, both England and Italy have curtailed the sale of cream and butter. Surely every community in the United States will exert itself to control the price of milk so that it may not fall to reach the babies in homes where the income is pitifully small, and will use the contents of the morning milk bottle very sparingly until our sick soldiers are plentifully supplied.—By Reinette Lovewell of the Vigilantes.

"Green Balls."

The Germans are great lovers of fireworks, and perhaps no one sees so many of these as the flyer by night over the Hun lines.

There is one device, above all, which is most interesting and inexplicable, as well as being extraordinarily beautiful. This is known variously, as "flaming onions," "chain rockets" and "green balls." It consists of long chains of brilliantly luminous balls, a bright emerald in color, which rush upward in the air, sometimes to a height of thirty or forty, or even more, and which are chiefly fired at allied machines when on homeward flying raids at night. The green balls form light relief and take the airman's nervousness and strain away.

Learn Something Every Day.

In their antipathy to England and to everything identified—supposedly English, the Germans have apparently undertaken to eliminate from the spoken and written English language of the day all words of known or suspected English origin. There comes at first hand this example of the work. Prof. Wilhelm Dehmer, who was instructor of English in the University of Berlin when the war broke out and who, from that time until May 23, 1917, was employed either a civil or an interned prisoner, Wishing to make him unconfortable at a police station one day a peeriess fran, who knew his nationality, rebuked her deserting companion for using the word "Bobby." "Ach was," she said after her, "nehmen sagt man nicht mehr. Das ist Englisch."

Kit Rations for Officers.

Those German demigods, the officers of the army, are now on clothing rations like ordinary mortals. They will henceforth only be able to secure new uniforms on clothing cards. The new regulation prescribes that, save extraordinary circumstances, no officer may have, and he will not be permitted to array himself in excess of its limitations. The only modification in officers is that they are not required, as civilians are, to declare how much clothing they already possess.

REASONS

why you should use Zam-Buk instead of ordinary ointment.

1st. Because Zam-Buk has a superior soothing and healing power. This is due to its unique composition. Zam-Buk is composed exclusively of herbal extracts and vegetable oils and is 100% medicine.

2nd. Because Zam-Buk cures are permanent. This is owing to the fact that the oils and extracts of which Zam-Buk is composed are so blended and refined that its power of penetration is extraordinary. While ordinary ointment remains on the surface skin, Zam-Buk literally soaks through to the underlying tissues, and destroys skin diseases at their very roots. In this way only, can a permanent cure be effected.

3rd. Because Zam-Buk is antiseptic. In other words, germs cannot live where Zam-Buk is applied. This prevents any possibility of festering or blood-poisoning.

4th. Because Zam-Buk is pure. Its purity is due to its herbal composition, and this particularly commends Zam-Buk to mothers.

5th. Because Zam-Buk is economical. Owing to its freedom from animal fat, Zam-Buk cannot become rancid. It is, therefore, just as good to the last application.

The reliability of this herbal remedy has established it as the household balm wherever it has been used for eczema, ringworm, abscesses, ulcers, running sores, bad legs, blood-poisoning, piles, boils, pimples, burns, scalds, cuts, chapped hands or chilblains. All dealers, 50c. box.

Lake Winnipeg

Of the lakes of Manitoba Lake Winnipeg is the largest, being 275 miles long and from 40 to 60 miles wide, its area being about 9,000 square miles and its total coast line longer than that of any of the great lakes except Lake Superior. No other province or state has entirely within its boundaries a body of water at all approaching it in magnitude. Great Salt Lake in Utah is only one-fifth of the extent of Lake Winnipeg. The largest of its tributaries is the Saskatchewan river, one of the four great rivers of the continental divide. Its total length is 1,060 miles. The Red river, 500 miles in length, and Lake Winnipeg river, 300 miles in length, and many minor rivers also pour into Lake Winnipeg. The Nelson river is its principal outlet and connects it with Hudson bay.

A Glimpse of Parnell.

Like most men with claims for great ness, Parnell had his peculiarities as well. One of them was a distressing lapse of memory on occasions, which often caused him to be late to—indeed sometimes to miss—meetings where he had promised to speak.

When he failed a meeting like this where hundreds of people were waiting for him, I sometimes would wander to telegraph or write apologizing for or excusing his nonattendance, but this he would never do, saying: "You do not learn the ethics of kingship, Queenie. Never explain never apologize." Adding with his rare laugh, "I could never keep my cabbie together if I were not above the weakness of apology."—Katharine Stewart Parnell," by Katharine O'Shea.

Strange Symphony.

A certain clergyman was the guest of the Rev. Edward Everett Hale overnight. In the morning he came down stairs with a look of pleased surprise on his face.

"What a delightful musician you have here," he said, "of climbing the stairs at midnight. I got up and leaned out of the window to listen. It was a pretty air, well played, although I did not recognize it.

"This," said Dr. Hale, telling the story afterward, "was the first time I ever heard of a fire alarm being taken for a symphony."—St. Joseph News Press.

In Doubt.

Light Work.

"Mrs. Grizzles pressed a frame a good breakfast if he would cut a little wood."

"Well?"

"So the fellow consumed eight or ten biscuits, ham and eggs, some potatoes and two cupfuls of coffee."

"And then did he cut a little wood?"

"Yes. He whittled himself a tooth pick and said, 'Good morning.'"

"The what a month ago?" demanded Chase, trying to fix something in his mind. Then it was after the yacht left Marseilles with orders to put me up at Arstat."

"What are you talking about? Sure it was, if the yacht left Marseilles six weeks ago. What's that got to do with it?"

"Nothing. Don't mind me, Arch. I'm a bit upset."

"There was talk of a divorce almost before the wedding bells ceased ringing. The grand duke got his eyes opened when it was too late. He repented of the marriage. The princess was obliged to live in Paris for a certain length of time before applying to the courts for freedom. God, I'll stake my head she's happy these days!"

Chase was silent for a long time. He was quite cool and composed when at last he turned to his friend.

"Arch, do me a great favor. Look out for Selim and Neenah. Take 'em to the hotel and see that they get settled. I'll join you this evening. Don't ask questions, but put me down here. I'll take another cab. There's a good fellow. I'll explain soon. I'm—I'm going somewhere, and I'm in a hurry."

tions. His fare hesitated for a moment, swayed by a momentary indecision.

"Attendre," he said finally. The driver adjusted his register and settled back to wait. Then Chase mounted the steps and lifted the knocker with trembling fingers. He was dizzy with eagerness, cold with uncertainty.

She had asked him to come to her, but conditions were not the same as when she sent the compelling message. There had come into her life a vital break, a change that altered everything. What was it to mean to him?

He stood a moment later in the salon of the old Flaurebert palace, vaguely conscious that the room was darkened by the drawn blinds and that it was cool and sweet to his senses. He knew that she was coming down the long hallway. He could hear the rustle of her gown.

Unconsequently he was wondering whether she would be dressed in black. There, to his humiliation, he observed that he was wearing uncouth, travel soiled garments.

She was dressed in white—a house gown, simple and alluring. There was no suggestion of the coronet, no shadow of grief in her manner, as she came swiftly toward him, her hands extended, a glad light in her eyes.

The tall man, voiveless with emotion clasped her hands in his and looked down into the smiling, rapturous face.

"You came!" she said, almost in a whisper.

"Yes. I could not have stayed away. I have just heard that you—you are free. You must not expect me to offer condolences. It would be shear hypocrisy. I am glad—I am glad! You sent for me—you sent the yacht, Genevra, before—before you were free. I came knowing that you belonged to another. I find you the same as when I knew you first—when I held you in my arms and heard you say that you loved me. You do not grieve—you do not mourn. You are the same, my Genevra—the same that I have dreamed of and suffered for all these months. Something tells me that you have decided to my place. I will not bind you, Genevra, until you have promised to become my wife."

She had not taken her eyes from his white, intense face during this long summing up.

"Hollingsworth, I canapt, I will not blame you for anything I do, my wife said. "Have I fallen in your eyes? I wanted you to be near me. I wanted you to know that when the courts freed me from that man I would be ready and happy to come to you as your wife. I am not in mourning today, you see. I knew you for my husband, dearest, It was what I meant when I sent out there for you—that and nothing else."

NORTHBROOK.

A very pleasant but quiet evening was spent at the home of Mrs. Both on December 19th, when her sister, Miss Adda Preslar, our former organist, and a prospective bride, was presented with many useful gifts, after which a lunch was served. Many friends and relatives gathered to show the great respect in which we highly esteemed Miss Preslar. Rev. Mr. Richmond read the following address:—

Dear Miss Preslar, — We, your many friends and neighbours, have gathered together this evening for the purpose of showing our gratitude for your permanent and willing service in the church and social endeavour. Your loving and kind disposition has endeared you to us all. It is with deep sorrow and regret that we learn of your early departure from our midst. But our loss is others gain. We trust that your new path of life will be strewn with perfect peace and happiness. We cannot enumerate or express in words the many kind words and thoughtful actions you have performed. Your life has shown us an example of true Christianity, and faithfulness to your fellow citizens. May we ever profit by your impressive influence. Please accept these gifts as a small token of respect, and not for their intrinsic value. As you gaze upon them from time to time may we ever remind you of your many true friends that you have left behind.

Signed by,—

MRS. J. L. LLOYD,
REV. G. E. RICHMOND,
Pastor.

Then, in fitting words, the Pastor thanked Miss Preslar for her services in the Church, showing the good spirit in which the music was rendered. Miss Preslar replied in the following words:—

My Dear Friends,—Words cannot express my thankfulness to you on behalf of your kind endeavour of presenting me with these beautiful and costly presents. This eventful evening will ever be a reminder of you, my life-long associates, from whom, with regret, I expect soon to be separated, in body but not in spirit. Presiding at the organ in your midst has not seemed a duty, but an infinite pleasure, as it was always my desire to render any helpful assistance in my power, both to minister and congregation.

If I could but express my thoughts you would realize that these few understanding words do not begin to thank you for your kind and loving remembrances, both in thought and deed, thanking you again and again.

Miss Ingoll, the organist for the evening, then rendered music, and we all sang, "God be with you till we meet again". Perfect silence reigned during the reading of the address and the many sad faces indicated the value of our loss in the community.

The table was laden with many useful gifts, a parlor "Aladdin" lamp, one of the presents, showed the others at full advantage. The most important one, not having arrived, the tray held the advertisement of the three-piece silver tea set, which came the following day. There was also a biscuit jar and butter dish of silver. Chinaware, glass and fancy work comprised the remainder.

The following Saturday Miss Preslar left for Ottawa to visit her sister, Mrs. Campbell. The good wishes of all her friends went with her.

It is certainly the best medicine for woman's ailments I ever saw."—Mrs. SARA SHAW, R. No. 1, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Mrs. Shaw proved the merit of this medicine and wrote this letter in order that other suffering women may find relief as she did.

Women who are suffering as she was should not drag along from day to day without giving this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial. For special advice in regard to such ailments write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its forty years experience is at your service.

THE ADOLPHUSTOWN PLAY.

It was in the Village of Adolphustown,
When first this play came out;
The two Lavere boys they were there
And so was Jimmie Frost.

There were six heroes on the stage,
Six heroes of the West;
And of all the performance they went through,
Aneta Gallagher done the best.

The first walked out was George Chalmers,
On him the crowd did gaze,
When out walked Marion Armstrong
Sat the crowd all in amaze.

The next walked out was Roy Johnson,
He bowed with a pretty grace;
And he looked so funny
With a moustache on his face.

Roy was Aneta's lover,
And also Aneta's beau;
And because he had experience
He knew just what to do.

The next was Albert Chalmers,
A rich mine owner, oh, was he,
He was Aneta's father,
That you could plainly see.

He fell in love with Gertie Chalmers
As they worked the play out fine;
But she only wanted his money,
And love it soon went blind.

The next walked out was Alex. Allen
An officer in trim,
He fell in love with Aneta Gallagher,
But Roy won her back again.

Willie Craven, he done his part,
As lively as could be;
And also Gertie Chalmers,
Now this is all I have to say.

But when the play was over,
Half the crowd did stay,
And they took the music to the hall
And danced the night away.

We had a dandy time,
The dance it was all right;
But they soaked the boys a dollar
For only half the night.

—E. G. G.

He—You women have a mania for getting cheap things.

She—Yes; I suppose that is how I came to marry you.

"Do you think Bilgeins has great intellectual strength?"

"He must have," replied Miss Cayenne. "He has himself on his mind all the time; and that is a great burden."

Lice on cattle. Where do they come from? We know where they go to when you use our "Lice Killing Powder". The best yet. Sold only at Hooper's.—The Medical Hall.

WISE AND OTHERWISE.

"This is the stadium."

"Fine! Now take us through the curriculum. They say you have a good one here."

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excrescences away by using Holloway's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

"So many young men make such improvident marriages."

"Our son didn't. He's just eloped with the cook."

Complete in itself, Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator does not require the assistance of any other medicine to make it effective. It does not fail to do its work.

"They say singing men make great fighters."

"I have known it for many years" replied the impresario.

"Do you believe in heredity?"

"Of course I do," replied the gentle egotist. "Why I am one of the brightest boys you ever saw."

A PRIME DRESSING FOR WOUNDS. — In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in cauterizing wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not scar the skin or burn the flesh. There is no other Oil that has its curative qualities.

Nice Little Boy—Indeed, I'd like to go swimming. Wait, and I'll ask mother.

"Nix! We don't want yer mother wid us!"

PILLS THAT HAVE BENEFITED THOUSANDS. — Known far and near as a sure remedy in the treatment of indigestion and all derangements of the stomach, liver and kidneys, Parmelee's Vegetable Pills have brought relief to thousands when other specifics have failed. Innumerable testimonials can be produced to establish the truth of this assertion. Once tried they will be found superior to all other pills in the treatment of the ailments for which they are prescribed.

"Are you sure this salmon is fresh?"

"Fresh? Bless ye mum, I've just got it out it up to keep it from jumpin' at the flies."

A PILL THAT IS PRIZED. — There have been many pills put up on the market and pressed upon public attention, but none has endured so long or met with so much favor as Parmelee's Vegetable Pills. Widespread use of them has attested their great value, and they need no further advertisement than this. Having firmly established themselves in public esteem, they now rank without a peer in the list of standard vegetable preparations.

"Good morning! I came to tune your piano."

"Piano? But I didn't send for you."

"No, ma'am, but the neighbors said I ought to call."

There is no more effective vermifuge on the market than Miller's Worm Powders. They will not only clear the stomach and bowels of worms, but will prove a very serviceable medicine for children in regulating the infantile system and maintaining it in a healthy condition. There is nothing in their composition that will injure the most delicate stomach when directions are followed, and they can be given to children in the full assurance that they will utterly destroy all worms.

A pushful young merchant presented his wife with a handsome dining room lamp on her birthday and his heart gave a big throb of delight when she told him that she intended bestowing her husband's name upon the gift. At the same time his curiosity was aroused and he asked his good lady her reason for such a peculiar proceeding.

"Well, dear," she replied laughingly, "it has a good deal of brass about it, is handsome to look at, requires a good deal of attention, is remarkably brilliant, flares up occasionally, is bound to smoke, and is always out at bedtime."

Its Unmistakable Economy in Use— is speedily proven in a Tea-Pot Infusion.

DESERONTO BOY WINS V. C.

In the list of awards for the Victoria Cross, published on Tuesday, appeared the name of Lieut. Kerr, an old Deseronto boy. Lieut. George Fraser Kerr, M.C., M.M., 3rd Battalion, First Central Ontario Regiment, for the most conspicuous bravery and leadership during the Bourlon Wood operations of Sept. 29th, 1918. Commanding the left support of a company in attack, he handled the company with great skill, and gave timely support by outflanking a machine gun which was impeding the advance. Later, near the Arras-Cambrai Road, in the advance, he again was held up by a strong enemy post. Kerr, who was fist in advance of his company, rushed this strong point single-handed, and captured four machine guns and fifteen prisoners. Throughout this engagement was an inspiring example to all. Lieut. Kerr was born in 1894 at Deseronto and enlisted in 1915. By profession he is a merchant.

Extra strong Hardwood Twist, fresh every week, at Wallace's Drug Store.

GRACE CHURCH MUSICALE.

One of the musical treats of the season was given under the auspices of the Young People's Society of Grace Methodist Church, on Tuesday evening, January 7th, and a most successful evening resulted. Mr. Frank Oldfield, who was favorably remembered from his last visit to a large and appreciative audience, and he fully justified the reputation made by his former visit to Napanee. All of his numbers were so well rendered it would be difficult to mention any particular favorite, although the "Delouin Love Song" was wonderfully well suited to his rich baritone. "Farmer's Pride" caused a ripple of amusement, while one of his encores, "The Floral Dance", was greatly admired.

Mrs. H. T. Coleman, wife of Dean Coleman, of Queen's University, who possesses a beautiful contralto voice, gave three numbers, all of which were enthusiastically received. Her Shakespeare-Sullivan number, "O'er Pleas With His Late", was perhaps the most artistic of her selections, and her little love songs were sung with splendid expression and gave the greatest pleasure to her audience.

The instrumental numbers were of the best. Miss Hattie Wartman, A.T.C.M., and Professor Ernest Wheatley, Mus. Bac., opening the programme with a piano duet, "Marsanilloy" by Auber, and following it later in the evening with another equally enjoyed, "Tarantella" by Raff. Professor Wheatley is well known in Napanee for his musical ability, and Miss Wartman, as his pupil, was one of whom he could be justly proud.

The violin solos by Mrs. Cameron Wilson were musically sweet, and received their due appreciation from those present.

Mrs. B. M. Black and Prof. Wheatley, as accompanists for the evening, were all that could be desired, and as this particular art demands delicacy and sympathy of all touch, much praise cannot be awarded the artists.

DEATH OF MRS. C. D. BLACK.

A sad death occurred at Napanee, on Thursday, January 2nd, 1919, when Dolz Smith, beloved wife of Mr. Charley D. Black, passed away, after an illness of several weeks. During the prevalence of the Flu epidemic she was stricken with pneumonia, which left her so weak that she could not gain strength, and gradually faded away. Besides her husband, she leaves two children, Ralph, aged 11, and Lenore, aged 7. She leaves also her parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Smith, South Napanee; two brothers, Messrs. Maurice Smith, in East End, Sask., and Edward Smith, Winnipeg, Man., and one sister, Mrs. Bruce Wagar, Kelfield, Sask. The funeral, which was of a private character, was held on Sunday, Jan. 5th, at 3 p.m. Those in attendance from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. Hal. Richardson, Syracuse, N.Y.; Mr. John M. Black, Montreal; Mrs. James Ralph, Stirling, Ont. The floral tributes which were sent to the house of mourning were most beautiful, and testified in a remarkable manner to the grief felt by all at the death of Mrs. Black, and the sympathy felt for the stricken family.

Floral tributes came from Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Smith and family; spray of roses and eyergreens from Mr. C. D. Black; lyre of roses and laurel from Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wagar, of Saskatoon; spray of carnations and ferns, from Mr. and Mrs. Hal. Richardson, of Syracuse; spray of roses, carnations and ferns, from Mrs. John S. Black, of Stirling, Ont.; cross of roses, carnations, violets, narcissus and ferns, from Mr. John M. and Mr. Harry S. Black, of Montreal; spray of carnations, everygreen and cypress, from Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kerr, of Toronto; cross of calla lilies and laurel, from Mr. and Mrs. Willow of Arnprior, Ont.; wreath of carnations, fern, and laurel, from The Robinson Company; pillow of orchids, narcissus, laurel and fern, from the Choir of Trinity Church; spray of Easter lilies and cypress, from Trinity Sunday School; spray of carnations and ferns from Mr. Hall's Sunday School class; spray of carnations and ferns from the scholars of the Primary Department, Trinity Sunday School; wreath of orchids, narcissus, laurel and ferns, from Grace Church Sunday School.

MEETING OF APPRECIATION.

On Thursday evening, January 2nd a very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mr. and Mrs. F. Van Vlack, Deseronto Road. The members of the Choir and Class 9 of the Dorcas Bible Class of the Deseronto Methodist Church paid them a surprise visit in honor of their daughter, Lulu Marguerite, whose marriage to Mr. Elmer Harrison, of Carscallen, took place on Wednesday of this week. During the evening they presented her with teaspoons and pie knife in the "Old Colony" design, as a slight token of their appreciation of the help she has given in the Sunday School and Choir. Although completely surprised, Miss Van Vlack made a graceful reply. The evening was spent in games and music, and after lunch, the guests departed with many expressions of good will to the fair bride-to-be. Miss Van Vlack is one of Deseronto's most popular young ladies, and her place in the church will be hard to fill.

The following evening a shower was given her by the people of the neighborhood, old and young, who gathered at her home to wish her God speed in her new life. An enjoyable evening was spent in games and music. Perhaps the most interesting event of the evening took place when a large basket of daintily wrapped gifts was brought in, and Miss Van Vlack was asked to open them before the assembled guests. Their number and value testified to the high esteem in which she is held by all. Lunch was served and once more the guests left, wishing her many years of happiness.

DESERONTO

The annual Christmas tree and en- ... tertainment in the basement of St. ... Mark's Church, on January 4th, ... within the period of twelve days al- ... lotted to the observance of the great ... Mr. festival of the Christian Church ... for the past 1400 years at the very ... least, was a decided success. The In- ... fant Class gave some excellent num- ... bers, well trained by their teacher, ... Mrs. Harland. Dianne, Stella and ... Norma Pearce, accompanied by their ... mother on the piano, contributed a ... very pretty item to the programme. ... The Sunday School sang their beau- ... tiful Christmas hymns and lovely ... carols, accompanied with great skill ... on the piano by Miss Rebecca Smith ... and Miss Agnes Thompson, which ... were much appreciated by the large ... audience. Miss Agnes Thompson al- ... so rendered a good piano solo, re- ... flecting credit alike on teacher and ... pupil. The larger part of the pro- ... gramme was magnificently given by ... Mr. Robert Clarke, of Toronto, one ... of Canada's very best Vetriloquists. ... No description could do his work full ... justice. Suffice it to say he covered ... the entire audience with him, especi- ... ally the little ones who went heart ... and soul into the amusing spirit of ... the evening, and greeted every ef- ... fort he put forth with rounds of ap- ... plause. The children the following ... Sunday received their books, oranges ... and candies as in former years. The ... Rector and Teachers of St. Mark's ... Church are congratulated on the enter- ... prising and first class programme ... they put on for the enjoyment of the ... public and the real pleasure of the ... Sunday School children.

BETHEL

Our school re-opened this week, ... with Miss Gange at the helm.—The ... ice in Varty Lake is in perfect con- ... dition for traveling on, and many ... are now crossing it, as it is much ... nearer the shore on the north side of ... it to come to our villages of Yarker ... and Colebrook.—Dan Sagriff has ... been getting wood from Mr. Hamm ... to his home here. — William McWil- ... liams had Mr. Pringle's hay press ... last week, and pressed nearly twenty ... tons of hay.—Percy Galbraith has ... been engaged this week in cutting up ... his winter's wood.—Mrs. Jim Hamilton ... has returned home, after a very ... pleasant visit with friends in Napa- ... nee.—Mr. Jay Hamilton, who had a ... severe attack of asthma last week, is ... improving.—Mrs. Ed. McKnight is ... slowly recovering from her ... illness.—Mrs. Perry Galbraith spent ... last week end with her parents, Mr. ... and Mrs. Robert Babcock, at Holle- ... ford.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson ... took tea on Sunday night with Mrs. ... Myrtle McWilliams and Mr. and Mrs ... Garnet Jeffery, at Camden East. ... Mrs. Mary Perry is staying with ... Mrs. Bessie Galbraith since the re- ... cent loss of her home by fire in ... Yarker. We understand she intends ... to re-build on her lot in the ... spring.—Mrs. Wm. Jackson and Mrs. ... Harry Gilligan called on Mrs. Ed. ... McKnight, on Monday afternoon.

DORLAND

We are getting quite acclimated ... to below zero weather. The joint ... meeting of the Ladies' Aid and the ... W. M. S. at the home of Mrs. T. ... M. Davis on Wednesday afternoon ... was well attended.—Owing to the ... heavy roads on Thursday night a ... number who had planned to attend ... the Y. P. S. meeting at the home ... of Mr. and Mrs. J. Magee were not ... present, but a pleasant and profit- ... able evening was enjoyed by those ... who were there. — The inaugural ... meeting of the Township Council ... was held on Monday. Mr. and ... Mrs. Angus Mack and Mr. Harold ... Mack, of Saskatchewan, arrived at ... Mr. Stephen Mack's on Wednes- ... day. — Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Bird ... spent the week-end in Prince Ed- ... ward.

BICKNELL'S CORNERS

We are enjoying beautiful bright ... sunny days, with very cold nights, ... the thermometer registering 20 below ... zero at some times.—Mrs. K. Amey, ... of Camden East, is spending a few ... days with her mother, Mrs. T. Hy- ... land. — Mr. W. Stewart and family ... spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. ... George Scott.—Mr. and Mrs. E. W. ... Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Simmons ... and Mr. and Mrs. Maitland Boulton ... took tea with Mr. and rMs. Clarence ... Boulton on Sunday night.—Mr. and ... Mrs. J. McGarvey, of Camden East, ... spent Sunday at Mr. and Mrs. Alva ... Emberley's. — Several of the neigh- ... bors are busy drawing sand, prepar- ... ing for building in the spring. — Mr. ... F. W. Simmons and family, also Mr. ... and Mrs. Roy Samson spent a day ... with Mr. and Mrs. M. Jack- ... son, Colebrook.

The Wife—"No, George, dear, I ... shan't want any clothes this spring."

George—"Ye gods! I was afraid it ... would come to that!"

WILTON TEAMEETING

The fifth annual New Years night ... tea was held in Wilton United Church ... on Saturday night, January 1st, un- ... der the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. ... The first part of the programme ... was in charge of the ladies who ... served refreshments. After all had ... done justice to the good things pro- ... vided, the Pastor, Rev. Mr. McQuade, ... introduced the chairman of the even- ... ing, Dr. J. E. Mabee, of Odessa, who ... ably took charge of the second part ... of the programme.

Mrs. Townsend, Gold Medal Elocu- ... tionist, of Athens, Ont., gave the ... main part of the programme. Her ... six selections were well chosen, and ... each received a much deserved en- ... core. Special mention should be ... made of her closing number, which ... was of her own composition, telling ... of Christ's birth in Bethlehem. While ... giving this number she was dressed ... in the traditional costume of the Inn- ... keeper's wife in Bethlehem.

The musical part of the programme ... was given by home and foreign tal- ... ent. Solos given by Messrs. H. Sni- ... der and J. Bain, of Odessa, were ... much appreciated by the audience. ... All enjoyed the numbers by Wilton ... talent, which consisted of a solo by ... Mrs. K. Babcock, a duet by Mrs. R. ... Mills and Miss E. Babcock, and two ... selections by Wilton Orchestra.

During the evening Dr. Mabee ... called on Rev. Mr. Moffat, Presbyte- ... rian minister, to make a few remarks. ... As Mr. Moffat is a newcomer in our ... midst, all were pleased to make his ... acquaintance.

At the close of the programme, a ... vote of thanks to all who had so ... kindly assisted in making the even- ... ing such a success, was moved by ... Rev. Mr. McQuade, and seconded by ... Mr. F. Sharpe.

Mrs. Townsend spent Sunday in ... Wilton, and at the close of the Sun- ... day School, delighted the children by ... giving them a little talk. Mrs. Tow- ... nsend has the rare gift of making ... friends wherever she goes, and a ... hearty welcome awaits her should she ... at any future time re-visit Wilton.

ST. ANDREW'S CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of St. An- ... drew's United Church was held in ... the School Room on Wednesday ... evening. A large and representative ... gathering of the congregation was ... present to hear the reports of the ... various organizations in the Church. ... Never in the history of the Church ... were reports presented that were ... more satisfactory. Each and every ... organization showed the work in a ... flourishing condition and presented a ... balance. The Treasurer of the ... Church, Mr. Maybee, reported from ... his department a surplus of over ... three thousand dollars and a substan- ... tial balance. The Mission Treasurer- ... ers reported that the budget alloca- ... tion of $850.00 will be all met by the ... weekly envelope system. The Ladies' ... Aid presented a balance of over four ... hundred dollars, the W. M. S. and ... Young People's Society of Bread had re- ... ceived and disbursed over three ... hundred dollars. The Sunday School ... have over three hundred dollars; a ... hundred of which went to Missionary ... enterprises. The Maintenance Com- ... mittee reported having spent about a ... thousand dollars on the church pro- ... perty. Altogether over seven thous- ... and dollars was raised by the con- ... gregation.

After the business was over, the ... Pastor, Rev. A. J. Wilson, on behalf ... of the Managers and Elders, pre- ... sented to Mr. MacGregor, the Choir ... Leader and Conductor of the Orch- ... estra, a brief case and club bag, as ... a mark of their appreciation of his ... services to the church.

The new officers were elected, and ... then the congregation were the ... guests of the Board of Managers and ... Elders to an excellent lunch.

After a social hour the congrega- ... tion dispersed, thus concluding 'the ... most successful year in the church's ... record.

Light and Social Welfare—Arthur Kimmerly, Chairman; J. H. Fitzpatrick, F. S. Boyes.

Court of Revision—Mayor Roy, Reeve Boyes and Councillors Simpson, Dunbar and Howitt.

Council adjourned until 7.30 p.m.

Council resumed as per adjournment.

Members all present, Mayor Roy presiding.

The evening proceedings were opened with prayer by Rev. J. H. H. Coleman.

On motion of Councillors Howitt and Kimmerly, a hearty vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Coleman.

Mayor Roy's Address

To the Councillors and Reeve of Napanee for 1927.

We have been selected by the citizens to manage the town's affairs for the year 1927. Several citizens have expressed their opinion that we have a very good Council for this year, and I certainly agree with them.

Napanee at the present time is, I believe, in a very favorable condition. Our finances, streets, fire fighting apparatus, water works, parks, and public buildings, are all in excellent condition, and this Council is to be congratulated on coming in a year when everything is in first-class order, and unless we have some unforseen expenditure, our tax rate should not be exceeded. In fact, if possible, by careful managing we might be able to reduce it.

To the Streets Committee I would like to point out that before supplies are purchased, tenders for these supplies should be asked for and the tenders should come in sealed and should be opened in the presence of the tenderers, if they wish to attend. When asking for tenders it should be made clear exactly what is required and the quantities required, where possible. A check should also be kept on all material delivered and see that we have a very good Council for this year, and I certainly agree with them.

Napanee at the present time is, I believe, in a very favorable condition. Our finances, streets, fire fighting apparatus, water works, parks, and public buildings, are all in excellent condition, and this Council is to be congratulated on coming in a year when everything is in first-class order, and unless we have some unforseen expenditure, our tax rate should not be exceeded. In fact, if possible, by careful managing we might be able to reduce it.

To the Streets Committee I would like to point out that before supplies are purchased, tenders for these supplies should be asked for and the tenders should come in sealed and should be opened in the presence of the tenderers, if they wish to attend. When asking for tenders it should be made clear exactly what is required and the quantities required, where possible. A check should also be kept on all material delivered and see that the man receiving the material can give a voucher that he did receive the amount of material. If the proposed paving of Centre Street, and probably Bridge street, is carried out this year I hope this committee will get busy as soon as they possibly can and employ engineers to obtain the necessary specifications so they can advertise for tenders for this work. I think a better price could be obtained from contractors if the tenders were worded so they will offer to do the work, to called for by the engineers, for a lump sum, in accordance with the engineers' specifications. In this way we will then know exactly what we will get and what it will cost when completed. I would also like to suggest to this committee if this paving is undertaken that, in addition to the engineers' supervision of the work, there should be an inspector to see that the proper amount of cement is put in every batch of concrete as it goes through the mixer. Also to see that where tile are laid that the joints are properly cemented and that they are properly laid.

When oiling the streets this year your committee, I think, would be well advised to be sure that a better grade of oil would be put on than was put on some of the streets last year.

To the Finance Committee I have very little to say, as I know that in the hands which it is, it will be well looked after. I would just like to say that it would be advisable to check up the various committees and perhaps each month hand the chairman of each committee a statement showing him how much of his appropriation he has used. There are also several debentures which should be issued. I will be glad to see that these matters are cleaned up.

To the Fire and Water Committee, I would like to point out that the doors on the Fire Hall need repairing and painting and the inside of the Fire Hall needs a thorough renovation, and the fire alarm boxes should be improved as I suggested last year.

Light and Social Welfare Committee. The Social and Welfare part of this Council is a committee upon which very much depends, at times. You know we have some poor people in our town who must be looked after and who are deserving, but we also know that we have some who ask charity from the town who do not deserve it and yet they are in such circumstances in the cold weather that we cannot refuse them. If that committee could inaugurate some system whereby these able-bodied men who apply for charity could be given work and earn whatever they were given, I think there would be fewer of this class applying for charity.

As the lighting of our Main Street will come under this committee I would suggest that as soon as possible they get in touch with the Hydro people, and have one of their engineers come here and go thoroughly into the situation and find out how they would propose to increase the light on our Main Street, eventually from Piety Hill to the stone bridge, (but for the present, the two main business blocks), how they would propose to do it, what the cost would be, and what the probable additional cost would be for current.

The Printing, By-laws and Parks Committee I would ask to carefully look over the accounts for printing and as far as possible patronize our local printers, and where prices are equal they should be careful to give each office an equal share of the town's business.

I am very much interested in the parks of the town and I am sure you will agree with me that there is nothing which we can do to make our town more attractive than to have our parks in first-class condition. To accomplish this end I think you would be well advised to take into consideration the advisability of hiring a first-class man who will devote his whole time during the summer months to keeping our parks clean and attractive. The Harvey Warner Park very little needs to be done. To the Park on this side of the river at the stone bridge, considerable levelling will be necessary and grass seed sown, and some shade should also be provided. In Springside Park we must build some kind of a shelter in which to old stoves for cooking purposes could be placed for the accommodation of our own citizens and for tourists. There should also be built two stone fireplaces outside among the rocks, where small fires can be built for picnickers from the Sunday Schools and various juvenile organizations in town. There should also be some seats placed in this park. I feel sure that if the citizens of our town only realized what a beautiful spot it is it would be used far more than it is at present. I would also like to ask for your support and co-operation to equip a children's playground in some central portion of the town. All towns professing to want to anything at all have children's playgrounds, starting, of course, very small and gradually adding equipment from year to year. In some towns citizens, clubs, or lodges have donated certain pieces of equipment. In that way we should be able to establish a playground this year.

The Town Property Committee, I think, is to be congratulated on the fact that our town property was fairly well repaired during 1926. Perhaps the repairs to the fire hall will come under your committee and I hope you will work with the Fire and Water Committee in carrying out very important work done as early as possible.

The Disposal Works are now in excellent condition, all cleaned, everything working in good order, and I think, with a good caretaker looking after it, we will have no trouble whatever from this source for some years.

To the Market and Police Committee there is very little suggestion I can offer, as everything seems to be working very smoothly in both these departments. Our Chief and Sergeant-at-arms, I believe we have as good officials as can be found anywhere, and from what I can hear from customers using our market and our scales we have a very efficient market clerk.

Do we realize the value our Board of Commerce could be to this Council? The Board numbers among its members nearly all of the business men of the town, and these men are more than willing to advise us on important issues, and this Council should be glad to avail themselves of this help. We should encourage the Board in all their efforts to bring manufacturers here.

The tourist trade should be encouraged wherever possible and every assistance should be given to any movement which will advertise our town to the tourists.

In conclusion I wish to congratulate the Council and the citizens on the very efficient permanent officials which we have in Mr. Graham as Town Treasurer, Mr. Grange as Town Clerk, and Mr. Fennell as Assessor and Tax Collector. I feel much more confident in occupying the Mayor's chair when I know that I have the guidance and support of these officials and the Council which the citizens have elected this year, and I am sure that one and all will be interested in the welfare of our town and its citizens.

E. J. ROY, Mayor.

On motion of Councillors Simpson and Jewell, the Mayor's address, as read, was adopted.

Communications

A communication was received from the Tourists' Association of Canada, asking for the co-operation of the Council. The annual meeting of the Association will be held in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, on Thursday, January 18th, and the communication requested that representatives from the town be present.

On motion Reeve Boyes, Councillor Howitt, and W. A. Grange, Town Clerk, were authorized to attend the above convention as representatives from Napanee.

A communication was received from the committee who have in hand the matter of a presentation to His Honor Lieut.-Governor Cockshutt, who is retiring from office.

Moved by Reeve Boyes, seconded by Councillor Howitt, that the communication be left in the hands of Mayor Roy, with power to act. Carried.

By-Laws

The following By-laws were given their several readings, signed, sealed, numbered, and finally passed:

Appointing Dr. D. R. Hall a member of the Board of Health for the year 1927.

Appointing J. M. Thomson a member of the Board of Education for the current term of three years.

Appointing Mayor Roy, Reeve Boyes, and Councillors J. M. Simpson, W. H. Dunbar and W. M. Howitt as members of the Court of Revision.

Striking the following interim appropriations: Streets, $3000.00; Fire and Water, $2,800.00; Printing, By-Laws and Parks, $1,000.00; Town Property, $1,500.00; Light and Social Welfare, (for light $2,000.00 and for social welfare $500.00), $2,500.00; Police and Market, $2,000.00; Contingent, $2,000.00.

Changing the names of some of the Standing Committees.

Appointing Messrs. W. P. McLaughlin and W. S. Wilson as Auditors, at a salary of $60.00 each.

Appointing Albert E. Cook as Sanitary Inspector at a salary of $100.00 per annum.

That the assessment made and taken in the year 1926 be the assessment upon which the rate shall be levied for the year 1927.

Appointing W. S. Herrington, K.C., as Town Solicitor at a salary of $100.00 per annum.

Councillor Dunbar called the attention of the Council to certain accounts that were being carried forward in the financial statement of the town from year to year as liabilities, and thought these items should be cleaned up at once.

Moved by Reeve Boyes, seconded by Councillor Kimmerly, that the Finance Committee go into the matter referred to by Councillor Dunbar, and that the Committee be given an appropriation of $100.00 in case that extra clerical work is necessary. Carried.

On motion Reeve Boyes and W. A. Grange, Town Clerk, were appointed a committee to go to Toronto and consult the Department of Highways re several matters in connection with our highways.

On motion the Council adjourned.

People Who Need Health Building

Should Enrich Their Blood By Using Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

There are conditions of health in which no particular organ appears to be at fault, yet the patient is miserable. Such a state means that the activities of daily life with vigor and enjoyment. The remedy needed is a medicine that will benefit the whole system rather than a part. The blood reaches every part of the body and an improvement in its quality is quickly followed by an improvement in the whole system. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills make a prompt and visible improvement in the blood, and bring new health and strength to ailing people. The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind is proved by the following statement: Mrs. W. F. Nash, R.R. No. 1, Bellamy, Ont., writing on behalf of her husband says: "For the past two summers my husband has taken Dr. Williams' Pink Pills with much success. He was in a weak condition, did not sleep well at night, tired all the time, with poor appetite. The result was he got very thin. He decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and by the time he had taken three boxes he was feeling and looking so much better that it was very noticeable that the pills were all they were recommended to be. We feel very grateful and advise the use of the pills in all cases of weakness."

These pills may be had from all dealers in medicine, or by mail, post paid, at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

One day I was taking a walk around an asylum and came across a fine-looking gentleman, so I said to him: "How do you come to be here?"

"Well," said he, "I married a woman and she had a grown-up daughter. My father used to visit her daughter so then she was my step-mother and my wife was my father's step-daughter. Then both had sons, and when I started to count up I saw at last I was my own grandfather. That is why I am here."

BRANT - BARNHART — On Wednesday, January 5th, 1927, at St. Mark's Church, Desoronto, by the Rev. Elwin Radcliffe, B.C.L., Mr. Hugh Brant, of Tyendinaga, to Miss Ethel Barnhart, of Tyendinaga.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of my dear Daddy, Gordon D. Storey, who passed away on January 6th, 1927.

Daddy is gone, but not forgotten,
And as dawn another year,
In my lonely hours of thinking,
Thoughts of him are always near.

Days of sadness still come o'er me,
Friends may ask I have forgotten
But they little know the sorrow
That lies concealed within my heart.

Sadly missed by Daughter Elizabeth. 2ap

Money in Blueberries.

The average profit from an acre of Maine blueberry land is said to be about $100, and as no fertilizer or cultivation is necessary these berries are a quick and profitable crop. This is one of Washington county's big industries. For instance, the whole section from Porcupine mountain to the east Machias line is practically all blueberry land. Several factories are devoted to the canning of the berries.

Birds Driven by Storms.

Certain instances of birds found singly far to the north of their usual range are possibly to be explained by the whirl of cyclonic storms. The wind, turning counter clockwise, blows off shore in the south and carries the bird out to sea. But, sooner or later, if the bird has the good fortune to last out the experience, the farther spin of the storm tends to bring him ashore again.

Increase of English.

In the year 1600 there were about six million persons who spoke English—a much smaller number than spoke French, German, Italian or Spanish. Today Englishspeaking people number about one hundred and twenty millions, or about double the aggregate of those who speak French, Italian or Spanish and half as many again as speak German or Russian.

A Clever Rescuer

By WALWORTH NIXON

(C, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Well, I've made my choice," announced Miss Lavinia Merton, aged forty, a cynical old maid from the confines of ages past to the flat side and low-heel footgear of a generation agone.

Three pairs of eyes viewed the speaker both eagerly and anxiously. They belonged to the grownup "children" of the Doane family—Estelle, Myra and Cyril. The two first named were married and settled in life, Cyril was single. They all lived in the old home the widowed mistress of which had died a year previous. It was then that at a family conclave an arrangement of co-operative companionship was agreed on. The two married couples and Cyril divided the budget of expense and sent for Aunt Lavinia to act as housekeeper.

She was neat, economical and active. Cleanliness was her hobby and orderliness her living principle. Half sister of Mrs. Doane, she assumed a certain guardianship over her grownup charges as if the care had been left to her as a heritage. Almost unconsciously nieces and husbands and nephew fell into a tacit obedience to the ways of the exacting and at times mandatory severe taskmaster. She had made herself a blessing to the disrupted household, however, and they held their peace when she demanded strict discipline as to meal hours and those of rising and retiring.

"Aunt Lavinia is good as gold," observed Estelle one day to her sister, "but it is really a relief to get a change of atmosphere during our month at the seashore."

"Yes, but she may wish to go with us," remarked Myra.

"I hope not," said Estelle, but then very next day Aunt Lavinia announced that she had decided to close up the house during July and spend the month with someone of the "three children." If she would be welcome.

"You are going to Portland beach, Estelle, and you to Royal Sands, Myra. Well, I don't like the strong sea air. You told me you were going to spend two weeks at Clear lake, Cyril. That just suits me. I'll keep you company."

The sisters were filled with secret joy. Cyril Doane looked dismayed. The charge of his old relative during his annual period of recreation was not at all welcome. Her constant presence would involve a decent silence to whims and wishes that would spoil his vacation. For a moment his face fell and his eyes were clouded. Then both a brave smile he conquered his real feelings. A realization of all the kindness and self-sacrifice of this sterling, worthy woman oppressed his soul.

"Aunt Lavinia," he said genially, "it shall feel it a proud honor to give you the time of your life. You deserve the best on earth and I shall endeavor myself to seeing that you get it."

"You delightful big boy!" exclaimed Miss Merton, with tears in her eyes. "No wonder I love you as if you were my own son!"

Cyril did not tell his relatives, but he had an object in selecting Clear lake as a vacation spot. The season before he had met there quite informally among a group a Miss Vera Blake. He had never before been so impressed and a regret that of her fair face had remained with him. He understood that she came to the lake annually and hoped the opportunity would materialize to renew the acquaintanceship.

Cyril was in it that Aunt Lavinia was surrounded by every comfort at the resort hotel. Miss Blake had not arrived, but Cyril found a congenial old with her mother during the week. His favorite recreation was canoeing. Aunt Lavinia accompanied him several times, and one afternoon had come as far as the beach and had placed in the canoe her umbrella and a shawl, when she said:

"I am so timid on the water in a storm, Cyril, and I think we are going to have one."

"Not before we have finished one trip," declared Cyril, but as a lady invariably set in her opinions Miss Doane returned to the hotel and Cyril started out alone.

Miss Lavinia's prediction came true to the letter. The storm broke, the rain fell, and Cyril was making a hasty dash for the shore when he noticed a canoe nearly half a mile off shore contending calmly with the rising elements of the tempest. He could make out a form floundering apparently in a whirling eddy. Then it capsized outright and the imperiled being, whoever she was, clung desperately to the overturned craft.

Cyril could make no progress against the baffling winds, but a quick suggestion came to him. He seized Aunt Lavinia's umbrella, outspread it, and with this unique sail was borne through the water straight toward the spot where the accident occurred.

There was a double glory of heroism and delight when he had lifted the victim of mishap from her dangerous position, for she was Miss Blake, the lady of his thoughts—the entrancing lady of his choice, as he decided before his delightful vacation had come to an end, for the unexpected episode of rescue made him precious and beloved in the eyes of the peerless Vera.

He kissed Aunt Lavinia with warmth and tenderness the day he became Vera Blake's fiance, and she thrilled and quivered when Cyril told her that last for her umbrella he might never have won his life's happiness.

NAPANEE BRANCH OF WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

About eighty members were present on Tuesday afternoon in the Agricultural Classroom. The committee in charge reported that a good Cabinet Gramophone has been purchased for use in the West Ward School. Final arrangements were made for the "Mother and Daughter" Banquet to be held in the Masonic Hall, on Thursday evening, January 20th. Miss Ethel Chapman comes as speaker of the evening, through the courtesy of the Department of Agriculture.

Mrs. Ella Wagar gave an unusually fine paper on Current Events, a resume of world happenings during the past three months.

A cake contest will be a feature of the next regular business meeting. Six cakes brought in by members and judged according to a schedule provided by the Institute's Branch of the Department.

The speaker of the afternoon was Miss Grange, B.A., of the N. C. I. staff, who gave a wonderfully interesting paper and talk on Canadian Authors. Beginning with the early productions of the U. E. Loyalists, of Howe, Haliburton, and the first novel "Wacousta" by Major John Richardson, "The Golden Dog" by Kirby, Sangster and Mair, and then to the ten writers born between 1860-1862, who are the outstanding poets and writers of Canadian literature. Readings from Dr. Drummond, Pauline Johnson, Gilbert Parker, Archibald Lampman, Bliss Carman, Chas. G. Roberts, D. E. Scott, and many others showed a marked versatility of style and subject.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Oray Lee.

On January 5th, 1927, there passed peacefully away at the home of her son, Byard Lee, Wilton, in her 88th year, a very highly respected lady in the person of Mrs. Oray Lee. She spent nearly all her life in and around Yarker. Her maiden name was Dorcas Freeman. She was married in 1862. They were both known by their sterling qualities and Christian character, being members of the Methodist Church for over sixty years. They had six children, five of them still living, George, on the homestead; Byard, at Wilton; Mrs. Edgar, Thompsonville; Mrs. W. M. Storms, now in Rochester; Mrs. Dan. Smith, Yarker, and Mrs. R. Curl, who passed away in March, 1925. The funeral was largely attended, and was held in Yarker United Church. The service was conducted by her Pastor, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, and Mr. Henderson, taking for his text the 19th verse of the 14th chapter of John.

OBITUARY

Mrs. John Albert Bell.

It is with sorrow that we report the death of Mrs. John Albert Bell, which took place at her home, on Tuesday evening, Dec. 28th, 1926, following a brief illness. She was the daughter of godly parents, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. L. Lloyd, who were devoted members of the Wesleyan Methodist Church. It was on July 9th, 1854, in North Fredericksburgh Township, that she was born into this Christian home, surrounded with the atmosphere of a living and vital religion in her parents' lives. It is not surprising that at the early age of 9 years, she experienced a new found joy in her own conversion and consecration to Jesus Christ as her Saviour, and in His service she continued with all diligence to add to her knowledge, virtue, grace and godliness.

In the year 1879 she was united in marriage to Mr. John Albert Bell. This proved to be a most happy union of two lives consecrated to their Saviour's service, and continued to strengthen through their varied experiences of 47 years of married life. In part perhaps this was due to the fact that during their courtship days, she by her Christian influence, won him to the Lord Jesus Christ. Thus one in heart, life and ideals, they walked the way of life most happily together. However, on Tuesday evening, December 28th, this happy bond was broken; our consolation is "She is not for God took her".

"Servant of God well done,
Thy glorious warfare's past.
The battle's fought, the race is won,
And thou art crowned at last."

From her earliest years she manifested a zealous desire to follow in the paths of righteousness and thus pressing on in this way developed a noble, pure and beautiful character, which eventually brought forth much fruit in strenuous and untiring labours for the church of her choice. For many years she has been an ardent supporter of Christian stewardship of her means, time and personality. This explains why she was always willing, not only to be a member of our Women's Missionary Society, Ladies' Aid, Sunday School add Class, but an energetic leader and worker in all our church enterprises. She was one to whom we could look in our problems for wise counsel and guidance. Her restless activity and youthfulness of spirit made us feel that she was younger than years would say. But now her voice is silent and her heart and hands are at rest. Is it possible for such a life to cease without it being most sadly missed? No. In her home her early influence counted greatly through all the years, as a true helpmate to her husband and loving mother to her children. Though not too robust in health, yet she maintained a spirit of cheerfulness that was an inspiration to her husband, children and grandchildren, who will remember her with loving hearts, for her devoted and unselfish life, her large-heartedness, and wise counsel.

The funeral service, conducted by her Pastor, was very largely attended, and was very fittingly held in the Brick Church, Morven, being the place of worship that her father helped to build over fifty years ago; also for the reason that ever since her childhood, it has been her church home, and very rarely was she absent from the Sunday School, Class, or public worship in this church when she was physically able to be present. Her regularity in attending and attentiveness to the preaching of the gospel has always been an inspiration to her Pastor.

She will be greatly missed, not only in her own home, but from our church and kindred societies, also from the circle of our neighbourhood, for we feel that every phase of our community life has been enriched by her life.

Of her immediate relatives, she leaves to mourn her loss, her husband, Mr. John Albert Bell, and one daughter, Mrs. Clarence Sharp, and her grandchildren; also two sisters, Mrs. Sam Bell and Mrs. M. N. Empey.

First Dolls.

The first dolls of which there is any knowledge were found among the treasures unearthed from the ruins of Babylon. They were small figures in terra cotta and ivory, beautifully carved and must have been fascinating playthings for little Assyrian children. The little girls of Syria had mechanical dolls. The dolls the elastic children played with were made of wax and clay, decorated with bright colors. As these children married very young, they played with their dolls until just before their wedding day.

Interesting Old Bible.

One of the original manuscripts of the Treacle Bible, living in the eighteenth century, had made notations on the fly leaf concerning "John, who was born on Friday the 10th of February, 1769, at a quarter after eight at night, was baptized at Crossgate church on March 16 following, by the Reverend Mr. Wheeler, who died of smallpox, 12th Aprile, 1769, and was buried the next day at Crossgate church, aged eight weeks and five days." Other deaths, marriages and births were dated as far back as 1701-1702.

Commonwealths and States.

Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Virginia and Kentucky are officially styled commonwealths, although there seems to be no particular reason except custom, as it has practically the same meaning as state. A commonwealth is a democratic form of government, such as that of each state of the Union, the four using the name commonwealth not differing from the others. As far back as 1636 the Massachusetts colony was spoken of as the commonwealth.

Legend of Origin of Flowers.

In Sussex, England, the lily of the valley is said to be a memorial of the battle St. Leonard fought with the dragon. The holy man encountered the monster in the forest and battled with it for three days. At last the saint was victorious though wounded seriously, and wherever his blood dripped upon the ground there sprang up lilies of the valley in profusion. In France the lily of the valley is said to have sprung from the Virgin's tears.

"Jack proposed to Dora last month while they were out motoring."

"Then how is it that their engagement is only just announced?"

"She couldn't accept him till they came out of hospital."

FOR SALE

A farm of exceptional reputation, being the old homestead farm of the late Mr. Zina Ham, and situate in the Township of South Fredericksburgh, known to be perhaps the choicest agricultural district in this or the surrounding countries. This farm is described in the deed as 155 acres, but a surveyor's measurement placed the acreage at 170. All work land of a very choice quality; exceptionally well drained, well watered and attractively laid out. Situate on this farm is a very fine brick residence with hardwood floors throughout, excellent cellar with perfect drainage and cement bottom, and a good furnace; also as good tenant house, good barns and stables, drive house, pig pen and hen house; also a windmill for watering stock and a new silo. Farm exceptionally clean and totally free of hemlock or wild mustard. In addition to the consumptions of a large family, this farm will give a return for the present season of considerably over $4000.00. The farm is situate within ¼ mile of the Hamburg Road, which is becoming almost equal in perfection to the Napanee and Kingston Highways, giving a splendid road to the lake, which is about 3 miles distant, and to the Lake Shore Road leading to Kingston, and Glenora, and also within seven miles of Napanee. This farm is extensively known throughout the district for its production of high grade seed grain, and the demand for this product has become about sufficient to consume the entire crop. This can be verified by a reference to the Agricultural Office at Napanee.

This farm is in excellent producing condition at present which can also be corroborated by a reference to the said Agricultural Office at Napanee, which office is exceptionally well in touch with this particular farm.

The farm is owned by the estate of the late W. G. Schell, whose recent death has caused it to be placed upon the market, and for the sake of quick sale will be sold on favourable terms.

For further particulars apply to T. B. GERMAN, Barrister, Napanee, Ont., or to the widow, MRS. W. G. SCHELL, on the premises. 53d

HOCKEY MATCH

On Tuesday, January 4th, a snappy hockey fixture was staged at the Napanee Arena. Deseronto High School and a group of Napanee boys furnished the fireworks for the evening, and it sure was interesting.

Deseronto presented a formidable team, although they lacked their goalkeeper, Brother Jim also did good work. Ward Wagar went right through the team and scored. While Bruce, coffee runs succeeded well with passing out in front of the net. "Hunk" Wilson played a good game and sure did get in some good work. Ward Huffman was sent on running some of the Deseronto team, but on the whole his game was exceedingly good. Tomkins, of Deseronto, kindly consented to don the pads for Napanee and made many pretty stops.

Only one penalty was issued during the game. You see what you are up against. Two men of strength and size take these games, and give tricks your support.

Fred Bentley, a man of hockey fame in the west coast, kindly consented to go out and linger the bell. Fred turned commentist upon the fairness of his decisions, and he certainly knew how to get the musical pull out of the dinner bell.

Lineup was as follows:—

Deseronto—McVicker, goal; Bruyea and Cole, defence; Whitton and Lyons, forwards; Dedur, centre; Hickson, McVicker and Green, subs.

Napanee—Bill Carr and Wagar, defence; Frank Wilson and Carr, forwards; Huffman, centre; Tomkins, goal; Cowle, sub.

W. C. Perry, of great repute on the Deseronto hockey team, has gone to Toronto to work. Perry expected to play regular defense on a team in that vicinity, but was not fast enough for that, and is now regular goal tender for his team.

Address and Presentation

On Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th, about sixty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert McFarland to spend a social evening with them before their departure for their new home, near Napanee. Dr. Stratton was called to read an address, and Mr. and Mrs. McFarland were presented with a pair of silver salad servers and a pyrex and silver casserole, and Kathleen with an ivory manicure set. Dr. Stratton, on behalf himself and Mrs. Stratton, presented Mr. McFarland with a lovely signet ring. The flowings are the address read:—

Dear Mr. and Mrs. McFarland and Daughter.—With the deepest regret we learn of your intention to leave our midst, and we felt we could not let you go away without gathering together to express how sorry we are that you are about to depart for a few years.

In the years that you have lived here you have been most kind and considerate neighbors and have made many friends among us. We have always found you to be sympathetic in times of trouble, and willing to lend a helping hand in time of need.

You will be greatly missed in this community, but while we are loath to bid you farewell, we feel that what is our loss will be your gain and neighbors' gain. As a token of our friendship and the esteem in which you are held in this place, we ask you to accept these gifts, along with our best wishes for your happiness in your new home.

Signed on behalf of your neighbors and friends,

FRED HENDERSON.
CHAS. HAWLEY.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsion of creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on into the blood, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial troubles, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

All good wishes go with the young couple.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Tiger Wife—"No, George, dear, I shan't want any clothes this spring."

George—"Ye gods! I was afraid it would come to that!".

The most obstinate corns fail to resist Holloway's Corn Remover. Try it.

In these days we don't worry much whether we love our neighbors or not; the main thing is to keep up with them.

All mothers can put away anxiety regarding their suffering children when they have Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator to give relief. Its effects are sure and lasting.

Willie—"They say that when you drop a spoon, a lady comes, and when you drop a knife a man comes. Now, I wonder what comes after you drop a plate?"

Wally—"Oh, that's easy—a lickin'!"

Relief From Asthma. Who can describe the complete relief from suffering which follows the use of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy? Who can express the feeling of joy that comes when its soft and gentle influence relieves the tightened, choking air tubes? It has made asthma a affliction a thing of the past for thousands. It never fails. Good druggists everywhere have sold it for years.

Betty (aged seven): Our family is awfully exclusive. Is yours?"

Bessie (aged eight)—"No, indeed. We haven't anything to be ashamed of."

Its Quality Sells It.—The fact that so many thousands of intelligent people continue to use Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil speaks volumes for its lasting efficiency. Ever since it was first introduced it has grown steadily in public favor, owing entirely to its wonderful usefulness in relieving and healing sickness. As a specific for cuts, burns, scalds, and various inflammatory pains its record is beyond reproach.

"Did that patent medicine you bought cure your aunt?"

"Mercy, no! On reading the circular that was wrapped around the bottle she got two more diseases."

Nice and Polite and Modest.

A minister was recounting some of his amusing experiences in marrying people. "There's an old custom," said he, "that the bridegroom shall kiss the bride immediately after the marriage ceremony is over. It's a good, practical custom, for it serves more handily than anything else that I know of to dissipate the awkward pause that almost always follows a simple, informal ceremony. For this reason I keep the custom alive.

"One day a maff whom I shall call Blank came to the parsonage to be married. Mr. Blank was a pompous, consequential little man. The prospective Mrs. Blank was a fine, winsome girl. After the ceremony Mr. Blank in spite of his pomposity, did not seem to know just what was the next thing to do, so, as in my practice in such emergencies, I said, 'My dear sir, it is your privilege to salute the bride.' He turned around and, extending his hand formally said, 'Mrs. Blank, I congratulate you'."

The motorist walked into the local accessories shop.

"I want something funny and grotesque," he said, "for a mascot on the bonnet of my car."

"Father!" cried the girl in charge, "you're wanted!"

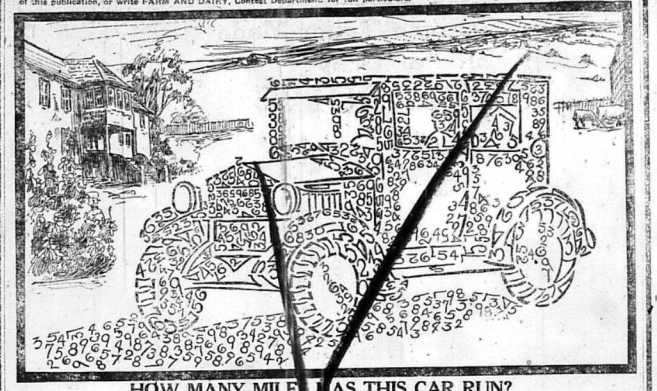
IT WON'T COST YOU ANYTHING TO TRY

FARM AND DAIRY, the well-known agricultural paper, offers over 100 prizes worth $3,135, including a Chrysler Four Sedan and a Ford touring car, for correct solutions. For the full prize list and rules see the large announcement which appeared in a recent issue of this publication, or write FARM AND DAIRY, Contest Department, for full particulars.



HOW MANY MILES WAS THIS CAR RUN?

The problem is to find the sum total of the figures, which, when added together, represent the total number of miles the automobile has run. Every figure is complete and the drawing is entirely free from tricks and illusions, but like a lot of other things, it is not as easy as it looks. The figures range from two to nine, each standing alone, thus two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight and nine. There are no ones or eights in the chart. The tops of the sixes are curved and open, while the bottoms of the nines are straight and closed, which requires both patience and skill. This is one of the most attractive picture puzzles that has ever been produced, and it would be worth while to solve it even though no prizes were offered. In the event that no one obtains the exact answer, the prize will be awarded for the nearest correct solution. Accuracy and patience are the main factors for arriving at the correct or nearest correct count. These will display in any part of the picture except those which form the automobile and shadow underneath. No have to be clearly understood that the figures are not figures

Keep Little Ones Well In Winter

By Regulating the Stomach and Bowels With Baby's Own Tablets.

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are changeable—bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take the children out for fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or grippe. What is needed to keep the little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels, drive out colds, and through their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety.

In using Baby's Own Tablets the mother has an absolute guarantee which is giving her precious little ones something that is absolutely safe and something that cannot possibly do harm to even the newborn babe as the Tablets contain not one particle of opiates or other dangerous drug. They are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box, by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GLENVALE

Rogers, when Mrs. Jeffrey and Mrs. McCracken will provide refreshments. — Prayer meeting on Tuesday and Wednesday evenings will be held in the United Church.—The young people intend holding a meeting on Friday night for the purpose of re-organizing. — The recent snow storm has made the roads bad for car driving.—Miss Hazel Le Ellerbeck has returned home, after spending her holidays in the city. —Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey and Miss Reta spent Sunday last with their daughter, Mrs. Cameron, in the city. —Sewing wood is the order of the day.—Mr. C. Campsall is spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. C. Cramer.—Mr. and Mrs. Rogers called on Mr. and Mrs. Cramer on Tuesday. —Mr. Geo. Maloney has purchased a sale of new milch cows on the 11th.

"I was not always in this condition," said the burly miners' agent. "When I first opened my eyes upon this disinherent world our financial cumstances were far better than they are now. Time was when I was accustomed to pass this spot in my own carriage, and my mother—bless her memory!

"Used to push it!" came a voice from the back of the crowd.

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to promptly relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They act thoroughly and painlessly and though in some cases they may cause vomiting, that is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

In spite of the inclement weather, and bad roads, twenty-eight members and visitors assembled on Tuesday, January 4th, at the home of Mrs. Andrew Miller, for the regular meeting of the Ernesttown Women's Institute. The usual programme was followed, members responding to the roll-call by giving a favorite recipe.

Mrs. Wiseman, as a member of the Sick Committee, extended thanks to all the ladies for Mrs. John Kilpatrick, for basket received at Christmas and for Mrs. Winslo Thompson for flowers sent during her recent illness. Mrs. Thompson also showed her gratefulness by a very nice letter.

This month we also did some appreciated community work by sending a basket and bale of clothing to a needy family. Following this was a discussion of new business matters to be the entitlement of seven new members. The programme consisted of (1) a very concise and thorough account of the current events prepared by Mrs. Priest, and (2) a very helpful and suggestive paper given by Mrs. Ed. Smith, on the "New Year". These items were enjoyed by one and all.

The afternoon was brought to a happy ending by the serving of lunch over our tea cups. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Leo Crowe, on Tuesday, Feb. 1st, each member being asked to answer to the roll by relating "the funniest scrape in which she ever saw anyone."

HOW HONEY MAY BE USED

(Experimental Farms Note.)

Honey sweetens life in many ways. This is apparent when we see the various uses to which it is put. Formerly it was used mainly as a spread on bread, but to-day there are a great number of other ways of using it to very one's menu. Though it is the best way to serve honey is in its natural or raw form in desserts, as a sweetener, it is used to a large extent in cookery both in the baking of cakes and making of bread to which it imparts the property of keeping fresh for a long time—this is a point which all good housekeepers should note.

Besides this it is used in the making of candies, both as a centre which is chocolate coated and as an ingredient in the many other kinds of sweets, for which recipes are to be found in all good cook books.

A very appetizing new spread is now manufactured by incorporating honey with peanut butter to make what is called "Honey-nut Butter".

Apart from entering directly into table use, it is used to make most excellent vinegar, said by many to be equal to the best produced.

The motorist too may sweeten his temper by the use of it as an anti-freeze. It has been found that equal parts of honey, water and alcohol make a mixture that has proved very satisfactory to some who have taken the proper precautions to see that all gaskets and connections are tight, so that no leakage can occur, for places where water cannot pass through honey mixture will.

We can realize the value of honey as a natural food when we see some of the large breakfast food manufacturers now advertising on all packages of cereals put out by them the use of it as a sweetener.

Stop the Cough. — Coughing is caused by irritation in the respiratory passages and is the effort to dislodge obstructions that come from inflammation of the mucous membrane. Treatment with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will allay the inflammation and in consequence the cough will usually stop. Try it and you will be satisfied.

MEN THAT BLAZED THE TRAIL

God has filled the born of plenty
In this land of golden wheat;
From Atlantic, toward the sunset,
There the Pacific's waves to meet.
A link of that mighty Empire,
Where the Anglo Saxon race
Doth guard its earthly Eden
From talatem, ice and base.

Old Ontario is the oasis,
To her praise our voices ring,
'Twas here the U. E. Loyalists
Swore fealty to their King.
And in the primeval forest,
The sound of ringing steel,
Was heard their lips and growled.

Be sturdy ox, old Buck and Bright,
Bitched to a crotchen tree,
They understood the welcome whoa
And also haw and gee.
This home-made drag with iron spikes
Driven through this oblique frame,
Allowed it to give between the stumps
They got their seed in just the same.

Midst their trials and hardship
Equity and justice was their rule;
Honest as the school-master,
Who taught the rural school.
The boys and girls were clothing
Made of wool their mothers spun,
And apple-cuts and dances
Was a special time for fun.

They were primitive in their ideas,
And original in every sense.
When they counted their money
'Twas in pounds, shillings and pence.
They reared God-fearing children,
Kept holy the Sabbath day,
Established a family altar,
And each morn would kneel and pray.

Along the shores of Quinte
Sleep the hardy pioneer,
Let us not forget their struggle,
Rather pause and drop a tear.
And those who ride in autos,
At their doors receive their mail,
Just remember the U. E. Loyalists,
The men that blazed the trail.

Is Your Child Thin and Weak?

Cod Liver Extract In Sugar Coated Tablets Puts On Flesh and Builds Them Up

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamt of—these wonderful little tablets, flesh creating tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets will start to help any thin, underweight little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable.

Most people know that from the livers of the lowly codfish vitamines of the first class are extracted—the kind that help all feeble underweight men, women and children.

Try these wonderful tablets for 30 days and if your frail, puny child don't greatly benefit — get your money back.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Ask any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—as easy to take as candy, and 60 tablets, 60 cents.

"I believe I'm in luck this time. My new maid's a treasure—clean, energetic, economical and capable."

"How long have you had her?"

"She's coming in to-morrow."

"A woman will face death without batting an eye and even at the sight of a mouse," said Professor Pate. "The only time she will do what you expect her to do is when you expect her to do what you do not expect her to do. The only man who understands that a woman is he who understands that he does not understand her, and lets her—

"Shirley was so surprised to hear my voice!"

"You know, I have read a good deal about Long Distance service, so this afternoon I called my married daughter.

"Do you mean Shirley who moved to Morrisville, last spring?"

"Yes, and do you know I could hear her voice distinctly as I heard Shirley's. She was so surprised and delighted that she wanted me to call her every week."

Constant improvement in telephone equipment and service has virtually abolished distance. Every day friends in cities hundreds of miles apart, are re-united by the modern magic—Long Distance Telephone.

Have you ever visited a distant friend by telephone? If not, why not give someone a pleasant surprise.

Sharp Pains in the Joints and Rheumatism

Relieved By Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ontario Lady Speaks Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Diamond Dinner Pills.

Kingston, Ont., (Special)—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for rheumatism for more than a year," states Mrs. W. G. Cockade, who resides at 306 Brock St. "I know they have relieved me wonderfully from sharp pains that used to shoot through my joints. I do feel lots better. I have also used your Diamond Dinner Pills and have found them very good."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They act directly on the kidneys, strengthening them and putting them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada for more than thirty years. They demonstrate their worth in the most serious forms of kidney disease, such as rheumatism, dropsy, diabetes, neuralgia and sciatica.

"How is it I didn't see you at the charity meeting last night?"

Keep Little Ones Well In Winter

By Regulating the Stomach and Bowels With Baby's Own Tablets.

Winter is a dangerous season for the little ones. The days are changeable—one bright, the next cold and stormy, that the mother is afraid to take baby out for the fresh air and exercise they need so much. In consequence they are often cooped up in overheated, badly ventilated rooms and are soon seized with colds or stomach and bowel troubles. The little ones well is Baby's Own Tablets. They will regulate the stomach and bowels and drive out colds, and through their use the baby will be able to get over the winter season in perfect safety.

In using Baby's Own Tablets the mother has an absolute guarantee that she is giving her precious little ones something that is absolutely safe and harmless, and one that can safely do harm to even the newborn babe as the Tablets contain not one particle of opiates or other dangerous drug. They are sold by medicine dealers or at 25 cents a box, by mail from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"I was not always in this condition," said the burly miners' agent. "When I first opened my eyes upon this dishonest world our family circumstances were far better than they are at present, and I was always customed to pass this spot in my own carriage, and my mother—bless her soul!—"

"Used to push it!" came a voice from the back of the crowd.

Miller's Worm Powders were devised to promptly relieve children who suffer from the ravages of worms. It is a simple preparation to destroy stomachic and intestinal worms without shock or injury to the most sensitive system. They act thoroughly and painlessly, and though in some cases they may cause vomiting, that is an indication of their powerful action and not of any nauseating property.

Besides this it is used in the making of candies, both as a centre which is chocolate coated and as an ingredient in the many other kinds of sweets, for which recipes are to be found in all good cook books.

A very appetizing new spread is now manufactured by incorporating honey with peanut butter to make what is called "Honey-nut Butter."

Apart from entering directly into table use, it is used to make most excellent vinegar, said by many to be equal to the best produced.

The notorist too may sweeten his temper by the use of it as an antifreeze. It has been found that equal parts of honey, water and alcohol make a mixture that has proved very satisfactory to some who have taken the proper precautions to see that all gaskets and connections are tight, so that no leakage can occur, for places where water cannot pass through honey mixture will.

We can realize the value of honey as a natural food when we see some of the large breakfast food manufacturers now advocating on all packages of cereals put out by them the use of it as a sweetener.

Stop the Cough. — Coughing is caused by irritation in the respiratory passages and is the effort to dislodge obstructions that come from inflammation of the mucous membrane. Treatment with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will allay the inflammation and in consequence the cough will usually stop. Try it and you will be satisfied.

Sharp Pains in the Joints and Rheumatism

Relieved By Using Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ontario Lady Speaks Highly of Dodd's Kidney Pills and Diamond Dinner Pills.

Kingston, Ont., (Special)—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for rheumatism for more than a year," states Mrs. W. G. Cockade, who resides at 306 Brock St. "I know they have relieved me wonderfully from sharp pains that used to shoot through my joints. I do feel lote better. I have also used your Diamond Dinner Pills and have found them very good."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They act directly on the kidneys, strengthening them and putting them in condition to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills have been in use in Canada for more than thirty years. They demonstrate their worth in the most serious forms of kidney disease, such as rheumatism, dropsy, diabetes, neuralgia and sciatica.

"How is it I didn't see you at the charity meeting last night?"

"It was I who came round with the plate."

"IN THE PUBLIC EYE"

By Dr. Leslie Lewis, R.O.

PROTECT YOUR FAMILY'S VISION

If your child in school is not progressing properly with his studies the chances are that his eyes should be examined for possible eye defects that can be remedied by wearing glasses. If you no longer enjoy reading your daily paper and your distance sense is also slightly impaired, you should at once have a competent optometrist examine into the cause and prescribe the glasses that will restore your vision.

20 MINUTES

Twenty minutes after taking Cascarets, you'll feel better. Twenty hours after taking your bad liver will be working right.

Cascarets are little tablets—not reliable as soda—not as nasty as salts—not as drastic as calomel—but they act on the liver in a way that relieves constipation, biliousness, sick headache, sour stomach and bad breath in a few minutes.

Don't let your druggist sell you something "just as good" because it pays him better. Cascarets are worth more than their price because they work while you sleep. Get a box from your druggist now and for months to come have the cheerful liver, bright eyes, active brain and good digestion that only a well-regulated liver can give. 10, 25, 50 cents per box.

No Headache

"Dick proposed to Dora last month and they were out nothing."

"Then how is it that the engagement is only just announced?"

"She couldn't accept him till they came out of hospital."

Is Your Child Thin and Weak?

Cod Liver Extract In Sugar Coated Tablets Puts On Flesh and Builds Them Up

In just a few days—quicker than you ever dreamt of—these wonderful health building, flesh creating tablets called McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets will start to help any thin, underweight little one.

After sickness and where rickets are suspected they are especially valuable.

Most people know that from the livers of the lowly codfish vitamines of the first class are extracted—the kind that help all feeble underweights men, women and children.

Try these wonderful tablets for 20 days and if your frail, puny child don't greatly benefit — get your money back.

A very sickly child, age 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

Ask any druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—as easy to take as candy, and 60 tablets, 60 cents.

"I believe I'm in luck this time. My new maid's a treasure, clean, energetic, economical and capable."

"How long have you had her?"

"She's coming in to-morrow."

"A woman will face death without batting an eye and swoon at the sight of a mouse," said Professor Pate. "The only time she will do what you expect her to do is when you expect her to do what you do not expect her to do. The only man who understands a woman is he who understands that he does not understand her, and lets her—

"Shirley was so surprised to hear my voice!"

"You know, I have read a good deal about Long Distance service, and this afternoon I called my married daughter.

"Do you mean Shirley who moved to Moss Mills, last spring?"

"Yes, and do you know I could hear her voice quite distinctly as if she were in our city. Shirley was so surprised and delighted that she wanted me to call her every week."

Constant improvement in telephone equipment and service has virtually abolished distance. Even city friend in cities hundreds of miles apart, are re-united by the modern magic—Long Distance.

Have you ever visited a distant friend by telephone? If not, why not give someone a pleasant surprise.

CONWAY WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The January meeting of the Conway Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. John Young.

After the usual business was completed, the members discussed having a demonstrator to demonstrate "dress-making" some time during the winter months. Everyone was very much in favour of the idea, and so we will expect a demonstrator in our midst soon. Roll call was responded to by a fair percentage of members. Each member, when acknowledging her name on the roll call, will be asked from now on, to give a suitable verse or maxim, unless they prefer to pay a small fine.

Dr. H. S. Northmore very kindly gave us a very instructive address on "Goitre". Many interesting things as to the symptoms, etc., were heard, and fully appreciated. Community singing was indulged in for a time. One of our members then suggested that our Institute should distribute suitable material for use in readers of first aid treatment, amongst two or three of the members who are nurses to be on hand whenever needed. This very worthy idea will be more fully discussed at the next meeting.

A very dainty lunch was served, and every one seemed to agree that they had spent a very pleasant afternoon.

BASKETBALL

On Friday, January 7th, the Old Boys of N. C. I. challenged the present Basketball team to a game. The challenge was accepted and a battle royal was staged at 4.30 p.m. From the tossup the lightning start of the Old Boys confused the present team, and they were barely moving when Claude McDonald, the star of last year's N.C.I. team, dropped in the first basket. Earl Gerrett, in centre for the Old Boys, got the jump on N. C. I. centre every toss-up and contributed his bit to the victory of the Old Boys. Wally Perry, of the Old Boys, aired his Queenly coloreen in the N. C. I. gymn, and sure did live up to his basketball reputation. Bill and Jim Carr, now of Upper Canada College, members of last year's N.C.I. team, fitted in well with McDonald and Perry, and their combination was excellent.

Billard, of N.C.I., starred for that team, and he showed excellent shooting ability. His combination with Conway accounted quite a few baskets for N.C.I. Gibbard, on defense, did good work and accorded a good exhibition of passing and shooting with the other defense, Corkill. Way, in centre, was outjumped every time, which placed N.C.I. at quite a disadvantage. As this game was just arranged for in the morning of Friday, it was with deep regret that the public could not witness this snappy exhibition of court warfare.

Following was the line-up:

Old Boys—Karl Garrett, centre; Claude McDonald, foreward; Wally Perry, foreward; Bill Carr, defense; Jim Carr, defense.

N.C.I.—Eddie Way, centre; Fred Ballard, foreward; Durwood Conway, foreward; Ernest Gibbard, defense; Malcolm Corkill, defense; Walford Wick, Donald Wright, subs.

The resulting score was 32-22, for the Old Boys.

WEDDING BELLS

Wyatt—Rawlinson

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Rawlinson, formerly of Adolphustown, now residing at Melita, Manitoba, was the scene of a very quiet but pretty wedding, on Wednesday evening, Dec. 15th, 1926, at 6 o'clock when Rev. J. P. Floyd joined in wedlock their eldest daughter, Lillian Deborah, to Thomas S., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wyatt.

The bride entered the parlor on the arm of her father, where the groom awaited her under an arch of ferns, wedding bells and roses. The bride was charmingly gowned in Venetian blue satin, with sand and gold trimmings. She wore a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a sheaf of carnations and fern. She was attended by her sister, May, and Bessie, sister of the groom.

After the ceremony, a reception for about forty guests was held. The bride's table was decorated with streamers reaching from wedding bells in the ceiling to each corner of the table, and was centred with the bride's cake.

After dinner the bride slipped away and donned a beautiful gown of cerise flannel. She received many useful and beautiful gifts. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful fur-trimmed coat. The happy couple will reside in the West Brenda district. Among the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Wyatt join in wishing them happiness and success.

Following the ceremony Rev. M. P. Floyd officated in the baptismal rites for Leslie and Elsie Rawlinson and Jackie O'Brien.

In honor of the bride-elect a shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rawlinson, on December 10th. A number of friends of their daughter were present, and at the request of Mrs. Fred Morris, Mr. Rawlinson was asked to saw the basket of gifts to the centre of the room, and the gifts were handed to Miss Lillian, following which the groom, Mr. Thomas Hyatt, extended the hearty thanks on behalf of Miss Rawlinson and himself. Lunch was served later and a very pleasant evening was spent.—The New Era, Melita, Manitoba.

DORLAND

A number from here attended the Tennyson Club meeting at Mrs. H. M. Hough's last Tuesday evening. These meetings are proving very interesting. This week the club will be entertained by Mrs. Ross Vandyck. — On Thursday evening a cottage prayer meeting was held at the home of Mr. J. B. Allison. — On Friday evening the Y.P.S. were guests of the Union Society. One item of the programme was a debate between the two societies: "Resolved, That the Public School Curriculum Tends to Induce the Pupils to Stay on the Farm." Mr. A. M. Bogart and Miss Geneva Roblin spoke for the affirmative, and Misses N. Galt and W. Haight for the negative. Both sides presented strong arguments, but the negative won by one point. — The young people from Hayburn are presenting their comedy, "Jumbo Jim," in the school room of the church on Friday, Jany 28th. An amusing evening is anticipated.—A bee was held on Monday hauling pressed hay to Picton for Mrs. Baldwin.

BETHANY

Well, we had our January thaw. The cars were having a struggle to get through, but will be able to go more easily until more snow comes. — The Quarterly Board meeting was held at the church on Tuesday afternoon, quite a number attending. — Mrs. A. Dempsey has been quite ill, and we are glad to report that she is better and hope to see her around again soon.—Mrs. Victor Martin returned home on Sunday, after spending a week with her sister at Gleneira.—A large number attended the social evening given by the Ladies' Aid at Mrs. W. Miller's on Monday evening. — Roy Stonbaugh and James Clark each have had the misfortune to lose a cow last week. — Nearly everyone has their wood up and are waiting for a saw to cut it. — Mr. and Mrs. Mac Conger, Desoronto Road, visited at Mr. W. Conger's on Tuesday. — Mr. and Mrs. A. Amey entertained a number of friends on Tuesday evening.

CAMDEN EAST

The recent thaw has prevented ice cutting for a time, and has also made travelling difficult. Mr. Arthur Hinch left on Thursday for Toronto, thence to Cochrane, Ont., where he has secured a position working on the construction of a pulp and paper mill. — Mr. George Smedley is erecting a bridge across the river on his farm, east of the village. — Mr. H. Knapp and daughter, of Kingston, spent over Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Switzer. — Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Amey spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Ira Black. Tuesday. Mrs. S. Brien is still very ill in Kingston General Hospital. — The play given in the Parish Hall on January 14th was well attended.—The L. O. L. F. held their January meeting on the 13th, and installed the same officers for 1927.

SANDHURST

Mrs. Holden Robinson was hostess to the members of S. Paul's Church of the Women's Auxiliary last Wednesday afternoon. Owing to the absence of the President, Mrs. Young, the Vice President, Mrs. F. Sills, took charge of the meeting, at which three new members were enrolled. Plans were made for a Valentine Social to be held in the Parish Hall on St. Valentine's Day, after which the Rector gave a brief address on "Our Church at Work," and organized a Study Class for Missions. After the meeting, Mrs. Robinson served dainty refreshments. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. George Ham.

ODESSA

On Tuesday evening last the programme given in the United Church under the auspices of the W. M. S., was much enjoyed by the large audience gathered to hear the fine talent from Cooke's and Princess Street United Churches, with Mr. and Mrs. Beits and Mrs. Jerome. Mr. George Smith came along as chairman, and his homely talk in verse always makes him a much desired and popular chairman. A warm welcome awaits these artists every time in the future they come out to entertain us. The ladies became very popular with them when they provided a delicious chicken supper after the concert for the performers.

DEATH OF R. H. WHYTE OF ST. LOUIS

St. Louis, Mo., Dec. 17.—One of St. Louis' best known men passed away last Tuesday, R. H. Whyte, Vice President of the St. Louis Distributing Company, died, as it were, with his boots on, as every one who knew him would expect him to die, being stricken while driving to the freight yards to inspect a car on Monday afternoon. The cause of the death was attributed to a cerebral hemorrhage and he never regained consciousness after the stroke. He was immediately rushed to a physician's office and then taken to his home in Webster Groves, a suburb of St. Louis. Later in the day he was removed to St. Luke's hospital, and it was there the end came, about 24 hours after he had suffered the stroke.

Mr. Whyte was born in Napanee, Ontario, and was 57 years of age, his entire life having been devoted to the produce business. He was an even-tempered and mild-mannered man who had many friends and was well liked by all with whom he came in contact; both shippers and men represented here as well as his competitors along the street, and his passing will be deeply felt in the entire produce trade.

Mr. Whyte leaves a widow and two sisters, both of whom reside in Canada, and who came here to attend the funeral which was held Thursday afternoon. A representative body of men from the street also attended the funeral as well as members of the Masonic Lodge, of which he was a member.

The two sisters who survive are Mrs. W. A. Martin, Corbyville, and Mrs. James McFarlane, Jr., Odessa.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The sermon subject for next Sunday is "A Witnessing Church." A committee of our enterprising Tamworth W. M. S. met at the home of Miss Hattie Reid, and made plans for an afternoon and evening program on St. Valentine's Day; also to serve a roundrum supper.

A series of dinners are being served each month by the W. M. S. of Reidville. The last one was served at the home of Mrs. Highland, Sr., and was largely enjoyed by all present.

The Dane sleigh dog, "Buster" who some time before Christmas strayed from the Parsonage, was located by his owner at a home near Centreville and was doing such splendid service hauling a crippled boy to and from school, that he was permitted to "carry on" for the winter.

The Minister spent Tuesday afternoon of this week attending a Presbytery meeting in St. Andrew's Church, Napanee.

The Tamworth Mission Band had a sleigh ride party Thursday evening of last week, followed by games and refreshments at the R. E. Building, at which they reported the best time ever, and incidently increased the funds in their treasury by $11.00. Mrs. Dale Donovan is their leader.

CROYDON

Cold weather still prevails in this district, and getting up wood is the order of the day.—Mr. and Mrs. B. Close spent Friday in Camden East. —Miss Agnes Nolan has returned home, after spending a few days with her sister, Mrs. Pat. Dwyre. — Mr. Bill Doupe had the misfortune to break the runner of his cutter on Saturday evening. — Mr. Harold Hughes spent Sunday evening in West Plain.—Mrs. Alex. Hart and Elsie spent Thursday at Mr. Ed. Hart's.—Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Ed. Hart on the arrival of a new baby girl.—Mr. John and Elmer Beth Nolan spent Sunday afternoon at Alex. Hart's.—Mr. H. Wilson is spending a few weeks in the United States.—The Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. Jas. McGregor on Wednesday evening last, with a good crowd in attendance.—Mr. Jas. Johnson made a flying trip to Napanee Croydon on Sunday afternoon.—Mr. Arnie Davis spent Sunday evening at Mr. Stan Doupe's. — Mr. Henry Lacey spent Sunday evening at Mr. Tom Dewey's. — Mr. James Hughes spent the week end under the parental roof.

VESTRY MEETING ST. JOHN'S. BATH 1787—1927

The annual Vestry meeting of St. John's Church, Bath, was held in the Parish Hall, on Wednesday evening, January 12th, 1927. There was a good attendance. The Rector, Rev. W. G. Swayze, presided. Mr. C. E. Coppage, Secretary Treasurer, presented the financial reports which showed all the funds to be in a healthy condition, having a comfortable balance in each department after all liabilities were paid.

Well merited satisfaction was expressed that the new church was completed and entirely free from debt. The total cost was $11,600.07. (This does not include the gifts of seven memorial stained glass windows, a beautiful altar rail, and choir frontal). This was a record achievement in church building, accompanied by voluntary cash contributions, in eight months, from April 4th to December 4th, when it was opened and consecrated, and reflects great credit on the Rector, his Wardens and Building Committee.

The Parish Guild, as usual, rendered very considerable financial aid to the Wardens with current expenses. The W. A. faithfully met all their obligations. The S. S. is steadily forging ahead in numbers, regularity and efficiency. The recently revised Church Constitution is of reference to the services. At his recent visit to the Parish, His Lordship, Bishop Seager, confirmed twenty-seven candidates, more than half of them were adults.

The officers for the year were Mr. C. M. Loyst, People's Warden; Mr. A. G. Miller, Rector's Warden; Dr. H. S. N'orthmore, Lay Representative to Synod, and Mr. G. W. Cuppage, Synodsman, Alternate.

The Rector reminded the Vestry of the deplorable condition of the old cemetery and urged that steps be taken to put it in such seemly condition that "permanent care" may be possible. The was heartily and unanimously concurred in, and a committee, Dr. H. S. Northmore, Churchwardens, Mr. W. G. Cuppage, and the Rector, was appointed to supervise the work and to solicit aid from the relatives and friends and all interested parties. It is to be hoped responses will be made immediately that the work may be begun in the spring-time.

Votes of thanks and appreciation were tendered the various officers and oranizations and the meeting closed with the Benediction.

"BIMBO"

The Musical Comedy, "Bimbo", given under the auspices of "B" Co., Frontenac Regiment, and under the direction of Miss Kathryn Larkin, proved to be a great success, and was thoroughly enjoyed by the large audiences which filled the Armouries on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

The scene of the play was laid in "Bimbo", in the Hawaiian Islands, and the principal character, a moving picture gentleman, who was mistaken for the new Governor. This part was admirably portrayed by Mr. Dewey Pond, who showed remarkable talent, as did also the military gentleman, Mr. Joseph Marshall, in charge of the armies of Bimbo. Mr. Donald Scott made a splendid Englishman, and was amusing throughout the evening. The native Princess, as played by Miss Irene Embury, was very attractive, and Miss Marjorie Hayek and Miss Mildred Pond rendered very sweetly during the performance. Pretty Miss Mary McGrath made an ideal sweetheart for Mr. Reginald Wiseman, and their two voices blended beautifully in duet. Miss Mcfarlane, as Aunt Portia, the butterfly collector, and delighted the audience with her flying adventures in Bimbo. Mr. Marshall also sang a very excellent solo with a fine baritone voice.

The specialty numbers were very attractive, and special mention should be given to Miss Winnifred Perry, who made a very lovely moth among the little dancing flames, in her dance, which was most gracefully executed. The wee dancers were most daintily enticed. Miss Ruth Vandaltine brought down the house with her exhibition of Charleston dancing, and little Katherine Savage was a dainty and accomplished toe-dancer. The Hawaiian number was danced by Miss May Smith, and was given the real atmosphere by the splendid dances which accompanied it most efficiently.

All the specialties were made doubly attractive by the splendid work of the various choruses, which sang and danced respectively. The final touch of merriment was added by Mr. Grant Paul, who always makes the audience laugh and never laugh without having very much to say. The Bimbo Army was splendid, and the Orchestra an added attraction. The accompanists, Miss Beatrice Baughan and Miss Edith Johnston were a great support throughout the evening.

A dance was given after the play last evening, and a number of people stayed to enjoy the music and dancing.

ENTERPRISE

The monthly meeting of the Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. C. Clancy, on Friday, Dec. 31st. An interesting programme was given, consisting of a vocal duet, "your favorite poem", was heartily responded to, many favorite verses and interesting paragraphs being given. A paper entitled "New Years Resolutions", was read by Mrs. Stanley Bell. Among the many resolutions given perhaps the most important were "Let us live a little closer into the lives of others". "To be courteous to all", the quotation being given, "courtesy is like an air cushion there may be nothing in it, but it eases a jolt wonderfully". And that we will not live in a world of jealousy watching for something in others actions to take offence". "That in making a statement we will be very careful to have the facts of the case correct", let's spend a little more time this year over the study of our Bible, "Search the Scriptures" that we will make of ourselves the very best that we can".

The "Current events" prepared by Mrs. J. McGregor, was much enjoyed by all.

It was decided to invite the Young People's Dramatic Club of Marlbank to give their play, entitled "The Doctor Entangled", in the Community Hall, at Enterprise, on Monday, Jan. 24th, proceeds to be with her for keeping up the street lights.

A lunch was served, and the meeting closed in the usual manner, all agreeing that they had spent a very pleasant afternoon.

The following is a brief history of the old Presbyterian Church, which was recently purchased by Sir Alan Aylesworth and given to the village: The frame church, which stood on the north side of Homer street, and in which the Episcopal Methodists worshipped, was burned down in 1863. In November of that year Sylvester Madden, who owned and operated a Carding mill, standing where the Orange Hall now stands, conveyed the deed to Bowen Aylesworth, Hiram Casey, Reuben Clark, John Pomeroy and James Wells, Benjamin Files and Jane A. Casey being witnesses to the deed, as the premises at the corner of Main and Factory streets, where a church now stands. The said Aylesworth, Casey, Clark, Pomeroy and Wells were trustees for the Methodist Episcopal congregation. Benjamin Files was one of the two first settlers in this village. He, out of the generosity of his heart, also gave to Bowen Aylesworth,—the eldest son of Josh Aylesworth, another pioneer of Newburgh,—aided by Reuben Clark, (known to the boys of that day as "Norse Trophy"), both being carpenters, shingled the new church. Hiram and Jane Casey were the parents of a boy that learned to drive a buggy, to give to a baseball such a "mighty swipe" that afterward he won fame immortality of being emblazoned in a popular song, "Casey at the Bat."

In the new church for some seventeen years the Episcopal Methodists and Presbyterians, Walter Briscoe leading the singing. After the union of the Methodist bodies, this Church became the property of the Presbyterians, in the early eighties, Dr. Hanna Duff being one of the trustees. Our Village Clerk, Mr. Chas. Wellanks, stated that he first came to Newburgh in January, 1865, when he began to attend Newburgh Academy as a student. The Church went thru complete spire and all; so that to date may be set down as A.D. 1896. When the Church was moved North, they took down the spire and made other alterations, "widening the church for the Hooper's "Light" "plain in her neatness".

Since the United Church came to pass, this venerable building has been conveyed to the village to be fitted up for municipal and community purposes.

HOCKEY

On Thursday, Jan. 13th, a snappy game of hockey was played at the Napanee arena, between Regiopolis, of Kingston, and Napanee, ending in a 4-2 score for Kingston.

The ice was good, and consequently the game was fast, and the fans were fully repaid for their long trip to the rink. This was Napanee's first game, while the Regiopolis have been playing in the city league for quite a while, and have engaged in some nine or ten games.

"Chunny" Lawler, in centre for the Regiopolis, although young, has had much experience, and was easily ranked among the best on the ice.

Muchmore, on forward, is another of the Regiopolis best, and packs a very wicked shot. Furgley, in goal, is young for his position, but holds it down with creditable coolness and nerve. Miltz and Joyce on defense, are snappy, and it was thrilling to see how these boys fell into a combination, and their rushes were very hard to stop. Galwan also was in the game from beginning to end, while Pennock, Borland and Hughes contributed their lot in good relief work.

Napanee presented quite a formidable team, and sure looked snappy in their new blue and white sweaters. Stein, in centre, although a newcomer, fought for Napanee as if he had lived in this town all his life, and his rushes were creditable indeed. Huffman, on forward, although small, put up a very good game, and his rushes with Johnston, were almost as hard to stop as Naphin's shots. Oh, yes, Mr. James Naphin, (Captain), on defence, rivalled Lawler, of Kingston, for the honors of the evening. Naphin racks one of the wickedest shots in this district, and of course Jim had to score on one of them. Many commented upon Jim's favorite "hook" check on defence, and his swiftness in getting away. Johnston, on the other wing, put up a very good game, and it was he who obtained the other goal.

Fred Bentley, Naphin's sidekick, fitted in very well with Naphin, and although young, is one of the best players on the Napanee team. Of course, Fred had to give a lesson in the manly art of self defence, but the referee ruled otherwise, and Bentley and his pupil were each given a two minute rest.

For subs., Napanee produced some good players in Skitch and Gleeson.

Following is the line-up :—
Regiopolis—Lawler, centre; Galwan, forward; Muchmore, forward; Miltz, defence; Joyce, defence; subs., Pennock, Borland, Hughes.

Napanee—Stein, centrel, Huffman, forward; Johnston, forward; Bentley, defence; Naphin, defence, Captain; subs., Skitch and Gleeson.

The standing space in the rink, although comparatively full, could still hold more rooters; and if not only to help the boys, come out and see one of the fastest, most interesting games played in Canada, hockey.

Fateful Years For All Women

Much Suffering Can Be Avoided Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

The most fateful years in a woman's life are those between forty-five and fifty. Many women enter this term under depressing conditions; through overwork, worry, or a watery condition of the blood, and they suffer heavily.

Among the commonest symptoms are headaches, palpitations, dizziness, backaches, depression and other well recognized disturbances of the health which show that the blood requires attention. Women stand in need of rich red blood all their lives, but never more so than at middle age, when the nerves are also weak and overwrought. In this condition there is no other medicine can do so much for women as Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for these pills make rich, red blood, which gives tone to the whole body, thus restoring robust health. Thousands of Canadian women have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in cases of this kind. Among them is Mrs. J. H. Johnston, Lion's Head, Ont., who says:—"I am writing to let you know the wonderful good your pills have done me. I was a complete wreck, and would faint if I crossed the room. I was going through the change of life, and was so weak I could not do my work. I went to Toronto, when my folks said nothing but an operation could help me. But I said: "No, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills helped me in girlhood, and I am going to give them a trial." I took the pills steadily for a month, when I returned home a well woman, able to do all my work with ease. Friends here say it's a wonder I am alive after what I went through, and I am thankful to say I believe Dr. Williams' Pink Pills saved my life."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL MAJORITY IS 241,632

On Basis of Elected Members Lead Is Increased to 339,644.

The popular majority for Government control in the recent election was 241,632, according to a detailed compilation issued by Attorney-General W. H. Price, while comparing the votes cast for elected members of the Legislature there is a majority of 339,644 for the supporters of Government control. Altogether 1,137,876 votes were cast. The total Government control votes cast, irrespective of party affiliations, are as follows:—

Conservatives	630,252
Ind. Liberal	29,897
Labor	19,427
Ind. Cons.	19,179
	689,755

There were three acclamations for Conservative candidates. The vote against Government control was :—

Liberal	189,159
Progs.	82,227
Lib.-Prob.	21,700
U. F. O.	13,173
Lib.-Con.	48,267
Prohibition	83,934
Ind. Prog.	6,629
Beefer Cit.	3,532
	448,129

This gives a popular Government control majority of 241,632. Taking the vote for the elected members the success of Government control is even more strikingly demonstrated, the figures being :—

	Seats	Votes
Conservatives	74	483,771
Ind. Lib.	4	15,291
Labor	1	9,099
	79	508,083

Votes registered for candidates who were opposing Government control were as follows :—

	Seats	Votes
Liberals	15	65,261
Progs.	11	15,291
Lib.-Prob.	1	4,407
U. F. O.	2	13,173
Lib.-Prog.	3	25,425
Ind. Prog.	1	5,861
	33	168,239

This gives a Government control majority of seats of 46 and of votes 339,844, a preponderance of Government control votes of three to one.

Endurance.

Endurance, not deepness, wins the race. Never give up. Keep pegging away even though everything looks hopeless. Many a man has failed to achieve both fortune and fame because he lost courage just as he was within reach of them. What you desire may be only one step ahead. Keep going.

"Curiosities of the Calendar.

It will be found that January always begins on the same day of the week as October, and the same is true of April and July, September and December. Again February, March and November also begin on the same day of the week. This, however, is only true in years of 365 days.

Baby's Photograph

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

(©, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Humph!" muttered Joel Durkins, and the accents were those of a disappointed man.

He had chanced to cast his eyes upon the bureau where lay his wife's writing-materials. He held a letter which he recognised as from their married daughter, Eunice, who lived in Brampton, and beside it was a photograph of a child perhaps two years old. Either it was a poorly taken picture, or the subject was outrageously ugly looking naturally.

"Homely as sin," growled Joel, feeling wronged as a grandparent. "Phew! Eunice, in the family, and squints, big nose and ears, and Ma egging me on to be prepared to give it a pretty present. Why, it ought to have a mask!".

Eunice and her husband had not been back home since they were married. Now they had announced a two weeks' visit, and little Virginia was to be brought in triumph.

"Humph!" took the spite at a baby show. "So smart and cute!" and like enthusiastic sentiments from its fond grandmother had aroused pride and anticipation in the mind of Joel Durkins. Now he was disillusioned, with a positive shock. The photograph lay before him, probably just sent by Eunice. He had gone to a jeweler the week before and had ordered a gold neck chain, he had written out a check for one hundred dollars to be presented to the wonderful granddaughter as the start of a savings account.

"I'll cancel the order and tear up the check," declared Joel wrathfully. "I hope they don't parade the child around to have people endure its appalling homeliness. 'Cherub.' 'Pretty as a picture.' 'Looks just like mother!' Wow!"

Joel swung from room and house in a fever of dissatisfaction and resentment. Half a mile away Uriel Harper Driggs, the father of Eunice's husband. Driggs was a retired farmer, well-to-do, and Joel located him in the upper floor of the barn where he had a work shop. Originally Driggs had been a weaver in straw and split cane. To while away his idle hours he once in awhile indulged in puttering at his old trade, purely for pleasure. He was now making a chair for his granddaughter.

"Whatever possesses father?" more than once during the week Mrs. Driggs was observed to her daughter. "He has a regular grouch all of the time. Goes around as if the comet of 1910 was due and Walter and Baby was a bore and annoyance to him."

"Oh, you're mistaken, mamma!" insisted Nora Driggs. "He just so anxious to see the little one, and coddle it, and crow over it that he can hardly wait until Tuesday arrives."

Joel Durkins overheard the latter opinion expressed and shook himself, and growled, and went out in the garden and kicked up the turf. Those big eyes! That flat nose!

Tuesday took him to town. The Driggs were expecting the arrival about noon. Joel returned home about two o'clock. He was slightly penitent as to his previous mood, but the child was expected to go into ecstasies over. He could not feel pleasant or welcoming. But he felt it a duty to appear glad and cheerful at having Eunice once more under the home roof. As he neared the house he fancied he distinguished a flutter of feminine skirts disappearing. As he walked up the gravel path he stared hard. Seated in the wicker rocker that Driggs had made and presented was the most exquisitely perfect and bountiful little child his gaze had ever rested upon. Her eyes were starlike, her ringlets suggested an aureole of burnished gold. The moment she saw him approaching she arose, clasped her hands, and then, bending them caressingly toward him, exclaimed in wild and joyous glee:

"Dear Anspa! Fse Virginia Estelle Driggs. How did you do?"

Joel fairly reeled. As there came to his unprepared ears from beyond the screen door leading into the hallway he realized that the child was repeating a rote-word lesson framed for his especial benefit. The child fairly sprang into his arms. There he held her, quivering all over with emotions he could not analyze.

Then he came in for a hugging from Eunice, which his soul-in-law followed with a genial, boisterous greeting. And while they all babbled over the delighted little one, Joel stole out to the kitchen. He hung around his wife in a wavering, unaccountable way until she challenged:

"Joel, what ever possesses you, acting like a man in a daze?"

"I was just wondering," blurted Joel. "I noticed a photograph of a baby on your bureau—"

"Oh, that—your picture when you was a baby," replied Mrs. Durkins. "What about it?"

"Oh, nothing at all!" answered Joel, with a wince.

"Your mother gave it to me years ago. I thought so much of a looker in those days, eh, Joel?"

He made for his little den of a library in the wing of the house, pondering over his egregious mistake. He closed its door and took up the telephone to call up the Jewelry Store—"Send up that neck chain," he ordered.

"Thought you didn't want it?"

"Changed my mind. Send it up this evening, will you?"

And then, going to his desk, he opened his check book and filled in a blank for five hundred dollars.

If one be troubled with corns, he will find in Holloway's Corn Remover an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

WILTON INSTITUTE

Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Simmons, Wilton, very warmly welcomed the members of the last meeting of the Wilton Women's Institute, to the number of about 75, at their home, on Wednesday evening, January 12th. About 8.30 o'clock the regular monthly meeting of the Institute was held. The president in the chair, the meeting opened by the singing of the Ode, after which Rev. Mr. Moffatt led in prayer. After the roll call, the minutes of the last meeting were read and approved. The Secretary then read letters of appreciation from Mr. K. N. Storms and Mrs. Ernest Wright, for flowers during their illness. The names of Mrs. Guy Simmons, Miss Eleanor Lotherley, Mrs. Walter Shibley and Mrs. J. McDonald were asked to assist Mrs. K. N. Storms and Mrs. Eldridge Babcock to enlarge our Sick Committee. These ladies are doing their best to visit all the sick of the community and to send flowers or fruit in the name of the Institute. Any suggestions or help from any of the other members will greatly aid in this very necessary work. It was decided that we hold a course in "First Aid and Home Nursing" early in June, and the Secretary is to write and make application for same. It was also decided that we have a "play" put on in connection with the Institute some time in February. Mr. Eldridge Babcock to make arrangements. Further notice later. The President and Secretary then took the opportunity to thank the members of the Institute for the lovely gift each received at Xmas. After the meeting closed about one and one half hours were spent in Progressive Euchre, ten tables being in play. The first prize was won by Mrs. Clarence Babcock and William Connors, Jr., and the consolation prize was carried off by Walter Shibley. Delicious refreshments were served, consisting of sandwiches, coffee, cake and ice cream. Collection, $7.53.

The February meeting is to be held on the evening of February 8th, at the Grange Hall, Wilton, when everyone welcome. The roll call to be answered by "The Best Book I Ever Read."

Mrs. Archie Simmons, Secretary W. W. I.

How She Proposed

A Story For Leap Year

By ELINOR MARSH

Professor Poland of —— Woman's college was lecturing to his class, his subject being customs in India. He had excited considerable attention while dwelling upon the suttee, the girls showing great indignation at the immolation of a widow on her husband's funeral pyre. A hundred pens taking down the lecture scratched fiercely on as many notebooks. From the suttee he passed to the products of the country, and the pen scratching fell off so perceptibly that the professor was astonished that he was holding his hold on the interest of his class. He kept a number of slips on each of which was written some bit of information calculated to attract the attention of young women, and, taking up one, he interpolated it into his lecture.

"Among the singular marriage customs of different people there is one in India which is very effective."

Every pen of the hundred young ladies began to send forth a sympathetic sound.

"A father will hold his daughter for a price to be paid for the suitor before marriage. A parent having a very beautiful daughter or being able to settle on her a large dowry will sometimes put so high a price on her that such young men as desire her cannot afford to pay it. This makes a market for marriageable women. Widows may be had at a very low price."

A hum of expressions of amusement, approbation or dissatisfaction interrupted the lecturer.

"When a father finds that he has been holding his daughter too high and wishes, so to speak, to put her on the bargain counter (laughter) he does not tack a card to her on which is written 'Special,' as would be done in America, if we had any such marriage custom. He adopts a much more poetic method. He marries her to a bouquet of flowers and then gives her husband into a will. Since he must be drowned the bride becomes a widow. This is a nettlesome thing for the young men that she may be had cheap."

Professor Poland, who was a young man of twenty-seven, paused and showed a white set of teeth under his dark mustache in a smile which was meant to be a partial unbending from his professional dignity. A ripple of amusement passed over his auditors, and he was about to return to a finish of the products of India when Belle Halliday, one of those girls who go to college to get off a surplus stock of intellect, arose to ask a question. Professor Poland paused and looked at her inquiringly.

"Tells being leap year," she said, "it occurs to me that this wedding to the flowers should be done by a girl as a delicate way of proposing to the man of her choice. It would be equivalent to saying, 'I may be had for a song; buy me.'"

The class tittered. The professor looked at the ceiling, then made the following reply:

"Your method, Miss Halliday, would involve a knowledge on the part of the man proposed to of the Indian custom in question, which he would not be likely to possess.

"Oh, I didn't think of that!" And Miss Halliday sat down in pretended confusion. But if there was any confusion in the matter it was with the professor, who was at the disadvantage of being one man among many women. He made an attempt to smile, then went on with his lecture, but did not again strike anything as interesting to his class as the matter of a girl being wedded to a bunch of flowers and her husband being thrown into a well.

Professor Poland's lecture was delivered in February, and Miss Halliday was graduated in the following June at the foot of her class. As has been stated, she did not go to college to study, but to have a good time. She was philosophic about it. "Why should I worry myself when all the rest of the class are grinds? If I spent my time studying, who would do the dressing? If I were destined to make my living as a teacher I would need to apply myself. But I'm not to teach; I'm to be married."

"Got him picked out, Belle?" asked a chum.

"Yes."

"Has he proposed?"

"No, and I don't expect him to propose. This is leap year, and I intend to do the proposing myself."

"Going to be married to a bunch of flowers and throw your husband in a well?"

"Maybe."

The chief reason underlying Miss Halliday's indisposition to make a grind of herself was she did not mention. Her father was a rich man, and she was an only child. Besides what property she might expect from him she possessed a fortune in her own right, inherited from a grandmother. Indeed, it would be difficult to find a reason why she should, like the busy bee, improve each shining hour over dead languages, mathematics or philosophy of which she would have little or no use, since the probability of her coming to want was very remote.

But Miss Halliday was bright enough to get what she wanted, and in one respect she knew very well what she wanted. She wanted Professor Poland. But Professor Poland was to receive, of a stipend of $1,800 a year and possibly might in the course of ten years be worth twice that to the cause of education, Miss Halliday knew very well that the modest young man would never have the assurance to propose for the hand of an heiress.

"I hope," she said to Professor Poland when they separated at commencement time, "that this will not end our acquaintance. I have always been greatly interested in your instruction and am indebted to you for having helped me through several examinations which would without your assistance have sent me home to finish my college course sitting round trying to look pretty. Mamma has directed me to invite you to spend a part of your vacation with us at our country place, and we shall look for you at an early date."

The invitation was followed up by one more specific, and in July Professor Poland found himself at Morning Glory—Belle had named the place from a flower she especially loved—a magnificent place in the center of spacious grounds and commanding a fine view of distant hills and nearby lakes. While Miss Halliday was in college she, like other students, was under his entire lift. It seemed to him now that the conditions were inverted. He appeared to himself nothing more than a pedagogue with so little income as to be barely able to tip the servants, while his former pupil was arrayed in "purple and fine linen" and occupying a social position to which he could never hope for an entree, and if he was granted an entree he would not be able to support it.

Miss Halliday's treatment of Professor Poland was calculated to throw him into a fever. She was not only gracious; she was as devoted to him as he would have been glad to be devoted to her were their positions reversed, lavishing on him much delicate attention which, with a woman's will lavish on a man she feels privileged to favor. In other words, a courtship was going on, in which the woman was doing the wooing. The professor sometimes drifted, resigning himself to this delightful spell she was weaving about him, and sometimes suddenly came to a realization that he was standing on the brink of a precipice.

Now, if women were the privileged proposers they would doubtless acquit themselves far better than the men. Fairy rate they are by a superior delicacy far better fitted for the purpose. To Miss Halliday what she was engaged in was as simple to her as the reconstruction of the Roman forum would have been to Professor Poland. When she was ready for his proposal she took him out into the garden and began to gather a bouquet of flowers.

"Are they for me?" asked the professor.

"For you? No. I'm going to be married."

The professor felt as if some one had knocked the life out of him.

"Who is the fortunate man?" he gasped.

"I'm not going to marry a man. I'm going to marry these flowers."

Several months had passed since Professor Poland had mentioned the Indian custom to his class, and it did not occur to him that Miss Halliday's words reflected on what he had then said. However, he was not afraid of such a rival and somewhat recovered his equanimity.

"Oh!" was his sole reply.

Belle went on collecting flowers for a posy and when she had done so made a dumb show of affection for them. There was a stable on the place and a well from which he drew water which was brought up by a pump. Belle went to the well, lifted a trap door and threw her bouquet down into the opening. Then, without remark, she sauntered back to the garden.

Now, Professor Poland was not quite so stupid about the art of love as might be supposed. He attended Miss Halliday on her visit to the well, and when she led him to a vine clad recess and-sat down on a rustic seat a vague connection between what she had done and the Indian custom he had embodied in his lecture found lodgment in his brain. He realized that this might be in lieu of a proposal. Surely it was a sufficient encouragement for him to propose. It was either a proposal or it was dubbing. If it was a proposal it was incumbent on him to respond. If he responded and Miss Halliday's act meant nothing he would be in an unfortunate position. If she meant what he suspected and he made no response he would still be in an unfortunate position. What should he do?

His inclinations decided him.

"The honor you do me is, I assure you, very appreciated. Since I love you and have loved you for some time it is not an absence of love that causes me to hesitate. It is the disparity of our incomes."

"That, I think, can be easily arranged to your satisfaction. I am ready to settle upon you"—

"Pardon me; I cannot accept a settlement. If I marry you I shall do so with the expectation of always remaining self supporting. If I am to be a rich woman's husband you must be a poor professor's wife."

"I shall be very proud of your standing in your profession and shall do nothing to turn you away from it and your enjoyment of it."

And so it was arranged that the professor should still occupy his chair at the university. This he did for a time. Then his wife was calling on him continually for some duty in connection with her estates, and at last finding that such duties took up the principal part of his time he resigned his professorship and devoted his attention to the management of a property which had by this time come to be considered a family matter.

A Timely Friend

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

With hated breath and wildly throbbing heart Eloise Dunbar crouched beside the high garden wall. The rain had begun to fall and the wind was strong and chill. The flashing of lights and the echo of quick, sharp voices about the rambling disordered grounds and the gloomy towering mansion terrified her. Through infinite pains she had escaped from the house. Apparently she had been missed and they were searching for her.

They! Eloise shuddered as she thought of her guardians and protectors, enemies, for such she considered them. She was as a helpless lamb in the lair of human wolves. Eloise gibbered towards the wall and essayed to scale it. Her delicate hands were bruised and scratched as, breathless, she twined her fingers around a metal prong. The outside of the wall had a smooth surface. It was a sheer drop. "Oh, dear!" uttered Eloise in dismay, as she let go and landed in a heap. Her arm, wrenched cruelly, throbbed with pain. She feared she was about to faint. Eloise struggled to her feet and gazed about wildly.

"Which way, How soon will they come?" she fluttered, and then blindly staggered ahead in the mist and darkness. She came in contact with a human form. The Thing was outlined. Eloise voiced a feeble cry of alarm. Straining her vision, she made out an automobile with dimmed lights. Apparently its owner, the young man before her caught her arm gently but firmly as she wavered from side to side.

"What is it, young lady?" he interposed reassuringly.

"Oh, get me away from here!" pleaded Eloise. "I have hurt my arm—I am pursued! Save me!"

Without delay the young man gathered her up in his arms, carried her bodily to the auto and lifted her into its rear seat.

"Where would you go? You are injured. I saw you fall. Shall it be a doctor?"

"Oh, no!" dissented Eloise instantly, "let me away from here, from the village, from my enemies!"

Her timely friend seemed to comprehend the situation. He started up the machine and circled into a public highway, and as it cleared the limits of the village he slowed down somewhat.

"If you are seriously injured and suffering," he spoke, "you should have medical attention at once."

"Oh, it is nothing—the hurt," declared Eloise. "All I wish is to put distance between myself and those who have persecuted me and those who still would persecute me. You are a timely friend, indeed! How shall I ever thank you? But I have money, considerable. Some day with it I can pay you handsomely, and oh, so gladly!"

"Don't think of that," said the man. "I am at your service, if as you tell me you are in dread of enemies. Shall it be Worden? That is twenty miles distant and quite a city. And if to reach a secluded refuge is your aim, safety may be gained."

"Yes, yes," assented Eloise eagerly.

"I know of a little hotel there, mostly occupied by working girls and ladies who are strangers in the city. Shall I take you there?"

"If you will! I am truly grateful," and then amid a reaction of weariness and collapse Eloise sank back among the cushions and closed her eyes.

"This is the hotel I spoke of," the man's voice of her accommodating chauffeur aroused her at last.

"I know what you wish to say," he observed. "It cannot be a question of pay for my services and you need advice. May I call upon you in the morning?"

It seemed unreal, like some flitting dream, all this to Eloise. She was shown to a comfortable apartment. She was summoned to the reception room of the hotel about the middle of the morning, to find her helper of the evening previous awaiting her. In an embarrassed way she explained her situation.

Her father had died, appointed Joel Traffon her guardian. He had left a will providing that if she married before she was twenty-one all her fortune should go to an educational institution. She might, however, marry Elliott Weston, the son of an old friend. So, apparently, this dead man individual had been advised, but he had never put in an appearance. Then Traffon had treated her as a prisoner, endeavoring to force her to wed his nephew.

"There is only one way out of the dilemma," she told her new friend. "After what I have suffered I care nothing for the fortune. I shall marry Jesse as that I may defy my enemies. Once I violate the will, their power is gone. I will not be treated like a slave." I will not be parceled off to this Elliott Weston like a chattel. Help me carry out my design—you, who have been kinder than a brother."

He did not amuse her when, a week later, he came to tell her that he loved her and asked her to accept him as her husband. She was glad, then, to say sincerely that she had contracted her from the first. And now, at the last, as he gave his real name to the officiating clergyman at the quiet marriage ceremony, the crowning surprise of the situation came for Eloise, for it was—Elliott Weston!

You're behind the times if you don't know that Cod Liver Extract is one of the greatest flesh producers in the world.

Because it contains more vitalizing vitamines than any food you can get.

You'll be glad to know that McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets come in sugar coated form now, so if you really want to put 10 or 20 pounds of solid, healthy flesh on your bones and feel well and strong and have a complexion that people will admire—ask any druggist for a box of McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets.

Only 60 cents for 60 tablets and if you don't gain five pounds in 30 days your druggist will hand you back the money you paid for them.

It isn't anything unusual for a person to gain 10 pounds in 30 days, and for old people with feebleness overtaking them they work wonders.

An Aphorism Falls Down.

Genius has not yet been able to utter an aphorism that would hold good in every instance. "Familiarity breeds contempt," they say. Every notable poet, example or artist whatsoever has left a tribute to his mother, either by personal tribute, or dedication or through symbolism, of love for his mother. Yet no other man has ever found such expression, however sublimes that could measure up to his own idea of his mother's virtues. And where is familiarity so pronounced as between mother and son?—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

Teeth to Blame.

The worst criminals seem to be the teeth. The Paris Medical takes a new fling at them, blaming them for sins usually charged to wronged, misjudged tuberculosis. "Baude insists that with enlarged glands in the neck, the primary lesion should be sought in the teeth, before incriminating the tubercle bacilli, and urges that the physician should insist on the teeth being put in order as an indispensable element of whatever treatment he is instituting."

To Reduce Flesh.

To reduce superfluous fat you must work. Your path will wind through many lanes of self-sacrifice before your mirror will give back the coveted willowy image. Your attainment of the ideal will mean hot work, too, for vigorous exercise is necessary. A daily walk of five miles should not be excessive if you are in good condition. Give a fair trial to the tonic baths so helpful for many girls who complain of "tired feelings."

"IN THE PUBLIC EYE" By Leslie Lewis, P.O.

PHOTOPHOBIA is a name applied by the science of optics to a "squinting" intolerance of light. This may be caused by a lazy, sluggish iris that does not perform its proper duties as a diaphragm and lets in too much light upon the sensitive retina. Smoked glasses will rest the eyes but after discovering such a condition we will tell you to have the disease remedied by an optician. You can depend upon our judgment.

Smithson was awakened by his wife in the middle of the night.
"Jack! Jack!" she whispered, "wake up! There's a burglar downstairs I hear him."
Smithson was out of bed in an instant.
"Hist," he said and, slipping on shoes and trousers, he stole softly from the room.
Some time passed. The wife, listening intently, heard nothing. Anxiety at last overcame her fear. She crept to the stairway, leaned over the balustrade and called: "Jack!"
"Well, what is it?" her husband replied—not from below, from above.
"What on earth," said Mrs. Smithson "are you doing up in the attic?"
"Why," came the reply, "didn't you say the burglar was downstairs?"

SMILING COURTESY.

Something of Which There Is by No Means Enough in the World.

After we have abolished the great reform next in order will be that of instituting that of universal courtesy. This reform may be said to be on its feet, even at the present time, but it is wobbly legged and needs a great deal of encouragement.

We have some very courteous individuals in our midst, most of whom were born that way and who insist on staying that way despite all temptations to the contrary, but we have some who are almost hopeless.

Courtesy is just another name for unselfishness. The greedy, self centered individual is never courteous, no matter what kind of manners he displays in public. Courtesy does not reveal itself for effect. It is not calculating. It acts out of the promptings of consideration for the just claims and rights of others, and in smaller matters at least it is even willing to make sacrifices. It is the sense of service revealed in action.

When you give your neighbor a smile instead of a frown you do him a real service, for you cause him to smile and be happy. It is courteous, therefore, to smile.

When you smother the needless word of criticism you save some one a pang. It is courteous, therefore, to control your tongue.

It doesn't matter very much at just what angle you tip your hat to a lady, although it is commendable to regard such points. The important thing is to look as though you were glad of the opportunity to tip it. That is the real courtesy.

If the world would start out to-day to follow two rules—smile and avoid mean gossip— it would be almost civilized at the end of a year.

The First Laugh Was the Last.

A personable young man with little baggage but a winning smile engaged two rooms and bath at one of the finest hotels in a western city. He spun a twenty dollar gold piece across the desk and said, "I'll stay that much anyhow, and when that's used up let me know." The room clerk smiled and turned the gold over to the cashier to be credited to the man's account. He fared sumptuously every day.

A bill for $98 was presented to the young man a week later. He frowned and handed it to the room clerk. "This is all wrong," he said. "You remember I paid you $20 in advance and said I'd take that much of your hospitality?"

"Yes, but that was only a joke," the clerk protested.

"I wasn't joking, and you can't get another cent out of me," said the personable young man. They sent for the proprietor, Colonel Sackett. He listened to the facts, frowned awhile, then broke into a genial grin and exclaimed, "I'll give you your money back and your receipt in full if you'll go over and play this trick on the——— House."

"Sorry, colonel," answered the young man, "but Mr. Blank of the ——— House gave me a week's board to come over and play it here."

ANNUAL MEETING VICTORIAN ORDER NURSES

The annual meeting of the Napanee Branch of the V. O. N. held on Tuesday evening, in the Public Library, was largely attended. Officers for the ensuing year were elected, and the reports given were most encouraging.

Officers for 1927.

Honorary President—Mrs. F. F. Miller.
President—Mrs. George Switzer.
1st Vice President—Mrs. W. H. Milsap.
2nd Vice President—Mrs. A. T. Harshaw.
3rd Vice President—Mrs. J. W. Robinson.
Secretary—Mrs. C. B. Creighton.
Treasurer—Miss Mary Leamy.
Convenors,—
Women's Finance Committee—Mrs. W. S. Herrington.
Relief Committee—Miss Josephine Leamy.
Men's Finance Committee—Mr. W. J. Deller.

A motion was passed at the meeting, granting permission to furnish milk to undernourished children in the schools; the Nurse and Relief Committee to have charge of same.

Secretary's Annual Report.

I beg to submit the Secretary's third annual report for the V. O. N. for the year 1926.

During the year there were nine Executive meetings; one special and one public meeting; average attendance twelve.

Miss M. Robertson was the Nurse, salary $125 per month. On December 1st, 1926, Miss Robertson was transferred to the Ottawa District, and Miss C. Lambart took over the work in Napanee, at the same salary.

The President, Mrs. F. F. Miller, in May, was sent as a delegate to the Annual Meeting of the Board of Governors, Ottawa, and upon her return gave a delightful talk of the different sessions.

Miss Stevenson, Inspector from Ottawa, made three visits during the year, and gave many helpful interpretations for the work in the future.

The work done by our Nurse included bedside nursing, welfare, school inspection and instructive health work.

Funds were raised by the following means :—Bedside nursing; grant of $500.00 from the Town; grant of $300 from the Board of Education; a Guest Tea, Tag Day, and a Paverment Dance. The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. allows 75c. to all policy holders, and an additional 25c. per infant.

The Child Welfare Clinic is a very important branch of Nurse's work, and has been well attended. The Clinic is held every Thursday afternoon, in the Council Chamber.

The Relief Committee has lessened the suffering throughout the Town. Sewing meetings are held each Monday afternoon in the Council Chamber at 2 o'clock, with Miss Josephine Leamy as Convener.

It is with deep regret that we record the passing of one of the late retired members of the Nathaniel's "Jinx" Active.

Nathaniel Ripple had a terrible experience one afternoon when he was about twelve years old. He opened the doors of the buggy house and was backing the buggy in when the wind blew both doors shut. He propped them open with small sticks, but just as he reached the buggy tongue one of the sticks fell and the doors came around far enough to stop the buggy. A moment later Grandpa Ripple, who had just come down to the barn, said: "What's that you are saying, Nathaniel?"

Homing Instinct Supreme.

Science cannot explain the wonderful instinct which brings the pigeon to its home, but it is stronger than fear or any other obstacle. Liberated in the face of the heaviest barrage, it circles in the air to get its bearings, rises swiftly to a height of half a mile, then is off with the speed of a bullet. For a distance of 20 miles they are capable of making two miles a minute, and have flown 500 miles on a single flight.

Marble Caves of Oregon.

Amid the wilds of southwestern Oregon, almost unknown to the world at large, is situated a series of underground chambers and passages remarkable for their size and for the beauty and unusual character of their decorations, says F. E. Tuck in Popular Mechanics Magazine. Within the last few years they have been made a national monument and are now known as the Marble Caves of Oregon.

The Last Ditch

By MURIEL LEE

(©, Western Newspaper Union.)

"The last ditch!" soliloquized Mark Burton with a bitter smile as he thrust a folded slip of paper into one pocket and a small roll of bills into another.

The first-named article was a pawnbroker's ticket, the money represented what he had just borrowed on his watch, which he had managed to cling to through the vicissitudes of two years of misspent life.

Beyond the glittering store lights the streets were wrapped in comparative gloom, and with grim, set lips and resolute eyes this man, whose heart history was full of tragic wretchedness, paced on until he threaded byways where only an occasional habitation showed. Then he struck out over a highway leading into the country.

Mark Burton had indeed reached "the last ditch!" Like a fugitive from a city of destruction, he was leaving behind him scenes that had held him captive to the curse of strong drink, wrecking manhood, ambition and respectability. Only a week previous, recovering at a public hospital from utter prostration at the end of a reckless bout, in a flashing moment, in the twinkling of an eye retrospection had pictured to him his utter worthlessness, and a wavering hope had stolen upon him, warning him that then was the parting of the ways.

There was a nurse in the hospital who sensed the soul submerged by dissipation. It was her kindly, friendly words that had made him think of a face still more beautiful and a voice just as full of music—his wife, Marcia.

She had been the guiding star of his existence, but some perverse inborn craving had drawn him among reckless roysterers. She had never chided him, but when his excesses had gone beyond all bounds, her father, stern, implacable, had taken her away from him.

"You have brought my only child to poverty and suffering," John Thurlow had said. "Henceforth she will be my care, and you shall never cross my threshold again until you are able to give her the home she deserves, and have banished the temptations that have brought you to ruin."

Burton had gone far away, to still more deeply drain the dregs of the fatal cup. There had come the period when restrictions of the law had made intoxicating drinks difficult of attainment. Like many others partaking of poisoned counterfeits and noxious substitutes, he had welcomed the liquid fire bringing mania to his already distorted mind. The day he left the hospital he had made his great resolve —to conquer the thirst that had enmeshed him, or die in the attempt.

He had learned that some 20 miles from the city a railway convention camp had advertised for workmen. He had now sufficient to secure sustenance and shelter for a week ahead, and new strength and hope infused him as the pure, bracing air from forest and field blew strong and invigorating into his face. It was well on towards ten o'clock when he sat down on a bench beside the open window of a roadhouse and rested. He was keenly alert by a voice within the room beyond. He made out a man speaking earnestly to three others.

"Between here and Paxton the Merritt crowd parted with their truckload of stolen plunder," he said. "It represented over $80,000. They must have taken the alarm and disposed of their freight somewhere along the route, for the truck went through Paxton empty. Start your search with daylight. To the man who succeeds I promise a $3,000 inspectorship."

Enough further was spoken to make Burton aware of the fact that these were government agents on the track of the plunder of some so-called liquor pirates who had burglarized a warehouse and made off with a fortune in interstate. The remaining instances faded from his mind as he continued his course. He came to where excavations cut the road and detoured. Twice in the darkness he stumbled into pits, and finally crossing what seemed to be some loose hay recently cut from the ground, that substance gave way and he was precipitated several feet down.

His arms struck a box and its thin cover crashed in. There was a jangle of splintering glass. His elbow, slightly cut, was dripping with a pungent liquor reviving all his past fateful experience. He trembled. Was this plentitude of the curse that had wrecked him some tormenting manifestation of fate? Oh never! All his manhood arose. He reared beneath him for a bottle from the box. He brought it down to ruin with a vehement anathema against the subtle poison that had been his bane.

Mark Burton reflected quickly. Then he sped back to the roadhouse. The leader of the officers was just retiring. Burton addressed him. He told his story. He asked that he be rewarded with the position offered if he led the way to the stolen goods.

The official acquiesced, and he kept his word. Burton was placed in an inspectorship. For a year he did faithful, efficient duty and found evidence for the district where his wife and father lived.

He had only to tell his simple, truthful story to regain the confidence of John Thearle and to convince his sorrowful, yearning wife that she was worthy of the love that she felt for him.

The Secret Agent

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

Arline Driscoll was not peeved. That would have been too trivial and commonplace. She was piqued, however, and, too, Arline was puzzled.

Arline was piqued because her favorite attendant and friend, Randal Morse, had suddenly dropped away from his devotion and attentions. The day before a social function she had received a note from him, stating that important business prevented him from keeping his appointment.

The next day a girl friend imparted the information that Randal had left the employ of her father and Arline questioned the latter on the subject.

"Randal had left the plant," he told her, "and neither you nor I may see much of him for some time to come. Don't let that worry you, Arline, and don't discuss the matter with anyone."

All of which put Arline's mind in a new turmoil of speculation and mystery. They had been more than close friends, and she resented this abrupt and inexplicable abandonment. There were secret whispers among her girl friends as to the desertion, and, worse of all, Lionel Drury, a rejected suitor, came again upon the scene.

"Tell you, Miss Driscoll," he remarked one day, "there's a good deal of the inexplainable about Morse, and I happen to know that he is suspected of seditious tendencies."

"Oh, never," flashed forth Arline.

"You can't tell," rejoined Drury. "You see, he was abroad for several years acting as agent for a big harvesting machine house. That's how he comes to speak half a dozen different languages. Naturally he may have imbibed anarchistic principles. I happen to know that he has been seen in the close company of some suspected foreign spies."

Lockport was a busy manufacturing center, and with the advent of the war a large number of munitions contracts had been given out to local plants. Nearly all the employees were foreigners, and several persons accused of disloyal utterances had been arrested and punished. Their sentences had reinstated by deeds of vandalism. A mill had been fired, and a plot to blow up a factory furnishing cartridges to the government had been discovered and foiled just in time.

Arline came home from a visit to a girl friend one evening unruly perturbed. Just after quitting time one of the storage houses of the Driscoll works had been blown up. It was true that the building was old, held very little machinery, and was practically abandoned, but it was a serious warning to loyal manufacturers. Arline hurried to the library, where she noticed a light. She paused at the sound of voices, and recognized that of Lionel Drury. It was excited and highly pitched.

"Yes, sir, I am positive of what I say. I was passing the blown-up building when I noticed a flare at its rear. The next moment I saw Randal Morse dash from the spot, and the next the building went up."

"Have you spoken to anyone about this?" inquired Mr. Driscoll.

"No, sir; I hurried here, feeling it my duty to advise you first!"

"You have given me valuable information," said the manufacturer, "but we must be guarded. Don't repeat a word of this until I have made plans to capture the miscreants who are working all this destruction. Arline will hear of it and be terrified. Will you kindly remain to dinner and keep her mind away from it?"

"Oh, sir, indeed, yes," voiced Drury.

Arline had retreated to another room. She was pale and trembling, but she well simulated a calmness that deceived her father.

"Arline," he spoke, "Lionel Drury is here. This last outrage sends me out to investigate. Will you entertain him for the evening?" and Arline, dumb with anxiety and mystery, assented.

Drury, in a fervor of delight at being honored with the confidence of the father and the company of the daughter, remained until 9 o'clock. Arline sat at the open window of her room until midnight, consumed with distressing thoughts. Just as she was about to retire, she saw her father and a companion enter the garden and pace to and fro, engaged in earnest, low-toned conversation, and the companion was—Randal Morse! What did it mean?

It was two evenings later when her father summoned her to the library. As she entered the apartment Randal Morse arose and greeted her smilingly.

"I am going to leave it to Morse here—the man who blew up the old warehouse—to explain to you, Arline," spoke her father. "As he had my permission and the sanction of the government, you will understand why he did it."

Randal had done it because, pretending to be affiliated with an enemy group, he gained their confidence by just that act. His knowledge of different languages, his willingness to take a test had completely won their favor. He had directed the officers of the law to their secret meeting place, and had found evidence of the criminality and intentions of the dangerous group.

So Arline did not lose her lover after all, and later gained a husband, but Lionel Drury did not come to the wedding.

If one be troubled with corns, he will find in Holloway's Corn Remover an application that will entirely relieve suffering.

FOR SALE

A farm of exceptional reputation, being the old homestead farm of the late Mr. Zan Bush, and situate on Lot 22, Con. 2 of South Fredericksburgh, known to be perhaps the closest agricultural district in that of the surrounding countries. This farm is described in the deed as 155 acres, but a survey has accurately proved the acreage at 170. All work land of a very choice quality; exceptionally well drained, well watered and attractively laid out. Situate on the Loyalist Parkway, 3 miles from Odessa, 4 miles from Bath, 5 miles from Adolphustown, 6 miles from Napanee, and 12 miles from Kingston. Convenient to school, church and milk station. Telephone service. Rural mail delivery. Good roads in every direction. Ten acres of hardwood bush, principally maple, with a sugar camp thereon. Orchard of about 200 trees, principally apples, in full bearing. Soil is a clay loam, underlaid with limestone rock at a depth of from 2 to 3 feet. Clay subsoil. Land is rolling, with a gentle slope to the south, affording excellent drainage. Fences are in good condition, being principally of cedar posts and wire. Buildings consist of a large red brick house, with hardwood floors throughout, and comfortable cellar with perfect drainage and cement bottom, and a good furnace; also a good tenant house, good barn and stable, drive house, pig pen and hen house; also a windmill for watering stock and a new one farm exceptionally situated and totally free of barrick or wild mustard. In addition to the consumption of a fine orchard, this farm will give a return for the present season of considerable value in timber. The farm is situate within ½ mile of the Hamburg Road, which is becoming a popular route of communication between Napanee and Kingston via the Loyalist Parkway, a splendid road of the Lake, which is about 1 mile distant, and to the Lake Shore Road leading to Kingston, and 2½ miles from Bath, also within seven miles of Napanee. This farm is extensively known throughout the district for the abundance of high grade seed grain, and the demand for that product has been for some short sufficient to purchase the entire crop. This can be verified by a reference to the Agricultural Office at Napanee.

This farm is in excellent producing condition at present, which can also be corroborated by a reference to the said Agricultural Office at Napanee. Each subscriber is exceptionally well in touch with this particular farm.

The farm is owned by the Executrix of the late W. G. Schell, whose recent death has caused it to be placed upon the market, and for the benefit of such sale will be sold on favourable terms.

For further particulars apply to T. B. GERMAN, Barrister, Napanee, Ont., or to the widow, MRS. W. G. SCHELL, on the premises. 2cd

Miss Grant—"Well, does an expert pianist know how to tune a piano?"

A Prime Dressing for Wounds.—In some factories and workshops carbolic acid is kept for use in endeavoring to heal wounds and cuts sustained by the workmen. Far better to keep on hand a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. It is just as quick in action and does not bear the skin or burn the flesh.

Quack Medicine Vendor—"Sir, I don't mention as a single ingredient in my world-famed 'Tru-jevanator' that is in your wife after taking one bottle she will be singing like a lark in the morning. I said to my wife, 'Mirandy, give me my Asterol—I shall be late for school.'"

As everybody knows, Lord Balfour has never married. Nor has he ever come . . . a story told that at a dinner party in addition to himself and two others, the guests were given one . . . of the . . . Bishops, the subject of new methods of taxation cropped up.

One of the male guests suggested a tax on bachelors, increasing for each grade of unmarried life after the age of thirty.

"Then you would have to pay about £200 a year at that rate, Lord Balfour," put in a lady guest mischievously.

"Yes," replied Lord Balfour, with a quiet smile, "but I think it would be worth it."

Choked for Air.—Some little irritant in the throat in the bronchial tubes, causes gathering of the phlegm of catarrhal results. Nothing offers quicker and more positive relief than Dr. A. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. The healing, soothing smoke reaches penetrates, clears the nasal passages, stops dropping and gets behind it years of success. It is the sure remedy for every sufferer.

A man travelling on a big express train day by day became the chief engineer after he had ordered his meal, to get something he had left in his cabin forgotten.

On returning he found a very impatient lady passenger, who was objecting to the fact that he had left a magazine there. When he informed her that fifty minutes had elapsed since he had been taken by him, she turned on him with flashing eyes. "Sir," she said haughtily, "do you know I am one of the directors of this line?"

"My dear madam," he replied in confidential tones, "if you were the owner of the whole railway I should still ask for my ticket."

Many infants are infested by worms which cause great suffering, and if not promptly dealt with may cause constitutional weakness, difficult to remedy. Miller's Worm Powders will clear the system of worms, are safe and will so act upon the system that there will be no recurrence of the trouble. And not only this, but they will repair the injuries to the organs that worms cause and restore them to soundness.

A school inspector one asked some children who was examining the following question:

"How many days are there in a year?"

"Three hundred and sixty-five, sir," waved the bright boy of the form.

"Very good," said the inspector approvingly. "And what do you say, Johnny?"

"Three hundred and twenty-five, sir," answered the boy addressed.

"My dear boy," exclaimed the inspector in astonishment, "how do you make out five hundred?"

"Because there are forty days Lent, sir," answered the boy.

Grouse shooting, which by the way, was originated by "Bonnie Prince Charlie," has opened rise to many jokes. Here is one that will be repeated over more than one dining table in the stately mansion at a little Highland village was having a turn with the head keeper of a neighbor estate. "I hear the English shooting tenant is a verra generous man," he said. "He's promised to send everything he shoots to the hospital in Inverness." "Aye," put in the keeper grimly, "and he's started already. He sent two ghillies there yesterday."

In these days we don't worry much whether we love our neighbors or not; the main thing is to keep up with them.

How the Town of Ladybird Was Depopulated

An Episode of May Day

By F. A. MITCHEL

What we now call the middle west was settled up in spots by very different peoples, and these spots, now cities or towns, show the differences to this day. One place will have been settled by refined people, and their descendants are refined; another will have been settled by a rough class, and the population will be rough today.

When one of these spots was in embryo—we will call it Eaglebird—its inhabitants were not naturally rough, but they were all men, and men with out women will in time degenerate into wild beasts. No woman would go to Eaglebird because there were no women there. One or two of the men went east at different times to marry a sweetheart, but came back alone. When the girls learned that Eaglebird was the exclusively a man town they invariably declined to exchange refined surroundings for it for them.

There was a town not far distant from Eaglebird that we will call Ladybird. When the former was settled the latter had been a town for two decades. True, the Ladybirdians had run out the Indians, but they had all come to the region, men and women together, from Connecticut, where there was a college, and there was not a poorly educated person among them. But Ladybird had not been favorably located for trade, and its young men had grown sought busier fields of labor, while their sisters remained where they were. Instead of manufactories, there were libraries, and the old folks and the girls were very intellectual.

Eaglebird had been settled for a land speculation. Ten men with money had purchased a tract for a song and secured others to join them in settling it by offering a share in the property. In this way some forty men, mostly young and all unmarried, were secured as pioneers for the enterprise. They built a town, but no more men came, and owing to the absence of women there were no children.

O'Brien, who was the originator of the scheme, one day called a meeting in the town hall, a building 12 by 18, used principally for poker parties, and thus addressed the gathering:

"Gentlemen, if we can't get some women here we'll have to give up this scheme and go somewhere else. I've a proposition to make. Ladybird is more fitly adapted to the women in Ladybird. Efforts have been made to induce some of them to marry our fellows, but they have turned up their noses at us. What do you say to swooping down on 'em and carrying 'em off?"

The idea took like wildfire. Naturally, the youngest men were the most enthusiastic. Thirty men agreed to join the abductors, and no one of them was over thirty years old, while the great majority were not twenty-five. It looked well for the scheme, for the girls they were to run off had nearly all been born since the settlement of Ladybird and were therefore young.

The very next day after the proposal of the abduction scheme a lady and her husband who were driving through the country with a view to establishing an emigration scheme stopped at Eaglebird and asked for entertainment for the night. They were accommodated, and so long had it been since the men had seen a woman that they treated the lady as though she were a queen. Every man in the town offered to serve her. In the evening they asked if she would not talk to them. It didn't matter what she said; they only wished to listen to the sweet, soft voice of a woman. She consented, and all adjourned to the town hall, where the lady was given a seat on a platform at one end of the room. This is what she said to them:

"Gentlemen, I don't wonder you wish to listen to a woman's voice. You are all refined men, though living here without woman's quieting influence. What you need is wives"—

There was a howl of response to this that broke in upon the address. One man whose voice drowned the others gave away the scheme to the rest of the party at once. He was bowled down for doing so, since it was to be expected that he had rendered it abortive. When some sort of order was restored the lady spoke again:

"I am not sure but what your plan may be advisable."

This drew forth a burst of applause.

"Perhaps many of you," the lady continued, "who are educated men may call to mind how those men who settled Rome as you have settled Eaglebird invited their neighbors, the Sabines to a feast and carried off their daughters. The women became attached to their husbands, and when their fathers and brothers attacked the Romans the women interposed and stopped the fight."

After another howl of approval the lady went on:

"I wouldn't advise so treacherous a method as inviting the Ladybirders to a feast. It is not necessary. Rather wait for some celebration during which the girls are out in a body. My husband and I intend to visit Ladybird, and I will make inquiries as to a favorable time for your enterprise and advise you."

"Good! Bully! And you won't give us away?" cried the crowd.

The lady declared that she would not give them away, and she was not sure but that her conscience would permit her to aid them. The meeting broke up with cheers for their visitor, elder and abettor, and the next morning, amid another round of cheers, the couple drove away.

In a few days a message came from the late visitor, who signed herself Elizabeth Harrison, stating that in a few days May day would be celebrated at Ladybird on the square around which the town was built and that at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the young people would dance around a maypole. The children would first do the dancing, then the young men and women. But since there were left two or three young men in the town and since either invalids or too spiritless to go away from such a dull place they did not count. The donor was expected that some twenty-five or thirty young girls would be dancing together, constituting a one-sided of Ladybirds to be seized and carried away.

Mrs. Harrison strongly advised preparing a portion of Eaglebird for their reception and that they be married there together by themselves. No one should be forced into marriage; they should simply be held until carried from choice or it was evident that they preferred to return to Ladybird.

That they had been fortunate in securing the services and advice of a woman was evident to all. Some who had believed that the scheme was only the ruse of Eaglebird began to think that a number of the girls could be induced to remain with them as wives. What such persons chiefly dreaded was that the captives would feel estranged at their abduction and that most of them, taking to fight, would make a good an escape.

Preparations were set once begun for the raid in accordance with Mrs. Harrison's advice. One end of the town was set apart for the girls and beautified so far as the men could beautify it, though, to tell the truth, this consisted chiefly in cleaning up, whitewashing, etc. There was also a clean ing up of the prospective husbands. There were but two or three razors in the town, and these were in constant requisition. Several men were appointed hair cutters and did a lot of shearing. The clothes the men had had come in from the east and were got out and refurbished. Altogether after the polishing a very presentable set of young men were ready for courtship and matrimony.

May day opened bright and beautiful. All the fellows in the town were harnessed, and some thirty good and true men started for Ladybird. At noon they stopped in a wood a few miles from the town for lunch and rest, but by 2 o'clock were again on the march. About 3 they sent out a mounted scout to watch for the time fitted for the attack and waited.

Over the intervening grass and wild flowers, through the young leaves, came the sound of feminine voices raised merrily. Every man started to his feet. In a few minutes the scout rode into camp and reported that the girls were dancing about the maypole in O'Brien, who was leader, gave the order to start, and, advancing to the cover of trees overlooking the open houses of the town, they left their teams and, forming a line of battle, at a given signal moved forward in perfect silence upon the enemy.

Their advance was heralded by a scream, but before they were discovered they were within striking distance. What surprised them was that instead of running away the girls sank down when they were overtaken by their faces and shrieking. So expeditious were the abductors that before the elderly girls of the town could even collect to observe what was going on every girl had been carried off and placed on a wagon.

Never was an abduction more easily effected. A few of the girls resisted as they were hurried over, but the sight of so many determined resistance useless their struggles were not violent. One in the wagons, with a guard on either side, they remained quiet where they were, and the caravan set out for Eaglebird.

They had not been long on the way when a guard at one of the wagons went forward to O'Brien and said:

"Some of the girls in the wagon I'm with are snickering."

"Hysterics? Are you sure it's not hysterics?"

"Hysterics be hanged. It's a girl's real snicker."

Then came other reports of the same kind, and presently the girls began to take note of their abductors, then to ask what they were going to do with them, and before long the train was much like a picnic party.

Well, to make a long story short, Mrs. Harrison's prediction that they had told of the predicament of a lot of nice young men going downward for want of wives, and after duly preparing the young ladies' minds received the coming raid. Gradually she won them over to permitting themselves to be abducted, assuring them that they would not be forced to marry unless they wished.

Within a few hours after the arrival of the train at Eaglebird there was a wedding, and before the day was ended there were two more. The number of splinters each day grew beautifully less, and in the end but two of them returned to Ladybird.

Eaglebird is now quite a sizable town, comprising churches, schools and all the requisites of civilization. A few great-grandmothers of the present generation are still honored as having been among the band that placed the town on a permanent basis by the raid on Ladybird. The latter town has disappeared, there being no trace of it left except a cemetery, in which has grown up a forest of trees

The Charmed Life

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

He had a plain, common name, Hugo Bahl, he was homely of face, big headed, clumsy in all his movements. One eye had been blinded in youth, yet he had a soul clear as crystal and the gentle nature of a child.

The little village of Grasden was his world and he never dared to go beyond its mountain-guarded confine. His home was his heaven. To him Olga, his wife, was an angel of beauty despite her work-hardened hands and misshapen form, and the two little children, a boy and a girl, freckled, redhead, a boy and a girl, freckled faced, healthy rather than handsome, were cherubs! A few pence earnings a settlement once a week, patched clothing, bundles of straw—these ever present, but irradiated with the glory of full appreciation and thereafter they were happy.

And then! War leaped forth from hell, bent upon a long trail of death and devastation. Rude clamors shook the commonwealth, the loyal legions of menaced Belgium arose to smite the invading foe. Hugo Bahl bissed his mother and children adieu. A thousand deaths were in their faces and one poor victory. Then the invasion of the Fatherland depleted the broken ranks of his comrades, was sent to France on duty beyond the frontier.

He was agitated and anxious when he heard that his native town had been invaded by the enemy. Then came a letter from a friend at Grasden. The enemy had sacked the village; they had burned up his little home. His aged mother had collapsed from the shock, and brutal soldiers had cut off the hands of each of the children. His wife had gone insane and had died.

Like one demented Hugo Bahl raged madly for a day and a night. There succeeded a dull lethargy. It was later when he learned that his two little ones with hundreds of others had been deported to America. His company was abruptly ordered into action. With fierce savagery he sought the foe, the hunting for blood. He courted situations of extreme peril but escaped unscathed, seeming to lead a charmed life, one day the sergeant came to the captain of the company:

"I fear for Bahl," he said. "I believe he is mad. He has no mental pain. Everyone he will leave us."

"Why, he is our best flahter."

"Yes, thinking of Hunther Hollern, who led the attack at Grasden and who personally ordered the mutilation of his children. Day and night Bahl mutters that he did not wish to kill that fiend of Hultur. He will reach the man yet."

But if Hugo meditated abandoning duty to hunt down the fiend who had robbed him of home and family, circumstances prevented. The enemy was driven from the entire line of resistance. Because he was helpless he was allowed to return to Grasden. That was just what he wished. For Colonel Hollern was there in charge of a camp.

Hugo had now but one thought—vengeance against the "monster of Hollern." It would have been easy for him to have visited the camp and have ended Hollern with a pistol shot, but he did not wish to kill that fiend until he had him in a position where he could first torture him and detail his crimes to him.

He managed to get enough from friends to start a little barber shop. All along he nurtured his dreams of revenge. Then early one morning his eyes flamed, his breath came in a hiss, his soul seemed on fire as Colonel Hollern entered his little shop. To the arch murderer Bahl was unknown. He threw himself into the chair.

"A shave, and let me doze," growled the great blooted plutocrat, drowsy and dull from a night of reckless dissipation.

"Ah-h!" breathed the quivering Bahl. "Surely Heaven has delivered mine enemy into my hands!"

The colonel threw himself back in a comfortable position, his eyes closed. Snapping like a whiplash, the keen blade swept the strop. Bahl knew that he was dead. This warrior, this bold valiant soldier had died—craven that he was at the sight of steel.

And then Hugo Bahl left his shop and went to the little graveyard where two rude crosses marked the graves of mother and wife, and then somehow glad that his had not been the hand to wreak the intended vengeance, he turned his face to the town, begining the long journey that should bring him to the new home, the free home of his lost little ones.

"I'm engaged in the dairy business at present," remarked the lawyer.

"Yes don't say the exclaimed his friend, the doctor.

"Fact !" rejoined the legal light. "I'm milking an estate."

TWO BRITISH INVENTORS.

One Invented Loom and Other Dyes From Coal Tar.

British technicians recently celebrated the centenary of the death of Dr. Edmund Cartwright, the inventor of the power loom which began a revolution in textile manufacture. The story is one of the romances of industry. Dr. Cartwright was a Church of England clergyman living at Goadby county parish in Leicester. He wrote poetry, corresponded with literary men and made experiments in farming, but until he was 40 years of age he had no interest in mechanics. A chance visit to Derbyshire, where Arkwright had erected the first spinning factory, so gvested to him the idea of the power loom. On his return home he devised, with the aid of the village carpenter and smith, a loom which could be driven by an animal. "As I had never before turned my thoughts to anything mechanical, either in theory or practice, nor had even a vis a bum at work," he wrote, "you will readily believe that my first loom was a most rude piece of machinery." In 1785 he built a factory to utilize his invention, but some years afterward he had to surrender it to his creditors. Later he patented a wool-combing machine which effected large economies, but this was also a financial failure. He would have faced poverty—the fate of so many inventors—had not Parliament voted him in 1809 a gift of £10,000 as a reward for his contribution to British progress. With this money he bought a small farm in Kent, where he spent the rest of his days.

In Cartwright's case the economic benefits of his inventive genius went mainly to his own country, which got a long start in the textile trade. Great Britain was not so fortunate in another great branch of industry. Nearly seventy years ago a young British chemist, William Perkin, discovered a process of making dyes from coal tar, but it remained for German enterprise to exploit it. Germany capitalized British brains and built up her dye industry, which before the war almost dominated the world. Sir William Perkin died in 1907 full of years and honors, but the fruits of his discovery had been passed to a foreign land. The British dye industry is now being recreated, and by a stroke of fortune it has enlisted the services of Sir William's son, William Henry, himself a chemist of distinguished attainments at Toronto Clobe.

The Phoenix.

Several fire insurance companies are named after the phoenix the fabulous sacred bird of Arabia which According to the story told to Herodotus, the bird came from Arabia every 500 years bearing the body of his father embalmed in a ball of myrrh, and buried him in the temple of the sun. Herodotus says the pictures of the bird represent it with golden and red plumage, and in size resembling an eagle in size and shape. According to Pliny, there is only one phoenix at a time, and he, at the close of his long life, builds himself a nest with twigs of cassia and frankincense, and then dies. From his corpse is generated a worm which grows into the young phoenix, says the ancient News.

Tacitus says that the young bird lays his father on the altar in the city of the Sun, or burns him there. But the most familiar form of the legend is where the Phoenix is described as an Indian bird which subsists on air for 500 years, which, during its wings with spices, he flies to Heliopolis, enters the temple and, only to arrive at the altar. Next day the young phoenix is already feathered. On the third day his plumes are full grown, and he salutes the priest and flies away.

Nice and Polite and Modest.

A minister was consulting some of his amusing experiences in marrying people. "There's an old custom," said he, "that the bridegroom shall kiss the bride immediately after the marriage ceremony is over. It's a good, practical custom, for it serves more handily than anything else that I know of to dissipate the awkward pause that always follows the simple, informal ceremony. For this reason I keep the custom alive.

"One day a man whom I shall call Blank came to the parsonage to be married. Mr. Blank is a confirmed old bachelor, consequential bitt man. The prospective Mrs. Blank was a fine, winsome girl. After the ceremony Mr. Blank in spite of his composity, did not seem to know just what was the next thing to do, as is frequently the case in such emergencies, I said: 'My dear sir, it is your privilege to salute the bride.' He turned around and, extending his hand formally said, 'Mrs. Blank, I congratulate you'."

A Strange Case.

In a Fenian court a case is being sued for damages as a result of failure to hang a tall fellow for a bad heifer. It seems that Pat had developed a peachant for wandering about country lanes and roads after dark, and for a stranger in an automobile bumped into her. We are left in ignorance as to the fate of the heifer, but the automobile was damaged to the amount of $529.52. The query of the astonished judge when the owner of the heifer should pay. —SanFrancisco Chronicle.

Epsom Salts as a Dinner.

Effervescent mortal Epsom salts dissolved In a teacupful of water provides the neatest and most efficient "headlight dinner" for automobiles or fat people, according to the Scientific American. The solution is used on the inside, of the headlight glass, where it is allowed to evaporate. The result is a beautifully frosted lens, the frosting on which lasts for several months.

Is There a Baby In Your Home?

Is there a baby or young children in your home? If there is, you should not be without a box of Baby's Own Tablets. Childhood ailments come quickly and means should always be at hand to promptly fight them. Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal home remedy. They regulate the bowels; sweeten the stomach; banish constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers—in fact they relieve all the minor ills of little ones. Concerning them Mrs. Moise Gadoite, Makamik, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are the best remedy in the world for little ones. My baby suffered terribly from indigestion and vomiting, but Baby's Tablets soon set her right and now she is in perfect health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

COLDS THAT DEVELOP INTO PNEUMONIA

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, a emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat and chest troubles. But in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, are absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Miss Hitty's Discovery

A Story of the "Movies"

By CLARISSA MACKIE

In the village of Edgewood were many straitlaced persons. To visit that town and become acquainted with the inhabitants was like going back a century, when the theater, playing cards and all manner of amusements were considered wicked. There is a story of a man who paved the way for the enjoyment of the game of billiards in the God fearing town of Philadelphia during the early part of the last century. He said that marbles were not considered wicked—why billiards? Marbles were stone, while billiard balls were ivory. Marbles were shot by the hand, billiard balls by a stick. Marbles were played on the sidewalk out of doors, while billiards were played on a level bed in the house. Where in lay the difference?

The good people of the Quaker City, whose children could not be prevented from playing marbles, concluded after this theory had been made that billiards were no more sinful and withdrew their opposition, and thereafter billiards became fashionable.

It was the fate of Miss Hitty to make a similar discovery in Edgewood.

Miss Hitty met Dick Hedges at a church sociable. Had she not met him at a church sociable she would probably never have met him at all, for dancing was frowned upon in Edgewood, and without dancing young people's parties are considered dull,. The consequence was that, no one caring to go to the trouble of getting up a party that was sure to be dull, parties were not given.

But it would have made no difference where these two happened to meet, for at once both recognized that they were made for each other, and after that they provided their own places of meeting and very soon they were engaged. Unfortunately Hedges was poor and but one opening appeared for him: that was a position in a American tea house in China. Dick availed himself of it and tore himself away from his betrothed. Two weeks, months, even years, passed, and he did not return.

When the Palace movie theater opened its doors in Edgewood the house of entertainment was looked upon with disapproval by the church members.

At first many of them declined to even penetrate the mysteries beyond the white painted doors and the many posters outside; but gradually one by one the villagers were lured inside until the venture promised to be a profitable one. Even the ministers of the different churches visited the theater from time to time to censor the plays, but on the whole it was decided that it was a harmless diversion.

After Miss Hitty Morton made her important discovery she wowed took the Palace theater to its heart.

Every one knew that Hitty Morton would have been married long ago if Dick Hedges had ever returned from his long voyage to China. But Dick had never returned, and it was believed that he had died. One by one his family had died or moved away from Edgewood until there remained only his old sweetheart, Hitty Morton, who lived on Honeypot road, in a little red cottage near the bay. Some people whispered that Dick had been faithless to Hitty.

The first time Hitty entered the walls of the Palace she was bewildered by the crowd of silent people, the flashing pictures on the screen, the novelty of it all, for she had never been in a theater all her simple life.

But the screen pictures told their magic spell upon her, and she became a devotee of the movies. Two a week as regularly as the program was changed Hitty Morton could be found sitting in the same seat halfway down the room, her bright eyes eagerly following the stories told by the screen.

Deacon Peddle, who passed the collection plate in church, always sentinized Hitty's contribution to detect whether or not she was enjoying the semiweekly amusement at the expense of the church, but invariably Hitty's silver dime would drop into the plate Perhaps Hime Dayton, the butcher, might have told another story—that Hitty was skimping on her food. She was eating meat only twice a week now instead of three times.

One night in particular the posters were more alluring than ever. There had been a change of program that day, but there was a missionary meeting, and Hitty had postponed her going to the following night. Now she paused in front of the brightly lighted entrance and studied the colored posters. "All For Love." That sounded thrilling, with a rescue at sea. Pictures of the sea always attracted her.

"Visits to Strange Lands." Hitty thrilled with anticipated pleasure, for perhaps glimpses of strange lands and strange people, perhaps the countries that Dick Hedges had visited. He used to say that when he got a vessel of his own he would take her with him to the far east. Hitty still lived these voyages in her day dreams.

She glanced up and down the village street.

Yonder was the church. The basement was brightly lighted, for there was to be a missionary barrel packed that night. In Hitty's arms were half a dozen white shirts she had stitched for some unknown missionary in Asia. She was expected to help pack the barrel.

Before her were the alluring posters. Hitty glanced once up and down the street and then disappeared through the swinging doors. She did not know that Mrs. Deacon Peddle, passing on the other side of the street, had glimpsed her disappearance, and she did not know detailing the circumstances to a shocked group of listeners about the backsliding of Hitty Morton.

Hitty found her accustomed seat, and being rather short in stature she sat down on the bundle of shirts and so did not miss a thing all evening.

The sweet romance of "All For Love" was slowly reeled off to the sentimental rapture of the very young and a few lonely souls like our own Miss Hitty. She sat through it all, her round, sweet little face uplifted to the screen, with a look of wistfulness that a newcomer to the sea sat down nearby.

If any one had been interested it might have been noticed that the keenest newcomer divided his interest between the pictures and Hitty Morton's face. After awhile the seat beside Hitty became vacant and in the darkened theater the stranger glided across the aisle and occupied it. Hitty never once turned her eyes from the screen; she was accustomed to this change of neighbors.

On the screen appeared the first of the travel pictures, which were Hitty's delight.

A great steamer was sailing from San Francisco for Japan. She felt herself one of "that group of travelers hurrying up the gangplank of the great liner.

The scene shifted to the first port of call, Honolulu. Dark eyed maidens with garlands of flowers about their necks and other garlands for sale, queer vehicles, a swift view of a volcano, then aboard the steamer. A glimpse of the social life on board, then the approach to the fairy islands of Japan.

Breathlessly Hitty watched the shifting scenes, fascinated by the oriental sights. She almost thought herself there with Dick, as she had dreamed. While she watched she turned a little, worn ring on her engagement finger. Any woman in Edgewood would have told you that it was Hitty Morton's engagement ring.

The man beside her glimpsed the ring, and his face grew pale.

At last the steamer approached the yellow shore line of China. Then she dropped anchor off Wusung, in the mouth of the Yangtze river, and transferred her passengers to the small tugs which were to convey them up the shallow tidal river called Whangpo to the city of Shanghai.

When the picture of the public wharf at Shanghai was thrown upon the screen Hitty leaned forward. She wanted to scream.

There in the crowd of eager faces watching the arriving passengers was a familiar one—the face of Dick Hedges, grown older, perhaps, but Dick Hedges, nevertheless, smooth shaven, with a captain's uniform on his broad shoulders and a gold laced cap on his handsome head.

"Dick! Dick Hedges, her Dick in faraway Shanghai!

The much maligned moving picture screen had shown her that he was alive!

"Dick! Dick! Oh, Dick!" she whispered sobbingly.

A strong, warm hand covered hers, and the man beside her looked down out of Dick Hedges' eyes. He wore a captain's uniform, and in his other hand was a gold laced cap.

"Dick!" Hitty thought she screamed the word, but it did not leave her lips.

"Easy, lass; easy, lass!" he whispered gently, and then while the screen displayed further pictures of these far countries Hitty saw no more. Was not life unreeling for her a greater romance than could be depicted on a screen? Had not the sea given up its dead?

Dick whispered the meager details of his story. He had been set ashore and then rescued, and when he had returned to civilization some one from Edgewood had maliciously told him that Hitty Morton had forgotten him and was married to another man.

Only a little while ago Dick had heard that Hitty was still unmarried, and so he had returned to Edgewood to ascertain if she still cared for him. He had dropped into the theater and glimpsed her face. He sat beside her and saw that she wore his ring. Then he looked at her finger! He had seen her face when his own picture—taken unknown to himself—had bobbed out of the crowd upon the wharf in Shanghai. He had heard her murmured words, her unconscious cry of joy at seeing him.

"Then I knew that you still loved me and that I was not too late," he whispered as they followed the crowd outside. "My ship sails from San Francisco on the 21st, Hitty, so we must be married at once so that we can start on our honeymoon voyage. You remember how we planned it, eh?"

Of course Hitty remembered. They walked along in happy conversation, the package of shirts tucked under Dick's free arm.

Mrs. Deacon Peddle and a group of missionary ladies overtook Hitty Morton and brought her to a realization of things.

"Hitty Morton! Where are those missionary shirts?" demanded Mrs. Peddle. "We're holding the barrel open till morning so's they can be put in."

Hitty took the package from Dick's arm, but he snatched it back again.

"If these are shirts, men's size," he said genially, "I guess I'm the biggest guy Hitty's ever seen fit to want 'em for my trousaw. Hitty and I'm going to be married in a day or so."

Bible Class Entertained.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Wales entertained the members of "The Helping Hand Bible Class" of Grace United Church, at their home, Adelphi St., on Friday evening. There were between fifty and sixty guests present. The early part of the evening was enjoyably spent in singing, contests, etc., after which a most sumptuous chicken supper was served. The happy gathering dispersed about the midnight hour, one and all expressing their keen appreciation of the kindness of the host and hostess in opening their home to the members of this class and making it possible for so pleasant an evening.

Boys' Basketball.

A Bay of Quinte Basketball League has been formed, including Trenton High School, Belleville High School, Albert College and Napanee Collegiate Institute. The teams will play home-and-home games and these will be played on either Friday or Saturday of each week. The first games will be played on January 28th or 29th, and the schedule will continue through February and the first week in March. Boys' Basketball was introduced in Napanee last winter and created a great deal of interest. It is one of the fastest indoor sports and deserves the patronage of the people of Napanee. The schedule will be announced later and separate announcements will be made of each home game of the N.C.I. team. Come out to encourage and cheer the team, as well as to see some of the best sporting entertainment ever offered to Napanee.

Installation of Officers.

Installation of officers took place in Queen of Sheba Rebekah Lodge on Monday evening, when District Deputy Grand President Sister Phillips and Suite, of Harrowsmith, were present and installed the several officers for the year 1927. Following the work of the evening, the visiting sisters were entertained to dinner, which was served in the banquet hall. There was a large turnout of members and all enjoyed themselves immensely. Following is the list of officers :

J.D.G.—Sister Alma Wales.
N.G.—Sister Gladys Thompson.
V.G.—Sister Lillian Kitchen.
Chaplain—Sister Jennie Coates.
R.S.—Sister Kathleen Huffman.
F.S.—Sister Irene Wagar.
Treas.—Sister Laura Garratt.
R.S.N.G.—Sister Helen Douglas.
P.G.
L.S.N.G.—Sister Lottie Huyck.
R.S.V.G.—Sister Ida Sills.
L.S.V.G.—Sister Myrtle Russell.
Warden—Sister Sarah VanAlstine.
Conductor—Sister Grace Oliver.
O.G.—Sister Minnie Seymour.
I.G.—Sister Ethel Exley.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY FIRST MEETING

The first meeting of the Lennox and Addington Historical Society will be held in the Historical Hall over the Public Library, on Friday, the 21st, at 8 o'clock. The lecturer for the evening is Dr. F. C. Campbell, of Queen's, who will address the Society on "A Ramble Through Southern France". Dr. Campbell last year gave a similar lecture here on Normandy, which was well received. The lecture is illustrated, by slides made from Dr. Campbell's own pictures, and each one has a special interest to the lecturer and are made the subject of an interesting description.

These lecturers are brought here by the Historical Society for the purpose of giving the people of Napanee an opportunity to hear men of distinction on subjects of which they are the masters. All the citizens are invited to these lectures which are free to all.

Reduced by Asthma. The constant strain of asthma brings the patient to a dreadful state of hopeless exhaustion. Early use should by all means be made of the famous Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy, which more than any other acts quickly and surely on the air passages and brings blessed help and comfort. No home where asthma is present in the least degree should be without this great remedy.

ORGAN RECITAL

The organ recital, which Prof. Leo B. Riggs gave in Trinity Church, on Friday evening of last week, was one of the greatest treats ever afforded the music lovers of Napanee. Prof. Riggs was a Belleville boy originally, who of recent years has been the organist at the Hotel Astor in New York, and was one of the first to broadcast by radio from that city. At present Prof. Riggs is residing in Belleville, and it is through the forbearance of members of the Study the audience on Friday were permitted to hear the delightful program of music.

Prof. Riggs is a genius of great ability, his technique of an unusually perfection that it would be impossible to do justice to him if one attempted to describe it. The majesty of the Bach Fugue (G. Minor); the marvel in execution of the Study for the Pedals (Bonnett); the wonderful beauty of the two Overtures, the Prelude to Parsifal, the Symphony number and the Ride of the Valkyries; and the sweetness and restfulness of the Chime numbers were all the work of a real musician. Mr. Riggs also played the 12th Hungarian Rhapsody on the piano, and as an encore a Bartlett number, both rippling waves of melody.

An added charm was given to the evening's entertainment when Mrs. Riggs sang two very lovely soprano solos, both of which were enthusiastically encored. It was a real disappointment to her admirers when Mrs. Riggs did not respond.

Mr. and Mrs. Riggs will be heartily welcomed should they return to Napanee at some future date.

HOCKEY

The first hockey of the season opened at Adolphustown on Saturday last, on the Davern & Jorden rink, when Bath came up full of life, but went back in different spirits. The game was a real treat to watch at times. The score was 3 to 1 in favor of the home team. Had the ice been real good, it would have been 10 to 1 as Adolphustown has a fast forward line, with Davern and Prest; also Gallagher was in on ten of the Bath goal-tender all day. Then you take the defence are two stars, Reid Roblin and Ray Allison. Ray is as good as ever on his old tricks, as he scored the first goal. Bath could not get by this pair. Fattie Young tried to get through, but it was a stone wall for him. It should have been a whitewash, but it looked a little better for Bath to go home. The line-up was as follows : Goal, Ham; defence, Roblin and Allison; forwards, Prest, Gallagher and Davern; subs., Jorden, Allen and Dean.

The Canadian National Railways Hockey Team of Belleville, will be seen in action against the locals on Tuesday, January 25th, at the Napanee Arena. The railroaders are a fast bunch and their line-up boasts of several star performers on the O. H. A. Intermediates. "Star" Hagerman, "Dan" Whalen, and Drew are going great guns for the leaders of the league group of the O. H. A. Vern Weir, "Sammy" Simmons, "Chuck" Lloyd, Armstrong, "Bo" McNeil and "Hoot" Gibson complete the line up, and they have speed and experience. It should be a good game. The locals have been practicing faithfully for the game, and should be in better condition than they were in the first game.

CURLING.

The two Tankard rinks from Napanee played in Group No. 1 at Kingston on Saturday afternoon and evening.

The Group consists of the following four clubs, Brockville, Rockwood Hospital, Kingston and Napanee. In the afternoon Kingston defeated Brockville by two points, and Napanee defeated Rockwood Hospital by 12 points.

The winners, Kingston and Napanee, played off in the evening, Kingston winning by 7 points.

Rinks were as follows :—

Napanee.	Kingston.
Dr. McLaughlin	W. Chapman
Pat Gleeson	H. Bibby
A. L. Dafoe	J. H. S. Derry
M. P. Graham	Harry Travers
skip-22	skip-14
W. J. Jewell	R. Carnegie
W. C. Smith	J. MacDonald
H. W. Huffman	W. Frizzell
C. I. Maybee	Geo. Hanson

Four rinks from Belleville will visit Napanee Friday evening, for the second game of the Central Ontario Curling League, Belleville ratio Curling League. Belleville won the first game in Belleville, but the Napanee curlers are confident of winning by a good margin Friday night.

INSTALLATION OF OFFICERS.

On Monday evening, January 17th, 1927, Ross S. McRae, D.D.G.P. and Suite, of Kingston, installed the officers of Mount Ararat Encampment, No. 16, I.O.O.F., in their encampment room, before the largest turnout in years, Patriarchs being present from their surroundings district.

The following officers were installed for the present term :—

HOCKEY

The game of hockey which is being staged on Friday evening of this week with the Bell Telephone Co. team of Belleville should be a good one. Not much is known of the strength of the visitors. They are playing in City League hockey in Belleville and are in first class condition.

At the early part of the season it was proposed to form a Bay of Quinte League, composed of Trenton, Napanee and Belleville, and the team representing Belleville is the sextette of the Bell Telephone Co. team. It will give the fans an idea of just where they would have been had such a league been formed.

Those fans who attended the game on Tuesday night were loud in their praises of the playing of the Napanee team, and of the sensational playing of "Wee" Powell in goal, and they are anxious to again see this player perform. The locals are all going good, and Manager Bill McLaughlin expects to land another victory with his team.

COUNTY COUNCIL

The County Council met in the Council Chamber in the Court House on Tuesday afternoon, for the inaugural session of the year. The Clerk read the certificates of the newly elected members, who were all present.

Moved by R. J. Campbell, seconded by Bert Elliott, that Mr. L. Henry Young, Reeve of the Township of Sheffield, be elected Warden for 1927. Carried by a unanimous standing vote.

His Honor Judge Madden appeared in the Council Chamber, and administered the oath of office to the newly elected Warden. His Honor also congratulated the Council on the selection of Mr. Young as Warden, and congratulated him upon his elevation to the Warden's chair.

Warden-elect Young took the opportunity of thanking the members for the honor conferred upon him by his fellow members. He asked the members particularly to uphold the dignity of the County Council, and assist him in the performance of his duties.

The members of the Council all in turn offered their congratulations to Mr. Young on his elevation to the chief magistracy of the County.

Mr. Chas. Anderson, a former member of the County Council, also added his congratulations to the new Warden.

Moved Mr. Woodger opened the session with prayer, and also addressed a few remarks to the Council.

Messrs. D. A. Aylesworth, Wm. Dunbar and Auditor Wagar also complimented the newly elected Warden.

County Auditor Wagar presented the report of the Auditors for 1926.

On motion by Messrs. Fisher and Johnson, that the following be a committee to strike the Standing Committees for the year, Messrs. Fisher, Johnson, Aylsworth, Loyst, Elliott, Clark, Miller, Campbell and the Warden, Carried.

On motion Council adjourned for a short time to allow the Committee to make their report.

The Committee reported as follows :—

Finance—G. A. Aylesworth, Chairman; A. C. Tummon, Secretary; J. C. Gordon, Gould Judge, F. S. Boyes.

County Property — A. C. Miller, Chairman; F. S. Boyes, Secretary; R. Loyst, J. S. Johnson, R. J. Campbell, C. Both.

Roads and Bridges—A. C. Tummon, Chairman; J. S. Johnson, Secretary; James Fisher, W. C. Loyst, J. H. Bell.

Education and Printing — R. J. Campbell, Chairman; Jas. W. Clark, W. Glenn, Secretary; C. Both, John Judge, A. C. Miller.

Police—W. Clark, Chairman; J. W. Glenn, Secretary; C. Both, John Judge, A. C. Miller.

Auditors—Messrs. B. Elliott, Chairman; James Fisher, Secretary; J. W. Clark, R. J. Campbell, A. C. Tummon.

The Warden is to be a member of all committees.

On motion the report was adopted.

The Clerk presented the statement of Provincial Highway Construction and maintenance in 1926, showing County's share of expenditure to be $1,364.40. Ordered paid when due.

An account from Kingston General Hospital for quarter ending January 1st, $2,234.50, was referred to the Finance Committee.

Mr. A. M. Rankin, ex-M.P.P., addressed the Council, offering his assistance in any way the Council might request.

On motion, a vote of thanks was tendered Mr. Rankin.

Council adjourned.

Wednesday Morning.

Mr. Campbell brought to the attention of the Council the bad condition of the trunk road, from Kaladar station leading north, known as the Addington road. This road is under the jurisdiction of the Colonization Road Department, but is not being kept fit for travel.

On motion of Messrs. Campbell and Both, the County Council passed a resolution, calling the attention of the Provincial Government to the bad condition of the above road.

The report of the Warden and Clerk of orders issued on the Treasurer, was referred to the Finance Committee.

The Auditors' Report was referred to the Finance Committee.

On motion, Reeve Clark of North Frederickstead, was added to the Roads and Bridges Committee.

Moved by Mr. Johnson, seconded by Mr. Judge, that any important County Road machinery required be purchased by the County, be left to the Committee of the Whole.

A discussion of County Road matters followed, with attention of the Council for a considerable time during the session.

Wednesday Afternoon

A notice from the Workmen's Compensation Board, that Floyd Forrest had been awarded a pension of $9.50 a month for life, as a result of an accident while working on the County Roads, last summer; also that $116.00 was now due and payable.

A deputation appeared before the Council in reference to the heating of the Court Room. Judges Latchford and Madden and Messrs. W. S. Herrington, U. M. Wilson, J. M. Simpson, W. A. Grange, K. S. Hunter, Dr. Rochefoche, T. B. German and C. W. Vandervoort accompanied the deputation. The deputation pointed out to the Council the especially bad condition of the corridors, which have to be used by the witnesses, jurors of the professions, in which there is absolutely no provision made for them.

The matter was referred to the County Property Committee to report on the same.

On motion the Amherst Island Women's Institute was made the grant of $46.00.

On motion the Treasurer was given instructions to pay the award in the

GEORGE HENRY YOUNG CHOSEN WARDEN

At the inaugural meeting of the County Council, held in their Council Chambers, at the Court House, on Tuesday afternoon, Mr. George Henry Young, Reeve of the Township of Sheffield, was chosen Warden of the County of Lennox and Addington, for the year 1927. Mr. Young is a prosperous farmer of the Township of Sheffield, and has been its representative as Reeve for seven consecutive years. His election to this important office will be well received by his many friends, and all will join in extending their hearty congratulations.

Floyd Sweet case to the Compensation Board.

The Education and Printing Committee reported the receipt of tenders for printing at the same price as in 1926, and recommended the adoption of the report. Report adopted.

A By-law to borrow $100,000 to meet the current expenditures of the County, was put through its various stages, and finally passed.

Mr. Campbell presented a By-law to organize School Trustees, appointing Rev. J. H. H. Coleman a Trustee for the Napanee Collegiate Institute, and Rev. J. Vandervoort, Newburgh High School. The By-law was put through its various stages and finally passed.

Moved by Mr. Tummon, seconded by Mr. Boyes, that the Warden and Clerk be authorized to sign the statement of County Road expenditures, for presentation to the Provincial Department of Highways.

Warden Young spent the cause of the Smith children, now in the Belleville Shelter. That arrangements had been made to send two of the children to the Orillia home, and that the third one, at present in hospital, will be dealt with when she recovers her health.

On motion the Good Roads Association was paid the County's membership, $15.00. Carried.

On motion the usual grant of $35.00 each was made to all members of the County Council and officials who wish to attend the Good Roads Convention.

On motion, the County Roads Superintendent was allowed clerical assistance to make up his annual report. Referred to Finance Committee.

The Treasurer was granted a credit of $50.00 for excise stamps, until the June session.

Mr. Tummon moved that $500.00 be placed to the credit of the County Road Superintendent for hill gravel for use on County roads.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The sermon subject for next Sunday is "The Steadfastness of Jesus."

Next Sunday the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed at Harlowe in the morning, Erinaville in the afternoon, and Tamworth in the evening.

The third Quarterly Board meeting of the Pastoral Charge will be held next Monday at 7.30 p.m. in the League Room of the Church.

Thus far the road conditions have been such that the minister has been able to travel each Sunday by automobile. There is a big difference between a 25-mile drive in a closed car and the same distance in an open cutter.

There are only two months left of the Conference Year, which means that we must speed up with contributions for the M. and E. Fund.

Nomination of Commissioners to the General Council by ballot or by rotation in the Belleville Presbytery will likely be decided at the meeting in Belleville on Thursday of this week.

A WEAK STOMACH

Can Be Strengthened Through the Use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

Wonderful is the process by which the chemistry of the body changes the food we eat into blood. And the health we enjoy depends upon how this being maintained day after day, year in and year out. Sometimes the process becomes faulty, and then food begins to poison the blood instead of feeding it. This is followed by all the pangs of indigestion, such as gas on the stomach, pains around the heart, often nausea after eating, and a dislike for all kinds of food.

The only way to overcome these troubles is to tone up the digestion so that you can assimilate all your food. To do this you have only to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. A short course of these pills will quickly tone up the stomach and banish indigestion. There is a bit of convincing proof given by Mrs. Chas. Ladner, Ellerslie, P.E.I., who says:—"For some years I was a sufferer from stomach trouble. Everything I ate caused distress, sour stomach and belching. I could not eat meat or potatoes, and I grew weak and nervous. No medicine seemed to help me until I was persuaded to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and these simply worked wonders. I took the pills faithfully for a couple of months by which time every symptom of the trouble disappeared, and there has not since been the slightest symptom of my former trouble. No wonder I praise Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

AGED WOMAN DROWNED AS CAR SINKS THRU' ICE

Heroic Efforts of Son Fail to Save 85-Year-Old Mother.

A drowning tragedy occurred about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon, close to Indian Point, Prince Edward County, when Mrs. James Howard, aged 85, lost her life.

Mrs. Howard with her son, Vere, had left Stella, Amherst Island, in an automobile to return home, and when they were a short distance from Indian Point the ice began to give way. Vere jumped from the car on to solid ice, and tried to get his mother out, but the car sank, and the aged woman was carried under. The son made desperate efforts to get his mother out, and dived into the icy water. Then he summoned help, and the body was recovered after an hour of grappling.

During the past week horse-drawn vehicles have been crossing the Bay of Quinte, and the crossing was considered fairly safe, but the mild weather of the past few days and the rain had weakened the ice in places. Mrs. Howard had recently sold her farm near Stella and gone to live with her son at Indian Point, which is thirteen miles above Stella, and to be reached the gap had to be crossed. She had been paying a visit to friends, and he had come for her in the

A Loyal Helper

By JESSIE ETHEL SHERWIN

"Now, don't get hysterical, Edna!

"Oh it is all my fault!"

In a wild paroxysm of emotion Edna Lyall, the bride of a year, wept upon the shoulder of her father. He looked pitying and serious, but did not speak until she had fully sobbed out her grief and self reproaches. Then he said:

"You must be sensible and do nothing to discourage Harry, or let him suspect what I have told you. He continues to hold his position at the plant, so the trouble must have been adjusted. I fear that cousin of his, Alec Thorpe, who has left town, may have led Harry to gamble or speculate. At all events, Harry has become involved. He came to me to borrow two hundred dollars. It was after he left that I found a scrap of paper with some notations on it. I was pretty well startled, for it indicated that he owed the firm nearly two thousand dollars."

"Oh, father!" gasped Edna.

"I would not humiliate Harry, nor meddle in his affairs by letting him know what I suspect," went on Mr. Worth.

"But what can it all mean, father?" questioned Edna anxiously. "You don't believe he has been dishonest?"

"I think that he has overdrawn his limit and is paying for his extravagance," responded Mr. Worth. "I think, too, knowing the manner of man Harry is, that he will benefit from the lesson taught. I shall keep my eyes on him and make him tell me the real condition of affairs if I see him getting in too deep."

It was the first break for Nellie in a hitherto calm and happy life. "It is all my fault!" she constantly told herself. Then, like the sensible little woman that she was, she sat down all by herself and meditated over every phase of the complex situation.

I've let Harry take an expensive flat, and buy an automobile, and cater to all my expensive whims as though he were made of money," she censured herself. "Poor, dear fellow; he has never tried to restrict me, because he loves me so. From what father says, Harry has got into debt over two thousand dollars. What can I do to help him out of it?"

To her artless method of reasoning Harry had simply overdrawn until he owed the firm a large amount. He held a good position, he was a valuable man in his place, and of course it was ridiculous to suppose that he had been in any way criminally culpable, or the firm would not have kept him in its employ.

Never had Edna been more loving and gentle than during the days succeeding to these disclosures. They had been in great worldly gravity about Harry, seeming to be thoughtfulness more than worry. Even this graveness, however, was somewhat under the influence of Edna's winning ways.

"Dear, I have something dreadfully important to tell you," she announced one evening, at least, believe that young people of to-day are the very best types. And why? Because the generation ahead is giving them the chance. Give youth so much responsibility that they have to come back to parents for help.

All sides must be developed so we have education under three heads, first to make a living or vocational, second to give comfort to ourselves, or cultural, and third that which makes better citizens.

For vocational education girls need special training for a career, but let that career not be too long. Follow the professional work counter the joy of homemaking, but work in either case must be big enough to be satisfying. Take for instance the type of girl who wants to be a nurse. She has some love of sympathy, finds work for her hands and best of physical endurance. She does things well because she is interested in them. The humble tasks provide time to think and work out dreams. Jeanne Dare got her minding sheep and Florence Nightingale's were made; Mrs. Stowe caring for her family when she received inspiration to write "Uncle Tom's Cabin". In the voters' lists housekeeping is no occupation, yet all who have tried know it is a combination of occupations and professions requiring greatest mental and physical energy. Girls collect things for a Hope Chest, only the best goes into it for that future model home, but the wise mothers know the daughters who will have model homes. As the daughter so will the wife and mother be. Read "Sisters of Famous Men", girls, and see how some sisters were a source of inspiration and encouragement. You may be, too, so take advantage of opportunities at hand. Cultivate the God-sent blessings of happiness, simplicity, love, etc., and mothers remember that girls need to get the right perspective while still young.

The Cultural Education is received through music, reading, and indeed the girl has so many cultural interests that she has something for thinking, and the brighter she is the more demands are made. Plan to get time to think and work things straight.

Social leaderships are involved in the training for citizenship, and girls need leaders of their own age. Young girls dislike to do things, so get definite projects—story telling in the library, athletics for evening in the park, dramatics for old people, etc. Girls set the moral standards of their set, so popularize right standards, and give all the best to others. Soon there will be more voters, therefore know civic and economic questions concerning women. See that they are amended to keep up with the times, and will have some voting power.

Also a girl must have a religion that is real and vital for a balanced life. There should be no light attitude toward religious things. Our lives centre about work, play, love and worship. Since mothering is at the bottom of all this, the Women's Institute motto, "For Home and Country", gets at the vital point.

Miss Chapman quoted many beautiful bits of poetry to illustrate points in her address, and closed with one by Marjorie Pickthall on home, the place where we get the rest to meet the things outside.

Mrs. George Switzer happily thanked all individuals and committees who contributed to the success of the Banquet, which is looked forward to from year to year, and especially the speaker for her excellent address, and the Department of Agriculture who made it possible for Miss Chapman to be here. Mrs. Corkill seconded this, and after hearty applause, the National Anthem was sung.

Mother and Daughter Banquet

The Napanee Branch of the Women's Institute held its third annual "Mother and Daughter" Banquet, in the Masonic Hall, on Thursday, January 20th, at 6.30 p.m.

The tables were attractively decorated in the Society's colors, with blue and yellow crepe paper, candles of same color in walnut candelabra, and the programs were blue with gold monogram.

After singing grace, the two hundred guests enjoyed a supper of just such delicious homecooked food as an organization of this kind serves. Misses Lemore Black and Katherine Henderson and Mrs. C. Reid played delightful piano music during the meal.

Community singing in which all joined heartily, was led by Mrs. E. Smith and Mrs. C. Reid. The President, Mrs. Alpine Woods, as toastmistress, welcomed the guests, spoke of the work of the Society, and proposed the toast to "The King", after which all sang "God Save the King". The toast "For Home and Country", was gracefully proposed by Mrs. F. L. Taverner, who reminded her listeners that in order to be patriotic they must give the best to the home. Mrs. M. B. Judson, who had been asked to respond to this toast, was unavoidably absent, but sent her reply, which was read most acceptably by Mrs. J. V. Henderson. The Branch is proud to include within its membership so talented a singer as Mrs. Valkman, who then sang "A Picture of Home, Sweet Home". All smile fondly on the young lady who proposes the toast to "Mothers", and this year Miss Katherine Gleeson received due appreciation for her clever speech and charming manner. In replying, Mrs. F. H. Henderson acknowledged the tributo of praise, but urged the mothers to remember their responsibility. Children are sometimes given too much liberty because the parents have it.

Mrs. Valkman's solo, "Mother of Mine", was well received, and the encore, "Mother's Cradle Song", followed. Mrs. Woods then introduced the speaker of the evening, Miss Ethel Chapman, of Toronto. For several years Miss Chapman has been Assistant Superintendent of Women's Institutes in Ontario, and is thoroughly familiar with the work, and specially interested in Junior Institutes and girls' work. This year she left the Department to again take up journalism, having formerly been on the staff of MacLean's Magazine, and now edits the Home Section of "The Ontario Farmer", an Agricultural magazine issued by the "Farmers' Daily Night" Publishing Co. These who heard this interesting speaker at the Banquet two years ago were eager to hear her again, and felt they received new inspiration on this occasion.

Miss Chapman congratulated the Institutes on their splendid arrangements, membership and interest, and referred to wider scope of work in Canada. Conveyors appreciation of Economics, Public Health, Education, Legislation, etc., bringing information along these lines for discussion by all the members.

One feature of the conflict of the generations, but in a gathering of this kind such is disproved. The mothers, at least, believe that young

THAT TIRED FEELING.

Is It a Physical Fact or a Notion?

"Are you tired, or do you just think you are?" asks Dr. A. Jackson, M.D., in the Woman's Magazine. "Is being tired an actual physical fact, or is it sometimes merely a notion? When you feel tired and your machine slows down, are you really out of petrol, or has something clogged up the flow?

"Here is the answer — Men the world over possess amounts of resource which only very exceptional individuals push to their extremes of use. This was the final word of William James, one of the keenest minds of his generation. The common notion about fatigue is less than fifty per cent. true, and the faculties for zeal and enthusiasm to a degree that reduces the real amount of effort endeavor far below its best possibilities.

"The old Romans had a saying, 'He is able because he thinks he is able.' No sensible person will believe that a mere notion could create physical power, but the Romans knew that self-confidence assures free flow to the energy that is already there. In this they showed keen psychological insight.

"There was a figure in history, antedating even the Romans, who illustrates the same principle of energy-freeing belief. David, who was at one and the same time a poet, a warrior, a great poet, a great priest, and a great king, found himself invulnerable, and unassailable by weariness, because of his fixed belief that he was the instrument of the Most High. By that belief, the channels were kept open for the free outpouring of the really great powers with which he had been endowed.

"Successful leaders of men have always recognized the degree to which true physical fatigue is increased by discouragement and a lack of results. They have known how to elect away this clogging sense of fatigue by the dynamic driving-power of a new enthusiasm. 'Give them a gun,' said a great admiral in the war, when his stokers were faint in the hold. The sound of combat brought them to their feet with a bound.

"Bring me the fruit of the land,' said Moses to Joshua's foraging party, when tired grew faint with hope deferred, even in sight of the Promised Land. The bearers returned with one branch of the grapes of Eschol borne between two upon a staff and reaching to the ground. The sight was enough to dispel all weariness.

Sea Secrets.

Humans may have their matrimonial tangles, but they are nothing to the matrimonial problems of the native oyster. "Animals of the Sea," Mr. F. Martin Duncan, F.Z.S., tells us that each individual changes its sex at different periods, but the authorities do not yet agree as to the way in which the oyster starts its life. Young oysters enjoy but 48 hours' freedom as moving organisms; then they settle down for life. Among the oyster's enemies is the star-fish. An invasion of five fingers" will sometimes destroy a whole bed of oysters in a single night. Some most interesting points gleaned from this book include: The female lobster has been known to produce 150,000 eggs at a time. Limpets go on traveling expeditions at night, but by a wonderful homing instinct return to exactly the same spot on their "home" rock. Whelks have from 220 to 250 teeth, each of the male possesses a set of 2,500, but the dental outfit of the "Umbrella Shell" is 750,000 teeth. The sea urchin has four different kinds of spines, each with a specialized function: weapons, poison-bearers, "cleaners," and clean-ers. A giant clam will weigh 500 pounds. A 54-lb. flag was found to possess 24,254,000 eggs. In this connection it may be mentioned that the population of England and Wales is only 37,885,242.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an entirely different creosote preparation. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery in two-fold action, it not only relieves the inflamed membrane and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs creosote is recognized by the profession as one of the great healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the inflamed membranes and stop irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

In Cherry Time

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

"What does Cousin Aggie say?" inquired Mrs. Buxton of her seventeen-year-old daughter, as the latter read a letter she had just received.

"Just commonplace news, mamma," responded Nellie Buxton. "She writes me, however, to be sure to tell you that they have the most wonderful cherry crop ever was, and that Uncle Silas will send you three bushels in about two weeks."

"H'm!" remarked Mrs. Buxton, a trifle discomposed. "I have heard that the cherry crop is phenomenal all over the country and no one to pick them except at three times the usual rate. It is thoughtful of Silas to remember us, but I wonder if he understands that the city is rationed on sugar."

"Can't we double up on buying and have enough on hand to use when the fruit arrives?" suggested Nellie.

"Hardly. One grocer allows us just a pound a day, and then at five times above normal price. I don't mind that so much, for sugar is a necessity."

"I suppose it would make quite a lot to do up three bushels of cherries," ventured Oscar Reed, who was sitting by, but usually very uncommunicative when in the presence of the mother of the family. Mrs. Buxton laughed down some pretty stringent rules as to Nellie and her company. Oodie was allowed to call in the evening once a week only, and then he possessed the hour or two granted in the same room with the family. If there was any entertainment going on Nellie did not get a chance to accept Oscar's invitation as an escort unless her parents accompanied them.

"Nellie is too young to get a lot of love nonsense into her head," Mrs. Buxton had once remarked, and Oscar overheard her and considered her an ogress, but he was politic enough ever to defend his present sparse privileges and to try winning her good graces in every way possible.

So when Mrs. Buxton computed the sugar needs of the cherry season Oscar made a special point of the same and, recalling as well that it would be her birthday about the time Uncle Silas would ship the cherries, he took credit to himself for devising a scheme that would certainly win the favorable opinion of the mother of his inamorita.

"Said anything to your mother about the picnic we are invited to, Nellie?" he inquired Oscar breathlessly in the bare minute and a half allowed them to linger on the veranda.

"No, yes, and I don't go, of course, as the family are planning to attend too," and Oscar sighed at the prospect he had anticipated of having Nellie all day to himself.

"I won't get discouraged," he ruminated on his way homeward bound. "Bingo! It has always made me think of sweet darling Nellie! Now it's going to make me think of her mother. How am I going to work it? I declare! it's beginning to rain," and, without storm coat or umbrella Oscar hastened his steps and sought shelter under an awning in front of a store given over to second-hand goods of varied sorts, including clothing. The array of suits, hats, overcoats and the like was heterogeneous enough to allow a wide choice of attire. Then as Oscar's gaze rested upon the big department store opposite, his eyes glowed brightly and he smiled.

"The very combination!" he chuckled. "I have the dinner hour to put in motion my grand scheme for acquiring a small-sized refinery in the sugar line. Sure, I can work it. Let me see if I can manage to capture five pounds per day for two weeks. That would mean a bulk of sixty pounds, more than enough to put up those cherries furnished by Uncle Silas, and probably sweeten up the strict old lady to the point where she would be glad to cherish as a mother-in-law."

Next day Oscar visited the store of the dealer in a second-hand goods. Without much trouble he arranged to have the tellpenny use of such articles as he needed for his bold plan of becoming a sugar miser. He did not waste any time on noonday luncheon, but entered the grocery department store adjoining, and there with another hat and a grotesquely plaided overcoat, even with a silk tie and wearing goggles, in the crowd he was not recognized as the audacious repeater that he was.

Oscar kept track of the promised shipment from Uncle Silas. He chose the evening of their arrival for his once-a-week call upon Nellie. He found all ready for sitting the fruit, but Mrs. Buxton in a gloomy mood because she had not the sugar to put up more than half a bushel.

"Nellie told me this is your birthday, Mrs. Buxton," observed Oscar innocently, "so I have a little offering that may be of use to you. It's on the porch—sixty pounds of sugar."

"Say! I'll pay you double price for it, Sir!" cried Mrs. Buxton, smiling and jolly again!" declared Mr. Buxton, but Oscar insisted on the free acceptance of his gift, and he and Nellie carried the parcels in, while she shooed him and Nellie out into the garden with the admonition:

"Too many cooks spoil the broth," and the first of many blissful hours alone with Nellie came into the fortunate young man's life.

"You know, little girl, I'd go through anything for you."

"How much have you got to go through?"

The Rivals

By SAIDEE E. BALCOM

(©, Western Newspaper Union.)

When Abel Dayton, manufacturer, was influenced by his physician to spend a year at a health resort, encouraged his employees to faithful service by distributing a very liberal bonus. He rather favored Pearce Mantell and Rodney Harper, distant relatives. It fairly took Mantell off his feet to have five hundred dollars in a lump. It set him dreaming. As to Harper, he felt that the nest egg of a fortune had come to him.

Pearce Mantell signalized his good fortune by equipping himself for a splurge. He had always longed to have an automobile and a sleek, smart auto salesman found no difficulty in prevailing upon Mantell to pay two hundred dollars down on a bright and shining car. Mantell anticipated his usual two weeks' vacation, indifferent to the odd hundreds in monthly installments that he would have to pay later on.

There was a road between Acton and the city where for over half a mile a slanting descent followed a tortuous course of sharp curves, with high bluffs at either side. Here one afternoon there were strung along as many as twenty cars. The cause of the stoppage could not be ascertained, as the curves shut out all view ahead.

Finally a motorist ventured to edge along the side of the road, to come upon Mantell, his machine at a standstill and he coolly wiping the dust from his auto. He had arranged to take Miriam Dale to the city to attend to some shopping, and wanted to have the auto look its very best to dazzle the senses of the prettiest girl in Acton.

Mantell chuckled serenely as he escaped the jeers and chidings of the automobilists he had kept in waiting and sped on to call for Miriam. That charming marvel of femininity he had been courting once a week for several months. Rodney Harper had done the same. Mantell felt very sanguine and superior with his new acquisition, the automobile. Then, too, he fancied himself generally a good deal of a "sport," while Harper was only a plodder. Mantell was employed in the offices of the Dayton establishment. Harper's duties were those of a buyer. His provence was to purchase what supplies the factory required. Usually they were ordered per freight or express from various manufacturing centers. But when it was some light stuff, hurriedly needed, Tim Ruggles an old employee, drove to the city in an ancient enough wagon and gathered up what was required.

Upon the day when Mantell was aiming to impress pretty Miriam with a due sense of his importance, it chanced that some articles were very much needed for the next day's work at the factory. Tim was home ill, and Harper volunteered to act as his substitute. He slipped on old Tim's overall suit and was five miles on his way, when an impertinent honk! honk! was followed by an automobile whizzing by him. It threw up a cloud of dust, but not so dense that it hid from Harper's eyes a smiling face and a genially waved hand. Miriam, seated beside Mantell, pleased and happy, was never forgetful of courtesy.

Mantell left Miriam at a store, arranging to call for her at five o'clock. He then drove up to the curb awaiting her appearance. She did not come, for he had mistaken another mercantile establishment for the point of meeting. When he ascertained his blunder he hastened to the right store to find it closed for the day. He was an easily rattled youth, drove about wildly, turned a corner in too much of a hurry, ran into another machine, wrecking it, and was hauled up to the police station for reckless driving.

Poor Miriam was distressed when she had waited an hour beyond the appointed time and no Mantell appeared. Dusk was coming on and rain threatened. Finally she took the trolley line, which ran within five miles of Acton, burdened with bundles and timorously starting down the dark and lonely road homeward bound. A daunted maid as to courage, and angry at her chevalier's inaccountable inaction. Her feet were encased with mud, her clothing and bundles sopping wet. A vehicle came up behind her.

"Why, Miriam!" spoke the hearty, some, welcoming voice of Rodney Harper, "Alone! Here? Whatever has happened to Mantell?" and Miriam nestled close to Rodney under the canopy of the front seat, a thankful, relieved mortal, and forgot all her troubles.

"I've got to stop a minute at the old Beardsley cottage," spoke Rodney, as they entered the town. "It's vacant, you know, and I have bought it and am going to fix it up. By leaving some paint and hardware there now it will save another journey tomorrow."

"You won't live there all alone, will you, Rodney?" propounded artless Miriam.

She unconsciously invited an explanation, urged on by a realization on the part of Rodney of her bewitching prettiness.

"Oh, no, Miriam," he responded—"not until I find a wife to keep it in order for me. And, Miriam, will you come and be that to me if I ask you?"

Amid gloom, darkness, rain, the spontaneous proposal came, but as Miriam clung to his arm and hung her head, Rodney Harper fancied all the world was aglow with rainbows and sunshine!

The Duplex House

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

(Copyright, 1916, Western Newspaper Union.)

When Richard Dale went to the city to get plans for some houses he intended to build on his vacant property in Whedon, his fancy was caught by the architect's idea of a twin structure, quite popular with people who wished to live in a part of the same and rent the balance.

The "duplex" house was simply one edifice comprising two equal halves joined together with separate entrances. Each section had six rooms and a thin wall separated them.

Richard Dale's health broke down. The physicians recommended California as a permanent home. He sold off most of his realty holdings. The last one of the twin houses was left in his hands. At the final moment of his departure a whimsical idea took possession of him. Terhwith he repaired to the office of his attorney.

"Parsons," he said, "you know my cousin, John Briggs?"

"Oh, yes. He was in here yesterday paying his monthly maintenance installment to his wife. She'll be in to get today. There she is now."

"I think I would like to have a few words with her," said Mr. Dale, and a brisk, efficient, overdressed young woman entered the room he greeted her with courtesy, almost friendly warmth.

"I am glad of an opportunity to meet you before I go away," he said at once, "I am sorry, Betty, that you and John continue to live apart."

"You will allow me by not referring to the subject, Mr. Dale," said Betty Briggs, with severity and decision. "We just couldn't get along together. It's better as it is, and there can be no change."

"Very well," spoke Mr. Dale. "I naturally feel an interest in my cousin and his affairs, as well as in your own. In fact, I came to see Mr. Parsons upon your mutual account. He will make a proposition to you as to each of you having a home after I am gone. I must express the hope, however, that you will let bygones be bygones and, as you should do, live in happy union."

Betty Briggs sniffed stubbornly and slightly tossed her head. Before the week was out first she and then her husband called in turn upon the lawyer to consider a truly remarkable proposition.

The lawyer had received explicit instructions from Mr. Dale, who felt kindly toward them. There was the twin house on Orchard street. He proposed that Mr. Briggs should occupy one half of it and Mrs. Briggs the other half. At the end of a year each was to receive a deed, and then a permanent home would be guaranteed to them.

The proposal was acted upon with alacrity by John Briggs, who promptly removed his sparse furnishings into the west half of the duplex house. A month later his wife settled down into the east half. She passed her husband on the street, head high in the air, and to stern and severe was her demeanor that John, half inclined to nod, was frozen to rigidity by that glance.

Thus there became presented to the community the odd situation of a respectable couple, apparently parted for life, yet practically living under the same roof. When John came out to sit on his front porch his wife kept out of view. When they met he lowered his eyes and she fixed her own steadily ahead. Then, one day when she was absent, John slipped over to her woodshed and split and piled up one-half cord of wood. Betty was a trifle touched at this unexpected act of devotion, but made no outward recognition of it and time drifted on and the ice was not broken.

It was a dark, stormy night as Betty was just preparing to retire, when a loud crash resulted, as from beyond the separating wall of the twin structure there sounded out a shot and then a loud cry. She seemed to catch the echo of some object falling to the floor. She was not a timid woman and the started to take Dodd's Kidney Pills and took eight boxes and am now quite well again. Understanding Hearts.

If you see a man smiling to himself in a crowd don't imagine that he is crazy, says a writer. Usually such are the sanest of individuals and possess an enviable appreciation of themselves. They do not need to be influenced by exterior conditions and circumstances in order to call forth that spirit of gladness which lies deep within the soul. It is far more profitable to try to imitate such persons than to mock at or to pity them.

For Aching Feet.

For burning, swollen feet soak them every night in a solution of soda water. Put a handful or more of bicarbonate of soda in the foot tub with sufficient very hot water to cover the feet. Keep adding more hot water as needed. After this, rub well into the bunion and other sore joints ichthyol ointment. Wrap feet in cloth, or put old stockings on to protect bed. Use some kind of foot ease in your shoes.

Origin of Pig, Buffalo, Horse.

Asia mainly furnished the pig, remarkable for its variety, which is very close to the Sus palustris, notes a writer. Through Turkestan arrived the buffalo, which adapted its body from its surroundings—becoming smaller and more alert. The Caucasus also owes its home to horses, and the neolithic remnants of the domesticated horse at Anau, while the animal is not found in Crete before the bronze age.

Counted by Sixties.

The Babylonians counted in by tens and hundreds as we do but by sixties. This was because they had found that the radius of a circle is contained within the circumference just six times. This "system of sixty" pertains to the present time in clocks, where sixty seconds make one minute, sixty minutes make one hour, while there are twelve hours a day and twelve of night.

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear mother, wife and sister, Mrs. Nelson Peet, who entered into rest on January 21st, 1926.

Gone, dear Nancy, gone forever,
How we miss your loving face;
But you left us to remember,
Never to see you take your place.
Though you're gone you're not forgotten,
Dearie,
Never will your memory fade,
Loving hearts shall always linger
Round the grave where you are laid.

Her loving Husband and Sister,
Mr. Nelson Peet and Mrs. George Field. 4ap

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of John Mercer Lockerbie, who passed away January 27th, 1914.

Thirteen years have passed, our hearts still sore;
As time flies by we miss him more;
His loving smile, his gentle face,
No one on earth can fill his place.

Sadly missed by Wife and Children. 4ap

IN MEMORIAM

"In loving memory of our dear son, Glen Allen Sparks, who died January 30th, 1926.

One year has passed, our hearts still sore;
As time flies by we miss you more;
Your loving smile, your gentle face,
No one on earth can fill your place.
Yet again we hope to meet you,
When the day of life is fled,
And in Heaven with joy to greet you
Where no farewell tears are shed.

As we loved you, so we miss you,
In our memory you are near;
Loved, remembered, longed for always,
Bringing many a silent tear.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother and Sister. 4a

A young man about to be married left all the arrangements to his best man, even to the choosing of the hymns.

On the day of the wedding, when the bride entered the church the organ pealed forth: "Not mine, Not Mine, the Choice." After the ceremony, when they were both leaving, the organ again struck up with "Fight the Good Fight With All Thy Might."

The major handed a "stiff dram" to old Angus, the head gillie, saying "Now, Angus, I hear you are a connoisseur in whisky; I want your candid opinion on this. Your candid opinion, mind!" Angus gulped it in one draught, and then said apologetically, "Well, sir, do you know, all my life I was never famous for being able to gie a decession on the first glass!"

After the War

By CECILE LANGDON

(Copyright, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

In October Bryce Daniels was invalided from the front on account of wounds and illness. A month to a day later he reached New York city. Bells were ringing, whistles shrieking, bands playing madly to celebrate a great event. The war was over and his medals of bravery and advancement to a lieutenancy were evidences of his effective participation in the world conflict.

There was the constant picture of father, mother, fiancee and Winnie in his mind as he sped west on a train with Franklin his native town the destination in view. Winnie Winnie Bryce was included in the group because he had been very near to a declaration of love when they had parted after his enlistment. Then, too, she had corresponded regularly with him, and the months in the trenches had been pleasantly punctuated with gifts of sweaters, comforts, outfits, boxes of fudge and the like. So Bryce had made up his mind when he got home to make his love if Winnie was receptive, which he fully believed her to be and in which conjecture he was eminently correct.

There was a delirious welcome of the hero, son and brother, in which the whole town shared. Winnie was proud and happy when he singled her out as his "chief" girl companion amid the festive social functions of his first week. The edge of a vague cloud somewhat shadowed the sunny sky of her life when Bryce accidentally dropped a photograph from his pocket. Her brother had found it and had returned it to Bryce, but not until Winnie had a sight of it.

The photo was one of "Nina Lefere" taken in France, and presented a piquant, expressive face. The eyes were soulful, the smile soft and winning. A sudden pang of jealousy assailed Winnie. She had heard of soldiers' sweethearts abroad and wondered if this was some youthful flame of her knight errant, whose sole individed affection she craved. She longed to ask Bryce about this mysterious lady, but could not bring herself to do so. What right had she to question the preference of one who had in no wise committed himself as to his especial interest in her? She was to a degree somewhat constrained in manner and Bryce noticed it. He was determined to learn his fate. It was a clear autumn day when air, sky and earth suggested early fall rather than November, and they were seated on the steps of the porch when he turned his face towards her, ardent and glowing. Instantly Winnie felt that a declaration was on his lips, when there was an interruption.

A great shaggy dog had suddenly bounded over the fence, lifted his head, uttered a resonant bay of delight, then in two leaps had leaped upon him bodily. The animal all but caressed Bryce who, with a cry of incredulity, exclaimed:

"Vantrim! the ambulance pet of the battalion. Why, how did he ever come here? Winnie, it is one of the dogs I have told you so much about."

Bryce sprang to his feet. Entering the gate was a comrade of the front who rushed towards him with outstretched arms, seizing him, kissing him first on one cheek and then on the other.

"Mon comrade!" exulted the dapper effusive Frenchman. "Is it wonder at seeing him here? Ah! I have sought you purposely and—behold!" and there came forward, all smiles and dazzling eyed, the original of the photograph, the mysterious Nina Lefere.

She extended both hands and caught those of Bryce in a fervent clasp. Winnie's heart sank at the palpable demonstrations of full affection.

"Ah, the young lady!" spoke Pierre Du Bois abruptly. "Tell her of us and I will tell more." And Bryce introduced his old comrade.

"The maidenmobelle no longer," interrupted Du Bois. "My wife, dear lady," and a great burden was lifted from the mind of Winnie.

And then the story came out of Nina Lefere, a refugee crossing the lines and telling of her father, held captive in a near town behind the dark in the hands of the enemy, awaiting a ransom; of brave Bryce and some comrades effecting his rescue; of Du Bois later going to the town to unearth the buried treasure of the dismal merchant, and now—

"See?" cried the volatile Frenchman, "it is her father, now at New York. And because Nina loved me, she consented to wed one who above all others rescued him and I later secured for him his treasure, he has made me rich and sent me hither to bestow upon you as well a full share of reward for your brave, kindly service."

And now the sun emerged brighter than ever from behind the dark cloud Winnie had feared. And when the visitors had been comfortably bestowed in the Leslie home, Bryce ran down to Winnie to tell her that he had "forgotten something."

What he had forgotten was to tell her that he loved her. And as they stood at the garden gate, and Winnie flusteringly whispered to Bryce Daniels what he so longed to hear, the moon came forth radiant, perfect, as it always should when happy lovers plight their troth!

HOCKEY

Napanee 8, Railroaders 2.

The latest hockey drama was screened in the Napanee Arena on Tuesday, Jan. 25th. The all-star caste which was presented was one of the best of the Belleville Railroaders and Napanee. For a few minutes after the game started, the smell of rubber filled the rink. The play had not been going over six minutes when Bill Stein dropped in the first goal for Napanee. Shoemaker and Johnston were in the game continually, and Johnston netted the puck three times. Bentley's sole rushes were flashy, but his duet numbers with Naphin were snappy as well as effective, for he and Naphin both secured a goal. It was on Naphin the honours of the evening rested and he carried them royally. Powell, formerly playing for the Boo-Hoos of Kingston was perfectly at home in the net, and didn't like the puck intruding on him, so was always there to keep it out except in two cases of hard luck. Skitch was there with the best relief work any team could wish for, and Gleeson and Richardson also did excellent relief work. Tommy Kirby was also there aiding the Napanee team in their victory and was easily one of the fastest men on the ice.

For Belleville, Hagerman on centre sure knew his business and was a very speedy man and it was he who got one of the two Belleville goals. Weir, on defence, was very tricky, but found a man in Naphin to hold him down. Armstrong, also on forward, was also fast and went through several times during the game. "Bo" McNeill, one of Napanee's old boys, was in the Belleville colours, and has not lost any of his old tricks, although he is apparently lacking condition. Drew, his sidekick on defence, was flashy in his rushes and his checking was excellent. "Hoot" Gibson, one of the subs., was on in "Bo" McNeill's place very often during the game and his playing was good. Simmons and Higgins also played good games. Riggs surprised everyone with his playing and although he is fairly well advanced in age, showed us that he hadn't forgotten any of the tricks used in his youth. Lloyd, in goal, was in his hard-luck game and missed quite a few comparatively easy shots.

The line-up was as follows :—

Belleville—Lloyd, goal; McNeil, defence; Drew, defence; Weir, forward; Armstrong, forward; Hagerman, centre; Gibson, Riggs and Simmons, subs.

Napanee—Powell, goal; Bentley, defence; Naphin, defence, captain; Shoemaker, forward; Johnston, forward; Stein, centre; Kirby, Gleeson, Skitch, Richardson comprised the substitutes.

The colors of both teams were blue and white, and caused much confusion on the ice, both teams checking their own men and being afraid to pass for fear of mistaking their own men.

A good turnout of fans were there cheering the teams on, but there is still room yet, so watch for the bills and all turn out to cheer Napanee to the next victory.

MEN'S BANQUET AT GRACE CHURCH

The first of a series of Men's Banquets, which are to be held this winter under the auspices of Grace Church, took place in the School Room of the church, on Friday evening last, was attended by nearly one hundred men. A very choice repast was prepared by the Ladies' Aid.

The committee was fortunate in securing Prof. R. O. Jolliffe, of Queen's University, as the speaker of the evening, and Rev. Roy Rickard, of Albert College, Belleville, as soloist. Immediately following the banquet a half hour was spent in community singing led by Mr. Rickard, and in which all joined heartily.

The meeting was presided over by Mr. R. C. Root, the chairman of the committee, who in a few brief introductory remarks expressed his pleasure at seeing such a large gathering present, as it augured well for the future.

The first toast was that to "The King", it being proposed by Mr. F. W. Barrett, who spoke of the affection which the British people hold for the Royal Family. The gathering responded by the singing of the National Anthem.

To Local Churches.

The next toast was that "To the Local Churches", it being proposed by Mr. G. W. Gibbard, who said that he was personally pleased to perform this function, because it was a happy subject. The speaker referred to the friendly feeling existing between the several churches of the town, and spoke highly of the Clergy.

The toast was responded to by Rev. W. E. Tanton, of Trinity Church, who congratulated the committee on the object of the meeting and the success which it had attained. Mr. Tanton also referred to the spirit of friendliness which existed between, not only the Clergy, but the people, and on behalf of the men of his congregation, extended a friendly greeting to the men of Grace Church. In closing the speaker expressed his great pleasure at being present, and also the honor which had been conferred upon him in replying to this toast.

Another delightful solo, "My Task", was given by Mr. Rickard, after which the toast "A Layman's View of the Church," was proposed by Rev. W. P. Woodger, Pastor of Grace Church, and responded to by the guest of the evening, Mr. Jolliffe, who upon rising to address the audience, was greeted with much applause.

Prof. Jolliffe Speaks

At the outset Mr. Jolliffe stated that he was particularly pleased to come to Napanee to address a gathering of men, and congratulated the committee on the splendid success of the evening. He said that he was delighted to speak on the subject assigned to him, as the church was engaged in the biggest business in the world, the business of making good men and women.

He next detailed the history of the church from the early period, saying that the church is a society and every society needs organization, and if a society is to become strong it must be by united effort.

Christianity and Drunkenness

"The Church is the human side of the world," he said, "Christianity and slavery are incompatible but it took 1800 years to discover it, and it is my firm belief that Christianity and drunkenness are also incompatable as the nations will find out in years to come."

The speaker then dwelt at some length on Church Union, and said it was a great inspiration to see three great evangelical churches sink their differences of creed in order to form one great United Church. "By the consummation of union no church has lost anything, and if we are to profit by the union, we must let every prejudice be banished from our minds. The church to-day needs the support and co-operation of every member and adherent."

Mr. Jolliffe, in closing, said that if we catch the proper vision, it will not be a church militant, but a church triumphant.

At the conclusion of the address, which was one of the most thoughtful and masterly ever heard in Napanee, a vote of thanks was tendered to Mr. Jolliffe and Mr. Rickard, by Mr. Stewart Shetler, which was seconded by Mr. B. M. Black, and unanimously carried.

A very profitable evening was then brought to a close by the singing of "Auld Lang Syne".

Love and Home

By MILDRED WHITE

(Copyright, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

The cheerless drip, drip, of a fall rain sounded against the window and the mist went groping to draw the curtain. When he had lighted the gas he looked wearily around the disordered kitchen.

Dishes from his hastily prepared dinner still littered the sink, the clothless table was uninviting for the coming meal. Jared sighed as he went about his accustomed duties. Many years had passed since Lida had taken her angry departure, neglectful, silent years, yet his memories were filled with the old haunting love. She had been such a brilliant, joyous creature, the early years of their married life had passed like a too-perfect dream.

Looking back it seemed too pitiable to be true. Lida had longed for beautiful things in her home, which Jared's constant toil could not manage to procure. She had been patient with things as they were until Sylvia came—Sylvia the baby, who was to be the dominating thought of her mother's life. Nothing could be fine enough for Sylvia. Perhaps Lida had built her ideal of her daughter's future around the life of a novel heroine of whose she had been reading.

Little Sylvia must live the brunder more fortunate life of this Sylvia of romance. In loveliness, the girl promised to equal her prototype. And as Sylvia grew happily among the flowers of her mother's garden, the simplicity of the little home became to Lida unbearable. When Jared sadly refused each new request for furniture or remodelling, Lida would retreat into sullen silence. Sylvia was her father's comfort then. With self-sacrificing effort he had purchased, secretly, a piano.

Jared could not know that the polished instrument had merely served to accentuate its shabby surroundings. After a discouraging day of tears upon Lida's part and angry retort upon his own, his wife had carried out her long threatened purpose and left him. How she managed to support herself and the child in the city, Jared did not know. When he heard from her again it was but a brief note announcing their daughter's marriage.

Sylvia had written to him through the years, a line now and then telling merely of her work at school. Jared had not tried to see her; his heart was too sore. And at eighteen Sylvia married. Lida, he knew, made her home with the daughter.

Ten years he had lived alone in the little despised house and ten lonely years had made of Jared an old man. The kettle was singing over the fire the fall evening as he went to answer a summons at the unused front door. Into the narrow hall came a man's tall figure.

"I stopped," said a pleasant voice, "to see if I might find supper and shelter in your home. The rain is almost impassable. I shall not try to run my car any farther in this direction."

"I am alone," Jared mumbled, "my cooking is pretty bad. But—" his voice shook with eagerness, "if you would care to stop over, I'd be mighty glad of your company."

When the automobile had been run into the barn the old disappointed man, and the young successful one, sat opposite each other at the supper table. The lack of all that was tempting seemed not to affect the good nature of the visitor.

Leaning back, smoking his cigar, he quizzed Jared pleasantly as to his solitary condition. And in the unusual luxury of a sympathetic listener, Jared found himself telling all that had passed.

Strangely enough, the unburdening proved a relief.

"When you speak of your wife," the man said musingly, "you seem to have a softened tone, as though her perversity had failed to kill your love."

Jared's eyes lost their hopeless light as he looked toward a portrait of Lida upon the wall.

"I shall always love her," he answered simply.

When the stranger had gone the old man sat brooding in the lamplight.

As the kitchen door opened crushingly, Jared drew his trembling fingers from his eyes, then with a wordless cry he arose to his feet.

Lida stood there in the doorway—a softened and still a dearly familiar Lida. Her black hair had turned to softened white, and Lida's black eyes had softened as mysteriously as her hair."

"Jared," she said humbly, "I have come back to stay, if you will take me. There is no satisfaction apart from you—anywhere. For years I have borne the penalty of my desertion.

"It was Sylvia who discovered the cause of my unhappiness. Love has taught her many things she never has had on tonight to find if you could still be noble enough to forgive. If you want me, Jared, Sylvia and John will be here later to rejoice in our reconciliation. They have great plans for our future comfort in this old home. I have learned my lesson, dear. 'Home is where the heart is;' no other can compensate."

"And love," said Jared, "forgiveth all things." Then he folded his wife in his arms.

Herzog—McMullen.

At Rochester, N.Y., on January 14th, 1927, the marriage of Miss Marcita McMullen, of 12 West Wood Drive, and Mr. Clarence Herzog, of 757 Genesee Park Boulevard, took place in St. James Episcopal Church, at 8 p.m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Frances A. Ransom. Miss Dorothy Moore was bridesmaid, and Mr. Fred. McMullen, brother of the bride, acted as best man. After a two weeks' trip Mr. and Mrs. Herzog will reside at 757 Genesee Park Boulevard. Mrs. Herzog is a daughter of Alexander McMullen, of Rochester, formerly of Napanee.

HOCKEY

The Bath Hockey Team christened its new rink on Saturday, January 15th, when the Bath boys won the first game of the season from Adolphustown by the score of 4 to 1. It was a good game from start to finish, and was well handled by C. McCat, as referee. On a good sheet of ice the teams lined up at 2.15 p.m., and was well away after the bell rang. The game had not been started long, when "Ernie" Young, our star defence player, took the puck down the ice, passing anything that happened in his way, and tallied the first goal. He did it again and again and scored three goals out of the four. Chas. Young, his left-hand partner, certainly turned in a fine game also. His stick handling was marvellous, and he certainly showed his "stuff" that day. Daverne was the outstanding player on the Adolphustown team. His men played hard to win, but, oh my, they just couldn't pull through. Calver, Barrage and Crowe, played the forward line. Their combination was a treat, and they certainly showed Adolphustown what real hockey was. Edward Mills, the Bath goalie, certainly turned in a great game in his nets. This is his first season in goal, and if he keeps improving (and he certainly is), it won't be long before he turns professional, eh? After the game the boys were treated to an appetizing lunch.

The Bath boys would just like to have one word more. In last week's Beaver an account of the Bath-Adolphustown match was given. Let me repeat one line. "When Bath came up full of life, they went back in different spirits". Just let us say here if we went up in good spirits, which we did, we came back with better spirits. How does that suit you? I am sure the Daverne and Jorden rink is a wonderful arena, and the only trouble with it is that it does not bare very good ice. Had the ice been in better condition, we certainly would have whitewashed the Adolphustown aggregation. However, the return match would be looked forward to with keen admiration. The Daverne and Prout forward line is certainly a "dandy" according to their estimation, but gee, they don't last as long as a snowball in Hades when we would when they hit ours. We sincerely hope that we can have another game with our friends. So here's hitting for good luck. So long.

Have you heard about Pine-Peps is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which provides an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles.

Peps contain certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are breathed down the air passages to the lungs. On their journey, they soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate walls of the air passages, and finally cover and carry relief and healing to the lungs.

While no liquid or solid can get to the lungs and air passages, the vapor Peps fulfills there direct, and healing influences.

Nights of Agony come in the train of asthma. The victim cannot lie down, and sleep is driven from the brain.

What grateful relief is the immediate effect of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy. It banishes the frightful conditions, clears the passages, and enables the afflicted one to again sleep as soundly and restfully as a child. Insist on the genuine at your nearby druggist.

Yet they are thorough, and from the first dose there is improvement in the condition of the sufferer and a cessation of manifestations of internal trouble.

FEBRUARY ROD AND GUN

While Jake Miner is well known for his interest in the breeding and preservation of wild fowl, comparatively few know of a remarkable farm almost in the suburbs of Toronto, where all varieties of wild geese and other water fowl are being bred. One interesting place forms the subject of one of the articles in the newly published February issue of Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News, in which George Hebden Corban, Sr., tells how he started his business on his farm at Islington. The article is well illustrated.

The contents of the issue include many fine stories of hunting and fishing. The regular departments receive to angling, guns and ammunition and the outdoors, contain a great deal of good information on their particular subjects.

Within the cover of this issue, is included Number 2 of Canadian Silver Fox News which justifies the promise shown in the first appearance. Some important phases of ranch farming are dealt with in the many articles.

Rod and Gun and Canadian Silver Fox News is published monthly by W. J. Taylor, Limited, Woodstock, Ontario.

The Missing Witness

By VICTOR RADCLIFFE

(c). Western Newspaper Union.)

A sudden gust of wind nearly swept Victor Lloyd off his feet. With a shiver and a wrung the umbrella he carried turned inside out and he cast it away, a wreck. The first drops of rain struck his face. He started for the gate leading to the house in view just beyond a bridge spanning a narrow stream. Midway across the structure a second vagary of the rising breeze raised his hat from his head, whirled it aloft and, then to the surface of the river and in dismay, unable to recover it, Lloyd saw it submerged.

The suit he wore was a light one, his shoes were low cut, a drenching boded wretchedness and disaster. He had wandered beyond the city limits. The nearest refuge was the house he had noticed. Bareheaded he dashed through its gateway, halted under a tree for a moment or two, and then at the rain down in real earnest, slantingly assailing him on all sides, Lloyd made for a covered porch. Even there, however, the downpour penetrated.

"Perhaps you had better come inside," a kindly voice, and the screen door was pushed half open and a sunny face invited with a friendly smile. Lloyd's hand went mechanically to his head to lift the hat that was not there. The girl could not repress a light laugh. Lloyd joined in it, entered a hallway, followed his guide into a neat little parlor and ruefully remarked:

"I am bringing in some wet," and he hesitated as to taking a chair.

"Do not mind that," replied the young lady. "If you would help me close the windows. The rain is beating in on all sides," and with alacrity Lloyd sprang to the task invited.

He was not sorry now that he had lost his hat, for in a way he had lost his heart to the visitor of loveliness before him. She was the most winsome creature he had ever met, and treated him as though amid her loneliness she was glad to have a visitor to alleviate the ennui.

Their conversation was only general, but from the same, Lloyd learned that her father was a merchant in the wholesale quarter of the city, and he imparted the information that he was a banker in the financial district.

"I have intruded too long already," he observed after a delightful half hour. The storm has passed and the sun is coming out."

"You have been very welcome," spoke Inez Bolton. "But you cannot go back to the city hatless. I will see if I cannot find something that will answer in the way of headgear until you reach home."

The young lady left the room and returned with a hat evidently belonging to her father, but which was large. His fair companion brushed it neatly, went to a desk and selected what seemed to be a calling card. She wrote a few lines on it and then placed them in the lining, and Lloyd declared that the fit was perfect.

"I will have the hat returned with many thanks," he told Miss Bolton. "I hope we shall meet again."

"I hope so, too," she replied readily, and Lloyd went home with pleasant thoughts and anticipations. He got the hat ready to return by a messenger. Removing the folded papers and placing the hat in a box, he chanced to notice that they were printed circulars, all alike.

"Why, this is queer!" exclaimed Lloyd.

What he held in his hand was evidently a circular sent to lawyers in various cities containing a description of one Mark Steele, and signed by Robert Bolton. It stated that Steele was a missing witness in a most important law case and offered a reward for his recovery.

"And I know the man—saw him only last year when I was camping out in Idaho. Quiet and deceptively masterly. Why, here is certainly an excuse to hasten back where I came from and learn if my knowledge will be of any benefit to the father of that delightful little Miss Bolton."

It was a pleasure outing journey that Victor Lloyd made, because he hoped that its results would bring him nearer to the fair young girl who had so attracted him.

He wore his own hat this time, carrying that of Mr. Bolton neatly done up. His daughter was seated on the porch this time. She left the side of a dignified man, evidently her father, to greet Lloyd, noticing the parcel in his hand.

"Oh! you should not have hurried to bring the hat back," she said. "Father tells me you visitor of the afternoon I told you about."

Mr. Bolton bowed courteously, but with no effusion, and studied Lloyd rather critically as though always on guard as to his daughter's acquaintances, but he resumed into excited activity as Lloyd said:

"I made a discovery when I got home—the circulars in the lining. It was somewhat surprised, for I know Mark Steele."

"And where he is?" cried Mr. Bolton eagerly.

"Yes, I hope my knowledge may be of value to you."

"Of value," repeated Mr. Bolton in an intense tone. "Why, upon his testimony depends half of my real estate."

Victor Lloyd never asked for the reward offered for the discovery of the missing witness—he wanted only Inez, and won her.

Children Like Them

Baby's Own Tablets Are Effective and Easy to Give

You do not have to coax and threaten to get the little ones to take Baby's Own Tablets. The case with which they are given, as compared with liquid medicines, will appeal to every mother. None is spilled or wasted, you know just how big a dose has reached the little stomach. As a remedy for the ills of childhood arising from derangement of the stomach and bowels, they are most satisfactory.

Mrs. Rose Veyer, Willimantic, Conn., says:—"I used Baby's Own Tablets in the Canadian Northwest and found them a wonderful medicine for children's troubles, especially indigestion and constipation. I have also given them to my children for simple fever and the symptoms of accompanying teething and they always gave relief. I can recommend Baby's Own Tablets to all mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Varicose Veins Reduced or Money Back, Says Wallace's Drug Store

Simple Home Treatment That Is Giving Amazing Results

The world progresses. Today ailments that took weeks to treat can now be ended in a few days. If you have varicose veins or blotches you can start to-day to bring them back to normal size, and if you are wise you will do so.

Just get an original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil at any dispensing pharmacist and apply it night and morning to the affected part. It is very powerful and penetrating, and only a little is required.

After a few days treatment the veins will begin to grow smaller and the regular size will soon reduce to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is also a marvelous healing agent. One application for itching sores stops the itching of eczema, and a few applications cause the eruption to disappear and fade off and completely disappear. It is equally as effective for barber's itch, salt rheum, redness and inflammatory skin trouble.

People who want to reduce varicose veins, or get rid of eczema, ulcers, or piles in a few days should not hesitate to get a bottle at once. It is so powerful that a small bottle lasts a long time. Any pharmacist can supply you. Wallace's Drug Store sells lots of it.

"Have you ever tried loving your neighbor as yourself?"

"Occasionally. When I have felt particularly disgusted with myself."

A Brave Woman

By Walworth Pierce Atherton

They were orphans, Bertram and Lucy Gale, twins, both tall and slender, the same eyes, the same general cast of features. Just now he was lying outstretched upon a bed of suffering and she was hovering about him with gentle ministrations.

"It seems but a minute ago that he was come of it—a broken ankle," mourned Bertram. "And the doctor says I will not be able to even use a crutch for a month. And just at a time when hope began to dawn. Oh, Lucy! I could cry my head off!"

"Which would be very silly and useless," commented Lucy.

"But what are we going to do? Just settled at work, bringing in nine dollars a week. A month!—why, you and grandma will starve in that time."

Certainly the situation was desperate. Grandma Gale, old, decrepit, barely had the strength to cook the meals.

"Something has got to be done," she decided. "If—oh, the daring idea! Oh, if I only could," and her eyes shone. Then she drew nearer to the side of the couch.

"Bertram, dear," she said, "tell me something about your work, all about it. What you have to do, and where, and who you work with."

"I don't work with anybody," replied Bertram. "You see, I sit all day long on a stool in a sort of passageway and bend my head into the machinery. Just outside are the freight cars into which the belt runs and then back. In the finishing room the tin cans are fed into the belt box. It runs slowly, so I have time to look at every can and see that it is perfect. They generally all are. Where they aren't, I take them out and throw them through an open window into the yard. That's all. Are you alone all day?" pressed Lucy with strange insistency.

"Yes, when I get to the works I pass the watchman, who sees that I register on the time clock. Then I go at once to my little den. The only time I see him or the others is when I get my pay check."

"I see," murmured Lucy thoughtfully. "Bertram, we can't live unless someone works. Grandma mustn't know. Will we break it gently to her, or just let myself? Wait a minute," Lucy went into the adjoining room, where Bertram slept regularly. She reappeared arrayed in his working suit. Covering her rolled up hair was the jaunty cap he wore. Bertram stared bewildered at this perfect protype of himself.

"Do I make a fair boy?" she cried excitedly. "Oh! please tell me I will do, to do for you, dear."

"Oh, Lucy, never!" gasped Bertram, but she began a plausible argument with him. She fed his pride and vanity as she started for the plant early the next morning. No one noticed her particularly. Bertram had fully posted her on the peculiarities of the little closet he had worked in, and Lucy felt safe as she found herself an unheeded part of a great working machine.

"Oh, it was so easy, and I like the work," she told Bertram that evening. "No one notices me or speaks to me, so I guess I am making no mistakes. A few cans to send the cheerful door just outside the den. A young man, well dressed, comes in that way each day. He nodded and said 'Good Morning Bertram,' supposing I was you."

"That must be Hector Lane. His father owns the plant. He's nice and pleasant to everybody," said Bertram.

It was Friday, and Lucy's impostures was not even suspected. Then had come the usual lull of running the cans when she noticed a man slink quickly through the doorway of the passageway below the little ventilating window that looked into the den. A minute later the agreeable young man in charge of the cheerful hall passed through the doorway. He carried a satchel—containing the pay for the entire plant, or so Lucy knew. In a flash the intruder leaped upon him, dealt him a heavy blow with a slingshot, took the satchel from his hand and placed it on a ledge just beneath the window.

Young Mr. Lane had fallen like a log. His desperate attack towards the door and peered cautiously forth to be sure the coast was clear. Intuitively Lucy decided that the satchel must contain something of value. She reached down, secured it, touched an exterior button that was a signal of something wrong with the can belt, and as the satchel dropped from her nerveless fingers fell upon it on the floor, enormous with excitement and agitation.

There she was discovered by the police foreman, and Hector Lane, who. When Lucy again opened her eyes she found herself in cure of a forewoman. The latter was about summoned to the office, and, wearing a bandage about his head, Hector Lane came up on the scene.

It was not a good deal of explanation to make, and Lucy broke down and cried as she confessed her deception, but the pure-hearted eyes of the young man flashed with commendation as her cleverness in saving the pay roll was revealed.

It was natural that he should be interested in that lovely face and, the circumstances of the Gale family. A few months later the interesting young man asked Lucy to change her name, and all the troubles of the Gales were over.

The Faithful Steward

By MERVIN LEE HUNTER

He lay outstretched upon the greensward near to the edge of the swift-rolling river, his face upturned, a bandage under his head. His clothes were common and coarse, but neatly patched and clean.

His lips twitched and quivered, as though in his dreams some unpleasant theme intruded. Then a smile wreathed his face. It was a rapid transition from a haunting memory of five years passed in a prison cell, followed by a remembrance of the kindness of a whole-hearted shepherd.

He had been a number—1142. He once more had a name, Alan Wilde. He had paid the penalty of the law in full, had suffered for a misstep, not a crime. He was free of the old life, forgotten, in a world all before him. Alan Wilde, at twenty-eight, emerging into a world of sunshine and freedom.

A man stepped from a woodland path, bearing a satchel, and paused where what was left of an old-time scattered village bore the sign: "Dead-end. This Structure Is Condemned." His purpose was to gain the other side of the stream. He set down the by and cautiously tested the rotting flooring of the bridge. Suddenly he was swept forward. His weight quickened the dismantled structure to utter ruin. He discerned his perilous position. From his lips involuntarily rang out the cry, echoing cry:

"Help!"

The piercing call aroused the sleeper. In an instant he was on his feet. He saw sinking timbers engulfing the victim. Fleet-footed, he dashed for the bridge. Into the abyss he leaped unhesitatingly, he glanced quickly across some jagged beams by the man. He was bleeding from a bruise on one side of his head and lay barely supported by the floating fragments of timber.

"Hold on, I'll reach you!" shouted the rescuer, tearing off his coat. Then he noted that the man below was drowned, and then a swirl of the swift, central current separated the supporting timbers and he sank. Wilde leaped boldly into the water, but diving failed to locate the vanished man. He then down the shore, eagerly scanning the stream. Then, half exhausted, he gave up the search. Returning to the dropped satchel, he doubted not that its contents would reveal the identity of the lost owner. The thought came to him to take it to the village, tell the story and place it in the hands of the police. The fact that his name might be disclosed and suspicion directed against him prevented this. It began to rain, he sought shelter and found it in a wrecked ruin of an old hut. The next morning Wilde again went up and down the river shore, vainly searching for some trace of the man. Later he decided to open the valise. Its contents not only enlightened him but presented a mystery of the fascinating while it startled him.

According to papers found in the satchel, the drowned man was Hector Bradley. He was a resident of China, where he had worked for an English trading house. Among the papers was one signed by Hector Burt, a lawyer at Belleville, informing Bradley that an old friend of his father had left him a large fortune. There were papers identifying Bradley as to the heirship in question. There were several sheets the young man had written, which interested Wilde strangely. In these Bradley had outlined what he would do with the fortune. His mind must have been of a high order, for all his impulses indicated a deep interest in bettering the world and benefiting his fellow man. There stole upon Wilde the temptation to assume the identity and take the place of dead Ward Bradley.

A year later Alan Wilde was a fixture in the town of Belleville. He had appeared there, had been accepted by the lawyer as the real heir, and had at once been placed in possession of a large estate. He had made a holy vow that the man who had befriended him would not be ruthlessly followed out. There followed for him a career that astonished him with the swampeople. It spread the record of his charities far and wide. He founded a school, a hospital; he donated to every church in the town. He was at the head of all public and philanthropic movements.

Ethel Burt, the daughter of the lawyer, became a glad and willing helper in the field of charity. Their love was mutual, and at the end of two years they were married.

One day the real Alan Wilde, the false Ward Bradley, was electrified to have a visitor, at the sight of whom he sat dazed and overcome—the real heir! The latter was thin and pale, palpably a man not long for this world. He had escaped from the river, and, his brain affected by his injuries, until a month previous had been an aimless, half-witted wanderer. Within the locked room those two told each his story.

"I have learned all you have done here," spoke Bradley. "Ah, faithful steward, you shall go on with the good work so devotedly begun. I shall not live long. Let me be a friend, a guest, sharing in your noble work, thanking you for taking up my plans and so lovingly wearing them out — oh, my brother!"

And Ethel never knew, and the world never knew, but there was knee, and blessed the sacred compact.

Preamble of the Constitution.

Here is the preamble to the Constitution of the United States: "We, the people of the United States, in order to form a more perfect union, establish justice, insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense, promote the general welfare and secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and our posterity, do ordain and establish this Constitution for the United States of America."

Distinctly Up to Date.

"I'm negotiating for the services of a hired man," said Mr. Cobbles, "and I'm getting quite a number of replies. He seems to like my motoring pretty well, and the table board and the bed records we bought for our last photograph. All we've got to do now is to decide on the wages and the number of hours a day he thinks he can work without injuries his health."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

Why Buffaloes Wallow.

The water buffalo of China has few sweat glands in its skin, and for this reason cannot endure hard work in the sun for a long period unless its body is wet with water. This accounts for the desire of the buffalo to wallow in mud or water. The animals are easily overcome by heat if worked hard in the sun, and sometimes they go crazy and become very dangerous.

Within the Law.

"Look at that fellow in there with a loaded revolver," said our warmish friend at the beach yesterday—just when, somewhat startled we gazed in through the doorway at what we saw was merely a big merry-go-round full of young folks and in the center the proprietor thereof.—Boston Transcript.

Your "Dollars Do Double Duty" When SPENT AT HOME

There's only one answer to the question: "Where can I spend my dollars so that they'll not only benefit me personally by purchasing their full value's worth but where, in the course of time, they'll build for a greater community and make me more satisfied with both my neighbors and my surroundings?"

IT IS IN NAPANEE

Because--

Here and here only, can your dollars do "Double Duty."

First, they'll always get you the necessities of life at a lower cost than you could buy them for elsewhere. The personal interest our merchants take in each patron to see that he or she is always satisfied--often sacrificing profit--makes it possible.

Secondly, not only do your dollars go farthest, but--by trading here and keeping those dollars at home--you're contributing to our fair town's Progress and Prosperity.

More schools, more churches, better streets, better lighting system,--in general, a more attractive town,--are only possible when every citizen puts his or her "shoulder to the wheel" and "pushes" with their "home spent" dollars.

We, the undersigned business and professional interests, always have and always will be strong for anything that is good for the community. But, remember, we need YOUR CO-OPERATION.

K. N. Storms Passes.

K. N. Storms, a well-known resident of Wilton, passed away on Sunday, in his 54th year. Deceased was one of the most prominent men of that village, holding the position of Postmaster, and owning the large general store. He belonged to the Oddfellows' Lodge. He was born in Wilton and lived there practically all his life.

A Rare Treat.

You all remember well the good time you had whenever you have been at an entertainment at Hay Bay church. Well, come again. The young people are putting on two plays on Friday evening, February 11th, at 8 p.m., and there will be music also, all for 35c. Think of it, two complete plays for 35c.! 4b

Hockey Match To-Night.

The Bell Telephone Co. Hockey Team, of Belleville, will visit Napanee on Friday, January 28th. Game called at 8 p.m. sharp. The Bell Telephone Co. team have a very fast line-up and will give the local players a real battle. If you did not attend the last game you missed a real treat. The Napanee boys are going strong, and this game will be one of the best of the season. Don't miss it.

Dr. Gandier to Visit Missions in Orient.

Rev. Dr. Alfred Gandier, who is a brother of Mrs. J. M. Thomson, Napanee, will leave Toronto February 9th or 10th, for Hong Kong, China, where he is to meet Rev. Dr. Endicott, and together they will make a tour of the branches of the United Church in the Orient to carry to outlying centres thespirit of the new church union. Dr. Endicott left early last December for India to take part in the church jubilee. Dr. Gandier and Dr. Endicott plan to visit the five United Church centres of work in China, but present unsettled conditions may make visits to some of the China ports impossible. Korea Formosa and Japan, the United Church centres in the Japanese Empire, will be visited also.

DR. CAMPBELL AT THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY

Dr. P. G. C. Campbell lectured on Friday evening last before a full house in the Historical Room. Every available chair was taken, and the lecturer held the closest attention of the audience for about two hours.

The lecture, which was illustrated with lantern slides, dealt with Southern France, and Dr. Campbell, who is a Professor in French at Queen's, and who has frequently visited France, took his audience through the oldest and most romantic part of that interesting country.

His lecture had to do with the people, who he described in a fascinating manner, with the scenery which he told of and described with a wealth of imagery that is unexcelled, and with the old ruins of buildings. The churches, cathedrals, arenas, theatres, and bridges, some of them two thousand years old, and still in good state of preservation, were passed in review on the screen and described by Dr. Campbell.

The lecture was interesting, instructive, and the treatment of the subject was eminently artistic.

There will be several other lectures during the season, and the Executive is pleased with the response of the public to their attempt to bring to the town the best that the Universities have for the people. The meetings are free to the public, though membership in the Society costs $1.00 a year or $1.50 for a family ticket.

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The ladies who did not attend the January meeting of the Institute missed a real treat. Mrs. Fred Hamm's talk on "Her Impressions of Japan", was so very interesting and well given that one could enjoy hearing it again.

The report of the baskets sent out at Christmas, given by Mrs. Stanley Sproule, was well worth hearing and surely encouraged the members to do more of such work.

The Institute decided to help the Library by paying for the daily papers and about six new magazines, which will be quite an addition to those already on the tables.

Mrs. J. E. Mabee reported on the meeting of the Local Council of Women in Kingston.

We are holding a class in "Home Nursing and First Aid", beginning Monday afternoon, January 31st, and continuing for two weeks. We hope everybody will take advantage of the class who can. To any one not a member of the W. I. there will be a fee of 50c. each. The first aid class is just in the afternoon. Miss F. M. Alexander, of Toronto, will be the instructor.

The regular monthly meeting will be held February 2nd, at 2 p.m. Miss Wilfred Sproule, of Westbrooke W. I., has kindly consented to be present and give a report of the Convention at Ottawa. We also expect the Librarian from Kingston Public Library to give us a talk on Library work. We hope everyone will be out for this meeting.

Decidedly it pays to feed Dr. Hess' Stock Tonic, and to prove it we are authorized to refund on every pail if it doesn't pay for itself at least twice over. Enquire at Wallace's, Agents for Napanee.

"At Home"

An "At Home" will be held in St. Patrick's Hall, under the auspices of the Catholic Women's League, on Monday evening, January 31st, at 8 o'clock. Cards, Refreshments, Dancing. Normile's Orchestra. Admission 35c. 4a

Installation of Officers.

On November 16th, the initiation of Eastern Star, 245, L.O.B.A., took place in their Lodge Room, Harshaw Block, and on January 4th, the installment occurred. The following members were installed by P.P.G.L. Sister Conway:—

W.M.—Sister E. Clark.
P.M.—Sister C. Pennell.
Chaplain—Sister A. Ferguson.
Rec. Secty.—Sister A. B. Deschane.
Fin. Secty.—Sister M. Conway.
Treas.—Sister A. Hinkely.
D. of C.—Sister E. Cowan.
1st Lec.—Sister E. Thompson.
2nd Lec.—Sister E. Cummings.
I.G.—Sister E. Markle.
O.G.—Bro Scrimshaw (acting).
Guardian—Sister J. Sagar.
Com.—Sisters Moore, Storms, Herrington, Thompson, Deschane.
Pianist—Sister E. Cowan.

After the installation of officers and closing of Lodge, lunch was served in the beautifully decorated dining hall (purposely for the occasion). The members were then taken to their homes by auto in the wee small hours of the frosty morning. This Lodge is improving in every way, especially this last year.

BELLEVILLE CURLERS WIN

A hotly contested game of curling took place at the Napanee Curling Rink on Friday evening between Belleville and Napanee curlers. It was a return game in the O.C.L. series and the result was in doubt until practically the last end was played, the visiting curlers being victorious by five shots. The visitors were entertained at the Club House after the match.

Following were the rinks and the scores:

HOCKEY

Undue excitement was caused at the Napanee arena on January 19th, when the Public School and 1st Form N.C.I. began to let off bombs in the local warfare displayed on that night. Public School were bent on slaughtering the N.C.I. team, and penalties were issued right and left. The crowds hung over the fence in their efforts to see Harry Moore go through, to watch Charlie Huffman's new fangled ideas on chopping wood, and Lawrence VanLuven's technical "boarding" schemes. Brother Art thought that Lawrence's ideas were wrong and proceeded to demonstrate his own, while Wm. Howitt longed for the two-minute rests granted him twice in five minutes. "Shorty" Hayes, in goal, was the biggest loafer on the ice, and it was quite noticeable the musical talent he exhibited in his snores.

The mild, easy-going N.C.I. team were very good, and it was with hard luck that they were beaten, 8-0. "Iron" Moffat played a good game on defense, but utterly lacked combination. "Porky" Webb did very good; he touched the puck fully eight times.

Line-up was as follows:—

Public School—Hayes, VanLuven; Moore, Puffer; Davy, VanLuven; subs., Howitt and Baird.

N.C.I.—Smith, Moffat, Vandusen; Webb, Robinson, Kinkley, Vick.

Another event of interest took place in the metropolis of Newburgh, on Saturday, January 22nd, when that city kindly consented to allow the boys their circular rink on which to have a game of "shinny". The rink being round, the Napanee boys thought it was a merry-go-round, and started it going in the first period, ending the period with a 1-0 score. In the second period the machinery of the merry-go-round broke and the boys began playing on themselves. This period ended with a 2-1 score. But in the third and fourth, the machinery was repaired, the ice and the boys were also pushing, so the game ended with a 7-3 score, in favor of Napanee.

Following was the line-up:—

Napanee—Robin Flaks, goal; Cummings and McNeely, defense; F. Lucas, centre; A. Harrison and A. Miles, forwards; subs., F. Carter.

Napanee — "Brock" Vanalstine, goal; "Benny" Ballard and "Jay" Stewart, defense; "Dave" Dayne and "Lion" Moffat, forwards; "Huck" Vandusen, centre; subs, "Roy" Moore, "Connie" Conway, and James Plumley.

Mac M. Harrison, of Newburgh, acted as timekeeper. "Gow" Buchanan acted as referee, and kicked the Napanee boys off at every opportunity.

MacGREGOR'S
Farewell Sale!

WE are sure that the wonderful Sale held in December last of Ladies' and Misses' Dresses is still a pleasant memory to a great many, as through this Sale we sold hundreds of the choicest Dresses at wonderful bargain prices. As we have completely sold out our stock and interests to Mr. McFadden, of Peterborough, and doing business with you for years, we are taking this last opportunity of staging one of the largest Sales in Ladies' and Misses' Dresses we have ever presented in Napanee.

We have been very fortunate in securing from the manufacturer a large quantity of the famous Betty Brown Dresses in choice Sun Toy, Flannels, and Kaska cloths These lines will be placed on sale at from 40 to 50 per cent. discount.

We are also showing a large range of Silk Crepe, Satins, Georgette Dresses. These are all new and up-to-the-minute. We have just received them for this Special Sale.

Silk Crepe Dresses selling from $15.00 to $18.00 will be sold during this Sale at $9.49.

Dresses selling from $10.00 to $14.00 will be sold at $5.49.

Dresses ranging up to $23.00 will be sold at $16.49.

We consider ourselves very fortunate to be able to secure these bargains, and as this is the last sale of this kind that I will be able to stage before leaving the business I hope that you will do all in your power to make it a real farewell event, as we are selling Dresses at prices never heard of before.

Remember that our Marquisette Mill Ends Sale is still going strong, with many very choice remnants in stock.

We are also selling Scrim in plain and with border, 36-in. wide, at 5c. per yard.

Throughout the whole store we intend to have a real Clean-Up Sale. Dresses will be on sale Friday and Saturday, and if any are left they will be at your disposal next week.

MOSCOW

A number of friends of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Allen gathered at their home on the evening of January 25th to bid them good-bye before their removal to Yarker, where they expect to live. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Allen were presented with two beautiful wicker chairs, and the following address was read:

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Allen,—We, your friends and neighbours of Moscow, have learned with deep regret of your approaching departure from us, and have gathered here to spend this evening with you in your home before you leave this neighbourhood.

You have lived all of your married life in this place, and we have had many opportunities of proving your worth as citizens and neighbours. You have rejoiced with us on happy occasions, and have been always ready to give us assistance and sympathy in times of sickness and trouble.

You and all of your family have been generous supporters of everything that has been for the good of the community, and you have ever given cheerfully of your means to help the needy.

We are glad that you are not going farther away from us, and hope to see you on many occasions, especially as some members of your family are remaining here among us.

We hope you will accept these chairs in the spirit in which they are given, and that they will always remind you of the affection and good-will of your Moscow friends who all join in wishing you every blessing, and a continuance of prosperity and contentment in your new home.

Signed on behalf of the Moscow people,

Mr. and Mrs. Merley Huffman.
Mr. and Mrs. Archie Asselstine.
Mr. Henry Huffman.
Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Amey.

The presentation was made by Mr. and Mrs. A. Asselstine, and the address was read by Mrs. Charlie Amey. The evening was pleasantly spent in games, music and social intercourse and a delicious lunch was served.

The kitchen shower given to Mr. and Mrs. Gwen Clark was attended by a large number of their friends. All thoroughly enjoyed the evening, and a large number of useful gifts were received by the young couple.

A great many are suffering from colds and la grippe.

We are sorry to say Mrs. Lyall Milsap and Mrs. R. J. Brooks are still on the sick list.

Presentation and Address

On Tuesday evening, February 1st, a company of about forty friends gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Fretts, and completely surprised them. They spent a few jolly hours in music, singing, cards and dancing, and partook of a delicious lunch. Then they called Mr. and Mrs. Fretts to a position of honor and read the following address:—

Big Creek, Feb. 1st, 1927.

To Mrs. Raymond Fretts.

We, the people of S. S. No. 13, North Fredericksburgh, together with the pupils, have gathered here to-night to express to you our appreciation and esteem.

During your three years of teaching in our school you have always been painstaking in your work, and no task was too much for you to undertake in the interest of your school, pupils, or community.

We might just mention the three school fairs to which you gave so much of your time and attention, and every Christmas the pupils were certain their teacher was planning to hold a Christmas tree and concert, so dear to the hearts of children.

We now congratulate you in your new field of endeavour, and wish for you the same success in your new work.

To Mr. Fretts, who has been long and favourably known to us all, we would like also to congratulate him on his choice of a help-mate, and hope he will prove an obedient pupil.

We now ask you to accept this library table as a slight token of our esteem and good will.

In closing, let us again congratulate you and Mr. Fretts, and also wish you a long, happy and prosperous wedded life.

Signed on behalf of S. S. No. 13, North Fredericksburgh, Mrs. Ray F. Perry.

Mrs. Geo. Vankoughnet.

Mr. and Mrs. Fretts made suitable replies, and thanked the givers for their good wishes and gift of a beautiful walnut library table.

After singing "For they are Jolly Good Fellows", the company broke up. All were invited to accept their hospitality in the future.

TAMWORTH

There were seven chimney fires in town on Sunday last. One fire was quickly extinguished, but the other several left the church for a short time, but on hearing the fire was out, all returned to service again. The report was that A. B. Carscallen's mill was on fire. There is a good ice harvest, being about 22 to 24 inches thick. Many are taking advantage of same and putting in their supply.—D. B. Floyd was in Kingston one day this week on business. —All goods reduced at Floyd's. Look for bargains.—H. F. Thornton has opened up store in the old Sherman Block.—Sampson Shields is visiting friends in Toronto.—There is good skating on all the ponds.—The Women's Institute purpose holding three more Progressive Euchres, the first one being on Wednesday, Feb. 9th, at 8 p.m., in the Town Hall. Watch for further particulars later. Only 25c.

ODESSA

The twenty-five ladies who braved the cold last Wednesday afternoon for the Women's Missionary Auxiliary meeting, held at the home of Mrs. J. E. Mabee, felt well repaid for their efforts. The meeting was a splendid one, and a warm welcome is always given by the hostess. Several visitors from out of town dropped in at the tea hour for a pleasant chat over the tea cups.—Last Tuesday afternoon Mrs. W. S. Holmes gave a jolly party to about fifteen of her little daughter Alice's friends, it being her sixth birthday anniversary. —Mr. and Mrs. Milhaven, spent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith.—Mr. and Mrs. Oakley Storms of Rochester, are visiting the former's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Storms.—Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bell, Bath, were recent guests of their daughter, Mrs. Wesley Sharpe, at the Dominion.—Mrs. Harry Miller passed away at the Kingston General Hospital, last Wednesday. The funeral was held from her son's home, Edward Miller, Kingston.—Quite a number from here attended the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Mooney, Westbrook, last Thursday evening. They received last week to make her home with Mr. and Mrs. James Robinson.—Last Wednesday morning the mercury dropped to 24 degrees below zero.

It was moved by Mr. Elliott, seconded by Mr. Johnston, that the road along the Bay shore, from Adolphustown to Bath, be made a county road.

Moved in amendment by Mr. Fisher, seconded by Mr. Aylsworth, that the matter lay on the table until March session and in the meantime the Warden and Mr. Johnston will interview the Department of Highways in regard to the matter.

The resolution of Messrs. Tummon and Loyst re adding the old Belleville road to the county road system was laid on the table until the March session.

On motion of Messrs. Clark and Loyst the Highways Department were requested to prepare a plan to direct the Bloomburgh road from its intersection with the Canadian National Railway to the road leading to Napanee past the Golf Club grounds, to connect with the Provincial Highway at Centre street. Carried.

A motion was passed granting $500 to the National Institute for the Blind.

A motion was passed granting $500 to the Hospital for Sick Children, Toronto.

Council adjourned.

Whatis In a Name?

At one time the people believed that the descendants of Judas Iscariot were living in Corfu, although these accused stoutly denied such ancestry. In Brazil an effigy of Judas is carried by the school boys to a ship where sailors hang it from the yard arm. In the Greek church at Smyrna once a year there is a ceremony at which a person is paid a great sum to impersonate Judas. Such is the feeling of the people that he who accepts this odious part is liable to retain the name through life. —Boston Post.

A DOCTOR'S PRAISE

A Noted Doctor Strongly Endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The test of any remedy lies in its acceptance and employment by the qualified medical practitioner, for unless an authority than Dr. Andrea Amici, physician to the Papal household, writing on the subject of anaemia, impoverishment of the nervous system and disorders attributable thereto, strongly endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, recommending them as superior to other tonics.

Dr. Amici's testimony reads as follows:—"For several years I have made use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my work and I have always found them efficacious in the treatment of disorders due to impoverishment of the nervous system, anaemia and neurasthenia, stomach weakness, retarded development in young women, and irregularities. There is no lack of tonic remedies, but in my experience no one of them manifests a superior efficacy to that of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

No more conclusive evidence of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills could be asked for or given, than is found in the above endorsement of this noted European physician, besides this, however, this medicine has enjoyed a world-wide public confidence for more than a third of a century and has brought relief to thousands and thousands of weak and suffering people.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and stomach trouble. Take them as a tonic if you are run-in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The Jury's Difficulty.

"Gentlemen of the jury," said a judge as he concluded his charge, "if the evidence shown in your minds that pneumonia, even indirectly, was the cause of the man's death, the prisoner cannot be convicted." An hour later a messenger came from the jury room. "The gentlemen of the jury, your lordship," he said, "desire information." "On what point of evidence?" "None, your lordship; they want to know how to spell pneumonia."

Optimistic Nan

By JACK LAWTON

(Copyright, 1925, Western Newspaper Union)

Nan sat close to the window where the fast-fading daylight came through a break between high buildings. She was writing happily, in a fever of excitement to finish her creation and be off with it to the mails.

As she smoothed the manuscript, and reread what she had written, Nan chuckled joyously; and when she had folded the pages, she turned to a yellow cat curled up at her side.

"It is good, Jasper," the girl triumphed; "it will start us on our way to fortune."

Jasper blinked back dispassionately, as though Nan's ever-ready optimism failed to impress him.

Had she not always yearned to be a writer, even when housekeeping for daddy had been her necessity? Now that daddy had married again, and she was free to carry out her ambitions, she intended to do so with all that was in her. When she had become successfully started upon her chosen career, Nan promised herself to victoriously go back again to Lonsdale. Neither was she discouraged about the starting.

In vain, friends had pointed out to her the difficulties and disappointments of would-be writers.

There was Aunt Nancy Whitcome, for whom Nan had been named; it was the eccentricities of Aunt Nancy which had set her chuckling as she read the caricature of her own pen.

The first winter snow had made the air so chill that Nan determined to buy a winter suit; the fall one was quite too thin, and it might still be charged to her father's account at Kerrey's. Not that Nan intended her father to pay for the suit. With his second and disadvised marriage, there had been a parting of the ways. She would pay for the suit herself with this first story check. But it was slow in coming.

After the fifth day's eager watch for the postman, Nan wrinkled her brows perplexed. Then again she pinned on the turban.

"When you want a thing," she admonished Jasper, "go after it."

She disliked sitting in the waiting room of the great publishing building; it would save so much time to be shown directly into the editor's presence.

A resigned-looking office woman gave the promise of looking into the matter of her neglected story, and then the young woman remained so long away that Nan feared she had forgotten about it. So when a man of distinguished appearance entered the room from the outer door, and was about to follow into the sanctum in which the young woman had gone, Nan pressed forward, making known to him her errand.

The man paused courteously, regarding Nan's eager face.

"A story," he questioned, "which you have written? Have you published anything of yours before?"

"Oh, no!" Nan told him. "This is the very first story I have submitted. It was sent in file clerk's spare hours, perhaps," she added, "that they would let me have my money now."

The distinguished man coughed in an undecided manner, then he smiled.

"My dear young lady," he said, "we do not accept all submitted stories. In fact, a great many of them are returned."

Nan nodded understandingly. "Of course," she replied, "that must be so. But my story—is one of the accepted kind."

The managing editor, looking into her shining eyes, turned suddenly toward the inner room.

"I will send Mr. Knowlton to you," he said.

Mr. Knowlton appearing directly, seemed to be more reasonable. Nan was aware as he approached that he bore a long envelope in his hand. Also, Mr. Knowlton was young and kindly.

"You see," he apologized, "they hadn't got around to reading your stuff; and—truth is, we are pretty well stocked up with material for some time to come. If you'd let us look at this later—"

"I cannot wait," Nan pleasantly explained; "my suit has to be paid for, you see. I charged it, waiting for my check."

"Check?" Mr. Knowlton blankly repeated.

"Yes," Nan told him; "the check for this story was to pay for this suit."

The young editor stared, and as his eyes rested upon Nan, they grew even more kindly.

"You could read it now," she suggested. "I could sit here until you have finished."

And as though he were not quite sure that he was following her suggestion, Mr. Knowlton sank into a chair and opened the long envelope.

It was a sudden amused chuckle which aroused Nan from a hopeful reverie. And then after several more irresistible chuckles, Mr. Knowlton stood waving the pages of her writing before her.

"Why, this is great," he exclaimed; "it's great! We will take all of this sort of thing that you can do."

Nan smiled, as one who has long known a truth!

"I will soon bring more," she said.

Her back to the limousine she absently stroked the yellow cat. "He has the nicest eyes, Jasper," Nan murmured enigmatically.

"Only Old Junk"

By OTTILIA F. PFEIFFER

(Copyright, 1926, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Worthless, a vagrant—I don't believe in encouraging such characters in idleness. They are only old junk." Thus Mr. Earl Hurst, lecturer, highbrow reformer and self-assertive authority on community economy. To him anyone outside of the well-to-do were anarchists in the making. His scheme of life for the lowly embraced a sort of monarchial authority.

"But Smiling Simon is not a vagrant, Mr. Hurst," demurred pretty, warm-hearted Ina Bortell. "Nor is he idle. Everybody likes him, he is absolutely sober and reliable and I have started him in business and am glad of it."

"Hem! Ha! Just so. Well, I hope you do not rue the experiment."

Ina Bortell was the sweetest, most lovable girl in the village and Simon Price, "Smiling Simon," a stroller and ne'er-do-well, had been taken ill with fever, had been cared for in the hospital ward of the local jail and had been discharged unkempt, pale and thin, to shift for himself. He had started from the village but grew faint, and had crept through the hedge of the Bortell garden to rest on the grass when Ina discovered him.

"I had to rest," he spoke with difficulty, "I'll get on as soon as I pull myself together. Just out of the hospital but I'll be all right in a day or so," and he smiled up into the face of his interested hostess, ingenuous and confidingly as a schoolboy. That sunny smile was his sole capital and somehow it went to the heart of the little lady.

"There's a hammock over near the lilac bushes," she told him. "Let me help you that far."

"Oh! Miss—"

"Indeed you must, and you look as if you needed food."

She guided the faltering steps to the hammock and settled a soft pillow under Smiling Simon's head. The glass of ice cold cream she brought was as nectar to Simon's parched lips. It was followed by chicken broth. Ina listened sympathizingly to the simple story of his life until the tired eyelids closed, and with the accustomed smile upon his face he was immersed in blissful rest.

Thus it was that Simon Price found an oasis in life. There was an abandoned barn on the Bortell lot and in its loft he utilized an old cot. There was no objection to his domesticating himself and as he grew stronger many and helpful were the functions he performed about the place.

There was the poor wreck of a wagon in the barn which Simon mended up. Somewhere he arranged for the rent of a horse. He became the junk man of the district, gathering up rags, iron, glass, rubber and the like, storing it in his "warehouse" until there was a carload, when he shipped the aggregation to the city.

There was a shy, retiring young man in the village named Dale Warren, and to him Simon became likewise attached. The shrewd discerning eyes of the humble junk gatherer had noted the budding of mutual love between Ina and Warren. It was enough for Simon to know that the goddess of his soul favored the young man, to look upon Warren as a worthy friend. He decided that Warren, with all his retiring ways, must be good and brave to win the attention of Ina, and one night Warren indeed showed that inherent within him was true manliness and courage.

Simon had hastened down town attracted by a great glare. The town hotel was on fire, and just as Simon reached the scene he saw Warren scale a high ladder reaching to the top window of the structure. He disappeared through a window space to emerge amid clouds of blinding smoke, bearing a little child in his arms. A fireman ran up the ladder and received the child in his arms and bore it to the ground. Then a great cry went up from the crowd at the sight of Warren, overcome by smoke and flame, lying senseless across the window sill aloft.

Simon sprang up the ladder, at one place breasting fierce flames pouring from a window. Just as he reached Warren the ladder here, swayed, snapped in twain and, pushing Warren into the room, he disappeared after him.

Ten minutes later, miraculously escaping through the fire-filled halls of the building, Simon staggered into view bearing across his shoulders the limp form of the insensible Warren, covered with a blanket blazing in places. Then the hero rescuer fell prostrate. An hour later it was known that he had inhaled the flames and had sustained burns that must prove fatal. He was removed to the Bortell home at the direction of Ina's father, who had appeared on the scene. When he weakly came back to consciousness Warren was at his side and Ina was bending over him. Over the face of the sufferer there spread an expression of tender satisfaction.

"I'm done for, and I'm glad it was in trying to be of use to your friends," he whispered feebly to Ina. "Miss Bortell it will soon be no secret—Mr. Warren loves you, and you will be happy, and poor Simon is dead!"

She bent over him, her tears falling like rain. Then she pressed her lips to his brow. Only old junk! but his face became transfigured and, smiling still, "Smiling Simon" passed away!

No, Roger, it wasn't bootleg whiskey that Rip VanWinkle drank. Rip woke up after a time.

Farmer—What are you doing up that apple tree?

Boy—Please, sir, there's a notice to keep off the grass.

BABY'S WELFARE DURING FEBRUARY

Should Be Most Carefully Guarded By All Mothers

February is one of the hardest months of the year on little ones. It is a month of cold, blustery days that prevent the mother taking her baby out for the fresh air so necessary to its welfare. Baby is consequently confined to the home. More often than not the rooms are overheated and badly ventilated, and the little one catches cold or grippe. What is needed to keep the baby well is a gentle laxative that will regulate the stomach and bowels; banish constipation and indigestion and in this way will either prevent or break up colds and grippe. Such a laxative is found in Baby's Own Tablets. They are mild but thorough in action; are absolutely safe and they are guaranteed to contain neither opiates or other harmful drugs. They never fail to be of benefit to little ones and may be given to either the newborn babe or the growing child.

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all dealers in medicine or may be had by mail, post paid, at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsion of cod liver that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action. It soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authority as one of the greatest healing agents for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat and bronchial disorder. Guaiacolsulphonates, in addition to creosote, are other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

A GIRL OF THE HOUR

By ALDEN CHAPMAN

The brilliant snappiness in the lovely eyes of Rhoda Burton would have consumed, at least have abashed the distant cause of the varied emotions expressed, had the object of the same been present at that moment. For years she and Maurice Croft had been playmates and then lovers. She had come to the city to visit relatives and here, within a week, mourning and missing her cavalier true, dreadful news of him had reached Rhoda. A cousin of Maurice coming to the city for a flying visit had called upon her.

"Yes, there has been carryings on," submitted chatty Winifred Forbes, who herself had once experienced a secret fondness for Maurice, and not loath to bring the news to a successful rival. "The silly boy, has been 'taking a fling,' as he calls it, and is bent on showing off to the limit."

"As how, now?" suggested Rhoda, calmly enough.

"Well, he went over to Springfield with Aleck Prince who, as you know, is wild enough to serve as a warning. They had a two days' sojourn, visited the races, played billiards and fancied they were going the pace. To wind up they visited a show. The premiere was a dancer. Lulu Langford, I believe they call her. She made eyes at Maurice, recognizing a green simpleton, I suppose. In her act she drops a bouquet and then airily sends it out into the audience with tip of her dainty toe. It landed in Maurice's lap. I don't believe he did anything more than send this charming Lulu a bouquet the next day, but he came back home like a knight errant vaunting the conquest of impressible hearts without number. Do you know he has a dozen colored photographs of this Lulu hung about in his room, showing her in her various poses? I saw one portraying her as 'the girl of the hour' —high heels, the latest as to garb, blonde hair, a golden surcoat and all that. He talks of 'the life,' and you'd think he was a past grand master of the giddy whirl!"

But after Winifred had left, the little hands clenched, the pearly teeth set vengefully, and Rhoda uttered three forceful words:

"I'll cure him!"

Rhoda had not departed from simple neatness of attire during her visit with her wealthy relatives. She had thought more of inspecting art galleries and museums than attending shows and social gatherings, but now she engaged in a confidential confab with her stylish cousin, Phyllis, and asked her to cooperate with her in punishing Maurice for daring to look at another woman.

"You are just about my size and your dresses will fit me very nicely," planned the audacious plotter. "I shall ask Maurice to the city to remain with your brother for a few days and act as my special escort. He shall have a real sample of high life, indeed! I'll warrant he will pine for his peaceful, inexpensive village and his occasional reasonable drive in a livery buggy and the humdrum but wholesome society concerts. I have taught him a salutary lesson."

Maurice appeared the day after he had received a summons from his fair one. His little whirl in a small city had taught him that life in the metropolis was expensive, and he came with a well-filled pocketbook, but never gauging the whims and caprices of a willful fiancee. He was astounded to be greeted by the modest, tasteful village inamorata arrayed in the very extreme of smart attire. Rhoda had assumed a certain grand air that oppressed, rather than awed him. She and Phyllis joked about slumming-flirtations and cigarettes. When Maurice suggested a place of amusement Rhoda named the grand opera.

Maurice winced at the unexpected expensiveness, but that was only a preface to a supper. His company chose the most fashionable place of midnight resort. Restfully Maurice yawned up the evening's entertainment. It exceeded half of the money he had brought with him.

And the next day Rhoda spoke of a drive on the boulevards with an audacity and airiness that almost frightened Maurice. Another big bill—and Maurice with the price of a home rig for an entire afternoon! Rhoda had seemingly developed into a tartar and a spendthrift after one week of metropolitan social dissipation.

She was distrait and subdued as they started back for Clifton. They were at odds somehow, and Maurice, repentant, ill at ease, sought to clear the atmosphere.

"I was over at Springfield with Aleck Prince for a couple of days," began Maurice lamely.

"Yes, I heard you were," answered Rhoda.

"Flash and flitter, you know," proceeded Maurice.

"Miss Lulu Langford, also?" intimated Rhoda with mild malice.

"Oh! a deceiving element that—I hear she's fifty years old and has four children."

"You still preserve those photograph mementoes, I suppose?"

"Hardly," declared Maurice with vigor. "Oh, Rhoda! Let us forget we ever strayed from home! Let us both forget everything, except that we belong among the friends and the flowers and home, where we belong and ought to stay."

"I'm willing," whispered Rhoda.

"So your boy is studying to be a druggist."

"Yes; he is attending a special course of lectures on soap, cigars, perfumery, soft drinks, city directories, telephone books, candy, fancy postcards and stationery.

NAPANEE BRANCH V.O.N.

The Order acknowledges with thanks, the January instalment of $36.00 from the Board of Education.

Report of the V. O. N. for January, 1927.

Thirteen cases were registered during the month—5 medical, (2 of which were pneumonia cases), 2 surgical, 3 eventful, and 2 infants.

One conference was attended and one free nursing visit was paid.

There were 41 nursing visits and 183 non-nursing visits, making a total of 144 visits paid during the month.

$14.00 was collected from patients, and $41.75 from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., making a total of $25.75.

The Social Service Committee is undertaking the supplying of milk every day to a very acute case of chronic in very poor circumstances.

Clinic Work

Four Clinics were held, with a total attendance of 27. Two cases were referred to our physician.

A case was presented at the Clinic of a very poor baby on the Kingston Road. For this case the Social Service Committee provided a very complete layette, which was much appreciated.

School Work

Sixteen visits were paid to the two schools, 272 children being inspected and 235 weighed. Six defects were corrected, 44 minor treatments given, and 7 class room Health talks. Fifteen cases were referred to own physician, and 16 home school visits were paid. 35 hours were spent in the schools.

In the five Primary classes examined about fifty per cent. are found to be underweight.

The Principal of the schools, Mr. Trenouth, was consulted regarding the distribution of milk at recess to these. Mr. Trenouth would like to consult with the School Management Committee before this was undertaken, and states also that it would mean much extra work for the teachers.

C. LAMBART,

IN MEMORIAM.

In loving memory of our dear Daughter and Sister, Miss Bessie Garrison, who died February 6th, 1926.

In a grave and sadly sleeping,
Where the flowers gently wave,
Lies the one we love so dearly,
But whom we could not save.
Heaven now retains our treasure,
Earth her lonely casket keeps,
And the Angels love to linger
Where our darling daughter sleeps.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers. 5ap

Just a Word of Warning

The overwhelming public desire and demand for Radio without Batteries, coupled with the outstanding success of the Rogers Batteryless Radio, has inspired many dealers to advertise so-called "Light-Socket" operation for nearly every other make of radio.

This "Light-Socket" operation claimed by dealers for radios other than Rogers is not elimination of batteries, but a combination of batteries and a charger, which charger operates from your light socket

—You still have batteries
—You still have chemicals
—You still have wires

It is not your radio but the charger that operates from the light socket. The current operates the charger, which charges your batteries. The batteries operate the radio set. Instead of eliminating anything you have added one more part and expense.

These devices certainly have merit and are a real convenience to those who have radios and cannot afford to sacrifice them for a Rogers, but when you are buying a new radio and are led to believe it is "batteryless" or so-called "Light-Socket" operation, just ask one question:

"Has it got batteries or chemicals or a charger?" Insist upon a straight answer —then insist on Rogers—with the AC Tube!

USE BOTH YOUR HANDS.

By Doing So You Give Your Brain a Rest.

Out of every hundred babies born, seventeen are naturally right-handed, three are left-handed, and the remaining eighty are capable of using either hand with equal ease. Yet owing to our methods of training the young, by the time those hundred babies are three years old all except the three who were left-handed will use the right hand for such essential work as writing, painting, and the use of all tools.

There are said to be over four hundred different sorts of work in which the equal use of both hands is an advantage, but even in those in which one hand only is generally used it is a tremendous advantage to be able to use the left hand in order to rest the right.

Sir James Barrie, when his right hand failed him, had to learn to write with his left, but Sir Robert Baden-Powell, when bitten by a dog and forced to carry his right arm in a sling, went straight on with his work writing and drawing with the other hand, for he has been able to use both hands equally all his life.

The great animal artist, Landseer, could paint two pictures at the same time, using both hands. The famous Leonardo da Vinci was equally accomplished, and so was Holbein, the portrait painter. More wonderful seems the fact that the well-known surgeon, Mr. Mayson Beell, could operate equally easily with either hand. Sir Oliver Lodge is another well-known man who uses both hands with ease.

It is the left side of the brain that controls the muscles of the right side of the body, so by learning to use the left hand a person actually rests one side of his brain and is, therefore, able to do more work at a stretch.

PAYING RENT WITH SNOW.

Tenant of Foulis Estates in Scotland Pays With a Bucketful of Snow.

On the anniversary of the Battle of Waterloo the King receives from the Duke of Wellington a small banner. By this annual presentation the duke holds the estate of Strathfieldsaye, which was voted to his great ancestor by Parliament.

The Duke of Marlborough, on the anniversary of the Battle of Blenheim, forwards to Windsor a miniature silken banner decorated with the ducal arms. He thus holds Woodstock in fee for the monarch and the nation.

The tenant of the Foulis estates in Scotland is supposed to pay for his lands with a bucketful of snow. Luckily these estates are close by Ben Nevis, where snow often lies in deep crevices all the year round. Consequently this peculiar rent can be paid at almost any time in the year.

At one time it might have been difficult for the tenant of Swendon, in Bucks, to raise his rent, which consists of a garland of roses. The modern gardener, however, can guarantee roses well-nigh all the year round.

The last monarch who accepted a certain service in lieu of rent for the lands of Kepperton and Atterton, in Kent, was Edward I. King John had granted these estates on condition that whenever he or his heirs crossed the Channel the holder should hold his head when troubled with mal de mer.

MOISTURE IN THE INCUBATOR.

(Experimental Farms Note)

In the drier sections of Canada, and especially where low temperatures prevail in early spring, great difficulty is experienced in getting good hatches, due to an insufficiency of moisture in the incubator. In many cases in spite of ideal moisture conditions in the incubator itself, poor results are still the rule and the percentage of chicks dead in the shell is very much. It has been found that any considerable decrease from the normal moisture content of the machine causes the air to draw too much moisture from the egg with the result that the shell membranes become tough and dry and cannot be broken by the chicks at the time of hatching. Under such circumstances it is essential that moisture be supplied liberally if a normal hatch is to be obtained.

By far the most important method of giving a sufficient supply of moisture in incubation is that of supplying water directly to the egg. There are, however, other methods which may be resorted to in order to correct conditions, each subject of the lesser degree of regulating the relative humidity of the machine to be exercised with a view to maintaining a uniformly high hygrometer. A relative humidity of from 50° to 60° is consistently given the best results in the Experimental Farm hatchery. It is better to err on the side of too much than too little moisture.

One method in general use consists in placing water pans or trays of wet sand in the bottom of the incubator. Under ordinary circumstances sufficient moisture is supplied by this method. Experiments were carried out at Lethbridge and at the Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, in which moisture was supplied by placing pads made of loan boards wrapped with patches of absorbent cloth, with cotton or woollen flannel dipped in water and suspended above the eggs. The rate of humidity was controlled by the frequency of moistening the pads. Since the air above the eggs is hotter than usual, its capacity for absorption of moisture is greater, and for this reason, much more than the usual amount must be supplied to the air. The slightly cooled and moistened air, on coming in contact with the bottom of the machine and with a supply of hot air is consequently heated, which causes the pads to cool, being surrounded by the hot air, give up less moisture to the air in the egg and more than while the reverse is the case.

At 1 to 1 relative humidity in the incubator was increased from 50% with moisture pans only, to 56% with pads above the eggs and the percentage of eggs hatched from 42% to 70% respectively.

If Your Kidneys Are the Trouble

Read What Mrs. Ward Has To Say About Dodd's Kidney Pills

Ontario Lady in a Few Words Gives Reason Why Dodd's Kidney Pills Are a Household Remedy.

Ottawa, Ont., (Special).—Right to the point is the statement Mrs. D. Ward, who lives at 42 Holmwood Avenue, Ottawa, makes with regard to Dodd's Kidney Pills.

"I have suffered with kidney trouble. My hands used to swell and my eyes and face get puffy. I also had a terrible backache. I always got relief after using Dodd's Kidney Pills."

It is statements like this that have made Dodd's Kidney Pills a household word all over Canada. For more than a third of a century people have been telling each other of the benefit they received from Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are purely and simply a kidney remedy.

If your kidneys trouble you take Dodd's Kidney Pills. They are the pills you need.

Dodd's Kidney Pills have restored health and happiness to thousands of men and women. Give them a trial at once.

HERMITS AND HUMBUGS

By JESSIE E. SHERWIN

Fads and cults came only occasionally to Brooklyn, but when they did they found a ready high priestess in the shape of Miss Alice Wade. She was thirty, comely still, and prided herself as the object of adoration of several widowers and bachelors, but so far had disdained all suitors except Dabney Simms.

"And she keeps me trifling along," Simms told his sister Ruth, "as though we were going to be young forever."

"Alice loves youth and variety and excitement." Ruth reminded Robert indulgently. "She has plenty of money and enjoys spending it."

"Frittering it away, you mean," corrected Simms with some asperity. "There was that moon-faced prophet of the stars, that astrological humbug who won her over as patroness of the occult light of the Great Bear. He managed to swindle her out of a cool thousand. "

"What is the trouble now?" inquired Ruth.

"Oh, a new exponent of spiritistic science—calls himself Professor Abou-bar Hamud. He has delivered a lecture on his new theory of soul culture, and Alice and the society of which she is secretary have gone wild over his economic and social nostrums, ideal isms and illusivelsms.

But Professor Aboukar Hamud had no idea of departing from the rich field he had wandered into. He professed to have found in these new devotees "mystic mediums," capable, under culture along psychological lines, of aiding him in his great experiments.

"It is only by segregation that a revelation from the spirits can materialize," he prompthered. "I have discovered a natural hermit cell over on the edge of the town, and a week of solitary reverie may fit me to reveal absolute demonstration of ghostly suggestion."

The "hermit's cell" proved to be an abandoned habitation on the lonely summit of Prospect hill known to every resident. It had been the home, or rather den, of an eccentric old man who lived all to himself. After he died the rumor that he was a rich miser lead to the ransacking of the place, but no hidden treasure was found; although the professor indicated that by his magic art the same might come to light.

A generous purse was made up for him and a wagonload of provisions brought to the place by three associate mystics, as he termed them. Some marvelous developments were pledged by the professor as the result of his isolation. His faithful sponsors looked learned and solemn as they spoke of the week of retirement and reverie to which the professor had sacrificed himself for the good of the cult.

Robert Simms went out of his way to evade passing the Wade house. He railed to his sister every evening against the faddists and declared that all was over between himself and the lady he loved.

"Why, those infamous swindlers, I learn, used to travel about the country with a cheap show, playing the clairvoyant and mesmerizing rubes to credulous audiences. I have found out that the money donated for their revelation racket was invested mostly in liquor and cigars, and Farmer Ahlin told me that he drove past the old hermit place last night and the illustrious professor and his fellow scientists were having a regular jamboree."

The special committee of the club that had financed the retirement of the professor was in session in their quarters two nights later, when there was a great commotion in the street outside. Then the doors were burst open. In horrified amazement the ladies shrank back as the professor reeled into the room. His nose, always pink, was more ruddy than ever; his hair was matted and in disorder, and he was followed by his three devoted assistants, and the quartette fell against one another and engaged in the maudlin chorus of a drinking song as they staggered towards the platform.

"Great materialization, ladies," pronounced the erudite professor. "Spirit of Plato fully materialized. I will now make my famous address on the divination of spectral entities."

"Not here you won't," announced the village marshal, coming forward with several assistants. "You and your crew are lasted by the police of Mayville for passing counterfeit money. Peter Potts, alias Professor Aboukar Hamud, your career of glory is over."

Miss Wade rushed from the hall in tears. She fled even from her humiliated sisters. A crowd outside jeered and yelled. Some one caught her arm and led her out of the hubbub and commotion.

"Oh Robert," she sobbed, looking up and recognizing her rescuer. "How can I look respectable people in the face again?"

"Look me in the face," directed Robert seriously, "and assure me that this is your final faddist experiment, and I will see that the incident passes into oblivion."

She obeyed him, and so pleading, so penitent was the expression of that pear-shaped face that Robert Simms bent down and kissed it and felt sure that his bride soon to be was safely cured of her folly.

APPLES WITHOUT CORES.

Seedless Oranges, Lemons, and Grapefruit, and Now Seedless Apples.

There have long been seedless oranges, lemons, and grapefruit, and now there are seedless apples.

A seedless fruit does not propagate its own species. It grafts itself on branches grown from fruit with seeds. The seedy mother provides the fecundity; the seedless fruit gives the pulp and the flavor.

The boy of a seedless apple come from the seedless orange of California, a freak of nature discovered over a hundred years ago. About 1820 a missionary of Bahia, Brazil, discovered a new kind of orange growing wild which contained seeds of propagation not in its own body, but in a little one at the top. He sent twelve of the trees to the United States, and although they did not live long, they were budded off on them, and are budding still.

Mrs. Eliza Tibbets gave us "Washington Navals," oranges without seeds. One of the trees she planted in 1873 is still alive and producing good fruit.

Next in favor come Valencias, with about a seed, apiece. It is said that they retain it, for California grows most of the best oranges of the world, and if there were no seeds there would soon be no oranges.

Poisoned By the Wind.

An east wind with a touch of the north in it is said to depress people more than anything else. It lowers the vitality of the body and depreciate the activity of the most important organs, including the liver.

The liver is supposed to stop certain materials from passing it, and when it is not working properly these materials succeed in getting by and reach the brain, which is affected. This accounts for the feeling of bad temper and irritability so common when an east wind is blowing.

To prevent this, keep warm and take exercise. This does not necessarily entail the wearing of wool next to the skin. Silk is just as warm and certainly far less irritating to sensitive skins and tempers already put on edge by the wind.

Osler's Prescription.

Dr. William Osler's prescription for success in doing the daily job will appeal to many harassed souls: "Banish the future, live only for the hour and be strong. Shorten the view, not of the amount to be accomplished, the difficulties to be overcome, or the end to be attained, but set earnestly at the little task at your elbow, feeling that be sufficient for the day."

A contemporary came to London to visit some relatives and to see the sights. He remained until patience on the part of his hosts, a married couple, ceased to be a virtue. "Don't you think, my dear fellow," remarked the husband, one day, "that your wife and children must miss you?"

"Hadn't thought of that," was the calm reply. "Thanks for the suggestion; I'll send for them."

OBITUARY

Karah Nelson Storms

The death of Karah Nelson Storms, which took place at his late residence, Wilton, on Sunday, Jan. 23rd, removed one of the best known and most highly respected residents of the township and community. He was born at Sharpton, but spent most of his life around and in Wilton, where for many years he was postmaster and owned the general store. He made many friends during the fifty-four years of his life, by his quiet but devoted ways, his beautiful character, and his sterling honesty which won him respect wherever he was known. He devoted his life to these about him. Up until two months ago, he was active in his home and community, but from that time his illness confined him to his home. "Always reliable and careful in fulfilling his duties as a Christian and as a citizen, he will indeed be missed; yes, he has left a record which may well serve as an example for those who come after. Formerly a Methodist in religion, he became a member of the United Church. The many beautiful flowers which surrounded his bedside and those laid on the casket, were a testimony of his popularity.

Besides his sorrowing widow, who was formerly Mrs. Rose (Shibley) Neilson, he leaves to mourn his loss, Mr. Shibley Neilson, of Walkerville, and Miss Dorothy Neilson, at home, to whom he has been a true and devoted father. He is also survived by five brothers, Peter in California, Will in Rochester, Robert in Watertown, John in Sydenham, and Albert in Odessa.

The funeral, which was largely attended, was held on Wednesday afternoon, Jan. 26th, at his late residence, Revds. McQuade and Moffatt officating. The passing of a Christian soul was compared to a vessel steaming out onto the ocean, and anchoring again on that other shore. Many were saddened by the departure, but eager angel faces awaited its arrival over there. The Odessa I.O.O.F. Lodge, of which he was a member of good standing, took part in the ceremony.

The floral tributes on the casket were as follows:—Pillow, from the family; basket of flowers, Miss M. Graves, Windsor; wreaths from the following, I.O.O.F.; W. B. Dalton, Kingston, Ont.; brothers; Sunday School of the United Church; the Shibley family; a crescent from Mr. and Mrs. Roy Storms, Toronto, Ont.; a broken circle, from Mr. and Mrs. F. Grant, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rutledge, Mr. and Mrs. H. Guess, Mr. and Mrs. C. Amey, Mr. and Mrs. E. Day, Mr. and Mrs. J. Shibley, Mr. and Mrs. R. Gibson, Mr. and Mrs. B. Purdy, Mr. and Mrs. A. Asselstine and Dr. P. Day; sprays from the following, Mr. Robt. Storms; Mr. and Mrs. B. Cattenson; Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Cornelius; Mr. and Mrs. J. Shibley; Mr. and Mrs. C. Rutledge and Mr. and Mrs. C. Amey; Mr. and Mrs. A. Simmons and Mr. and Mrs. S. Simmons; Will. ton Women's Institute; Mr. and Mrs. John Storms; C. I. C. Class of Princess St. S. S., Kingston, Ont.; Wilton Presbyterian Church congregation; Miss Anglin and scholars of Wilton School.

The pallbearers were his four brothers, Robt., John, Will and Albert, and Mr. Oakley Storms, Rochester, and Mr. W. B. Storms. The remains were placed in Wilton vault to await interment in the spring. The community sincerely condole with the family of the deceased on the dispensation, which it has pleased Divine Providence to afflict them.

How to Reduce Varicose Veins

Rub Gently and Upward Toward the Heart as Blood in Veins Flows That Way

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will help reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil is a harmless, yet most powerful germicide and two ounces last a very long time. Indeed, so powerful is Emerald Oil that old chronic cases of Piles are often entirely absorbed and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded. Wallace's Drug Store sells lots of it.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Wife at Willesden—I have only seen my husband once in a month, and then he criticized me as he passed by.

Corns are painful growths. Holloway's Corn Remover will remove them.

"Did you ever realize anything on that investment?"

"Oh, yes!"

"What did you realize?"

"What a fool I had been."

The Oil of the People.—Many oils have come and gone, but Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil continues to maintain its position and increase its sphere of usefulness each year. Its sterling qualities have brought it to the front and kept it there, and it can truly be called the oil of the people. Thousands have benefited by it and would use no other preparation.

Returned Tourist (to his friend)—Well, I liked Paris and Rome, but the best part of the whole thing was the trip over. Don't miss that, whatever you do, if you go to Europe!

Worms in children work havoc. These pests attack the tender lining of the intestines and, if left to pursue their ravages undisturbed, will ultimately perforate the wall, because these worms are of the hook variety that cling to and feed upon the interior surfaces. Miller's Worm Powders will not only exterminate these worms, of whatever variety, but will serve to repair the injury they have done.

The dear old lady was watching her first Rugby match. After a long silence, in which she struggled to grasp the idea of the game, she turned to her polite young escort with a puzzled shake of her head.

"I'm afraid I don't quite understand," she said, "I don't know which team is losing. How can I distinguish them . . . I mean, what are their colors?"

"Black and blue," murmured her informant.

Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will drive worms from the system without injury to the child. Because its action, while fully effective, is mild.

They were talking together in the club smoking-room. Said one: "Well, the bowling season is with us again. It's a jolly good game, but it's a pity the spectators are so rowdy, as a rule."

"Yes," agreed the second man, "you might almost call them Footballsheviks."

Sores Flee Before It. — There are many who have been afflicted with sores and have driven them away with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. All similarly troubled should lose no time in applying this splendid remedy, as there is nothing like it to be had. It is cheap, but its power is in no way expressed by its low price.

WITH THE CURLERS

CLUB BONSPIEL.
SIX END SCORED.

A local bonspiel was started Wednesday evening at the Curling Rink, with ten members acting as skips who had never skipped match games. In the first round Dr. R. McLaughlin's rink was very lucky to put away Roy Root's rink in six ends by one shot. C. Drew, Grant Paul and Blake Huyck playing with only three men, scored all six stones. The boys have something to be proud of, and it will go down in the history of curling.

A large crowd of spectators were in attendance all evening. Here's hoping they will all turn out again.

Following are the results:—

Preliminary Round.

A. Kimmerly 4 vs W. Gault 9.
E. Pollard 7 vs A. Lancaster 5.

1st Round.

W. Jewell 5 vs B. Huyck 3.
Dr. McLaughlin 7 vs R. Root 6.
E. Corkill 8 vs W. Gault 6.
Wm. Howitt 5 vs E. Pollard 14.

2nd Round.

Dr. McLaughlin 10 vs W. Jewell 7.
Dr. McLaughlin's rink again had to play an extra end to defeat W. Jewell.

Consolation for Losers.

The balance of the games will be played Friday evening. Great interest was taken by all members present, and quite a very fine curling resulted. The Club will run another spiel in the near future.

Mr. W. C. Smith has donated a handsome Silver Cigarette Case for the point competition. All senior skips are barred.

Cut Flowers.

Also Funeral and Wedding designs, direct from Dale Estate Greenhouses, sent to any address. At Hooper's Drug Store.

Installation of Officers.

The Royal Scarlet Chapter of Addington opened in the Orange Hall, at Centreville, on Friday night, Jan. 14th, with a large gathering present. Past Worthy Chief—C. K. Weese, conducted the installation services, the following officers being duly installed for the ensuing year:

Comp. Harry Reid—Ex. C.-in-C.
Comp. Johnston Cousins—Chap.
Comp. C. Bert Hamm—Scribe.
Comp. J. R. Milligan—Treas.
Comp. Cecil Reid—1st Lect.
Comp. Sam Haggarty—2nd Lect.
Comp. R. A. McGill—1st Cond.
Comp. Charles Bell—2nd Cond.
Comp. Edw. Breault and Wesley Kelley.

At the conclusion of the installation, short addresses were given by the newly elected officers, after which a dainty lunch was served.

HOCKEY

On Tuesday, Feb. 1st, a big doubleheader was played in the Napanee Arena, between the Victoria Boo-Hoos, Junior City Champions of Kingston vs Napanee Seniors, resulting in a 3-2 score for Napanee. The second game was between K. C. I. Juniors and Napanee Juniors, resulting in a 3-2 score for Kingston.

Snappy playing was accorded the fans in the Senior game. Fred Bentley was right on his game, and although inclined to "ride the puck through himself, succeeded in nearly all his rushes, so cannot be blamed much for his side crashes.

Naphin had the Kingston goalie wishing for glasses so he could see the puck when Naphin shot his cannon ball at him.

"Bunk" Wilson, the youngest player on the Napanee team, showed his stuff last week, and with his showing should obtain another trial with the town team. His shooting was located in dangerous vicinity of Kingston's goal, and he was well watched. Johnston was overly-well watched, and could not get away although he did get the puck. Shoemaker, on forward, is a very clever player and used his head to gain all the time. The team as a whole played good hockey, and back-checked all along the line. During the first period Kingston had the best of the play and held Napanee to their end of the ice. "Wes" Powell was called on many times to show his stuff which he proceeded to do, and outpassed the Kingston players on nearly every occasion.

The Boo-Hoos are a fast team, although comparatively young. Benfield on the forward line, is tricky, and he and Stock worked in a combination hard to stop. Pennock appeared in Napanee earlier in the season, but has improved, seems as much at home with the Boo-Hoos as with Napanee. Also of the forward line, breaks quick, and had the puck under way many times before the others could get into the combination with him. Gibson and Cruse on defence were excellent checkers and puck carriers and their rushes were topic for the fans' keen enjoyment.

Murray in goal was good, but could not rival Powell in the Napanee net, although he made many pretty saves.

Line-up was as follows:—

Napanee—Powell, goal; Bentley and Naphin, defence; Shoemaker, and Johnston, forwards; Stein, centre; Wilson and Gleeson, subs.

Kingston—Murray, goal; Gibson and Cruse, defence; Matheson and Pennock, forwards; Buck, centre; Grey and Hunt, subs.

Mr. Fred Huffman kept the game from undue roughness, and did not find it necessary to have an assistant in a judge of play.

Junior Game.

Many laughs were accorded the fans by the antics of some of the would-be hockey players, although some of them have the hockey idea if it were developed.

Napanee had enough subs for two teams and they had Harold Buck, of Kingston, wishing for an adding machine to keep track of them. Jack Sills starred for Napanee, and was quite familiar with his position and made some nice saves. Three goals were scored, although two of them were of the "fluke" type. "Brock" Wartman, on the forward line worked up a kind of a combination with Davern, but were checked so closely that they could not get away. Vandusen in centre was tricky, but "hogged" the puck so much he ruined many chances of scoring, although he netted one himself.

Bill Sweet was there, all dressed up, but his skates didn't seem to like him and they threw him every time he got away.

Ward Huffman stick-handled through many times, but each time lost the lattitude and longtitude of the Kingston posts, but once, when he netted the puck, Fred Ballard was there with all his speed, but could not break loose.

For Kingston, Amey on forward, was a tricky player, and shows good promise of a hockey player, and we will soon see him on one of Kingston's older and faster teams. McFee and Blomley were there with a combination hard to break up, and they went through many times and between them netted the puck twice.

Goswell in goal was well protected by Elliott and Robinson, on defence, whose checking was sure and hard.

Following was the line-up:—

Napanee—Jones, Moffat, Kirkley, Vandusen, Vanalstyne, Daverin, Conway, Plumley, Huffman, Sweet, Ballard.

Kingston—Goswell, Elliott, Robinson, Blomley, Amey, McFee, Bews, Cunningham.

Mr. Harold Buck, of Kingston, handled the game and wasn't quite sure whether he was "picked" or not for several times he saw seven or eight Napanee players on at once.

PRESBYTERIAL W. M. S. EXECUTIVE MEETS

The Executive of Belleville Presbyterial of the United Church W.M.S. met in Bridge St. Church, Belleville, on Thursday, January 20th, at 1.30 p.m. The President occupied the chair, and the devotional reading and prayer were taken by Mrs. J. V. Henderson and Mrs. G. I. Perry, Napanee.

The minutes of the last Executive meeting were read by the Recording Secretary, Mrs. Gay. The Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. Sills, reported the active societies and new organizations; also read many important communications for information and discussion. The financial statement was presented by the Treasurer, Mrs. Day, and although the allocation is much greater this year, an earnest effort is being made to meet it. The Secretaries of the various departments gave interesting reports of their respective lines of work, which will be presented in complete form at the Presbyterial. The sectional meetings under supervision of the Vice Presidents, were well attended and very inspiring, for all these front auxiliaries are well represented and come nearest the heart of the work.

A resolution was passed that Miss Ruth Wallbridge, Northport, be appointed Literature Secretary, and the Executive urge that each Auxiliary also appoint a Literature Secretary.

The invitation from Picton that the Presbyterial meet there was gladly accepted, and arrangements are being made for early in May. The Branch Secretary requests that Presbyterials be held in rotation so that speakers may go from one to the other with least waste of time and expense. There was little time left for discussion of the Presbyterial, but a committee, composed of the President, Recording Secretary, Corresponding Secretary, President of Picton Auxiliary, and Mrs. Laird, was appointed to arrange for it.

Those present were: Mrs. Laird, Picton; Mrs. M. E. Wilson, Amelasburg; Mrs. G. I. Perry, Napanee; Mrs. J. V. Henderson, Napanee; Mrs. T. W. White, Belleville; Mrs. A. D. Way, Picton; Mrs. S. C. Clay, Foxboro; Mrs. J. O. Sills, Foxboro'; Mrs. R. A. Day, Belleville; Mrs. Geo. Finlay, Strathcona; Miss Hume, Bayside; Mrs. Schryver, Belleville; Mrs. G. A. Harris, Madoc; Mrs. A. O. Turnbull, Belleville; Mrs. H. Hill, Belleville; Mrs. G. S. Sharpe, Belleville; Mrs. E. L. Fraser, Trenton; Mrs. Geo. Switzer, Napanee; Mrs. J. Laughland, Napanee.

MAKING HISTORIC HOUSES FAVORED BY PREMIERS—

(Toronto Globe)

Interest in the proposal that the year of the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation be used to mark historic sites connected with the lives of leading Canadian public men, appears to be growing. Allan Ross Davis of this city has suggested to Premier King that the public debt to Sir John Macdonald and Sir Wilfrid Laurier be acknowledged in this connection for the benefit of future generations. The Laurier home in Archambaska is still in fair condition; there is an old house in Kingston which was a boyhood home of Macdonald, and, in addition, the site near Adolphustown of another house in which Macdonald lived as a small boy.

Mr. Davis, in a recent statement, recalls that Sir Wilfrid Laurier himself, while Premier, was approached on the question of marking the Adolphustown site. "A gracious reply came back immediately." Mr. Davis says, "commending the patriotic idea and expressing the highest veneration for his illustrious predecessor." But the Laurier Government soon after fell. Then Premier Borden was besieged in the same way, but the idea was upon us before his favorable promises were put into execution. Premier Meighen next warmly expressed his approval and particularly pointed out that the Macdonald and Laurier boyhood homes should be marked at the same time, and in a manner worthy of those great statesmen."

The private secretary of Premier King has replied to Mr. Davis' letters on the subject, expressing Mr. King's personal sympathy with the proposal, and stating that he had asked the Historic Sites and Monuments Board to make a report of the question.

Have you seen the new Living Room Suites at Gibbard's?

NAPANEE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Napanee Branch of the Women's Institute met in the Department of Agriculture Council Room on Tuesday afternoon, at 2.30, with an attendance of eighty. Many helpful suggestions were given in answering the roll call with "Don't for the Kitchen". It was decided to have the June speaker from the Department as usual. A committee was appointed to arrange for a lecture meeting in all housewives to be given by a Professor from Queen's, at an early date.

The feature of the meeting was a Cake Contest, judged according to schedule by the members, and all made from the same recipe. Points considered were, general appearance (15), texture and lightness (20), time of (10), flavour (35), icing (10). All four cakes were delicious and worthy of the cook's effort, but the one numbered "2" was accorded a majority vote. A set of cake tins was given the baker, Mrs. Fred Spencer, as the prize.

Tea was served after which they produce cakes of equal quality!

ODESSA

The Mission Circle staged a very interesting and amusing play in the Town Hall, last Wednesday evening, entitled "All a Mistake." The talented young artists did wonderfully well in every part of the three acts, and many lessons might have been learned by hasty accusations. Black's Orchestra, Napanee, favored the large audience with numerous choice selections and received many applause. A handsome sum was realized for the Circle.—Melville Lee has moved in the Lockwood cottage, recently vacated by Ewell Emmerson.—Last Friday afternoon Mrs. M. T. Schermerhorn had the misfortune to fall on the ice, road, near the corner of Main and Centre streets, and is suffering with a broken arm.—Mrs. Robert Clarke is spending a couple of weeks with her son, Harold Cairns, Westbrook.—Mrs. Fraser, of Calgary, who has been spending a couple of weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Fraser, left last Monday to visit his sister, Mrs. Scott, Montreal.—Mrs. Charley Westbrook, spent Tuesday the guests of Mrs. Lewis Snider.—Miss Alice Swift is the guest of her brother, J. L. and Mrs. Swift.—George Hartman, of Toronto, visited his mother, Mrs. D. I. Hartman, last Tuesday.—Everyone is looking forward to the Valentine Euchre and Dance, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, in the Town Hall, February 14th next, in aid of the Odessa Public Library. Special prizes will be given for both.

Does it pay to feed Dr. Hess' Stock Food? We are convinced that it does, and are prepared to refund on every ball that does not. Pay for itself twice over. Try it out at our expense. Wallace's. Napanee agents.

COSEY NOOK

Mrs. Lorne Chadwick entertained a number of friends on Thursday night. TOWN COUNCIL

Council Chamber,
Feb. 7th, 1927.

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor E. J. Roy presiding.

Present—Reeve Boyes and Councillors Dunbar, Kimmerly, Jewell, Howitt and Fitzpatrick.

The minutes of the last regular session were read and confirmed.

A communication from the Hydro Electric Power Commission, in reference to the new rates for lighting and power was read before the Council and referred to the Light and Social Welfare Committee.

A communication was read from F. E. Hare, Clerk of the Oshawa City Council, stating that a meeting would be held in that city on Thursday, February 17th, when the question of the increased Hydro rates would be discussed, and asked that delegates from the Town of Napanee be present.

On motion the chairman of the Light and Social Welfare Committee was appointed a delegate to attend the meeting at Oshawa.

On motion the sum of $10.00 was donated to the Cockshutt Presentation Fund.

Mr. Ernest Pidgeon made application for a license for a pool room. He has rented the premises now occupied by Davy & Allison, and intends putting in five pool tables.

Referred to the Market and Police to report at next meeting of Council.

Mr. Wm. Hudson, Market Clerk, made application for a renewal of the Market Stalls for the year 1927, at a rental of $350.60.

On motion Mr. Hudson's application was granted.

Mr. M. P. Graham, Town Treasurer, presented a statement of the town's financial condition up to the 31st day of January.

Report was adopted.

Coun. Fitzpatrick, chairman of the Streets Committee, reported that there was not much doing on the streets, except sanding streets and snow shovelling. Considerable of the shovelling had been done in front of private property and he would like to have it understood that it was the duty of same.

On motion the Streets Committee were instructed to have the Streets foreman collect all accounts for private snow shovelling when done.

Coun. Jewell, chairman of the Town Property Committee, reported that he had made an inspection of the Disposal Works and found everything satisfactory. He had in mind some repairs to the town hall, also the fire hall, a report of which he would present later.

Report was adopted.

A by-law authorizing the Mayor and Clerk to borrow from the Standard Bank of Canada, any sum up to $45,000 to meet current expenditure for the year, was read a first, second and third time, was introduced, given its several readings and finally passed.

A by-law similar to the above is passed about this time every year, and is to provide money for current expenditure until the 1927 taxes are collected.

ENTERPRISE

The temperature is somewhat milder at time of writing. — Mrs. Alfred Brown is improving, after some time of illness.—The whooping cough is in our midst.—Mrs. Cornelius Carey is able to be out again, after her illness. —The young girls and women of this vicinity are quite busy, taking a course in Nursing by Miss Broadfoot. —On Tuesday evening Mr. Laughland, of Napanee, is going to give some slides at the Young People's League. Come and enjoy them.—Rev. Mr. Brown preached a very impressive sermon on Sunday last.—On next Sunday evening, Mr. Laughland's services will be conducted by Rev. H. A. Bunt, with special music.—Mrs. Jack Brown and baby, Frankford, visited over Sunday with Mrs. Wm. Loucks.—The committee of the Enterprise Community Hall are giving a masquerade dance on Tuesday evening, Feb. 15th. Come and have a good time.—Miss Bessie Dillon, of Chilesville, took dinner with Mrs. (Rev.) H. A. Bunt on Monday last.—Mrs. Wm. Loucks, Sr., of Mountain Grove, is visiting friends and relatives around here.—Miss Edna Clarke is laid up with the effects of a fall which she received some time ago.

NEWBURGH

A serious fire was narrowly averted on Saturday afternoon last, when the shed in the rear of the Presbyterian Church caught fire by a spark from the saw mill. The prompt action of the villagers extinguished the blaze before much damage was done.

Mr. Alfred Rogers, Jr., is on the sick list.

Evangelistic services are being held at Strathcona by the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson.

Rev. Duff Wartman, of Verona, was the guest of his parents for a few days this week.

Miss Margaret McCormick is assisting at Vandervoort's store while stock-taking is on.

Mr. John Farrar and small son, Arthur, were in Kingston on Monday.

Mr. Henry O'Connor is suffering a severe face wound, having been thrown from a load of sand. The road was icy and in coming up an incline the sleigh skidded, causing it to strike a stone wall and throwing Mr. O'Connor heavily to the ground. He is recovering.

Mrs. Ainsley, of Parry Sound, has been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Wesley Cummings.

The saw mill is kept busy, a large number of logs arriving each day.

Mr. A. Gandier spent Tuesday in Napanee.

Mrs. Dennison has returned home from Toronto, where she spent the past six weeks.

Miss Briscoe was with Mrs. G. Ayleworth over Sunday, en route to Kingston to spend the remainder of the winter.

Misses Queenie and Joy Paul spent part of Sunday with their aunts, Misses H. M. and E. Paul.

Miss Margaret Hinch is quite ill at time of writing.

Mrs. Wagar returned on Sunday evening from a visit at Mr. Frank Tompkin's.

The citizens of Newburgh are not feeling very happy over the raise in rates for electric lighting. What they do not understand is how current can be transmitted for twenty-five or thirty miles at a minimum rate of 8c., and it takes just twice that sum to send it seven miles farther.

The League meeting on Tuesday evening was under the direction of the Mission Band, of which Mrs. Shier is Superintendent. Miss Queenie Paul, Assistant Superintendent, was in the chair. After the devotional exercises, a missionary program was rendered as follows:—Chorus by the Junior Band; recitation by Miss Gwen Fluke; piano solo by Juanita Wartman; song by Celia Paul, Lorna Shorter, Beatrice Shorter and Gwen Fiebe; recitation by Mona Thompson; Missionary exercise. Mrs. Smith's Mite Box', by eight girls and two boys; solo by Marie Brooks; recitation by Glenette Weese; vocal solo by Frances Shier; piano solo by Hazel Winter; closing chorus by the Senior Mission Band.

Miss Frances Shier spent the week end with Miss Stella Craig, Switzerville.

Mrs. Pike and Master Perry Pike are visiting with Mrs. Josephine Perry, while Mrs. Perry is in Toronto.

Mr. A. McKeown has disposed of his home in Newburgh to Mr. Bird and moved a farm in the vicinity of Enterprise.

Mrs. J. Wartman entertained a number of her friends at the tea hour on Monday.

Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Frink, of Switzerville, visited on Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wales.

Mrs. Sally Simpkins, of Wilton, has returned home, after sleeping for a time with her niece, Mrs. Vandewater.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Brown, of Harrowsmith, have been visiting at Mrs. Vandewater's and Mrs. Kellar's.

Mrs. M. Conway and daughter, Marjory, of Strathcona, visited at Mrs. Milligan's, on Wednesday.

Mr. and Mrs. Chester Vanalstyne, Palace Road, visited on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. C. Farley.

Miss Lillie Loucks was visiting in Napanee during the week.

The weekly services in the Mission Hall will continue during next week, including Sunday evening.

The League of the United Church are holding a Valentine Party in the basement on Monday, Feb. 14th, to which all are welcome. Admission is 25c. and 15c. each.

Last Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Courtney entertained the Choir of the United Church. This is an annual event, and this year the members of the Choir presented the host and hostess with an appreciative address and the gift of a fine comforter.

The W. M. S. of the United Church held its regular meeting at the home of Mrs. Johnson. There was a large attendance and the study book was under the direction of Miss H. Paul, when many contributed interesting items. Miss Keough and Mrs. Anderson sang a pleasing duet. Arrangements were made for a sale and quilting in the near future.

Do not fail to hear the Rev. J. Fraser Smith, returned Missionary, of China and India, who will speak in the United Church next Sunday evening.

A happy sleighing party journeyed to Mr. and Mrs. Lake's, L. G. Hudgin, last Saturday evening.

The Headmaster of Eton relates how, when walking in a London thoroughfare one very wet, cold day, he met an unwrapper plazard: "Headmaster Beaten".

His curiosity was aroused, and crossing the street he unbuttoned his own overcoat, flashed out the necessary coin, and hastily scanned the paper to try to discover which particular member of his profession had been in the news.

He found, somewhat to his disgust, that Headmaster was a horse—four to one on!

Winter Holidays in Northern Forests

Centre—Typical scene on the Blanc Bec Trails, new tourists' journeys through the north woods. Left, upper—Guide setting out on snowshoes on the trap line; lower—The Blanc Bec moush across a frozen lake. Right, upper—Open water tempts the tourist to try fishing, lower—typical outfitters' cabin where the tourists are housed during their journey.—Canadian National Railways photographs.

Canadians and their winter visitors, desirous of getting out into the north woods during the season of ice and snow, have a splendid opportunity for enjoyment in the Blanc Bec Trails, tourist journeys over the trap lines and through the log game haunts of Northern Ontario and Quebec, recently inaugurated by the Canadian National Railways.

The tourists are taken, by dog team and snowshoes, over the trap lines by experienced guides and woodsmen. Comfortable cabins are available on the shore of lake and river, and the tourist is assured of comfortable quarters each night and of journeys which are laid out to fit in with the capabilities of the inexperienced woodsman.

Canada's forests in winter time are a never-ending joy to the photographer, the artist and the nature lover. On the Blanc Bec Trails the tourist is taken through the haunts of the lordly moose and other big game, by men to whom the signs of the forest life are as an open book. There is fishing through the ice, a dog sled to ride in when one becomes tired and the never ending joy of exercise in the balsam-laden ozone to improve appetite and appetite.

The holiday may be for one week or for a month, and the territory chosen may be anywhere from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to the shores of Hudson Bay, for outfitters all across Northern Canada have signified their desire to take winter tourists out into the woods. The winter tourists out into the woods. The Blanc Bec Trails have been organized in response to a demand for facilities for winter holiday outings of this kind which have been received in great numbers by the Canadian National Railways.

Ontario Lady is Pleased With Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. B. Bush Suffered With Very Bad Backache.

Windsor, Ont., Feb. 16th, (Special).—The following is one of the many letters of praise which we are continually receiving. It comes from Mrs. B. Bush, who lives at 885 McDougall Street. She writes:—"I have found your Dodd's Kidney Pills very good. I was troubled with several pains across my kidneys and cramps in my limbs, but after using Dodd's Kidney Pills I am not troubled any more. So I can truly say they are good. I have also used your Diamond Dinner Pills and find they help me."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They strengthen the kidneys so they can do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. Pure blood coursing through the body carries to the different organs the nourishment they need to keep them sound and healthy.

The "Slacker"

By RALPH HAMILTON

Irma Moore had been guided by a variety of circumstances in encouraging the attentions of Alger Morton. He was a stranger, he was flashy and not dependable, Irma had decided at a glance, but he came along at a time when she had been having a tiff with her regular escort, Bartley Dunn, and Irma felt perverse and fancied a good opportunity had arrived for "teaching Bartley a lesson!"

The latter was in a cantonment ten miles away, but Irma neither went to see him nor answered his letters. Another element in her flighty ideas of the moment was the fact that the brilliant young stranger had been quite taken with Lucia Teller. That young lady had once tried to steal Bartley away from Irma. At odds with all the world in her present mood, Irma was not averse to showing Lucia that she was still the regnant social queen of the village, and heretofore she began a wild flirtation with Alger Morton.

She had to confess to herself at the end of the week that she pined for her lover true, and the attentions of Morton had become wearisome. She was half-minded to decline his invitation to an auto drive to the city and back one afternoon. Then she resolved during the drive to make him clearly understand that she was not inclined to encourage his all too palpable advances and then devise some woman's way of winning back her lover. Quite intuitively Irma fancied she read in Morton's face an ardor as he drove up in front of the house, indicating a move toward learning her true sentiments as to himself as a suitor, and Irma steeled herself to be very circumspect and distant when the climax arrived. Morton was chatty and entertaining to his fullest ability until, humming along the main road, Irma noticed a motor cop behind them, and she noticed an expression halfway between calculation and anxiety cross his face. He mumbled something about "the carburetor" and got out of the auto and fumbled about the engine. More than once, uneasily Irma fancied, he stole a swift glance toward the crossroad a few hundred yards ahead, where four men in uniform were stationed. She observed that they signaled two automobiles that drove ahead of them, looked over the inmates and, the inspection seeming to be entirely satisfactory, motioned them to proceed on their way.

"Why! they are soldiers ahead," observed Irma. "Oh, I know now!" she added quickly. "It was in the paper. They are after the men who have not registered in the draft."

Morton looked bored. Irma wondered why. It had been his brag and boast that a lieutenant's commission was being worked out for him by some influential friends in the city. He finally proceeded to have adjusted the engine and got back into the machine. His lips were set tightly and he drove ahead, trying to appear natural and unconcerned. Irma caught a quick kiss of his breath as, nearing the crossroad, two of the men in uniform stepped out in front of the approaching automobile.

"Have you your registration card?" inquired one of the men, and Morton made a pretense to search an inside pocket. "I declare!" he laughed—"I have left it home."

"H'm!" muttered his challenger. "Where did you register?"

"In the city, of course—District D. Besides that, I am hoping to be eligible for a lieutenancy through influential friends."

"None, please!" and as Morton loftily tendered a card the soldier passed it to his companion with the terse words: "Telephone."

Morton squirmed and Irma discerned that he was ill at ease. All his usual bluster had left him. His face grew quite colorless and he nervously tripped the wheel as the soldier sent to the telephone at a nearby farmhouse returned, viewing him suspiciously and shaking his head.

"You seem to have made some mistake," announced the man in challenger.

"I shall have to detain you until an investigation can be made."

"You don't mean that you arrest me?" cried Morton.

They gave Irma the option of being driven to the city, and for a moment she wondered if she should help her escort out of his difficulty. A glance at his hunglog face, however, convinced her that he had no registration card at hope and no pending business of importance. She got out of the machine, which whirled off, with Morton guarded by two soldiers.

Irma hastened to get out of sight, humiliated and abashed. She crossed a field to evade meeting anyone, lost her reckoning, a heavy dash of rain drove her to the shelter of a shed where a vicious dog menaced her. Her dress was torn with barbed wire, her cheeks tear-stained as, after two hours' weary wandering, she reached a road only a mile from home just as an automobile approached.

"Why, Irma!" cried out its unformed driver, and she was confronted by Bartley Dunn, on an inspection tour to see that slacker orders of the district were faithfully carried out.

Poor little sorrowful penitent! He was all strength and manliness, she disheveled and longing for sympathy and forgiveness. She found both, for her confession assured Bartley Dunn that she had received a lesson that made him only the dearer to her.

OBITUARY

Alexander M. Grasse

Alexander M. Grasse, 89, died at his home on the Reservoir Road Sunday morning. Sickness early in the winter forced him to call a physician for the first time in the 73 years which he has lived here. This illness apparently weakened him to such an extent that he was never able to make a complete recovery. The end came quietly after only a brief illness.

Mr. Grasse's death removes one who has been a familiar figure on local streets each morning as he made his daily trip to the creamery. Although he would have been 90 his next birthday, Mr. Grasse enjoyed remarkably health and vitality. He often attributed his strength and his long life to the fact that he had not used alcohol even for medical purposes for more than 50 years.

Funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon from his late home, the Rev. Dr. R. B. Chamberlin officiating. The body was taken to the Dartmouth cemetery for burial, his neighbors, J. A. Anderson, M. O. Brown, E. H. Marshall and W. J. Reeder serving as bearers.

Mr. Grasse was born December 8th, 1837, in Addington County, Ont., his father being one of the first settlers in that neighborhood. Mr. Grasse grew to manhood in the place of his birth and October 22nd, 1864, married Miss Margaret Switzer, also a resident of Addington County. In 1903 Mr. Grasse brought his family to Dorchester and a year later they moved to their present home on the Reservoir Road. Mr. Grasse is survived by his wife, one son, Christopher, and three grandchildren, Mrs. Stanley McHenry, of Watertown, N.Y., Robert and Miss Helen Grasse, all except Mrs. McHenry, living residents of Hanover.—The Hanover Gazette.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

Jolly loads came from every direction to attend the monthly meeting of the Ernesttown Women's Institute, which was held at the home of Mrs. Sid Crowe, on Tuesday afternoon, February 1st. Forty-seven members and visitors were in the circle, and necessity all spent a delightful afternoon.

The common order was followed throughout the meeting, some new business arising and discussed. Committees for the March meeting were duly appointed, and two interesting features of this meeting will be first by the response to the roll by members giving "Helpful Housecleaning Hints", and second, a Cotton Cyclets, i.e. each member is asked to make and present an article made of factory cotton. Products will be judged, and a prize awarded, and it was adopted that the articles would be donated, and a sale conducted.

Two items comprised the programme. Mrs. Priest gave a wonderfully prepared and instructive account of the current events, and Mrs. Hamm took us on a delightful trip to Japan. Mrs. Hamm acted as guide, and easily and capably explained all the points of interest to us. We saw the temples, Japanese homes, prevailing customs and dress of the Orient, the famous cherry blossoms; in fact, everything there was to be seen. We were not at all eager to return, but time would not allow us to sojourn longer in this land of isles.

Delicious and dainty refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants. All went home happy, and with the impression that our branch is flourishing, and growing bigger and better each month. The March meeting mentioned above will be held on Tuesday afternoon, March 1st, at the home of Mrs. J. B. Sharp, Bath.

McINTOSH BROS.' CLEARANCE SALE

Starts Saturday, February 12th

We have just finished stocktaking, and Mr. McIntosh has notified us that our stock is somewhat heavier than last year, and that we must reduce it considerably, and reduce it before the end of February.

This is the only means we have of reducing our stock.

Everything in the Store has been reduced in order to do so. We cannot begin to list the many lines we carry, so what you don't see on display, ask for.

Many of the lines are broken, and will be cleared out quickly, so get here early.

IN MEMORIAM

In sad, but loving memory of little Arthur James, dearly loved twin son of James and Florence Hayes, who fell asleep February 5th, 1926, aged 10 months and 1 day.

Pure and fair as a lily,
Was his little soul within;
The Saviour saw he was too pure,
So he called him to his bosom
Away to the golden shore;
And now he dwells with the Saviour
Rejoicing for evermore.
He was only a little white rosebud,
A sweet little flower from birth;
God called him home to Heaven,
Before he was soil on earth.

Sadly missed by Mother, Father, Sisters and Brothers. 6a

IN MEMORIAM

In ever loving memory of our dear father, Daniel Wright, who passed to his eternal rest on February 8th, 1926.
In the times of bitter trouble, when the heart is grieved with loss,
And o'er rough, hard ways we stumble, neath the burden of our cross,
Then a thought comes, comfort bringing
And the heart's disordered strings lose their discord in its music
In the shadow of His wings. 6ap

Her Choice

By VICTOR REDCLIFFE

She was a dainty bit of early girlhood, lithe, lovely of face, exquisitely attired as to becoming neatness. There was spirit in her, too, for she confronted Arthur Randall, a loutish lad of fifteen, with blazing eyes, flushed cheek and white, delicate hands clenched.

"You great stupid!" she quavered. "Look at my scarf, wringing wet. And—you crowd! When the plank bent you thought only of yourself, and let go of me and jumped for dry land, and if I hadn't been quick and nimble I would have gone into the brook," and Erma Bruce turned her back squarely upon the culprit.

"Where you going?" he challenged.

"I am going to walk to the old bridge. Catch me wanting your company or trusting to your care again!"

They were children of wealthy parents, neighbors, and until Arthur had got into domineering ways, had been fine companions.

To get home from a ramble they had evaded the bridges spanning two brooks and trusted to a narrow plank to help a short cut home, for Arthur was disagreeable and Erma cross and pettish.

"Hold on!" he objected, as she started off. "You promised a kiss if I got across that plank."

"Come and get it," flashed back Erma, and as the callow youth approached her hand described a sharp circle. He drew back with a mutter of rage, nursing his stinging cheek.

"If you're ever my wife, I'll make you pay for that!" he snarled.

"If I ever am, I deserve to be!" cried Erma disdainfully. She rounded a clump of bushes and hesitated. Another boy stood in her path. He was totally unlike the dandified Arthur, "only a common boy," but she smiled upon him.

"You look tired," said Waldron Pearce. "It's a good mile to the bridge, and you were that by fording the second brook. It's quite shallow just now, and if you like I'll see that you get across without spoiling those pretty slippers."

"How will you?" catechized Erma.

"I'll carry you. Don't fear. I'll not drop you nor leave you in midstream."

He was not of her set. His father was only an ordinary millwright, but Erma walked by his side hoping that Arthur saw them. When they reached the second brook he was stumbling along behind them.

"If you please," spoke Waldron, and he lifted Erma in his arms. She did not demur except to tell him he would wet his shoes and stockings, but he only laughed at that and his color ran high at the evening of those pretty arms clasping his neck, confiding. Then Erma thanked him as he landed her high and dry beyond the brook. And then a mischievous twinkle came into her eyes as she saw Arthur in full view watching them.

"One may kiss one's true brave boy!" she spoke, in a voice purposely raised. "I love brave boys. Good-by, and thank you," and she darted homewards with a mocking laugh, meant for the discomfited Arthur.

She slap Arthur soon forgot, for he lacked sensitiveness and saw little of Erma for four years.

His father had died and Arthur was put in place as manager of his business. As to Waldron, he was a shop foreman, earning a liberal salary, but not mingling much socially.

One day Erma was driving her limousine when it broke down directly in front of the Pearce home. A sight of the open door of a rear structure used by Waldron as a shop, influenced her to hope that she might command ready mechanical aid. She left the machine and passed through the yard. She halted at the echo of familiar voices.

"I will give you twenty thousand dollars for your invention," sounded the voice of Arthur. "It is indispensable to our plant and I will take the risk of the contrivance turning out impracticable."

"My price is one million dollars," came the clear, incisive declaration from Waldron. "As to its utility and value, the best experts have passed favorably upon those features."

"I'll double my offer, then," spoke Arthur, "and I say, Pearce, you can't deny that you have a sneaking fondness for Erma Bruce. Good! I'll throw her into the bargain."

"I would give a world if it were mine for one smile from the loveliest woman I have ever met," said Waldron with deep emotion, "but I must resent your right to allude to her as your especial property."

Erma drew back out of view as Arthur left the shop. Waldron wondered at her suffused face and gracious manner as she asked him to examine the automobile. Within a few minutes he had adjusted the break. He thrilled with pleasure as Erma invited him to a social function at her home to take place the following week.

It was not a casual impulse. In a flashing moment the contemptible overconfident Arthur had faded into insignificance with Erma in comparison with the manly young inventor, and it was destined that, just as he had carried her over the brook in the sweet olden time, he was to share her journey through all the years of happy married life.

—The Adolphustown Hockey Team made another win, when they defeated Hayburn on their own ice, 6-4. The game was much enjoyed by the players and the few spectators who braved the cold to watch. Good stick-handling was almost impossible on the small rink, and the scoring was done for the most part by the present crack shooters. Many of the younger players, however, showed good form, and under normal ice conditions a good game could be depended upon.

—The Enterprise Women's Institute met at the home of Mrs. O. Pierwick, on Friday, January 28th. Our District President, Mrs. A. E. Hoffman of Moscow, was present, and gave a very interesting report of the Convention at Ottawa, which all present enjoyed very much. Arrangements were made for holding our course in "First Aid", which was to be under the supervision of Miss Broadfoot. All felt that they had spent a very profitable afternoon, and after a nice lunch was served, the meeting was closed in the usual manner.

BANQUET OF THE MEN'S CLUB OF ST. MARY MAGDALENE

The third annual Men's Supper under the auspices of the Men's Club of St. Mary Magdalene's Church was held on Tuesday evening, and was a very enjoyable and successful event. A fine banquet was admirably served in the bright dining room of the Paisley House, and about a hundred men were present, Geo. T. Walters, President of the Club, being in the chair. The music was provided by the Walters' Orchestra, and attractive songs were rendered by C. Waite and J. G. Daly. Short addresses were made by the Church Wardens, W. J. Doller and W. S. Herrington, on the subject of the finances of the Church and the need of increased support.

The address of the evening was given by the Hon. Senator Haydon, of Ottawa. The distinguished speaker began with a sketch of the early military settlements in the Counties of Lanark and Carleton, drawing an interesting parallel between conditions after the Napoleonic wars and those of the present time. Using this as his basis, he devoted his attention to the problems of immigration and of Canada's policy in view of her need of careful selection and direction in acquiring the increased population which she seeks. The address was listened to with rapt attention on the part of all present, and an appreciative resolution of thanks, moved by W. S. Herrington, seconded by Rev. A. H. Coleman, met with hearty response.

A similar resolution with reference to the Orchestra and singers, was moved by J. W. Robinson, seconded by W. S. Wilson.

The Mayor, Mr. E. Roy, spoke a few fitting words of welcome to the Senator on his visit to Napanee, after which the programme was closed with the National Anthem.

OBITUARY

Mrs. M. V. Lake.

On Friday, Feb. 4th, 1927, there passed away at the Kingston General Hospital, Margaret Nina Lake, beloved wife of M. V. Lake, Yarker. Mrs. Lake was the daughter of the late Hugh Cambridge and Emma Cambridge, having spent all her life in and around the vicinity of Yarker. For the past seventeen years she has been a great sufferer; and with all her affliction she was never known to murmur or complain or lose faith in her maker. She was dearly loved by all with whom she came in contact, for her cheery disposition.

Her funeral was held at the United Church, Yarker, on Sunday, conducted by her Pastor, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, taking for his text Revelations 7:14, preaching a very impressive sermon. The floral tributes were carried by nine girls in charge of Miss Godkin. The Choir was assisted by Mr. Geo. Woodhouse, who sang a beautiful solo, "The City Four Square", with much expression. She leaves to mourn her loss, her beloved husband, M. V. Lake; one sister, Mrs. Sidney McKim, Napanee; three brothers, W. M. Cambridge, Toronto, H. A. Cambridge, Detroit, Mich., and T. V. Cambridge, Detroit. Her remains were interred in the family plot at Yarker.

HAYBURN

The ice is in excellent condition but the sleighing is very poor.—The young people presented their two short plays, "Jumbo Jum" and "Do Your Worst", with musical entertainment, at Bath, to a full house, and are now busy preparing a change of program to be given at Adolphustown Anglican Hall, on Feb. 18th.—Mrs. Joan Van-Dyck spent Wednesday last with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Dickey.—The M.C.I. pupils are spending the week end with their parents.—Some of our young people have been enjoying the wonderful skating on Hay Bay the past week.—Mr. and Mrs. James Rikley were among the guests entertained by Mrs. A. Parks for tea Tuesday evening last.—Miss Annabella Dickson spent Friday in Napanee.—A hockey match was played at Hayburn on Saturday afternoon last, when Adolphustown and Hayburn hockey teams had a great game. The score was 6-4, in favor of Adolphustown.—Mr. Fred Rikley is spending a few days the guest of his brother, James Rikley.—Everyone is very sorry to hear of the illness of little Miss Edna Plath, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Plath.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loyst spent Sunday last the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Loyst.

The Exiles

By GEORGE ELMER COBB

The young man driving the automobile along the lonely country road was in harmony as to face, attire and spirits with the beauty of a rare spring morning. He was Norman Reed. At Bledena, twenty miles to the north, was the plant of the Warren Machinery company. Twenty miles across to the south at a thriving inland city were the offices of the corporation, which his father practically owned.

Norman whistled cheerily as the high-powered machine progressed without squeak or jar.

There was a macadamized road from city to plant, but this special morning Norman had tried a short cut along a lonely road. Not a house showed in the first few miles, and it was only when he passed a belt of woods that he noticed a dilapidated cabin nestling in its depths.

There was a pretty flower patch in front of it, and vines were festooned over the small porch. Norman wondered what could have induced anyone to select that lonely spot for a home. Abruptly he noticed a vague speeding object dash from the wild shrubbery. Before Norman could distinguish it clearly it disappeared under the machine and a thrilling scream rang out:

"Oh, stop! stop! he is killed."

The accents were feminine. A girlish form came into view. Norman halted the auto promptly, sprang from his seat and saw a dog lying in the middle of the road. The animal held up a lacerated, bleeding paw and whined in pain. Norma bent over, gently examined the wounded foot and lifted the animal in his arms.

"A lucky escape," he spoke, and turned to face a young girl with bloodless face and distended eyes. "Don't worry, miss," he continued, "the poor animal is not seriously hurt. Is it yours?"

"Oh, yes, indeed!" muttered the possessor of as fair a face as Norman's eyes had ever rested on. "It is our Ponto. Won't you please carry him to the house where I can attend to him?"

It was thus that Norman Reed met the lovely girl and his fate at one and the same time. As he approached the house he noticed an old man stealthily draw back into an old shed. Norman called for bandages. Ponto seemed to comprehend that he was in the care of a humane friend. At the end of five minutes Norman lifted the grateful animal to a pillow the girl had placed on a bench, and said:

"Your pet will fare quite well after a day or two of nursing. I will drive by tomorrow and bring you a famous curative canine lotion that will help out."

Thenceforward Norman Reed seemed to have a new motive in life. Three times a week he visited the plant and always returned by the dirt road. Three times a week he halted at the little out-of-the-way house in the woods, ostensibly to see how Ponto was getting along, but in reality to feast his eyes on the animal's mistress, who attracted him with an increasing interest.

He learned that her name was Clarice. She gave no other, and as Norman noted that the old man, presumably her father, made it a point to keep out of view during his visits, he decided that there was some mysterious reason for these two isolating themselves from the rest of the world.

Ponto got well, and at every new visit Norman lingered longer than at the preceding one. A month passed by and Clarice began to look longingly for the appearance of her welcome visitor. One afternoon she was amazed to see Ponte come running down the road. The intelligent animal was panting and excited. He dropped a large flat wallet at the feet of Clarice. He looked at her beseechingly, as though striving to tell her something. He ran down the road and looked back at her. Clarice followed him.

It was to find Norman lying back in the automobile, bleeding and insensible. Clarice had learned to direct the car and she soon had the machine up to the house. With the aid of her father she carried him into the house. Norman regained his senses to inform her that he had been assaulted by a footpad, had thrown the wallet containing a large amount of money to Ponto, and the well-trained animal had run off with it, as Norman hoped he would do.

Norman was unable to proceed on his way and accepted Clarice to get word to his father. She hurried to the North settlement and a few hours later Mr. Reed appeared. He was made aware of the situation and thanked Clarice for her services and those of the quick-witted Ponto. When he observed the father of Clarice he gave a violent start.

"John Borden!" he exclaimed, "my old bookkeeper!"

Then was uncovered the mystery of the isolation of father and daughter. Ten years before Borden, after collecting a large amount of bills for his employer, found that he had lost over two thousand dollars. Fearful his story would not be credited, he had resolved to disappear.

No one had ever thought of accusing Borden of theft, for the money had been found and returned to his employer.

When Norman and Clarice went on their wedding tour it was with the sincere blessing of two old men, contented in realizing the full happiness of son and daughter.

Presentation and Address

The friends and neighbours of Selby and Empey Hill, to the number of about one hundred, gathered at the home of A. F. McKnight, on the evening of February 2nd.

About 10.30 p.m., Miss Edra was called forward, and was presented with a beautiful club bag and ivory mirror, and the following address was read by Miss Carmalita Boothe:

To Miss Edra McKnight.

Dear Edra,—We have learned with much regret of your intended departure from our midst, and we feel that we would be remiss in our duty as friends and neighbours if we did not in some tangible manner express to you our appreciation of your worth.

Your departure will leave a vacancy among the happy circle of your friends and acquaintances in the neighborhood in which you have spent your girlhood days.

May happiness and success be yours in all times and may good luck be yours to the fullest proportions.

Please accept these tokens of our esteem, and may they many times bring to your mind the old friends you have left behind.

Signed on behalf of your friends and neighbours,

VERNIE BOOTHE.
WALTER WINTER.
KENNETH PENNY.
GEO. PRICE.

Miss McKnight replied to the address and thanked the people for their gifts. Her words were filled with emotion and ever of a character that could not help but strengthen the ties that already exist between she and her friends.

After the address and presentation, lunch was served, and a very enjoyable evening was spent.

On the following Sunday she was presented with a Bible from her S. S. class, and also an address.

Father:—"An apple a day will keep the doctor away."

Mother:—"Yes, and an onion a day will keep all the family away."

"Once a trial—always Nyal"

For Her Sake!

By MATILDA FRANCES PFEIFFER

For the first time in a year Robert Dale was free from fear and dread. He breathed a great sigh of relief as he scanned a little heap of receipts and canceled notes. Then he went to the apartment that had been his wife's room, consulted a memorandum book, operated the lock of a little wall safe and stood gazing at a jewel casket lying open in full view. Upon its white velvet forms lay a sunburst pin and two rings.

"I have cleared all the debts," he murmured, "and need worry no longer about caring right for Neva. Her mother's legacy—here it is as it was—will be hers when the prescribed time arrives. "Poor, dear Marcia! I am glad now I humored her whims, costly as they have been to me."

Ten years previously Robert Dale had wedded Marcia Lane, a widow with one child. It was a case of mature, real love, and the little one brought into his home Mr. Dale had grown to love as though he were her own father. A brave, self-sacrificing man, he had kept to himself a knowledge of his wife's failings—extravagance. When Mrs. Dale died he told nobody that she had left him in deep debt.

But now that was all over and past. And the jewels—the pretty diamonds! His wife had always spoken of giving them to Neva upon her wedding day. And here they were, intact. They were a present he had given Marcia directly after their marriage. On her last birthday Mr. Dale had shown the jewels to Neva. He had given her a glimpse of the legacy, and her eyes had sparkled in anticipation of some day calling them her own.

"It's a long, long time ahead," said Neva. "Why, father, I haven't yet met the man I would leave you for."

"The man and the hour will come in due time," replied Dale gravely. And he was on his way then, though neither dreamed of it.

In the city was Phineas Wilde, lawyer, and his son, and at the very hour when Dale felt that he had won a hard-earned battle against debt these two were in close consultation.

"Plainly, Waldron," spoke the father, "I am wedding you on a very delicate mission. Mrs. Dale was a girlhood friend of your mother, and when she came to me with her jewels for a loan I could not refuse her. Shortly before she died she told me that her husband never dreamed that she had used his gift for a loan. She had a false set of pins and rings made, faith ful copies, but worthless, and Mr. Dale, I suppose, believes them to be the original gems. She said it would break his heart to know that she had trifled away his presents."

"And what am I to do?" inquired Waldron.

"Well, the money I loaned belong ed to a client. For the sake of old time friendship for Mrs. Dale, I would stand a loss rather than annoy or oppress her husband. You will go down to see Mr. Dale on pretense of delivering to him some old papers his wife left with us. Feel your way and see how he is fixed, and act as you think best."

Waldron Wilde was received at the Dale home as a welcome guest, for its owner recalled the high regard his wife had held for the family. As to Waldron, the moment his glance fell upon Neva he knew that he had met his fate.

It was quite natural that Mr. Dale should disclose his affairs to the trusted visitor. He told him of his tight pecuniary debt. He took up to the room where the jewels were kept, and he opened his memorandum book to get the combination of the little wall safe. Waldron Wilde read over his shoulder and memorized. He remained with those friends for the week end, and in his woolliest manner Waldron Wilde's immediately she saw him open the wall safe, take something from it, and disappear.

Neva, perturbed, mystified, was restless treading the garden walk in the evening when Waldron appeared. She was a clear minded, frank spirited girl, and as he led her to a rustic seat she asked him to solve the mystery of his nocturnal exploit.

"I am sorry you saw me," he said, "but you must now know the truth, Neva. Would it clear your best spirit if you knew that your mother was lied to deceive your father? Would you guard with me a secret from him that might darken his trustfulness?"

"I do not understand," she murmured, filled with vague alarm, and she he told how love for her and high esteem for her father had led him to replace the real jewels for the imitations, so that the substitution might never be discovered.

And in the golden future their lives linked one to the other, were the more serene and happy because they had spared the fond, devoted Robert Dale a knowledge that might have darkened his memory of the wife he loved.

A Hard Bargain

By GENEVIEVE ULMAR

It was strange, it was almost startling, the expression that crossed the face of Ethel Drury as she left the office of Gideon Lasker, lawyer. There was something so intense in the deep scorn, contempt, almost hatred that flashed forth, that she seemed transformed from a fair, gentle spirited girl into a creature of malice and vengeance. Then she banished evil thought from her mind with a powerful effort.

"I must not be wicked," she whispered to herself. "I should be thankful, content, when at last I have—this." And she pressed close to her side the little handbag she carried.

For that ordinary-looking object contained a prize, a treasure for which Ethel had toiled, and endured, and striven for two long years, bound to a servitude that had well-nigh crushed her. It was a note, old, yellowed, tattered—a forged note.

It was a reminder of a moment of temptation when her brother, driven to the wall, had affixed the signature of his employer to the document which later found its way into the hands of Gideon Lasker, pettifogger, money shark and schemer. He had pursued and threatened Ethel's brother Ronald until the latter had fled the city to hide himself in an obscure country village, disheartened and embittered, as an underpaid general store clerk. Ethel had just finished a course in a telegraphy school and had prospects of an immediate position. But she had visited the cormorant lawyer in behalf of her brother, and he, plausible, specious, menacing, exacting, had said to her:

"Miss Drury, I have learned the hiding place of your brother, and can cause his arrest at a moment's notice. You wish to save him? Very well; I need a discreet, well-trained helper as stenographer. I will employ you at fifteen dollars a week for two years. I will retain half of that salary and give up the note when the period has passed."

There was no other way out of the dilemma, and Ethel accepted the arduous contract.

Many a time Ethel had been compelled to leave the wretched money-lender. It was not the work: it was the discovery of the heartless business in which the vampire engaged that made Ethel sick at heart. She saw him grind the poor, delude and rob unsuspecting clients. More than once she during thought arose to go to the police and disclose some of his nefarious transactions, but she knew the wily schemer would hasten to retaliate upon her brother.

And now the two years had ended, the note was paid in full, within the week Lasker reposed the only evidence that could ever trouble her rescued brother. Ethel had kept up telegraphy at home. She might leave Lasker's employ the following Saturday and seek work in a field more congenial and lucrative.

She reached the street and, nearing the post office, paused to take some money from her purse to secure a postal order to send to her brother. A passerby crowded close to her side, reached out suddenly, wrested the handbag from her clasp and darted away. A well-appearing young man realized the situation and sprang at the thief. The latter knocked him aside and escaped, but the other had managed to recover the hand bag. He delivered it to Ethel, seemed embarrassed at her fervent expression of gratitude, lifted his hat and went his way.

It was the following afternoon, and Ethel had just returned from lunch when she chanced to glance into the private office of her employer. Opposite to him, by some strange coincidence, sat the young man who had baffled the thief the day previous.

"Yes, Mr. Upton," the specious attorney was saying, "we have adjusted your legacy from your uncle in Scotland. We find it amounts to four thousand two hundred dollars and twenty cents. We are exact in our business, sir."

"That's a lot of money for a poor telegrapher, isn't it?" spoke the young man.

"That your line?"

"It is; but I'm going to invest my legacy in land and try farming for a spell."

"Very good, very good, indeed," applauded Lasker. "Now, sir, if you will call about two o'clock I will have all the papers ready for you to sign."

Ethel was aware of the fact that Lasker had manipulated the case so as to delude the client with false returns. She recalled that he was a telegrapher. Click! click! click! The young man passed half way out of the room. He started as he recognized her, was about to speak, when Ethel telegraphed in machine clicks: "Go up to the next floor and wait for me."

Wonderingly, the young man obeyed. "You helped me greatly yesterday," said Ethel, when she joined him. "Let me assist you in turn," and she told him of the plot of Lasker to cheat him out of two-thirds of his legacy.

So grateful was Gerald Upton that after Ethel had left the employ of Lasker and he had obtained the full amount of his legacy, he asked her to share it with him—as his wife. Master and mistress of broad, beautiful acres in the golden West, they invited Ronald Drury to forget his early error and new scenes of labor.

It Will Prevent Ulcerated Throat—At the first symptoms of sore throat, which presages shrinkage of the inflammation, take a spoonful of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil. Add a little sugar to it to make it palatable. It will allay the irritation and prevent the ulceration and swelling that are so painful. Those who were periodically subject to quinsy have thus made themselves immune to attack.

No man's world is any bigger than the man himself. That which his eye can see, his ear can hear, his heart can feel, make up for him the universe. For no man has anything he can't use. What good is money to a Hottentot, or a magnificent opera to an idiot? The whole world for you lies under your own hat and it is just as large and just as varied as your own mind will let it become.

Uncle—"You boys of to-day want too much. Do you know what I was getting when I married your aunt?"

The Boys—"No; and I bet she didn't, either."

Rub it in for Lame Back.—A brisk rubbing with Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil will relieve lame back. The skin will immediately absorb the oil and it will penetrate the tissues and bring speedy relief. Try it and be convinced. As the liniment sinks in, the pain comes out and there are ample grounds for saying that it is an excellent article.

A young man who had to go abroad was saying good-bye to his sweetheart.

"Darling," he said, "when I am far away will you gaze on that star every night and think of me?"

"Dearest, I will," she answered, "that star is so full of your nature that it will always remind me of you."

"Why is that?"

"Because it's out so late at night and looks so pale in the morning."

The Headmaster of Eton relates how, when walking in a London thoroughfare one very wet, cold day, he saw on a newspaper placard: "Headmaster Beaten."

His curiosity was aroused, and crossing the street he unbuttoned his overcoat, fished out the necessary coin, and hastily scanned the paper to try to discover which particular member of his profession had been in the wars.

He found, somewhat to his disgust, that Headmaster was a horse—four to one on!

It is usually safe to say that when a child is pale, sickly, peevish and restless, the cause is worms. These paralyzes range the stomach and intestines, causing serious disorders of the digestion and preventing the infant from deriving sustenance from food. Miller's Worm Powders, by destroying the worms, correct these faults of the digestion and serve to restore the organs to healthy action.

A driver, summoned at Willesden for having no lights, wrote to the Bench: "I hope you will be as light as you can."

Our Winter Weather

A Trying Time for People With Weak Watery Blood

Canadian winter weather is a trying time for debilitated, run-down people. The close air of shut-up houses, lack of out-of-door exercise, the restricted diet of the season, all have their effect on weakened systems. There is always in such cases the danger of severe colds, attacks of influenza, or the still more dreaded pneumonia. There is no other time of year, when a bountiful supply of rich, red blood is so necessary; and the one way to keep the blood rich and pure and thus avoid winter trouble is through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If, unfortunately you have fallen a victim to influenza, or other winter troubles, this same medicine will restore your health and strength. Among those who have proved the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is Miss Margaret Pearson, R.R. No. 3, Chatham. Miss Pearson had passed through a severe attack of influenza and says: "It left me so weak and run-down, that I could scarcely walk. Anaemia set in and I almost seemed as if I would not pull through the winter, as I grew so weak that the least exertion would bring on fainting spells. I was under medical treatment, but it did not help me any. Then one day in our local paper, I read an advertisement of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. By the time I had used three boxes I felt much better, and continuing the use of the pills it was not long before I felt better than I had been before the influenza attacked me. My rapid recovery surprised my friends and when asked "What did you do?" I would proudly say, "Not my doing, but Dr. Williams' Pink Pills." To-day at least, the pills have been worth their weight in gold."

As a precaution against winter ills take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills now. Sold by all medicine dealers, or sent by mail at 50c. a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

The 57th Annual Meeting of the Policyholders of

THE MUTUAL LIFE ASSURANCE COMPANY OF CANADA

was held at the Head Office of the Company, Waterloo, Ontario, on Thursday, February the 3rd, 1927. The President, Mr. Hume Cronyn, who occupied the chair, summed up the admirable position of the Company in the following words:

"In this year of grace we are to celebrate—not merely the Diamond Jubilee of our Dominion—but as well the 57th anniversary of the birth of our Company; a Company which still holds the unique and proud position in the Life Insurance world, as Canada's only Mutual. The opinion is unanimous that the position of our country has notably strengthened during the past few months, and that we are on the eve of a larger measure of progress.

The Mutual Life has enjoyed a full share in this general prosperity of the Dominion, and as a result you have before you the best report in the history of the Company. To write Fifty Millions of new business, to add to the business in force Thirty-one and one-half Millions, to increase our general rate of interest on investments, to reduce our ratios of expense and lapsation, to experience another year of favorable mortality, and to swell our net earnings to the record figure of more than Four Millions of Dollars—are all matters for general thanksgiving."

The Outstanding Features of 1926 were:—

1—Largest Net Earnings in Company's Record, of which $3,409,345.32 will be used to provide dividends to policyholders, and the balance, $732,030.38, retained in Surplus Account to further strengthen the Company's position.	-	$4,141,375.70
2—New Business Written largest in the Company's history, totalling	-	$50,039,348.00
3—Gain in Assurance in Force of	-	$31,540,437.00
Increasing the Assurance outstanding to	-	$354,069,722.00
4—Expense Rate reduced to lowest in Company's history, ratio of expense to income being	-	15.11%
5—Rate of Interest Earned on Invested Funds	-	6.48%

Will Be Tallest Office Building in Canada

New Head Office Building of The Royal Bank of Canada in Montreal Will Tower 390 Feet Above Street and Have 23 Storeys.

THE tallest office building, not only in Canada but in the British Empire, is at present under construction in Montreal. This building is the new Head Office of The Royal Bank of Canada. In its erection, Canadian materials are being used wherever possible. The massive concrete foundations and retaining walls have been completed, and progress is rapidly being made on the steel superstructure, which is already showing above the surrounding fences.

The building will rise 390 feet above the sidewalk, and will have 21 storeys above the street level and two below; but its full height will not meet the eye of the passer-by, owing to the receding of the upper storeys from the street line. The purpose of this design is to prevent undue obstruction of light and air from streets and buildings nearby, and the extent to which this is accomplished may be understood from the fact that the total area of floor space in the building, as planned, will be no greater than if an 11-storey building were erected to cover the full size of the lot on all floors. The lot measures 180 by 170. At the third floor the building recedes 21 feet from the street line on all sides, and at the 18th storey it recedes again.

In the main body of the building, 100 feet in height, which covers the entire lot, Queenston stone from the Niagara peninsula will be used, while Montreal limestone will encase the upper portion or tower. The massive base of the building will be occupied by the Main City Branch of the Bank and the various departments of its Head Office. On the ground floor will be the main banking room, and in the sub-basement, reached by elevators, there will be massive vaults constructed to give the maximum of protection. There will be two mezzanine floors. The first of these will be occupied by a cafe-teria, rest-rooms and locker-rooms for the Bank staff. The second mezzanine and the first floor above will be given over to various departments of Head Office, including the Telegraph Department, from which private wires extend to the principal cities of Canada, as well as to New York and Havana. The second floor will be occupied by the President, General Manager and Executive Officers of the Bank, and other departments.

Above this main section all offices, with the exception of space for the Board Room and Directors' Room, will be for rental.

The picture shows the building as it will appear from St. James Street, with the principal entrance. The main entrance arch will be deep and finely set, proclaiming an atmosphere of dignity and beauty.

In the banking room, reached by gently-rising, spacious steps, the ceiling will be approximately 50 feet high and will extend the full length of the room with a large window at either end. On the north and south, the upper walls, which enclose the mezzanine floors, will be carried over a series of arched openings with ceilings of vaulted design finished in rich polychrome. In the more open and loftier space these same color harmonies will be repeated.

BATH

(For last week)

Oscar Buck spent a few days with friends in Toronto this week.—The village lost another esteemed resident in the person of James Aylsworth, who passed away suddenly on Wednesday morning.—He had been in failing health for some time. The funeral was held on Friday morning at 11 o'clock from his late residence to St. John's Church, with Rev. W. G. Swayne officiating, and interment will be made in St. John's cemetery. He is survived by his wife and one son, Dr. Fred Aylsworth, of Toronto. Dr. Fred Aylsworth, of Toronto, attended the funeral of his father.—Messrs. D. H. Robinson and James Shibley are filling their respective houses. — Ivan Armstrong, of Napanee, spent a day this week in the village.

Explains How Enlarged Veins Can Be Reduced

Oftentimes Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment.

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy for that evil which swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it at home as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

Moone's Emerald Oil has brought much comfort to worried people all over the country; is one of the wonderful discoveries of recent years and anyone who is disappointed with its use can have their money refunded by Wallace's Drug Store sells lots of it.

BASKETBALL

On Friday, February 7th, N.C.I. engaged in their second game in the Basketball League, ending it with a score of 47-22. A good game was expected, but the combination of N. C. I. on bewildered Trenton that they were beaten badly in the first fifteen minutes' play. From then on it was just practice for Ballard and Merritt in their addition sums. N.C.I. has a strong team, with Cowle and Pelton on defence. These boys are hard checkers and good passers, and worked the ball out of their territory many times, getting it to Merritt and Ballard, who worked up a combination hard to beat, with Don Wright doing most of the protective work for them. It was pretty to see them dribble, draw the defence man, then pass to the uncovered man who had "seasons" you might say in which to add two points to the N.C.I. score.

For Trenton, Purdy and Taylor were the main scorers. It seemed queer to the fans seeing these boys score without playing the back-board. Every shot they made was made quickly and without much assurance of scoring, for Cowle and Deline were always there to check. The team as a whole could not break away and were chasing around the floor mostly trying to get the ball from the Napanee players.

Trenton also could not seem to get outside to throw in the ball, as in their home gym. the wall is the boundary and the ball don't get out if it hits the wall. Many of their plays were checked by their dribbling the ball outside.

A return game will be played in Trenton on Saturday, Feb. 22nd, and it is hoped it will not be so one-sided.

Following was the line-up :—

Trenton — Taylor, Purdy, Smith, Conkill, Reynolds.

Napanee—Ballard, Merritt, Wright, Cowle, Deline, Corkill, Gibbard, Conway.

Trenton also on Friday brought a second team with them, hoping to beat Napanee with one of them as referee. This was a fairly good game, although many fumbles were made.

Lorne Wartman for Napanee did not seem to hang on that ball. He said "just because it is made of pigskin you didn't have to grease it so anybody couldn't hang onto it".

Vick and Gilbride did most of the scoring for Napanee, and with their passes from Graham were able to keep Trenton guessing comparatively no opposition.

For Trenton, Artis did nearly all the scoring. His shooting was sure and accurate and he jingled the chains on the basket to add up the score 32-2.

Rathburn was the main scorer and in the last period it was put a bit of hard luck that he did not get another basket which would have beaten N.C.I.

The score was close and it was "Hoot" Gibson who pulled his sixgun and scored a bullseye, marking down two winning points for Napanee.

The score was, Trenton 23, N.C.I. 24.

Following was the line-up :—

Trenton—Campbell, Artis, Landon, Carter, Rathburn, Whyte, Bohn.

Napanee—Vick, Gilbride, Wartman, Graham, Anderson, Reid, Miller, Gibson.

Mr. Claude Fraser, formerly of the N.C.I., kindly consented to tally up the score.

S. J. N. speaks truly in saying : "Too many people interpret liberty as the right to select laws they will obey."

HOW TO RELIEVE CHILDREN'S COLDS

Avoid Serious Results by Using Baby's Own Tablets.

When a child shows the first symptoms of a cold, such as sneezing, restlessness of the eyes, clogged or running nose, prompt measures for relief may avert serious results. Mothers should always have on hand some simple, safe and effective remedy for immediate use.

Baby's Own tablets act quickly, contain no opiates or narcotics, are tasteless and harmless. Mrs. Joseph Cadieux, Holyoke, Mass., says :—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets for my children and find them a very satisfactory medicine. When my little boy had a cold I gave him the Tablets at night and he was well next day. I give them to the children for constipation and they always do good. I think Baby's Own Tablets are much easier to give a child than liquid medicine. I recommend the Tablets to all mothers who have small children and believe they should always be kept on hand."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by all medicine dealers or will be sent by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville Ont.

Somehow Good

By RHODA WALWORTH

In jail, out of jail, for a month luxuriating on the results of an honest breaking raid, and for the rest of the year hiding, half-famished, from the officers of the law; in jail, out of jail—that about comprised a six months record for Dan Bentley. It hardly paid, he decided during his last spell of imprisonment, and when he once more found the free air he was determined to reform.

That resolution was severely tested. He had no money, his attire suggested the tramp, and at the end of a week he knocked about from pillar to post. Behold the disconsolate hero of humanity standing at the rear fence of a residence, his eyes fixed upon a suit of clothes, hung over a line to air.

"I don't want them to sell, and use up the money in drink," philosophized Dan; "my motive is good. Invested in those togs, looking half-respectable, I stand double the chance of getting work. I've a right to them as the means of starting me on the right road, and it's true charity for their owner to let me take them."

Dan entered the yard, shrewdly scanned his environment, removed the suit of clothes from the line, and nimbly put back for the alley. There it was an old, abandoned barn. Into it Dan darted, and proceeded to camouflage his habitual personality. He had not changed more than he was observed by a man who looked from the window of the house. The latter came out at its rear, dressed to kill, and, waited outside until Dan appeared, rehabilitated, and faced him with a smile.

"Well, my friend, a perfect fit, eh?" he spoke. Dan, shabbed, stood silent and confounded.

"I suppose it's the jug!" he muttered.

"Why?" gently and persuasively interrogated the other, still of manner, evidently inviting confidence, and Dan blurted out his history and motives.

"No money, I infer?" propounded his almoner sympathizingly. "Here," and he extended a bank bill. "Now you're on your feet; don't fail."

"Say!" said Dan, then choked up. The other extended a friendly hand.

"I believe in you," he said. "Somehow he good. Don't disappoint me. If you don't make it, come and get another loan. Several door this time—I'm Vincent Clevering."

"It's a dream!" gulped Dan as he slowly left the spot. "I read that at last; the first I've met. Vincent Clevering—I'll remember that name, and I'll

BAY PARSONAGE

A very pretty wedding took place at the Bay Parsonage, Napanee, on Saturday morning, February 5th, 1927, when Miss Jessie Sharpe, of Wooler, Ontario, was united in marriage to Mr. Arthur E. Asselstine, of Frankford, Ontario, by the Rev. R. J. Merriam. The bride was charmingly attired in rosewood crepe-de-chene and travelled in a fur-trimmed suit and coat with hat of peach coloured silk.

Dinner was served at the Parsonage, after which the happy couple left for Kingston, Athens, and other eastern points. On their return they will reside on the farm near Frankford.

The ceremony was witnessed by the parents of the groom, who also celebrated the forty-third anniversary of their own wedding.

Mr. Charles E. Asselstine and Miss Lydia E. Wagar were united in marriage by Rev. Mr. Craig, on February 5th, 1834, in Deseronto. They then resided on a farm near Morven, but afterwards removed to Napanee, thence to Trenton. A few years ago they again took up farming near Frankford, where they still reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Asselstine have four daughters and one son. The daughters are Mrs. C. G. Young, of Athens; Mrs. Garret Nelson, Wooler; Mrs. Wm. Waldie, of Kingston, and Mrs. Andrew Waldie, of Trail, B.C.

Gibbards have a whole carload of Chesterfields to choose from.

Driver Not Blamed For Death of Woman.
The death of Mrs. Margaret Murray, late of 63A Cambridge Street, Toronto, was held to be accidental by Coroner G. W. Clendenan's jury at the inquest. From the evidence of witnesses it appeared that the late Mrs. Murray, who was in her 70th year was struck by a motor car driven by George Hartman, on the corner of Shaw and College Streets, on January 16th. No responsibility was fixed upon the driver of the car, as the accident appeared to have been quite unavoidable.

Bazaar at Bath.
"Hello, there! Can you tell me where all the people are going?" "Well, did you not hear about the big affair billed for this afternoon?" "Well, no; you see I have been out of town, and didn't hear of anything new coming off." "Well, this is Saturday afternoon, and the Ladies' Aid of the United Church are holding a Bazaar in the Osborne Ice Cream Parlor, Bath, all afternoon and all evening. They have some fine stuff for sale, and they will serve lunch on the Evening Menu, also ice cream, until 11 o'clock in the evening. All roads will lead to Osborne's Ice Cream Parlor, at Bath, this afternoon." "Well, Sir, we'll all be there. So long." 6a

UNITED YOUNG PEOPLE'S EVENING

TRINITY Y. P. S. ENTERTAIN

On Monday evening Trinity Young People's Society acted hostess to St. Andrew's and Grace Young People's Societies. Altogether a large number of the young people of the town assembled in Trinity Church School Room.

There, after the devotional exercises led by Mr. C. D. Black, as President, he welcomed the sister societies. He then turned the meeting over to the programme committee.

They had arranged a very excellent and interesting programme. The whole assemblage was divided into ten groups and taken by a leader to different rooms, where contests of various kinds were waiting to be solved. Eight minutes were allowed for each, and the group which proceeded to the room numbered next highest. The group securing the highest marks was declared the winner.

That over, the party was conducted down stairs where luncheon was served. From every point of view the evening was a great success, good attendance, good fellowship and excellent entertainment and arrangements.

At the close of the evening, Mr. MacKenzie, of St. Andrews, and Mr. Fred Russell, of Grace, moved and seconded a vote of thanks to Trinity, which was heartily endorsed by all present.

ODESSA WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

The February meeting of Odessa Women's Institute was held in the Public Library, with a good attendance. The answers to the roll call, "What has the Institute done for me" certainly gave a good for thought, and we feel convinced that our Institute is doing work worth while and drawing us out of ourselves. We are becoming broader minded. After the business came a verse of "O Canada" by Mrs. Shelley Denyes favored us with a humorous reading, "Just Like His Mother Used To Do".

Mrs. Wilfred Sproule was present and kindly gave us her report of the W. I. Convention at Ottawa. Mrs. Sproule is from the Westbrooke branch, and a vote of thanks was extended to her for coming to our meeting and giving such a good report. She said she hoped we would send a delegate next year.

Our Class in First Aid and Home Nursing was held in the Public Library the first two weeks in February. Our instructor was Miss Flora M. Alexander, of Toronto. Our class was a great success. The practicability of the work and the personality of our lecturer and demonstrations were very interesting and helpful. We learned so much from Miss Alexander outside of the class. She has such a wonderful personality that we feel sure our whole community has benefited by her short stay among us. She said when she came back again she wanted to see every one that are new members through the class, still members of the Institute. She also told us that when we belong to the Women's Institute we belong to the greatest women's organization in the Dominion of Canada. "You do not need the Institute but the Institute needs you", she also heard to say different times during the course. We feel sure that we are more capable of trying to live up to our motto, "For Home and Country", since this very interesting course. She gave us such worth while suggestions for every day living that no woman or anyone had to miss the opportunity of attending. While our Institute has a membership of 65 we could only be glad to have more join us to help in the unlimited lines of work that institutes alone can do. Our money can be spent wherever the Branch wants it, not one cent spent on our own community, just where the need appeals most to each Branch. We hope for new members at our next meeting early in March.

Address and Presentation

A number of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Shannon gathered at their residence on Tuesday evening last and presented them with gifts, on the tenth anniversary of their wedding, and the following address, read by Mrs. William Black-arder, presented them with a sandwich tray, signed by other neighbors and friends.—We, your neighbors and friends.—We, your neighbors on the Old Slash Road, appreciate very much your kind invitation to spend a social and pleasant evening in your cosy home.

This being the tenth anniversary of your tenth wedding day, we heartily congratulate you, and wish you many happy returns of the day, accompanied by the very best of health.

You have proved yourselves the true friends in time of trouble, and although you have not brought much glory to your country, still we can count on you every time as good neighbours.

As a St. Valentine souvenir of the evening and a gentle reminder of this occasion, we would ask you to accept these gifts, and hope you may long be privileged to enjoy them.

Signed—

Mr. and Mrs. A. Rooks.
Mr. and Mrs. N. Rooks.
Mr. and Mrs. F. Hawley.
Mr. and Mrs. Winter.
Mr. and Mrs. Heeb.
Mr. and Mrs. Grooms.

Napanee, Feb. 14th, 1927.

CONWAY

At his residence, on February 9th, the death of Mr. Barry Hines occurred. Although he had attained the allotted span of life on July 26th last, and had been gradually failing in health, his decease was wholly unexpected, and came with startling suddenness to his family and friends. Forty years ago Mr. Hines came to this country from Norfolk, England, and has since lived in this community, where he was so well and favorably known. Besides his widow, Mr. Hines leaves a family of eight to mourn his departure—Frederick, who resides on Hay Bay; Charles, of Watertown, N.Y.; James, in Windsor; Clement and Arthur, who live on the farm just east of the homestead; Florence, (Mrs. Cole), of Picton; Gertrude, of Toronto, and Ethel, at home. There are also eleven grandchildren. The funeral, which was held in St. Paul's Church, Sandhurst, on Friday morning, was attended by every member of the family, and a large number of neighbours and friends. The Rector preached from the text, "The spirit shall return to God, who gave it". The hymns were "Now the Laborers' Task is Over", "On the Resurrection Morning", and "Where the Light Forever Shineth". The floral tributes were exceptionally beautiful, and consisted of a cross from the family, and wreaths and sprays from several friends.

WILTON

The snow storm to-day has made the roads much heavier for the cars.—The young people of Yarker presented their play here on Saturday night, in aid of the Women's Institute. There was a large crowd and everyone reported a real good time.—The Wilton Cheese Factory held their annual cheese meeting on Wednesday of last week, the directors to be the same as last year.—Master Oakley Cronk, who is employed by Mr. J. W. Babcock, was severely bitten by a dog. The Doctor was called and several stitches had to be taken in the wound. All are glad to hear that he is improving.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Mills entertained a large number of their friends on Friday evening.—The W. A. S. will meet at the home of Mrs. J. E. Miller, on Wednesday of this week.—Mr. and Mrs. Earl Lee and little son, Ronald, spent a few days at the home of Byard Lee.—Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Babcock and family spent Sunday with friends at Sydenham.—Mr. Byron Caton, of Toronto, arrived on Saturday to join his wife, who has been spending some time here.

The Late Mrs. Peter Vanluven

Reminiscent of the Pioneer Days of the Hoffman Settlement

There was laid to rest in Yarker United Church Cemetery on October 5th, the mortal remains of Mrs. Peter Vanluven, formerly of this place, but latterly of Brockville, where she passed peacefully away in the keeping of the Lord, having journeyed a long way on the pilgrimage of this life.

Martha Emily Hoffman was born in the Hoffman Settlement, Amherst Island, Camden, Addington County, on February 19th, 1838, and was in her eighty-ninth year at the time of her departure. Her demise has severed the last remaining link with pioneer days in that neighborhood. She was the daughter of Elijah Hoffman and Agnes Neville. Elijah and his brother Jacob were the first settlers in the district. The two brothers were of United Empire Loyalist stock, and came to the country in 1823, taking up their allotments of land along what is now known as Hoffman Street. At that time there were no roads, and the Hoffman brothers were obliged to pack their supplies over blazed trails through the solid forests from below Napanee, a distance of over twenty miles. Their father, Elias Hoffman, was one of that company of brave and true loyalists to the British crown in the Revolutionary War that landed upon the shores of the Bay of Quinte some time towad the end of the eighteenth century. He crossed over from South Fredericksburgh and located along the Napanee River, a short distance from where the town of Napanee now stands. It was there that Elijah and Jacob were raised, and from there that they set out through the wilderness to locate and build up homes for themselves.

Over a century has passed away since the two brothers first came into the woods of what in later years was known as the "Hoffman Settlement." There they cleared the land, built their homes, and raised their families. The last member of the second generation of Hoffmans to be called away was Martha Emily, youngest daughter of pioneer Elijah Hoffman.

At the age of twenty-one years she was joined in marriage to Peter Vanluven, who predeceased her some fifteen years. She had been a lifelong Methodist, a devoted Christian, and a faithful worker in the church to which she belonged. She was the mother of two children, one of which, Franklin E., died in 1922, the other, Nellie E. (Mrs. M. C. Dunn), living in Brockville.

After retiring from the farm Mr. and Mrs. Vanluven came to Yarker to live; and after the former's death Mrs. Vanluven went to live with her daughter, Mrs. Dunn. She leaves behind her a host of friends, who remember her as one whose door and whose heart were always open to welcome them, and whose hand was always ready stretched in friendliness and charity.

ODESSA

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith, Mrs. Watts and Mrs. Lewis Snider were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Philander Rose Westbrook, last Tuesday.—Stanley Hamm, barrister and solicitor, spent a few days with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. G. Hamm, last week.—Almond Fraser has returned from visiting his sister, Mrs. Scott, Montreal, and is again the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Fraser, for a time before returning to his home in Calgary.—Mr. and Mrs. Fraser Allen, Newburgh, spent Tuesday with Mr. Allen's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Fraser.—Mrs. E. J. Sproule has returned from visiting friends at Westbrooke Station.—Samuel Heath and daughter, of Chamois, N.Y., is visiting his brother, John Heath. He motored over to see his father, Peter Heath, who is ill at his son John's home.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Smith held a large reception for their son and his charming bride, Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Smith, on Tuesday evening last, when they returned from their trip to Ottawa and other points of interest. The home was filled with guests to welcome them. The large number of beautiful presents received was proof of the popularity of the young couple. Mrs. Frank Akin favored with a delicious oyster supper for the Band boys last Thursday evening, after their musical practice in the Town Hall. Needless to say that justice was done to the elaborate supper before them. All tendered a vote of thanks to Mr. and Mrs. Snider for the opening of their home for the occasion, and the delightful evening. At the close all sang "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow", and wished the hostess many years of health and prosperity.—Mr. Knowlton, who has been living on the S. Conway farm near here, is moving to the Sherman Orser farm, Florida. Mr. Knowlton has had the milk delivery for the village and had worked up a fine route, which will be taken over by Overton Powley on Monday.—John Schermerhorn has purchased a new closed car.—The euchre and dance, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, in aid of the Public Library in the Town Hall last Monday night, was a wonderful success. The first part of the evening was given to euchre. There were forty tables, which were nearly all taken with the enthusiastic players. The first prizes were won by Mrs. Wilmot Hoselton, Bath, a beautiful hand-painted Wedgewood tea set, and Mr. Mortimer O'Neill, a pack of cards. There was also a prize for lone hands, which was won by B. L. King, a very pretty ash tray. After lunch the dancers held the floor until the small morning hours, and enjoyed the excellent music by the Odessa orchestra. A very handsome sum was realized for the good cause.

Red Cross Save Triplets at Englehart Hospital

Englehart, Ont., has achieved a new distinction. It is proudly proclaiming itself the natal place of triplets, and is rejoicing over the event born to a family resident in town. It is only a short time since the Red Cross in the Englehart district, brought his wife and family of five children, the eldest a delicate girl of ten years of age, from the unorganized district surrounding Englehart and settled in the town. The triplets were prematurely born in the little family home and rushed to the Englehart Red Cross District Hospital five hours after their birth. Each infant weighed less than five pounds and their condition gave cause for alarm. The nurses at the Outpost, however, rose to this unexpected emergency, and determined that at least one child could save the three little lives they should be saved. Two weeks after the birth of the babies the mother returned to her home and the babies were left in the hospital, as it was felt that moving them in the depths of winter and discontinuance of the heat which had been given them would endanger their lives. Until the under nurturing of the Red Cross the babies gained in strength and weight, and at the age of four and a half months each weighed approximately seven pounds and four ounces. The parents cannot cope with the responsibility of the triplets mean financially. The local I.O.D.E. raised the sum of $50 and presented to the triplets; a women's organization in Englehart supplied each baby with a layette. They have collected $25 in their interests at a political meeting, and a prominent citizen presented each with a silver drinking cup. The christening took place with considerable ceremony at the hospital.

The wee girl and her brothers are still in the care of the Englehart Red Cross Hospital, where it is said they are the pride of the institution and much beloved by the nursing staff. Efforts are being made to raise sufficient money to maintain the babies in hospital for the winter months. Their names are John Duncan, 7 lbs. 3 ozs.; Elizabeth Dorothy, 7 lbs. 4 ozs.; and Arthur William, 7 lbs. 5 ozs.

Miss Jessie Empey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. N. Empey, Napanee, is matron of the Red Cross Hospital at Englehart.

BAY VIEW

A gloom was cast over this vicinity last week when the sad news came that Mrs. Walter Prink, after a brief illness. The funeral services were conducted on Saturday afternoon, Rev. Mr. Day last, and was largely attended.—Several in this neighborhood are suffering from colds and la grippe.—The Ladies Aid postponed their pie social, which was to have been held on Monday evening last, on account of the bad weather.—Mrs. Thos. Miller is visiting friends in Peterboro and other Western points.—Mrs. Geo. Smith spent a couple of days with friends in Napanee.—Mrs. Lolo Compton, of Rochester, spent a few days recently at her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Bonter.—Mr. John Baker has purchased a team of heavy horses.

Miss Agnes Annenbrack spent Monday with Miss M. Cameron.

Mr. Almond Fraser, of Calgary, who has been visiting his parents in Odessa, visited his nephew, Mr. Fraser Allen, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Wartman spent a few days in Kingston to be near Mr. Bert Wartman, of Sydenham, who has been very seriously ill in the General Hospital. He is now reported to be slightly improved.

Miss Vivian Clement, of Bogart, has returned home after visiting her sister, Mrs. Henry Ward.

Mrs. Leffler and Annie Gandier visited with Mr. E. Gandier, during the week.

During the last hour of the school session on Friday afternoon, the High School pupils held one of their Literary Nights in the Collegiate, with Mr. Severing his connection with the institution for work in industrial chemistry, was appointed to bring a gift from the Chamber of Commerce.

In the absence of the Chairman of the School Board, Mr. J. L. Boyes, representing that body, spoke in high praise of the work done by Dr. Morden, and of the splendid relationship existing between the Board and the staff.

Mayor Roy, representing the Town Council, spoke of Dr. Morden as a citizen and of the interest he had taken in all the affairs of the town.

Rev. A. J. Wilson spoke in behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, and on their behalf presented to Dr. Morden a very handsome club bag, completely fitted out and suitably initialed. While expressing the sense of loss that the Chamber of Commerce would experience in the departure of Dr. Morden, Mr. Wilson also expressed the best wishes of the whole community in the new sphere of influence to which Dr. Morden goes.

After the presentation, Captain Ivan Foley of the Retail Merchants' Bureau, addressed the organization on the injustice of the income tax. By means of statistics from the official returns, Capt. Innis showed the tax to be wrong in principle and unjust in its practice and pled for its complete abolition.

The meeting adjourned by the use of the National Anthem.

GLENVALE

The weather has been very springlike for the past week.—The recent snow storm has made the roads hard for car driving.—Mr. and Mrs. Ford, of Watertown, have returned after spending some time here with their parents, Mr. Jeffrey's.—The W. M. S. meeting, held at Mrs. Rogers', was well attended and a splendid afternoon was spent. Dainty refreshments were served.—The Ladies' Aid, of the United Church, met at Mrs. Jeffrey's on Wednesday last, for the purpose of quilting the finital quilt. They have worked faithfully with the block, quilting them filled with names and worked, and when put together it is very nice. The latter also intend having a table of home-made cooking and canned fruit for sale at the Market House in Kingston, on Saturday, Feby 19th. Also the quilt.—Mrs. H. C. Orser has gone to Smith's Falls to be with her daughter, who is very ill.—There was a shower given for Bert Seaward on Thursday night last, a bridegroom of two months.—Rev. Mr. McKenzie called in the village on Wednesday.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry McCullough took dinner with Mrs. W. Young, Murrale, on Thursday.—Mrs. Carmel Tranter and children at her father's; also Miss Kathleen Coupland was home over the week-end.—Mr. John Stone's father, Mr. Benj. Stone, died on Sunday, — Mr. and Mrs. Jeffrey and Miss Reta attended a birthday party given in honor of Mrs. W. Cameron, Kingston, on Feb. 8th. A pleasant time was spent in music, cards, radio, etc. A number of beautiful gifts were received. Everyone went home feeling they had spent a very enjoyable evening.

BAY CIRCUIT

At the Hay Bay Church, on Friday evening last, an audience of nearly two hundred and twenty-five people gathered and enjoyed the splendid entertainment given by the Young People.

The entertainment consisted of vocal solos by Miss Marjorie Huyck and musical duetts by Misses Loyst and Riley. Also two plays, entitled "A Double Proposal", in three acts, and "Uncle Dick's Mistake", in one act. The plays were put on by about sixteen young people, and each character was presented true to life. A great deal of credit is due to Mrs. W. Bell, for her splendid and efficient leadership in training those who took part in the plays.

Hay Bay young people are certainly to be congratulated upon having such a very exceptional ability in many ways.

Misses Mildred Winter, and Jean Ramsay, of Kingston, Sundayed at their respective homes.

Miss Jan. Waler spent Tuesday in Napanee.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Nugent entertained a number of their friends on Friday evening.

A number from Newburgh attended the party at Mr. Alfred Ramsay's, on Friday evening.

Mr. W. G. Paul spent the week end at his home here.

Mrs. Elizabeth Martin, who has been the guest of Miss M. Welbanks, for the last two weeks, returned home on Wednesday.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce was held on Tuesday last, in the Paisley House. Supper was served at six-thirty, after which a Nomination Committee was appointed to bring in a recommendation for officers for the ensuing year. During the absence of the committee, the President reviewed the work of the Chamber of Commerce for the year, and indicated the nature and scope of its interests, and also indicated that though he had been president since the organization of the Society, he thought another should be given an opportunity to lead the Chamber for a time.

The Nominating Committee recommended the following officers :—

President—Mr. P. Gleeson.

Vice President—Wilfred Wilson.

Secretary Treasurer—W. J. Wiggins, and an Executive Committee of eight. The recommendation was accepted by the Chamber, and the officers declared elected.

An interesting event then took place. Dr. G. W. Morden, the Principal of the Collegiate, who is severing his connection with the institution for work in industrial chemistry, was appointed to bring a gift from the Chamber of Commerce.

In the absence of the Chairman of the School Board, Mr. J. L. Boyes, representing that body, spoke in high praise of the work done by Dr. Morden, and of the splendid relationship existing between the Board and the staff.

Mayor Roy, representing the Town Council, spoke of Dr. Morden as a citizen and of the interest he had taken in all the affairs of the town.

Rev. A. J. Wilson spoke on behalf of the Chamber of Commerce, and on their behalf presented to Dr. Morden a very handsome club bag, completely fitted out and suitably initialed. While expressing the sense of loss that the Chamber of Commerce would experience in the departure of Dr. Morden, Mr. Wilson also expressed the best wishes of the whole community in the new sphere of influence to which Dr. Morden goes.

After the presentation, Captain Ivan Foley of the Retail Merchants' Bureau, addressed the organization on the injustice of the income tax. By means of statistics from the official returns, Capt. In the Legislature

Toronto, Feb. 12th.—All signs point to a short session of the Legislature, even allowing for the promised "ample opportunity for discussion" of the government control bill. Private bills are fewer than usual, and of the government measures, 19 have already reached committee stage and eleven of these are ready for third reading. Most of these bills have come up from the statute revision commission, and are almost entirely consolidations of existing laws, or a recasting thereof in the interests of clarity. The Opposition leaders were at first inclined to be skeptical of the premier's announcement to this effect, but perusal of the bills showed no new legislation except in certain clauses specifically explained by the ministers responsible. The first sitting of the private bills committee will be held on Tuesday.

* * * * *

Including the mover and seconder of the Address, eight members had taken part in the debate thereon, when adjournment was carried on Thursday. If the debate is not prolonged, the budget may possibly be brought down before the government control bill, but the Premier has announced that the latter may be expected soon. No official information has been forthcoming as to its details, and press rumors are authoritatively described as "mere guesswork". Meantime, however, the Prime Minister announced to the House and the province on Tuesday evening the personnel of the commission which will administer the new law. Their identity was a complete surprise to all but members of the Cabinet, and the selection is generally regarded as a triumph for the Government, in view of the commendation forthcoming from even the Opposition members and press.

* * * * *

David B. Hanna, who is to be chairman, was formerly general superintendent of the Canadian Northern Railway, and became president of the Canadian National when the systems were merged under that title. Later he became connected with many industrial enterprises, and is president of Western Canada Flour Mills. He was born in Scotland in 1858. Hon. R. J. Manion, M.P., Fort William, is designated as a commissioner. He has a distinguished career as a physician, in war service and in public life. He has served in the House of Commons since 1917, and has twice been a minister in Cabinets formed by Mr. Meighen. He is a native of Pembroke, and 46 years of age. Stewart McClenaghan, of Ottawa, the third Commissioner, is a former chairman of the Ontario License Board under the Whitney Government; has served on Ottawa Board of Education and City Council, and represented one of the Ottawa ridings in the last House of Commons. He is a native of Grenville County.

* * * * *

When the Address debate resumed on Tuesday, the House heard all three party leaders. Insofar as these speeches related to the Control legislation, Mr. Raney's line of argument was that the "knights and archbishops" and other eminent persons quoted during the campaign in support of the Government's policy should now lend themselves responsible for seeing that the legislation was in the interests of true temperance. His personal reference to Canon H. J. Cody were such that the Premier later described them as unworthy of a member of the Legislature. Mr. Sinclair, Liberal Leader, declined to discuss a bill which was not yet before the House, but commented that the people had given the Government a blank cheque on December 1st, and it was the duty of the Legislature to fill it in. Later Mr. Ferguson twitted the Liberal leader with having "ventured only a little way into the cold waters of public opinion during the campaign" on this question, and urged him to take a definite stand during this session.

* * * * *

There are four Independent Liberal members in this House whose views on the liquor issue are not those presented by the Sinclair wing of the campaign. They are for government control and will vote for the bill. The first was made clear on Thursday afternoon, when Aurelien Belanger, of Russell, spoke in the debate. His only complaint was that the government had failed to announce a liquor control policy when that was urged in a resolution moved last session by the late Robert L. Brackin, Liberal member for West Kent. For the term of Mr. Belanger recalled, he and certain colleagues had called upon the government to modify the O.T.A. Premier Ferguson interpolated: "Better be careful; there are cannon to right of you and cannon to left of you,"; referring to the Opposition leaders. But Mr. Belanger replied: "That is right.

FELT VERY WEAK

Had No Ambition and Had to Rest Frequently

Mrs. Wm. J. Griffin, Tehkummah, Manitoulin Island, Ont., is one of the many thousands of women who was run-down and bloodless, and who has found new health through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. She says:—"For a number of years I felt very weak and had no ambition. I found it very difficult to do my housework and had to rest frequently. As time went on my condition grew decidedly worse, and my feet and legs were badly swollen. My husband told the doctor of my condition, and he gave me medicine. Then my baby came and the doctor attended me. He said I had scarcely any blood in my body—that it had turned to water. I continued taking his medicine for a time, but did not feel that it was doing me any good. Then I started to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. In a short while I felt better, and after taking the pills for a couple of months I felt like a new person. Where my work used to be a drag upon my strength I found doing it now, and I will always recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to weak people."

If you will send your name and address to The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., they will mail you a little book called "Building Up the Blood," which contains many health hints. You can get the pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Got Permanent Relief After Taking Them

What Ontario Man Says About Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mr. T. C. Westlake Was in a Run-down Condition and Suffered With Indigestion.

Peterboro', Ont., Feb. 17th, (Special) —"A number of years ago, probably thirty, I got very run down, and then indigestion bothered me," states Mr. T. C. Westlake, 's well-known resident of this place. "I tried almost everything I could think of, but could get no permanent relief until I took Dodd's Kidney Pills."

It is statements like this which have built up the reputation which Dodd's Kidney Pills have to-day.

Mr. Westlake suffered from two of the various ills that accompany kidney trouble, viz.: a rundown condition and indigestion. That's why he got prompt and permanent relief from Dodd's Kidney Pills. They act directly on the kidneys, strengthening them and enabling them to do their full work of straining all the impurities out of the blood. Impurities in the blood are the seeds of disease. Dodd's Kidney Pills tone up the whole system and make you feel real good.

but we have victory in the offing."

Aside from his dramatic announcement of the new commissioners Premier Ferguson's contribution to the debate was noteworthy in substance, and in its enthusiastic tone. Regarding the forthcoming liquor legislation, he said, in part: "To make a success of any legislation, you must first build up public sentiment until it has become practically a conviction, and then you can crystallize it into law with some hope that you will succeed. . . . Our views apparently carries the judgment of a very substantial number of the people of Ontario. While this Government comes back with practically the same number of supporters, it has the largest popular vote any government has ever had, and it is a very healthy mingling of urban and rural representation. We have behind this Government as many real farmers as in the whole Opposition. (Applause). What the people decided at the last election was that we are going to be honest with ourselves hereafter; that we are going to have a law that has behind it public opinion, and that we are going to get rid of cant and hypocrisy and live out in the open. In the framing of the legislation that is to be brought down in this House, that will be the principle upon which it will be framed. No law is going to bring about conditions of contentment and progress and better morality unless it is reasonable, and commands the support of the great body of public sentiment. There will be a disposition on the part of the government to accept suggestions from any place, with the hope of securing a condition where Ontario can return to our traditional position in which she was proud to be known as a province where people had respect for her laws, and that her people will be able to grow in an atmosphere that will ensure growth to their advantage and moral welfare."

In reply to a criticism from Mr. Sinclair that the proposed transfer of university first and second year work to collegiate centres would mean largely increased financial burdens upon the municipalities, Premier Ferguson pointed out that this training for his children would not cost the average man so much, because he could send them to the nearby center, or keep them at home in such center, for a sum far less than it costs to maintain students in a center like Toronto. The enlarged tuition, the Prime Minister said, "will be paid for as now, by the local municipalities, with additional subsidies from the Provincial treasury. That is the way our whole school system works out. But this is going to be infinitely cheaper than the present method." Discussing this subject on Thursday afternoon, Rev. W. G. Martin, member for Brantford, said that even if many students taking up to second year work at local centers did not go on to college halls, the standard of education throughout the province would be much improved. He thought, however, that many given this facility would be inspired to continue the remaining four term at University, because they would have reached an age where they could earn something to pay their way.

* * * * *

Upon the subject of extending rural hydro services, Premier Ferguson last Tuesday reiterated the government's intention of aiding agriculture to the limit in this respect. He said: "I am one of those who believe they are entitled to it, and I can see no reason why we should not subsidize agriculture by enabling farmers to have this great blessing, just as we subsidize railways. This Government has paid out of the public treasury $2,000,000 to enable agriculturalists to get the benefit of electrical energy at a cost they could afford to pay. Applications are coming in to the commission so fast we cannot take care of them. It is one of the great things that I have happened in this province, and this Government is going to stand by agriculture and see that it gets fair treatment in that respect, as well as every other respect."

Two delegations met the Premier and Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture, on Thursday, with respect to aid for fairs. President Manwell and Chairman representatives urged a grant of $20,000 for the Peninsular Winter Fair, which is greatly in need of better buildings. President J. H. Saunders, of Western Fair, with the two London members and representatives of the city council, proposed an annual grant of $15,000 for 20 years toward a $500,000 building planned to replace the Crystal Palace, recently burned. Consideration was given and attention was promised by the Government.

Hon. Mr. Martin's bill respecting Control of Noxious Weeds now before the House, consolidates provisions now existing in three different parts of the statutes, and also contains this new provision: "Every occupant of land, or if the land is unoccupied, the owner, shall cut down or destroy all weeds designated noxious by the regulations, as often in every year as is sufficient to prevent the ripening of their seeds". The penalty clause has been amended, and provides that any owner of land contravening the provisions of the Act or neglecting to obey the lawful order of the inspector shall incur a penalty of not less than $20 or more than $50. The inspector is to give notice in writing, not later than such dates in each year as may be fixed by-law of the municipality. Increased power is given the Lieutenant-Governor in Council regarding the making of regulations.

HAYBURN

A merry time was spent last Saturday evening, when a number of the Hay Bay young people came over, at the invitation of our boys and girls, to enjoy the skating on the rink. The glow of the cheery bonfire might be seen for some distance, and it was indeed a welcome addition, for the night was a keen, frosty one.— Mr. Colborne Harrington was the guest of his cousin, Mr. Harold Peters, over the week end.—Miss Myrtle Dickson is spending a short holiday at her home. She returned recently from Toronto. —Those who attended the concert at Hay Bay last Friday evening, report a good crowd and a splendid entertainment. Many amusing situations were caused by the absent-minded Uncle Dick, and were only equalled by the predicament of the two very eligible suitors in "The Double Proposal".— Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Magee spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Magee.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Loyst were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Loyst, Sunday afternoon.—The young people are presenting their variety entertainment at the Anglican Church Hall, Adolphustown, this evening. They have tried to vary as much as possible, the different programs presented on each occasion, so that it may be enjoyed a second or third time, without becoming monotonous. —Miss Wilson held a Valentine party for the school children on Monday afternoon, which quite delighted them.— Misses Doris Ridley, Ruth Loyst, Kathleen Dickson and Beatrice Wilson attended church at Sandhill, Sunday afternoon.—We are glad to report little Miss Edna Platt is recovering from her severe illness.

A THREE DAYS' COUGH IS YOUR DANGER SIGNAL

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsion of creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action, it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and checks germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities the most efficient healing agent for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat trouble. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the raw and inflamed membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes right to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial troubles, bronchitis and other forms of throat and chest diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. Creomulsion Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

How SEQUENCE CALLS speed up SALES

SIXTIETH ANNIVERSARY

On December 31st, 1926, at Nelson, B.C., Mr. and Mrs. John G. Smith celebrated their 60th anniversary. Mr. Smith was born at Morven, Ont., on June 20th, 1842, and Mrs. Smith, formerly Miss Mary E. McGuin, was born near Bath, Ont., on August 20th, 1844.

In 1901 Mr. and Mrs. Smith, with their family of four children, moved from near Brockville, Ont., to Calgary, Alberta, where they engaged in ranching until 1912, when they again moved to Creston, B.C. While there Mr. and Mrs. Smith celebrated their 50th anniversary. Fred A. Smith and Miss Estelle, of Creston, were present. Also Mrs. T. F. Oliver and Mrs. Gabe Brewer, of Calgary; also three grandchildren, Master Harry and Miss Anna Smith, of Creston, and Master Ross Oliver, of Calgary. About seven years ago Mr. and Mrs. Smith and Miss Estelle Smith removed to Nelson, B.C., where they celebrated their 60th anniversary, on Dec. 31st, 1926. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Fred. K. Smith, of Creston, B.C., and Miss Estelle Smith, who lives at home with her parents. Mrs. T. F. Oliver and Mrs. Gabe Brewer, at present living in Los Angeles, California, were not present. Mrs. J. C. Cantlon, of Santa Cruz, Cal., formerly Miss Rowena Brewer, of Los Angeles, Cal., another granddaughter, was not able to be present. Mr. Smith is a brother of Miss Maria A. Smith, of Napanee, Ont., and also a brother of J. F. Smith, Toronto.

Buckeyes

The hatching season is now very near, so if you are thinking of buying an Incubator or Brooder let us suggest that by all means you reply with a postcard.

We have used Buckeyes for makes of Incubators, and during our seven years' experience with Buckeyes we have used every size they make from 60-egg capacity to 12,000-egg capacity, and have never had one failure nor one moment's cause for worry.

We have a good stock of Machines and Repairs always on hand, and can soon get repairs in if used Incubators.

And remember, we stand behind every Machine sold.

Come in and see these Machines. We can save you money.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

If you must blow your own horn, at least vary the tune occasionally.

Film Star—"Will you love me when I am old?"
Third Husband—"Why, my dear, we'll be divorced long before that!"

"Direction makes a lot of rift. ●

"For Coats $200 up.
Or $20 down."

A Corrector of Pulmonary Troubles.—Many testimonials could be presented showing the great efficacy of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in correcting disorders of the respiratory processes, but the best testimonial is experience and the Oil is recommended to all who suffer from these disorders with the certainty that they will find relief. It will allay inflammation in the bronchial tubes.

Mrs. A.—Does your husband enjoy sound sleep?
Mrs. B.—Really, I don't know. Sometimes from the sound he makes I think it must be agonizing to the poor fellow.

It Has Many Qualities.—The man who possesses a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil is armed against many ills. It will relieve a cough, break a cold, prevent sore throat; it will reduce the swelling from a sprain, relieve the most persistent sores, and will speedily heal cuts and contusions. It is a medicine chest in itself.

Tom—Why does a woman always keep a man waiting so long after she says she'll be ready in a minute?
Sam—Because she picks out a minute which is about half-an-hour away.

Tommy entered the parlor, where his sister was entertaining Mr. Dubleigh. Walking up to the latter, he held out his hand, in the open palm of which were a dozen small white objects.
"What's them?" he asked.
"Why, those are beans," answered Dubleigh with an ingratiating smile.
"He does know 'em, sis," said Tommy triumphantly to his sister. "You told me last night that he didn't."

Painless and perfect in their action, Miller's Worm Powders are always a safe and reliable remedy for children who show symptoms of worms. These symptoms are easily recognizable by feverish restlessness, frequently ending in convulsions. A point of notable importance is that after Miller's Worm Powders have expelled the worms, the stomach and bowels are toned up into a very healthy condition.

Little David returned from school in tears and with a bruise over his eye. "I'll pay Tommy Hobbs out for this in the morning!" he wailed to his mother.
"No, no," she said, "you must return good for evil. It'll make you a nice jam tart, and you must take it to Tommy and say: 'Mother says I must return good for evil, so here's a tart for you.'"
David demurred, but finally consented. The next evening he returned in a worse plight than on the previous day, and sobbed: "I gave Tommy the tart and told him what you said. And then he hit me again, and says you've to send him another tart to-morrow!"

An elderly and rather dour Scot was married to a much younger bride, and after the ceremony was over the minister said affably: "Well, John, I suppose you'll be going for a honeymoon?"
"Honeymoon!" repeated the benedict. "What's that?"
"Oh, you know," chuckled the clergyman, "a little trip somewhere together before you settle down to your married life."
The bridegroom shook his head morosely. "Na, sir," he said, "I dinna hold wi' gallivantin' aboot wi' a strange wumman."

When on circuit at a northern town, a judge left his lodgings one night to post a letter. As he was wearing an old jacket and a cap, he was not recognized by the policeman on duty outside, who inquired "if the old devil had gone to bed yet."
The judge declared that he did not think so. Then, returning inside, he put his head out of his bedroom window and said, "Officer, the old devil is going to bed now."

THE COST OF WASTE.

Appalling Waste That Goes On In Our Everyday Life.

A statistician has estimated that petrol to the value of £50,000 is lost daily through drivers leaving their engines running while the cars wait at rest, says the Old Country paper.

We talk a good deal about waste; we put notices on the back boards we have discovered methods of dealing with city refuse by turning it into manure or cement, while the technical journals are full of new inventions for making use of so-called waste products.

Yet most of us completely disregard the appalling waste that goes on in our everyday life, and it is only when some statistician reduces such waste to pounds, shillings, and pence that it dawns upon us that we are not quite the careful, economical souls we fondly believe ourselves to be.

A year ago, when wheat went up to an unusually high figure, it was pointed out that in London alone 2,000,000 loaves are wasted every week. People have gone back to the old wasteful pre-war habit of buying more bread than they actually need.

Then look at the loss of light. In any form of artificial lighting by far the greater part of the energy consumed is wasted in the form of heat. The electric light itself gives only 10 per cent. of its energy value in light. But, apart from this, the waste caused by leaving lights burning when not actually required is colossal.

In the matter of paraffin alone, says this Old Country paper, one estimate puts the loss from carelessness at 20,000,000 gallons yearly. This is for the British Isles, and does not include the rest of the world.

Speaking of light calls to mind coal. Britain burns some 20,000,000 tons of coal yearly in grates and ranges, of which a very large proportion goes up the chimneys in the form of smoke. It is reckoned that, if all the old-fashioned grates were scrapped in favor of the best modern inventions, we could get more warmth from half the amount. Here alone would be a saving of nearly twenty million pounds yearly.

We all remember the mustard king, who said that his great income came not from the mustard people ate, but from what they left upon their plates. It is equally certain that the big dividends paid by soap factories do not come from the soap used so much as from the soap wasted.

In former days the careful housewife bought her soap for a year at one time, and hung it in a net in the kitchen. Soap dried till there was a swipe as long as soap fresh from the factory.

THE LOST CONTINENT.

City Under the Atlantic May Not Be a Myth.

Excavations upon land have recovered unmistakable traces of cities dead and buried in ancient times; but it seems optimistic to expect that in our time any scientifically-equipped expedition will explore the bottom of the Atlantic Ocean and discover the lost continent of Atlantis, described by Plato, says a writer in the Scotsman.

For all that, the particulars concerning it which have been handed down by tradition and interpreted in the light of a comparative study of the vestiges of prehistoric civilization provide material for supposing not only that it did exist, but also that it had its own culture-centre, and affected both Western Europe and Eastern America. Lewis Spence's history, in his former work on this subject, is necessarily, to a great extent, hypothetical; yet even in it has a lively interest, and is instructive in a region of study in which the lack of positive information increases the zest of the inquiry.

It shows, says the Toronto Globe, whence Plato got his notions of Atlantis, discusses legends and learned theories, describes the manners, customs, polity, morals and religion of the Atlanteans; and it cannot but prove stimulating and enjoyable reading to geographers and others.

BRUSHWOOD CHURCH

Believed to Be the Most Primitive Church in the World.

What is believed to be the most primitive church in the world is to be found in San Dieco Co., Southern California.

It is known as the Santa Isabel Mission, and is used by the Indians of the district. The church was built of brushwood. The entrance is effected by climbing a rude cross of pine has been erected upon a small levelled surface, which is utilized for open-air services should the concreeacation be too numerous to be accommodated within the narrow limits of the brush shelter.

The great majority of worshippers in this strange church are Christian-ized Indians. As these mission stations become of greater importance and accommodation is provided, and many of the long-established ones are elaborate stone edifices, but in nearly every instance they have sprung from primitive structures such as the one described, which are erected wherever a new site for a mission station is chosen.

Talking Across the Ocean.

On February 7, 1926, conversation was carried on successfully over a period of 15½ hours between the new wireless station at Rugby in Central England, and Long Island, near New York City. On March 7, following, experiments were made between the General Post Office, London, and New York. The voices were heard most plainly in both cities.

It Pays to Advertise.

A butcher walking down the street, passed a dairy and read the sign: "Milk From Contented Cows."

He was impressed with the idea, and decided to adapt it to his line of business. The following morning the sign appeared in his window: "Pork From Pigs That Died Happy."

WEDDING BELLS

Smith—Kimberley.

A very pretty wedding took place at Port McNicoll, Ontario, on Friday, Feb. 11th, 1927, when Miss Beatie P. Smith, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Smith, of Napanee, Ontario, became the bride of Mr. Cecil R. Kimberley, youngest son of Mr. Wm. Kimberley, of Sharbot Lake. The bride looked charming in a dress of new glue canton crepe, embroidered in gold, a smart spring hat and blond satin shoes with stockings to match, completed her costume. The room was prettily decorated with spring flowers and white streamers. Rev. A. Rintoul, of Port McNicoll, performed the ceremony, after which the happy couple left amid showers of rice and confetti for points West, returning to Port McNicoll, they will reside there for some time. The many beautiful presents received show the high esteem in which the young couple were held. Mr. Kimberley is engaged with the C.P.R. bridge and building gang, which is this winter working on the trestle at Port McNicoll.

Presentation and Address

On Wednesday evening, February 9th, a number of friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nugent, and presented Miss Marjorie with the following address and presentation before her departure for Toronto, where she enters the Wellesley Hospital as a nurse-in-training.

Miss Marjorie Nugent.

Dear Friend,—Time brings many changes. Some of them are very unwelcome, but it seems quite necessary. It is one of these changes that has brought so many of your friends to your home to-night. We have only known you for a few short years, but we have seen much of you in that time that has impressed us very favourably, and now as you are leaving this community to follow up such a worthy profession, we desire to express to you our regrets at your going, and also to assure you that our very best wishes go with you. We shall follow up your career with great interest in future, and shall always welcome you back again. While we regret your leaving, we sincerely hope that it will be to your advantage, and as an expression of our best wishes for your success, we ask you to accept this string of pearls, and may it remind you of your friends.

Signed on behalf of friends.
MRS. RANKIN.
MISS HELEN SEXSMITH.

SANDHURST

The Parish Hall was en fete on St. Valentine's Day when the members of the Women's Auxiliary gave a delightful tea. There was a short programme of music, readings and recitations and a humorous impromptu speech. Games and contests in harmony with the spirit of the day then followed, the prizes being won by Mrs. Bert Morrow, Miss Florence Morrow and Miss Davy. The refreshments were dainty and bountiful. The ladies in charge of them were ably assisted by a number of the young members of the congregation. Special mention should be made of the artistically decorated hall. Red streamers, clumping cupids and hearts of several sizes were much in evidence and gave a festive tone to the event. The decorations were in charge of Miss Helen Sills. Quite a handsome sum was realized for the work of the auxiliary.

Mr. Clark Hines left on Monday for Windsor.—Miss Edna Morrow had the misfortune to sprain her ankle recently while tobogganing with some of her pupils in Picton.—Mr. James Hines has returned to Windsor.—Miss Eleanor Ham, of T. H. & B. is spending a few weeks in Cleveland, Ohio.—Miss Gertrude Hines left on Wednesday for Toronto.—Mrs. G. Roddick has returned from a week's visit with her son in Kingston.—The W. A. of St. Paul's Church met at the home of Mrs. Geo. Ham on Wednesday. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Robt. Wright's, when Mrs. H. Robinson and Mrs. Tuckett will be in charge of the study class.—Mr. and Mrs. Denike, who have been with Mr. and Mrs. P. Hodgeboom, have returned to their home in Cressy.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The sermon subject for next Sunday is "Following the Gleam."

The Valentine Tea given by the W. M. S. at the home of Mrs. S. Gilmore last Monday afternoon and evening was well planned and carried out. The Conundrum Menu and the Fairy Play by the little tots were especially interesting features. The financial proceeds were $20.00.

At a joint meeting of the Session and Stewards of the Tamworth congregation held last Monday evening the prospects for meeting the allocation for the M. & E. Fund were found to be promising if each member continues to cheerfully do his part.

A similar meeting held at Marlbank on the preceding Thursday night revealed a like promising prospect for that congregation.

Mrs. Ballantyne, the wife of Rev. Dr. R. L. Ballantyne, of Riverfield, Que., spent a week with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Brown, of Tamworth, returning to her home last Friday.

We welcome to our village and congregation Mr. Wallace, who is the new manager of the Tamworth Creamery.

Fashion Forecasts For Spring, 1927

Jacket themes will be pronounced in Spring fashions, including models in tailored suits, sportswear and dresses. Many two-piece dresses will have their blouses in jacket form and boleros will also reflect the jacket vogue.

Sleeveless jackets will be worn with long-sleeved dresses of matching fabric.

Evening dress will exploit the removable jacket in cardigan and bolero forms. The compose idea is certain to be strengthened by this short coat or jacket vogue. Long coat ensembles maintain their prestige and will vary their style through adoption of the tunic blouse.

Both one and two-piece dresses will be featured and both types associated with the long coat and short coat costume.

BETHANY

The snow storm has made delighing good again, and quite a lot of logs are being hauled to the saw mill at Desmond.—Entertaining is the order of the day, or, correctly speaking, the nights.

Miss Maxwell has returned home, after spending a few days at Mr. E. Conger's.—A number from here spent a very pleasant evening at the parsonage on Monday evening. Owing to the stormy night there was not a large gathering, but those who did go were well repaid. The programme was all Valentine, and the contests were amusing and instructive. — Mrs. W. Fuge has been quite ill, but we are glad to report is much improved.—Mr. John Howell left on Wednesday for the west.—A number attended the ice races at Deseronto on Saturday last.

NATURE'S HERBAL BALM

DENBIGH

The Golden Wedding Anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. John, on February 11th, 1927, proved a happy surprise, as many of their friends gathered at their home in the evening, to celebrate the event. The young bride and groom of fifty years ago were very greatly and happily surprised, as they had not the faintest whisper of the doings.

Mrs. (Dr.) Adams read a short congratulatory address on behalf of those present. A very suitable duet was then rendered by Mrs. Adams and Miss Verna Lawman. This was followed by a number of old familiar community songs, with Miss Lawman, Continuation teacher, presiding at the organ. Miss Anna Lane, Miss Gladys Stein, Mrs. E. W. Pelton and Mrs. Adams were the leaders of song. Rev. P. A. Scott rendered a very appropriate, comical and laughable reading, which was very much enjoyed. The singing and social intercourse continued until late in the evening. The happy hours were brought to a close by the serving of dainty refreshments, the waiters being Mrs. P. A. Scott, Mrs. Anna Lane, Mrs. Chas. Stein and Mrs. Adams.

On leaving, the happy young couple expressed their great pleasure and gratitude, saying "come again".

Mr. and Mrs. John received, during the day, a telegram of congratulations from their two daughters and families, Mrs. John Brierley and Mrs. Percy Jacobs, Oswego, N.Y.

Mr. Fred Chatson, Renfrew, is spending a few days with his mother and other relatives.

Miss Anna Stein is visiting friends near Cloyne.

Mrs. Chas. Roth is enjoying a visit with her son, at Cloyne.

Mr. A. Warlick and family, of Sallows, have returned to their take up their residence here, after several years spent in the West.

Rev. T. for the aisle hearted Lucia that Granville Rowley went his way, and to her his thoughtfulness and cooperation were as grateful as sunshine in dreary routine of labor. Lucia was an orphan and lived with an invalid aunt, acting in the capacity of nurse and housekeeper. For this service she was awarded food and lodging, but had to do some outside sewing to keep up her own modest wardrobe.

Granville called upon her the following week to report as to the disposal of the personal property. The sale had brought two hundred dollars, he told Lucia. She at once handed him half of that sum and asked him to see that an appropriate headstone was placed at the grave of her benefactor. A few days later Lucia learned that Granville had purchased the home and lot from Purvin for a song, he paying such.

"Purvin holds such a ridiculous sacrifice of the property," Granville explained to her next time they met, "that I was tempted to invest in it all. It isn't the worst house in the world. A little repairing would improve it wonderfully, and maple—and maybe, if I could find a wife who would be content to start life in a modest way, why, we would have our first home-stead ready at hand."

Granville laughed as he said this, but regarded Lucia with a half-quizzical, half-earnest glance and she blushed and fluttered. His visits began to become regular and at the end of three months he and Lucia became engaged.

She met him near her home one evening, flustered and excited, and told him that Caesar had escaped from the cage and asked him to help her find him. At the end of an hour they traced the truant to his old home perched on a porch rafter and making up for lost time by shouting out his whole vocabulary. "We'll hide it in the cellar!" Caesar kept repeating over and over again, as if some familiar saying of his dead master had vividly recurred to him. Granville was attracted by the words. He started an investigation.

"Lucia," he announced the next day, "quite a sum of personal property has turned up in the cellar of the old house—over a thousand dollars in gold."

As all of it belonged to Lucia, and as Granville owned the house, they mutually decided that they might venture safely upon the sea of matrimony.

Lucia's Legacy

By VERNON LEE

When Adam Lyste died he left his real estate to an old bachelor cousin, Wallace Purvin, and his personal property to his orphan niece, Lucia Valle. It was the day after the funeral that these legatees were so advised by his lawyer in the living room of the dilapidated old house.

"All his realty, eh?" sneered Purvin. "There's a lot of it, isn't there?" and he sourly viewed the scrubby lot with broken fence and dilapidated outbuildings. "And what, may I ask, comprises the opulent personal holdings of my illustrious relative?"

Lucia was crying, but she looked up and spoke brokenly: "How can you act so disrespectfully to Uncle Adam! He thought enough of both of us to mention us in his will, and he helped you get into business and he paid for what education I have received."

"I had a right to better expectations. The old spendthrift! There is no doubt that he had quite a fortune five years ago, for he bragged to me about it then. What's become of it—high living?"

"Hardly," half smiled the young lawyer. "I happen to know that Mr. Lyste lost very heavily in a speculation. I also chance to be aware of the fact that he lived on the most meager fare during the past year."

Lucia knew it likewise, only too well! Many a time she had come over to the old home to bring life-sustaining food and nurse the lonely old man when he was ailing and ill. Even now she could recall his words: "You are a good girl, Lucia. You are the only one of all my friends and relatives who cares for or thinks of me."

"Well, you can sell this old rattletrap for what it will bring," said Purvin crossly. "And Lucia gets the personal property? Fortunate legatee! The young heiress! What will you ever do with such rich possessions? Bah!" and the disappointed Purvin swung from room and house with a new snort of irritability. Lucia looked up to read in the face of the young lawyer the profound contempt he felt.

"There isn't much to count on, Miss Valle," he said respectfully, "but such as it is becomes subject to your order. The furniture is old, but it will bring something. There is the cow and the horse and wagon and a buggy and the parrot."

"Poor Ceasar!" murmured Lucia, rising over to the cage of the only house pet Mr. Lyste had ever cherished. "I have tried to feed it but it refuses to eat and sits all day silent and despondent looking. I really believe it misses its master and is mourning over his death. I will take Ceasar home with me. As to the rest of the personal property, if you will kindly take charge of it and sell it for what it will bring, I shall be grateful to you."

It was with emotions of profound esteem for the aisle-hearted Lucia that Granville Rowley went his way, and to her his thoughtfulness and cooperation were as grateful as sunshine in dreary routine of labor. Lucia was an orphan and lived with an invalid aunt, acting in the capacity of nurse and housekeeper. For this service she was awarded food and lodging, but had to do some outside sewing to keep up her own modest wardrobe.

Granville called upon her the following week to report as to the disposal of the personal property. The sale had brought two hundred dollars, he told Lucia. She at once handed him half of that sum and asked him to see that an appropriate headstone was placed at the grave of her benefactor. A few days later Lucia learned that Granville had purchased the home and lot from Purvin for a song, he paying such.

"Purvin holds such a ridiculous sacrifice of the property," Granville explained to her next time they met, "that I was tempted to invest in it all. It isn't the worst house in the world. A little repairing would improve it wonderfully, and maple—and maybe, if I could find a wife who would be content to start life in a modest way, why, we would have our first home-stead ready at hand."

Granville laughed as he said this, but regarded Lucia with a half-quizzical, half-earnest glance and she blushed and fluttered. His visits began to become regular and at the end of three months he and Lucia became engaged.

She met him near her home one evening, flustered and excited, and told him that Caesar had escaped from the cage and asked him to help her find him. At the end of an hour they traced the truant to his old home perched on a porch rafter and making up for lost time by shouting out his whole vocabulary. "We'll hide it in the cellar!" Caesar kept repeating over and over again, as if some familiar saying of his dead master had vividly recurred to him. Granville was attracted by the words. He started an investigation.

"Lucia," he announced the next day, "quite a sum of personal property has turned up in the cellar of the old house—over a thousand dollars in gold."

As all of it belonged to Lucia, and as Granville owned the house, they mutually decided that they might venture safely upon the sea of matrimony.

ASSETS at December 31, 1926 An Increase of $42,195,000	45,251,000

Dividends to Policyholders increased for seventh successive year

EXTRACTS FROM DIRECTORS' REPORT

The operations during the past year have resulted in substantial advances in all departments. . . .

The new policies paid for . . . almost double the figures of two years ago.

The assurances in force, after deduction of reassurances, . . . show an increase of, ... over twenty-three per cent.

Policies and group certificates now outstanding aggregate well in excess of half a million.

The figures relating to resources and earning power are equally satisfactory.

The high quality and profitable character of our investments has again been demonstrated. As a result of continued reduction in prevailing rates of interest, and of satisfactory industrial conditions, there has been a further rise in the market values of our long-term bonds and of our preferred and other stocks. The appraisal of our securities made by the Government Insurance Department shows that the excess of market values over cost has increased during the year by $6,894,266.26. In addition, the sum of $1,729,364.52 has been realized as net profit from the redemption or sale of municipal debentures and other securities which had risen to high premiums. The rate of interest earned on the mean invested assets has also risen to the remarkable figure of 6.69 per cent, as the result of substantial dividend increases, bonuses, and stock privileges received in connection with many of our holdings.

The quality of the investments invested in the assets may be judged from the fact that on 99.55 per cent of the bonds and on 99.71 per cent of the preferred stocks, not one dollar of interest or dividend is in arrears for even one day. On our common stocks the dividends now being received are greatly in excess of the dividends payable on the same stocks at time of purchase.

The total surplus earned during the year amounted to $20,4[illegible]77.28. From this the following appropriations have been made:

The sum of $5,000,000 has been deducted from the official valuation of our securities to provide for possible fluctuations in market values. This raises the amount set aside for this purpose to $5,000,000. In other words, the value at which our securities are carried in the balance sheet is $5,000,000 less than the appraisal made by the Government authorities.

The account to provide for unforeseen contingencies has been increased by $1,000,000 bringing the total under this heading to $11,000,000.

The book value of our Head Office building has been written down by a further sum of $250,000 though it certainly could not be replaced at even its original cost.

An additional amount of $400,000 has been set aside to provide for greater longevity of annuitants. The total held under this heading in excess of Government requirements, is now $1,500,000.

The reserves on the newly acquired business of the Cleveland Life, and on other reassured policies, have been raised to the same high standard as that used for the valuation of liabilities under our own contracts.

To our policyholders, profits have been paid or allotted during the year to the amount of $9,235,526.80.

After making these deductions and allocations an addition of $5,371,564.56 has been made to the undivided profits. The surplus over all liabilities, contingency accounts and capital stock, now stands at $34,011,565.25.

For six years in succession we have increased the profits to participating policyholders. During this period our profit scale has been doubled. While the assurances in force have multiplied two and a half times since 1920, the amount paid or allotted as profits to policyholders has multiplied five and a half times. We are gratified to announce, for the seventh consecutive time, a further increase in the scale of profits to be distributed to our policyholders in the ensuing year.

OYSTER SUPPER AT CAMDEN EAST

The Ladies' Aid of Camden East United Church held a very successful oyster supper in the Church Hall, on Friday evening, Feb. 11th. A bountiful supper was served from 6 to 8 p.m., in the spacious banquet room by the ladies, who were congratulated by many for the extraordinary supper provided. Following this an excellent programme was enjoyed in the upper hall, and was as follows:

Rev. T. H. P. Anderson, Pastor, acted as Chairman.

One verse of the hymn, "Onward, Christian Soldiers", was sung by the audience, followed with a brief prayer by Mr. Anderson.

The Odessa Mission Circle Orchestra were then called upon for a selection and responded with "When the Red, Red Robin Goes Bob, Bob, Bobbin'."

Chairman's address consisted of a few remarks on the success of the supper, etc.

Recitation, "What the Little Girl Said", by Laura Altenbrack, received hearty applause.

Vocal Solo, "Just a Song at Twilight", rendered by Mrs. Kenneth Babcock, of Wilton.

Reading, "Mrs. Smart Learns How to Skate", by Miss Gerge.

Camden East Quartette, "Moonlight and Roses", by Misses Joan Saul, Helen and Edith Williams and Mr. Lorne Williams.

Odessa Orchestra, "Love Me When the Twilight Fades".

Pianoforte Solo, by Mrs. Clarence Allen.

Recitation, "Reverie in Church", by Miss Jessie Hamilton.

Vocal Solo, "Just a Cottage Small by a Waterfall", Mrs. K. Babcock.

Quartette, "Old Black Joe", by Mrs. Geo. Scott; Mrs. V. Edgar and Messrs. Delbert Beamish and Arthur Amey. "Old Black Joe" was very ably impersonated by Mr. A. Amey. This received a hearty hand-clap.

Odessa Orchestra gave another selection, followed with an encore.

Recitation, "Mrs. Perkins Comes to Call", by Miss N. Barry.

Tableaux, "Patriotism", was beautifully rendered by the girls from Bickell's Corners.

Last, but not least, was a Pantomime given by the ladies, contrasting the manners and costumes of fifty years ago, with those of the present day, the cards being as follows:—

"Grandmother of 50 years ago"—Mrs. J. B. Allenbrack.

"Grandmother of to-day"—Mrs. F. McWilliams.

"The Bride of 50 years ago"—Mrs. Geo. Scott.

"The Bride of to-day"—Mrs. Hawley.

"The Industrious Mother of 50 years ago"—Mrs. J. W. Stewart.

"The Industrious Mother of to-day"—Mrs. P. Allenbrack.

"The Old Maid of 50 years ago"—Mrs. Percy Scott.

"The Old Maid of to-day"—Mrs. Bertie Yeomans.

"The Milk Maid of 50 years ago"—Mrs. Chas. Histed.

"The Milk Maid of to-day"—Mrs. T. Hyland.

"The Rainy Day Shopper of 50 years ago"—Mrs. Bert Amey.

"The Rainy Day Shopper of to-day"—Mrs. Barry.

Music was rendered by Miss Helen Williams during the pantomime.

Immediately following a "Mock Ladies' Aid Meeting" was held and attended by all the above ladies. The president, Mrs. D. K. Saul, conducted the meeting, which was opened by the singing of "We're here because we're here". The rather peculiar minutes of last meeting were given by the secretary, Miss Grace Gallagher, and were approved of. The business was then brought on and the motions, which were moved and carried, were also of a very grotesque nature and furnished plenty of humour for the audience. Auld Lang Syne closed the meeting.

"God Save the King".

The Ladies' Aid appreciated very much the assistance of all who helped in the programme and financially. The proceeds of the evening amounted to about $64.00.

Worms in children, if they be not allowed to, cause convulsions, and often death. Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator will protect the children from these distressing affections.

Mothers Praise Baby's Own Tablets

Mrs. L. M. Brown, Walton, N.S., says:—"I cannot recommend Baby's Own Tablets too highly. I have found them invaluable for the ailments of little ones." Mrs. Brown's testimony is the same as that of thousands of other mothers who have used the Tablets. To use them once is a sure guarantee that they will always be kept in the home as long as there are babies or young children to be cared for. The Tablets are a laxative — mild, but thorough in action—which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels, relieve constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and make the dreaded teething period easy. In fact you banish all the minor ills from which little ones suffer. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

SUN LIFE ANNUAL STATEMENT

An Outstanding Report

The Sun Life Assurance Company of Canada continues to eclipse its own records. At the annual meeting held in 1927 which has just been held in Montreal, President H. B. Macaulay was able to report that the total business in force has augmented to $265,889,000 at the end of 1926—only two companies of assurances in force now exceed a quarter billions of dollars.

Sun Life has become much the greatest Canadian company of the leading Life Insurance companies of the world. Its record of protecting whether on its own record or with assurance of the Dominion's business at a premium is greater than the entire business held by the Sun Life at the end of the war. It has now in force more than the total business in all Canada, Newfoundland, Canadian and foreign companies, was declared at the end of the year. The total assurance secured during the year was $42,000,000 or 17 per cent in excess of any Life insurance for the United States.

Along with this great business, the assets of the company increased during the twelve months by $42,195,000, the total to $245,251,000. The assets have multiplied five times in twelve years.

This strikingly successful investment is reflected in an analysis of the Government valuation of the Company's assets, which further increase in the value of the Company's assets to the extent of nearly $7,000,000 so that the profit of $1,700,000 has been reduced by the redemption of depreciated investments and other adjustments had risen to high percentage rate earned on the mean shareholders' funds for the year rose to the phenomenal figure of 6.69 per cent, being contributed to by dividend, bonus, annuities and other profits granted on the Company's holdings.

From the total surplus earned during the year, $20,457,077, the Company has made large and prudent appropriations. After making these allocations, which add substantially to the unavailable security of the Company, an addition of $5,715,564 has been added to undivided profits, bringing the total surplus over all liabilities, contingencies, reserves and capital stock to $34,011,565.

Perhaps, however, of the greatest interest to the public are those relating particularly to benefits to policyholders. During the year profits amounting to $9,235,526 were paid or allotted to policyholders. This amount, being eight times in excess of the amount paid out ten years ago. For six years past increases in profits to policyholders have been announced, resulting in a doubling of the profits scale during that period. For the seventh successive time a further increase is announced. The great total of $38,576,453 has been paid out during the year in respect of death claims, matured endowments, etc., bringing the total so paid since organization to $257,816,174.

The high rate of interest earned enables the Company to distribute profits on the assumption of 5½ per cent per annum being earned on the Reserves. The same rate of interest is being allotted to beneficiaries on the proceeds of matured endowments and death claims left with the Company. In this way again, policyholders are participating in the great prosperity of the Company.

Not the least gratifying portion of the report is the fine showing of business written within the Dominion. There again a new record is established for Canada in a massive aggregate of $102,000,000 of paid assurances.

The Sun Life Company is as old as the Dominion. But it has greater interests in Canada right than that. It is to-day one of the foremost of the small group of great Canadian financial institutions which are making Canada famous.

Many have been relieved of corns by Holloway's Corn Remover. It has a power of its own that will be found effective.

LENS

Owing to the fine winter we are having, the farmers will have record piles of wood this winter, Geo. Hyland and Adam Fingland having the most. —Lens is fast coming to the front as a shipping point. In 1926 Messrs. Hannah and Fingland shipped from here 7,378 logs and 2261 calves, besides 32 carloads of cattle.—Our crack shot, Alex. Obleman, has been brand that name again. On February 2nd, a couple of hawks were seen flying at an immense height, just north of Lens and Adam Fingland having the most. —Lens is fast coming to the front as a shipping point. In 1926 Messrs. Hannah and Fingland shipped from here 7,378 logs and 2261 calves, besides 32 carloads of cattle.—Our crack birds crossed. Alex. opened fire and the hawks both came to the ground about 100 feet apart. Naturally the people witnessed this remarkable shot. Messrs. Robert King, Johnston Hannah and Adam Fingland were there among the spectators, agree that the distance could have been no less than one-half mile. Mr. Obleman is having both birds mounted. Messrs. Jacob Dougle and Geo. McGill are loaded a car of salt last week for Centreville cheese factory.—Rev. Mr. Thornley, of Tamworth, called at Geo. Hyland's, last Thursday.—Nathan Wagar has the contract for supplying our school with wood for 1927.—Robt. Wilson spent Friday last in Tamworth.

CAMDEN EAST

The oyster supper, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, was a decided success. — The Orangemen held their annual banquet on Tuesday evening, with a good crowd in attendance.—Mr. Percy Histed returned to Buffalo, N.Y., to resume his duty as railroad operator, after spending two months with his wife and family.—Mrs. B. Clone and daughter, Annie, spent a few days with her father, Mr. George Black, and attended the oyster supper. — Mr. and Mrs. Amey spent an afternoon with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Hyland, Bickenell's Corners.—Mr. R. Glover is visiting his brother and sister, Mrs. B. Young, and other friends.—Mr. and Mrs. C. Histed and Mrs. M. McWilliams also Mr. and Mrs. G. Jeffrey and baby, were entertained to tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. Stewart.—Mr. and Mrs. J. Yeomans spent a few days with their daughter, Mrs. Saundercock, at Collins Bay. — The farmers are busy drawing logs and sand to build in the spring. — Mrs. Mary Perry spent a day recently in Napanee.

DORLAND

Despite the scarcity of snow, the usual amount of ballast is being banked on the roads in readiness, to be spread in the spring.—A team belonging to H. W. Gallagher, became frightened in the gravel pit last week and ran away. One came in contact with a tree breaking its shoulder and had to be shot.—Mr. and Mrs. A. Patten entertained the Y. P. S. to a very pleasant time on Thursday evening.—The Ladies' Aid W. M. S. met at Mr. Carr's, on Wednesday afternoon.—Miss Margaret Mayer has returned, after spending a week with her sister, Mrs. F. Vanness, Enterprise.—A Roy Johnston is moving on his farm recently purchased from Robert Milling.

Cause of Fatigue.

A man who has made a study of the causes of fatigue declared that people get tired not because the work involves muscular effort, but because they remain id one position all day. Thus the woman who has to be on her feet at housework all day is tired—but not more so than the office woman who has to sit at a desk all day. It is the confining position without change or relaxation that makes fatigue more than laborious effort.

He Had Reformed.

Charles was known as a scrapper by all his playmates and could whip any boy in his neighborhood. Finally a new family moved to town whose boy was about his own age. Charles tackled him and received a good whipping at his hands. He went home crying, and the next day announced to his playmates: "I want you all to understand that from this time on I'm an unscraper."

Old Bell Splendidly Preserved.

In an old graveyard in County Antrim, Ireland, a farmer, while plowing, unearthed a bronze church bell weighing more than 160 lbs., and believed to be over 300 years old. The bell is in a splendid state of preservation, with a clear, powerful tone. The old Kirkmoyle parish church, where the find was made, has been in ruins since 1622.

Beginning of Great Things.

1816, on the 7th of September, the Frontenac, the first steamboat on the Great Lakes, was launched at Ernestown, Canada, on Lake Ontario. The Frontenac was built at a cost of $75,000. She was a stern wheeler of 700 tons and 170 feet deck length. For ten years she was in passenger service between Kingston and Niagara.

Trial by Jury.

The establishment of trial by jury dates back prior to the time of Alfred the Great. He is said to have organized juries of 12 men, as now in practice, in the early part of the Welsh and the Anglo-Saxon freemen acted as a jury when there was a dispute between Welsh and Saxons.

Just Dawned on Her.

Hazel had suffered several mishaps during the day and was making a fuss, but Grandpa she fell down the front steps and bumped her head. She sat up and rubbed the injured spot, evidently renewing in her mind the day's misfortunes, for she burst out: "Well, I seem to be out of bad luck today!"

"Eureka!"

Eureka, or more correctly heureka, is an exclamation meaning "I have found it." It was uttered by Archimedes some 17 centuries ago when he discovered how to find whether the king's gold crown had been alloyed with silver.

Corroboration.

Little Dick, to visitor—"Have you really left all your songs at home, Mr. Hobson?" Visitor—"Yes, Dick, but why do you keep asking the same question?" Little Dick—"Cos mummy says it's too good to be true."

A Freak of Fortune

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1925, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"A penny for your thoughts, Wilbur," spoke pretty Erna Barton, and the somber face of Wilbur Gray, who, dancing a mood of profound abstraction, brightened up magically, as it always did when this charming girl was beside him.

"Am I sure of the compensation offered?" challenged the young man lightly.

"There!" and Erna pressed an old battered copper coin into his hand. "How confess, sir! Not only do I reward you with the conventional penny, but I present what may be a rare coin."

"So rare and old that its inscription is fairly indecipherable," replied Wilbur. "It seems to wear the green and grime of the centuries."

"I found it among a lot of relics of the olden, olden time that poor dear grandfather so cherished," explained Erna. "He also left some old pieces of delftware and ancient firearms.

"I shall keep the coin always, Erna," said Wilbur. "I hope it will be a guardian of good fortune."

"But what about the pay?" inquired Erna, archly. "I bought your thoughts —what were they?"

"Well, Erna," answered Wilbur, his glance softening and replete with sentiment, "I was thinking how dearly I loved you when I came home for the holiday vacation."

Erna's fair golden head dropped, but she drew nearer to him on the porch seat.

"And how much more I love you now," continued Wilbur seriously. "And when I come home next summer I hope I can add to it all by asking you to become my wife."

"I hope so," said Erna spontaneously, lifting her clear, honest eyes to his own, "but you must not think of that until your are sure that little Eva and I will not be a burden to you. All grandfather has left us is this little place, and some money is owing on that."

"I hope to be able to clear up everything that more," spoke Wilbur confidently. "Send your sweet, best wishes after me when I go back to work in the city, that I may find some way of earning more money than I do now."

"Be patient, dear," soothed Erna encouragingly. "Our ship is sure to come in some day, and it will be the more precious for the waiting."

Wilbur was employed in a brokerage office. Opportunity came to him through this business connection of making money, but he had no capital to invest. About two weeks after his return to the city a close friend, Paul Warfield, dropped into his room at his boarding house.

"I wish I had a thousand dollars, Wilbur," he said. "I've got a tip that would make me a fortune in a month."

Wilbur smiled incredulously. He had always kept away from tips and speculative propositions generally, and, besides, he realized that Warfield was a good deal of a dreamer.

"Don't laugh at me, Wilbur," said Paul. "This is no wild fantasy, but a sure thing."

"Some stock on the boom, eh?"

"Nothing of the sort. It's a sure prospect, with a sound, substantial basis. It's land—land that never decays, never burns up, never wears out. Wall street can't play with it."

"Land with a gold mine on it, I suppose?" intimated Wilbur quizzically.

"No, Wilbur, it's an eight-acre strip and last week on the next forty a prospector made a strike. He sealed the well and is trying to keep his discovery quiet until he can interest some capitalist to buy up all the other land in the vicinity. The very choicest is the piece I have a chance to buy. My old aunt is willing to invest half of the money required. Couldn't you raise the other five hundred in some way, Wilbur?"

"Oh, yes, sure; certainly!" derided Wilbur. "See," and he emptied his pocket of the few coins in held, "I'm only two known!" he fairly shouted. "The other is in the British museum. I have an offer of six hundred dollars."

"Take it!" cried Wilbur impulsively, "and use five hundred dollars of it for your wonderful speculation."

Which turned out just as Paul had predicted. There was a later division of twenty thousand dollars' profits, and Wilbur Gray went back to his native village to make Erna Barton the happiest girl in the world.

$1.50 in January, $1.50 in March, but during February $1.19! A splendid opportunity to buy a guaranteed Red Rubber Hot Water Bottle, at Wallace's.

That old fashioned Horehound Twist at Hooper's Drug Store.

LAUGH.

A laugh is just like music
It freshens up the day.
It tips the peaks of life with light
And drives the clouds away.
The soul grows glad that hears it
And feels its courage strong.
A laugh is just like sunshine
For cheering folks along.

THE ORDER OF DRUIDS

Has a Membership of One Hundred and Sixty Thousand.

To be a Druid links one with the times of Queen Elizabeth, when the ancient Order was revived, and claimed back, through the day of Merrie England, to old Britain, when the Druids were a sacred Order of learned men, skilled in the arts and sciences of the day, priests of religion, ministers of justice, and teachers of youth. They held the oak tree sacred and worshipped in groves of oak.

The name Druid is from the Celtic "Derw," an oak. The mistletoe they especially venerated. Further back still the Druids trace themselves, as will be seen from the following extracts from the ritual of initiation.

The Noble Arch—the equivalent of the Worshipful Master of the Freemasons and the Worthy Primo of the Buffaloes—says to the newly-admitted brother, after exhorting him never to disgrace the noble Order:

"It now remains for me to inform you of the nature and antiquity of our Order, which is the most ancient under Heaven, and may be traced back to the antediluvian world; but we do not consider it necessary to go any further back than Japheth, the son of Noah, who was the father of Goer and Magog. These two brothers travelled from Asia to Europe; inhabited this island, whose priests and governors were denominated Druids."

The "charge" then explains the purpose of the mistletoe: "When feuds arose in the plains among the Britons, the Druids flew to the place with the mistletoe, and so sure as the man of prayer appeared each Briton threw down his weapon."

There are other interesting references. Only youths of noble birth were admitted to the Order, and that after twenty years' study of the mysteries.

"They were acquainted with astronomy, philosophy, mathematics, and every science. They could raise a massive stone—a reference to Stonehenge, apparently—"and, since it in such a manner as is not in our power by any known machinery to-day." They likewise had a knowledge of the Creator. The Christmas holly, the origin of the Druids' name by is now carried in our houses on Christmas Day."

It would seem, therefore, that it is to the ancient Druids that we are indebted for two Christmas emblems of mistletoe and holly! Alas, the Druids fell foul of the invading Romans and were ultimately massacred in the Isle of Mona.

So much for the remote past. Since the Order was revived in Elizabeth's time it has played a big part in village life. Its lodges were centres of fraternal association, with conviviality and philanthropy in happy combination. Its ritual—it is a secret society, of course—is elaborate and picturesque, as can be judged from the procession, wherein figured tylers with swords, wands, a cross, a Bible, a compass, square, hour-glass, scythe, skull and bones, urn, a crooked sword, and so on.

To-day the Ancient and Honorable Friendly Society — it sprang from the Ancient Order of Druids founded in London in 1781 and still existing as a purely social and benevolent institution—is doing excellent work. Its membership is 160,000.

TEACHING LAND SNAILS.

Two American Psychologists Spent Five Months Training Snail.

Fresh water snails have already been the subject of experimental psychology, but now we have the first record of the land snail being used in this connection.

Two American psychologists of the University of Denver spent five months in training a land snail to walk in a certain direction in a T-shaped glass maze.

The apparatus was provided with electric wires with which to punish the snail if it went to the left and instead of to the right. An electric light was then turned on to rouse the snail to activity, and the time it took to reach the other end of the right arm was noted with a stop watch.

The time taken at first varied considerably and reached 2.424 seconds in one case. After the first seven days, however, it never exceeded 763 seconds, and after the thirty-second day the longest time taken was less than 30 seconds. many of the recorded times being between 200 and 200 seconds. From these results the psychologists conclude that the land snail has a definite capacity for learning.

"Showers of Blood."

France recently experienced a storm, the remarkable feature of which were "showers of blood." The Journal des Debats, Herault, Perpignan, and Toulon the rain was blood-red. At Aix and Arles a yellow shower and at Hyeres and black rain.

All these showers are said to have been due to similar cause, the presence of black, yellow, and red dust in the rain-drops. Examination proved that the dust came from the sands of the Sahara, though on former occasions it has had its origin in the deserts of South America.

During the past century there have been about half-a-dozen cases of colored showers. The most recent was in 1907.

Playing a Piano.

Often applying 2,000 pounds of pressure to the keys in a minute, a pianist in the same time reads 2,500 signs and makes 2,000 finger movements.

"Well, I'se a 'Publican kase dey done gib us a pertective tariff," explained Pete contentedly. "And now you, Sam."

"Boss," said Sam, shifting from one foot to the other and scratching his head; "boss, I'se a 'Publican kase I would if I could."

"And he got it!"

Listen!

Have you heard about Pepsi? Pepsi is a scientific preparation put up in pastille form, which invades an entirely new and effective treatment for coughs, colds, chest and throat troubles. Pepsi contains certain medicinal ingredients, which, when placed upon the tongue, immediately turn into vapor, and are inhaled down the air passages of the lungs. This vapor, thus inhaled, soothe the inflamed and irritated membranes of the bronchial tubes, the delicate cells of the air passages, and finally clear and carry relief direct to the lungs.

While a liquid could not get to the lungs through the air passages, these pastilles do get there direct, and their influence is immediate.

Dr. Solandt to Visit Historical Society.
Dr. Solandt, of Toronto, who is Associate Manager of the United Church Publishing House, was Manager of the Presbyterian Publications before the union. He is to speak before the Historical Society, Napanee, on February 25th, on "The Intellectual and Spiritual Backgrounds of our National Life". In his capacity as the head of a great publishing concern, he has peculiar opportunities of observing conditions and tendencies. This, combined with a very popular and pleasing delivery makes him a very acceptable speaker.

Napanee Poultry Association.
At a special meeting of the Napanee Poultry Association held in the Agricultural Rooms, on the 9th inst., considerable progress was made on a program for 1927. Besides making arrangements for the annual banquet to be held on the 2nd of March, it was decided to have the Canadian Poultry Review, a magazine devoted to Poultry, delivered monthly to each member. A grant of $50.00 was made to the Poultry Department of the Lennox and Addington County Fair.

Wedding Anniversary.
The home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Russell, Petry Hill, was the scene of a delightful function on Friday evening last, it being the 25th anniversary of their wedding day. Friends and relatives were present from Napanee, Selby, Emjoy Hill, Kingston, and other points, and during the course of the evening a handsome silver sandwich basket was presented to the bride and groom of twenty-five years, who were dressed in their wedding clothes for the occasion. After the usual felicitations, the evening was wiled away in games, music, etc., after which a dainty lunch was served.

Special Educational Swine Course
This Course Open to seven junior farmers from each County in Eastern Ontario, will be held at the Wm. Davies Packing Plant, Mill St., Montreal, on March 1st, 2nd and 3rd. It affords an excellent opportunity to study swine marketing. Good prizes are offered for competitions in hog grading and judging live hogs and carcasses. A trip of inspection through the packing plants will reveal every operation from the time the hogs are weighed in until the sides are ready for shipment. Anyone desiring to be a member of the Lennox and Addington team should apply to L. Laughland for further information regarding special railway rates and accommodation at Montreal. 7a

Dr. Morden Speaks At Rotary Club.
The Napanee Rotary Club held their weekly lunch on Tuesday, and a full attendance was registered. Plans for attending the District Rotary Convention in April were discussed. Dr. G. W. Morden, who is soon to leave for England to engage in industrial chemical work, was the guest of the Club. Dr. Morden gave a very interesting address on the Cellulose Acetate Industry. He described the processes by which this chemical substance was made during the war from pure cotton and concentrated acetic acid, and told about its use as a material for treating the wings of aeroplanes to give them strength and rigidity. He also stated that since the war other commercial uses have been found for this material, and explained how it is made into non-inflammable motion picture films and also into artificial silk. Samples of both these products were exhibited to the gathering and examined by the members with a great deal of interest.

HOCKEY
Kingston 4, Napanee 2.
In one of the hardest fought games that has ever been played in the Napanee Arena, Napanee suffered their second defeat of the season, when they were beaten by Kingston C. H. A. Intermediates, by a score of 4-3.
It was a thrilling game, and the excitement at times was intense, the result being in doubt until the final gong. Kingston presented one of the strongest line-ups that has ever appeared before a Napanee audience. It was no junior team and the fans who have been clamoring for stronger teams, must have been satisfied with the strength of the visitors. Brooks, Chummy Lawlor, Panet, Eddie Watts, Muchmore Boyd and Watts are good enough for any team in this district, and Napanee were just as good as they were. In fact, Napanee had the best of the play, and only hard luck around the nets and the sensational work of Brooks in goal, they would have been winners.
Napanee were two goals up on Kingston at one stage of the game, but Kingston scored in the last period to have a one goal advantage. Napanee again tied it up and it looked for a time like an overtime game. Freddie Bentley made one grievous error in the final minutes of the game when he took the puck out in front of his own goal and was checked by a Kingston man, who put the game on ice with a flip shot from in front of Napanee's blue line. It was a slip on Bartley's part, but he cannot be blamed for the defeat as he played stellar hockey during the entire game.
There was only a fair crowd in attendance and it is a crying shame that the fans are not more appreciative. Napanee has one of the best teams that has represented the town in years, and the players are a real credit to the town. Thane Anne Kingston team has been engaged for a return game in Napanee on Friday, Feb. 25th. It is to be hoped that there are no other counter attractions and a bumper house greet the boys. It costs money to operate a team and when they only obtain gates of $60.00, with visiting team's expenses of $60.50, and incidental expenses, it is easily seen that the Napanee Hockey Club are losing money every time they step on the ice. Such a condition should not exist.
Napanee were first to score near the last of the initial period on a scramble from in front of goal, and just before the period closed, they made it No. 2. In the second period, Kingston evened up the count. Napanee had the handiest kind of luck in this period, but could not get the desired goal. On a couple of occasions the puck lay right in front of Kingston's goal and only a dive was necessary to score, but there were too many sticks and legs in the way.
Kingston scored in the third period, but fought right back and evened it up, and they kept forcing the play all the time. With only three minutes to go, Bentley made the mistake of coming across in front of his own goal and Kingston scored. Napanee sent every man up on the forward line in an attempt to even up the count, but it was impossible, Brooks staving off the belated rally.
All the Napanee players played good hockey and they gave all they had. For Kingston Chummy Lawlor and Panet were best. Frank Bellringer, of Kingston, handled the bell and kept the game clean at all times.
Following is the line-up :—
Kingston—Goal, Brooks; defense, Panet and Watts; centre, Lawlor; wings, Boyd and Dugal; subs, Watts and Muchmore.
Napanee—Goal, Powell; defense, Naphin and Bentley; centre, Kirby; wings, Johnston and Wilson; subs, Shoemaker, Stein and Skitch.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR.

Dear Mr. Editor,—I wish through the columns of your paper to correct an erroneous statement regarding myself that I find has been circulated throughout this community. It has been stated that I am to receive a certain government appointment, and therefore that I am disposing of my coal and wood business.
I beg to state that I am not interested in the appointment in question, and also that having recently erected a new up-to-date coal storage and wood yard on my railway siding on Centre street, I am in the fuel business to stay, and desire all my customers to know that I am now exclusive agent for the famous Lehigh Valley Anthracite, and they may continue to expect the same good quality and service as in the past.
Yours very truly,
WILFRED S. WILSON.

NOTED EDUCATOR COMING

Author of "Laughing Buddah" to Visit Napanee

On Sunday, March 20th, Napanee United Churches are to be visited by two outstanding leaders in the educa- tional work at home and abroad.

Dr. Stewart, the author of the "Laughing Buddah", sailed for China in the Autumn of 1902, and has the distinction of being the first member of the United Church to be definitely set apart for educational work. He is now Vice President of the West China Union University, in which two Ameri- can, two British, and our own Cana- dian Board co-operates. He is the author as well of "Chinese Culture and Christianity", and is a popular and well informed speaker.

Dr. Colin Young has given most of his life to the work of the non-Anglo Saxon in Canada. He knows as much about that problem as any man in the country, and has been at the head of this work in the Presbyterian Church, for a long time, and now oc- cupies a similar position in the United Church.

These two men will address the United Church congregations on March 20th, and will give an account of the work in which they are en- gaged.

Napanee is fortunate to secure two such outstanding leaders.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE FORM- ED AT VIOLET

Prospects indeed look very bright for the newly formed Violet Branch of the Women's Institute, which was syste- matically organized under the able management of Mrs. Jas. B. Miller, of Napanee, District President, and Mrs. A. P. Young, Bath, District Secretary, held at the home of Mrs. Ernest Wright, which presented a very pleas- ing scene, when about twenty ladies were gathered to form a branch In- stitute, on Friday, February 18th.

The afternoon opened by singing "O Canada". Then Mrs. Miller gave an interesting and thorough address on the "Institute", under the following heads, Origin, Development, Motto, Work, and Programme. Those present were in favor of organizing a branch after hearing the above mentioned paper, and hence the election of offi- cers followed.

The Executive unanimously chosen consists of Mrs. E. Wright, President; Mrs. B. Scouten, 1st Vice President; Mrs. J. M. Spafford, 2nd Vice Presi- dent; Miss M. Hannah, Secretary- Treasurer; Mrs. Ross Hogle, Pianist; Mrs. J. N. McCormick, Press Reporter; Mrs. J. A. McCormick and Mrs. J. Mc- Donald, District Representatives. Mrs. P. Lemmon, Mrs. R. Valentine, Mrs. T. Lemmon and Mrs. Beatty, form the Lunch Committee.

Membership fees were collected. Nineteen ladies joined. It was voted to have the regular meeting the first Tuesday of each month at 2 p.m. Mrs. Jas. A. McCormick has kindly of- fered her home for the first meeting on March 3rd.

The meeting closed by singing the Ode, followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison, after which Mrs. Wright served a most delightful lunch. The afternoon was brought to a happy close by a vote of thanks to the District Representatives and our hostess.

Address and Presentation

The Mission Circle and friends of Miss Lillie Allenbrack gathered at the United Church Hall in Camden East, on January 26th, and presented Lillie with a beautiful bar pin and an ad- dress, which was read by Miss Helen Williams.

Dear Lillie,—As the time is drawing near when you are to leave Camden East to enter upon the training for the profession of your choice, we wish to express our best wishes for your suc- cess, in the noble calling of minister- ing to the sick and suffering. We pray that God's blessing will rest upon you, that you may have health for the strenuous demands, spiritual strength when trying circumstances arise, and a vivid consciousness of the truth of the brother's words, "It is much as ye did it unto one of the least of these, my brethren, ye did it unto me". We thank you from the Mission Circle, and the social life of our village. Your happy face will be brightening some other corner. Your course will be watched with interest by your many friends in Camden East, who ask you to accept this pin, as a slight token of their good wishes.

Signed on behalf of the Mission Circle.

Lillie replied in her usual way, and thanked all her friends for the gift.

After the address and presentation, lunch was served, and a most enjoy- able evening was spent.

DORLAND

Winter has suddenly returned, and runners have once more taken the place of wheels.—A. C. Davis met with a loss on Saturday, when one of his horses died while hauling a load of logs to Deseronto.—Mrs. Edwin Ma- gee, who has been ill with flu, is now convalescent.—Mr. J. B. Allison is confin- ed to his home by illness.—Mr. Frank Hart had the misfortune to fall from the hay mow on Monday, and break his arm.—Everyone will be glad to see Mr. Stainton in the pulpit again next Sunday.—Mr. R. Bristow and family have moved to J. Mack's farm.

A man rang the bell one evening at a private house, when a servant ap- peared at the door. "I want to see Mr. Jones, the solicitor."

"He sees no clients here."

"He'll see me; tell him it's private."

The solicitor eventually appeared in the passage. "What do you want? I am just at dinner."

"What is your charge for writing a letter?"

"Six and eight."

"I thought it was. I only asked to settle a bet. Good night."

THE BEAVER SANTA CLAUS FUND FINAL REPORT

The Beaver is pleased to submit to the public the complete statement of the receipts and disbursements of the fund for the year 1926:

Balance, Jan. 1, 1926	$ 81.48
Receipts	344.33
	$425.81
Expenditures	$291.26
Balance	134.55
	$425.81

Audited and found correct.

W. A. GRANGE.

In all, 148 Christmas stockings were sent out to children in the town who, but for them, would have missed a visit from the children's friend. The stockings were well filled with useful gifts suited to each child, sweaters, underwear, stockings, scarves, dresses, caps and shoes. And then, of course, there were the customary Christmas candies, oranges and nuts. As far as it is possible to find out every child in Napanee was cared for during the holi- day season.

In addition to that the Santa Claus Fund provided a Christmas dinner to 62 families. The provisions for this were bought in town, packed in cases and distributed on Christmas eve. To those who have plenty and to spare it is hard to com- prehend the sense of happiness and pleas- ure this act of kindness meant to these 62 families. Including the children, 250 individuals were provided for by this fund.

The following is a list of the pro- visions purchased and distributed:

Meat, 350 pounds.
Potatoes, 60 peck.
Tea, 30 pounds.
Flour, 210 pounds.
Butter, 38 pounds.
Sugar, 215.00.
Beans, 120 pounds.
Onions, 30 pecks.
Cabbage, 100 head.
Tomatoes, 60 cans.
Corn, 60 cans.
Candies, 45 pounds.
Nuts, 40 pounds.
Oranges, 14 dozen.
Mincemeat, 62 pounds.
Stockings, 148 pair.
Sweaters, 15.
Mitts, 4 dozen pairs.

The Beaver is pleased to present this report, and to express its appreciation of the co-operation of all in the com- munity in this enterprise. To each in- dividual or merchant who contributed, to each lodge, organization or com- mittee which, either by money or by labor, assisted, and particularly to the ladies, who planned and surveyed the purchased and prepared for gifts of the stockings, The Beaver expresses its appreciation and gratitude.

The Beaver was Council, who bore the large share of the work, will con- tinue its activities throughout the rest of the winter, taking care of the chil- dren in the town who are not well provided for. Each Monday afternoon the Council meets in the Town Hall and works on clothing for these chil- dren. There always is need for cloth- ing of all sorts, and The Beaver appeals for contributions for gifts of this sort. What is particularly needed is warm underwear. It can be mended if it is old, but it must be clean and warm.

The Beaver has authorized the Council to draw on the balance still to the credit of the Santa Claus Fund in case of extreme need.

OBITUARY

Wm. Kerr

A highly prosperous and well known farmer died at the 8th Concession of Richmond, on Tuesday, February 8th, 1927, in his 69th year, in the person of William Kerr. Born in the Township of Hungerford, and lived there all his life until twenty-three years ago when he purchased the Dewitt farm, where he died.

Mr. Kerr was a life long Conserva- tive, an Orangeman, and an Anglican in religion. He was a very active man until a few years ago, when he was in an automobile accident, and has not been in his usual good health since then, although he continued to man- age the farm, and took up a keen in- terest in politics, and in religious work in the locality in which he lived.

The funeral service, conducted by the Rev. Mr. Wilson, was held in Forest Mills cemetery in Napanee. A very large number of relatives and friends, from Hungerford, together with his neighbours, attended the fun- eral, and showed the esteem in which the deceased was held.

He leaves a widow, who was Mary Ann Dewitt, one son, Ernest, a farmer at Forest Mills, and Miss Freda, at home, and one grandchild. A daugh- ter, Mrs. Jessie Mills, and one sister, Mrs. John Embury, of Thomas- burgh.—Belleville papers please copy.

COLEBROOK

The Ladies' Aid intend holding their annual oyster supper at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. F. Purcell, on Thurs- day evening.—Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Bur- ns entertained friends at Bath recently. —Our teacher, Miss Alkenbrack, spent the week end in Toronto.—Mr. Allan Riddell, who has been indisposed for a few days, is able to be around again.— Mrs. Lee has returned home, after visiting her mother in Belleville.—Mr. and Mrs. Tom Freeman, of Yarker- Mr. and Mrs. Ira Salisbury and Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot C. Shangrow, of Bath, spent Sunday last with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Baker, of Moscow, on Friday evening.—Mrs. Wm. Jackson is visiting her daughter, Mrs. N. N. Sut- ton, Toronto.—Our barber, Mr. Harold Lee, who recently underwent an oper- ation at Kingston General Hospital, is home, and able to attend to business again.

Wills—They say Smith's wife com- mands in the family.

Gills—No, he respects her com- mands.

TRINITY CHURCH INVITES REV. HARRY PAWSON

At a congregational meeting of Trinity Church, held on Wednesday evening, a unanimous invitation was extended to Rev. Harry Pawson, of Dixie, Ontario, to become their minis- ter to succeed Rev. W. R. Tassie, who will be leaving in July for Cobourg.

The Official Board of Trinity Church in its Pulpit Supply Committee, has made a very extended and exhaustive search for a new minister who would meet the needs of the congregation in spiritual leadership. Their unanimous finding and endorsement of the congrega- tion is that in Rev. Harry Pawson they have one who is eminently fitted for the position.

Mr. Pawson is a native of Earby, Yorkshire, who after a splendid train- ing as a probationer for the Wesleyan ministry in the old land, responded to the call for ministers in Canada. After two years on Mission fields in New Ontario, he attended Victoria College and completed his theological training. While attending College, Mr. Pawson was student pastor of Oakwood Ave- nue Church under the superintendency of Rev. Peter Bryce. Immediately upon his ordination after completing his College course, he was called to be the settled Pastor of the church over which he had been student pastor. His next charges were Cooksville and Inglewood, and then Dixie, which is part of the old Cooksville charge. So in reality, Mr. Pawson is now complet- ing a six years' ministry at Dixie.

Amongst those who know him best, the minister-elect of Trinity Church is recognized as a young preacher of pe- culiarly fine literary ability, of high ideals, and a very attractive person- ality.

CAMDEN EAST

The recent mild weather which we have all been enjoying, took a sudden change on Sunday, and Monday there was so much snow our roadmasters had to get out with snowplows and open the roads.—The recent oyster supper, given in the United Church Hall, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid, where the ladies demonstrat- ed fifty years ago and to-day, was out- lined in the issue of Feb. 18th. Please note that the lady deserving the most credit for her talent and interpetic in- fluence and labour was omitted. This lady is Mrs. George Black, who com- posed the whole play. She is now composing another play which will be better, if possible, than the one just given. This omission was not blam- able to our correspondent who re- frains from the habitual criticism of such.—Mr. Archie Hinch and Mr. Jim Dewey are home from the United States, where they have been em- ployed in a paper mill, which is now shut down.—Rev. T. H. P. Anderson is holding Evangelistic services each evening of this week, in the United Church.—Mr. Jeffrey has installed a new gasoline engine.—Mr. John Mc- Garvey has purchased a new Victrola.— Mrs. Hall, of Point aux Mines, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Florence Boulton.—Mr. and Mrs. Somerley, Bicknell's Corners, spent a day recently with Mr. and Mrs. J. Carscallen.—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Gra- ham entertained Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Histed to dinner on Tuesday, it being the occa- sion of the latter son's birthday.—Mrs. W. Stewart spent a few days recently with Mrs. Edith Allenbrack, Bethel St.—There are a few in our village sick with colds. We hope to see them all better soon.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

Next Sunday being the last Sunday of the month, our service would or- dinarily be at Marlbank in the even- ing, but in order to avoid a long drive after night, the service will be in the morning. The sermon subject will be at Marlbank and Reidville, "Following the Gleam", and at Tamworth in the evening, "An Illustrated Talk on Our Missionary Work in China".—The minister made an unsuccessful trip in motor through the storm to Marlbank for the morning service on Sunday. When two miles out he turned and made it back to Tam- worth in time for Sunday School.—Mr. and Mrs. Ira Miller motored to Reidville for the afternoon service, but held service in the evening at Tam- worth.—We hope to be able to have the "Illustrated Talk on Our Missions in China" on Monday evening, and Marlbank on Tuesday evening. It will depend on the condi- tion of the roads and we hope able to secure enough car batteries to run the lantern.

BETHEL

Mr. J. W. Stewart and family spent Tuesday evening at Perry Alken- brack's.—Mr. Clarence Allen is busy sawing wood.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank Dixon are spending a limited time at Jas. Sewell's, Bicknell's Corners.—Mrs. Al Clark spent Thursday last week with her friend, Mrs. Levi Salis- bury.—Mr. Carmen Salisbury has re- turned, after an absence of two years, and is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Salisbury.—We are having good winter weather at time of writ- ing.—Mrs. J. W. Stewart spent last week with her friend, Mrs. J. B. Al- kenbrack.—Mr. and Mrs. Levi Salis- bury took tea on Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Percy Allenbrack.—Miss Hill, of God- frey, is with her sister, Mrs. Ed. Mc- Knight.—Mr. Wilbur Benn spent last Saturday in Napanee.—A number from here attended the dance in Cam- den East, on Thursday night, and re- port an enjoyable time.—Mr. and Mrs. P. Dwyer and Miss Jessie Hamilton spent an evening recently in Napanee. —Mr. Wm. Jackson has a radio in- stalled in his home.

NEWBURGH

Mr. and Mrs. John Farrar and children, Gladys and Arthur, who have been residents, of Newburgh for the last year and a half, left on Tues- day for their former home at Brad- ford, England. Mr. Farrar is a war veteran, having served with the Eng- lish army in France and at Egypt. Through the kindness of the Imigra- tion authorities, he has gone to his former home in England, owing to ill health. Before leaving they were pre- sented with gifts from the residents of Newburgh. On Monday evening a few of the friends called on them and made the presentation. Mr. and Mrs. Farrar thanked the donors for their gifts. Before the party dispersed "God be with you till we meet again" was sung.

The League meeting on Tuesday evening was under the direction of Dr. Mounce. Rev. T. H. P. Anderson gave an address on "The Christian's Attitude Toward War and the League of Nations". Recitations were given by Miss Wilhelmine Files, Miss Celia Paul and Miss Francis Shier.

Mr. M. Vandervoorte is on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Prink and Mr. and Mrs. Craig, of Switzerville, spent Friday with Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Wales.

Rev. C. V. Fairbairn, of Kingston, will be the Missionary Man, on Friday evening, and remain over Sunday. Services will be held on Friday, Satur- day and Sunday evenings and Sunday morning.

Rev. E. H. Lee, of Frankford, has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Bray, while conducting the services in the Methodist Hall.

Mr. Charles Carter and Mr. Frank Carter are in Kingston undergoing an operation at the Dairy School.

The Mission Band are preparing for a concert to be held on March 17th.

Miss Margaret Mitchell, of Queen's, Kingston, spent the week end at her home. She was accompanied by Miss Josephine Longmore, daughter of Dr. Bruce Longmore, of Campbellford. Miss Longmore is also a student at Queen's.

The company of the children attend- ing High School, were unable to get to school on Monday on account of the storm.

Misses A. and L. Gandier have re- turned to Toronto, after a few days' visit with their brother and a short visit at Camden East. Their many friends were delighted to see them again. They are assurred of a warm welcome in Newburgh.

Principal Gandier, of Knox College, and Mrs. Gandier were given a "send off" party, prior to their leaving for Ja- pan, China and Korea, in Toronto re- cently.

There is a brief obituary of the late Alfred McClatchie, B.A., of Belle- ville, in the New Outlook of February 23rd. This will be of interest to many old friends of Newburgh, as he formi- erly was Principal of the High School in this village. He was born in 1837.

Miss Joy Paul spent the week end at Oshawa.

Mr. Will Nugent has returned to his home, after spending part of the win- ter at Gananoque.

Mrs. Shier and Miss Francis Shier were in Napanee on Saturday and were accompanied home by Miss Helen Lucas, who remained a guest over the week end.

Mr. Bert Storring, of Detroit, was a recent guest with his sister, Mrs. W. Files.

ENLARGEMENT OF THE CHATEAU LAURIER HOTEL

THE illustration has been prepared from the architect's drawings showing the appearance of the Chateau Laurier at Ottawa when the new wing will have been added. The structural addition to the hotel will provide for another 200 rooms, making a total of 500 rooms available for guests. With the changes, banquet hall and ballroom space and other public rooms will be provided on proper scale, thus enhancing the usefulness of this fine unit of the Canadian National Railways hotel system.

In the Legislature

Toronto, Feb. 19th.—The Legislature on Thursday adopted the traditional "humble address" to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, in reply to the speech from the throne, the most remarkable incident in connection therewith being the absence of a contrary vote or voice. After a debate of 25 speeches, to which the Opposition contributed generously, in comparison with numerical strength, Russell Nesbitt's sub-amendment, wiping out W. E. Raney's little addition to the main motion, was adopted with apparent unanimity, for when Mr. Speaker called for the "Noes" not a sound was heard. The Raney amendment, seemingly harmless in wording, would have expressed a hope that the liquor control legislation should be framed "in the interests of true temperance", but the government regarded it as a want-of-confidence motion, and therefore substituted somewhat similar phraseology in the amendment from the Conservative side, in which the governor is "assured" that the control bill will be given most careful and thorough consideration.

* * * * * *

"The bill" said Premier Ferguson, in closing the debate, "will be just as great a surprise to my friends opposite, and of as high a type, as the personality of the commission named the other night. * * * Nobody that I have ever heard has said that the liquor control policy is going to eliminate all the evils. We say it is going a long piece, for many reasons. One is that the average man thinks himself respectable, even if he does want a drink of liquor, and if he can buy it openly in a respectable sort of way, he is not going to patronize a bootlegger who comes up the back alley. Secondly, if we can enforce the law that boys under 21 won't be allowed to be debauched and destroyed, we will have gone a long way, and the third and most important factor is to create a public sentiment that becomes moral convention in the province, and when you do that you have done much more than any coercive legislation. The control bill is going to improve conditions immensely, in my judgment."

* * * * * *

The debate, in which no less than a dozen members took part, last Tuesday developed no unexpected alignments in regard to the control bill, although a number of members of the Opposition gave assurance that they had no intention of opposing it for criticism's sake, and having recognized that the people on December 1st last spoke emphatically, would personally support the new law and use their influence that others should do so. J. H. Mitchell, Southwest Simcoe, took occasion to make it clear that he was not a Liberal-Progressive as described in the press immediately after the election. He explained that he had not been officially endorsed by the Progressive party, although receiving individual support from Progressives. He said he was elected as a Prohibition Liberal, and the Prime Minister remarked, "I thought all Liberals were prohibitionists." Karl Hemuth, Labor, S. Waterloo, who resumed the debate on Tuesday, informed the House that he proposed to support the Government not only on the control bill, but on "those other planks in the Conservative platform which reflected the views of the labor electors." He said, "I am prepared to do all I can to maintain them in office for three full parliamentary terms, so the government control bill can have every opportunity to succeed."

During the week, Hon. William Finlayson, Minister of Lands and Forests, introduced an important measure, which received some discussion on Friday afternoon, in regard to reforestation. Briefly, the government proposes to take over certain lands in Muskoka, Haliburton, Parry Sound, Hastings, Lennox and Addington, which have been found unsuitable for agriculture, and set up forest reserves which will become of value from a tourist standpoint, and in due time for lumbering operations. Farmers in these areas will be transferred to Ontario's fruit belt in the south, and in the bill the government takes power to reimburse these settlers for the expense of removal. In addition a much more extensive reforestation policy is planned for the older parts of Ontario as well, through the government nurseries conducted throughout the province. An interesting feature of the bill provides for creation of a forestry board of five, representing Toronto University, the governments and pulp and paper companies. This is for research purposes. The Provincial Government and McGill University have conducted some research already along commercial and chemical lines, and it is proposed to take up experimental work especially in connection with the raw material, production of pulp, etc.

In the address debate, Russell Nesbitt, Conservative, Brant, gave an interesting summary of work done toward extension of rural hydro service. He announced that 1,407 miles of line has been constructed, to serve 16,382 consumers. Construction to date has cost $2,125,760, of which the government has paid $1,461,591 by way of bonus to primary and secondary lines under the legislation passed during the Ferguson administration came in and made retroactive to 1921.

The standing committee on agriculture has got away to an unusually vigorous start, under direction of Hon. John S. Martin, and the programme laid out by the Minister calls for two meetings a week. Col. T. L. Kennedy, of Peel, was elected chairman. On Friday the session was devoted to discussion of live stock problems, the previous meeting having dealt chiefly with dairying, and particularly the cheese regulations, which were explained by George H. Barr, director of dairying. These regulations, which have now passed Cabinet council, provide for issue of first-class certificates to cheesemakers who in 1926 had 95 per cent. first or special grade cheese, and whose factories met the requirements as to efficiency and sanitation. Second class certificates will be granted makers whose percentage was not below 88. Provision is made for others to carry on for a year, and also young men entering the business, who have no record as yet. An important feature is that factory men are prohibited from accepting milk which is tainted or in rusty containers, or which has been rejected by other factories. A dairyman whose product has been rejected cannot deliver to any factory for 10 days.

Hon. Forbes Godfrey, Minister of Health, in the House on Wednesday pointed out that a wrong impression had been given by remarks of Dr. McQuibban, Northeast Wellington, with respect to the distribution of insulin. The Minister explained that insulin, which is used in treatment of diabetes, and was the discovery of Dr. Banting, is not sold, but obtained through physicians, who certify that the patient concerned is not able to pay for the supply of insulin. Dr. Godfrey reported that 7,000,000 units were distributed last year in Ontario, for which the province paid.

The Premier on Wednesday reintroduced his bill providing for Township Boards of Public School trustees, and no doubt a day will be set apart for discussion of this plan, which, while growing in favor is still somewhat controversial. As indicated in a recent circular letter from Mr. Ferguson the Minister of Education, some minor changes have been made in the original bill. Payment of an allowance to trustees is not to be obligatory, and provision is made for recognition of existing school sections as the unit to elect trustees. Where the board as a result would be unwieldy, there may be two or more boards of 10 trustees.

In reply to a question on the order paper, Premier Ferguson the other day gave particulars as to cost and estimated waterpower in connection with the St. Lawrence scheme, as furnished by the engineers of the two commissions which have reported thereon. At a banquet in the city on Thursday night, he took occasion to refer to "resurrection" by the Sifton interests of the Georgian Bay canal scheme, and the claim that those interests had sold right to waterpowers on the Ottawa River. Mr. Ferguson forecasted a determined effort by the Province of Ontario and Quebec to protect the rights of their people. He said: "That old charter had to be renewed by May 4th, and if you want to see the merriest pugilistic encounter you ever witnessed, just watch Clifford Sifton and his interests line up against these two provinces and attempt to take something that belongs to us. It would be criminal negligence on the part of the two provincial governments if they were to stand by and not move a hand to protect the rights of the people in that great waterpower. The government of Ontario deems it to be its duty to take whatever steps may be necessary to restrain anybody from depleting our assets, and to protect for the benefit of the people of the province every single asset we have."

Pain is the symptom of rheumatism that every victim recognizes, and he generally attributes the trouble to cold, damp or changeable weather. But doctors know that thin blood is a marked characteristic of the trouble. Trying to cure rheumatism while the blood remains thin and poor is an impossible task because there is nothing to build on. A tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once enriches the blood and frees it from poisonous impurities soon banishes rheumatism from the system. So long as the blood is maintained in a healthy condition the trouble will not return. This is not theory. It has been proved in hundreds of cases; here is one:—Mr. J. W. Rose, R.R. 1, Albany, P.E.I., says:—For some years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism, and although I tried a great many remedies I did not get any permanent relief. Finally I took to using Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble was located mostly in my shoulders, and at times was so bad that my right arm was almost useless. Of course I suffered much pain and great inconvenience. My attention was directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through an advertisement in our newspaper, and I decided to try them. I took the pills according to directions with the result that the rheumatism has left me, and I have never had a twinge of it since. This leads the eye of any rheumatic sufferer my advice is try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

She was one of those fussy, fidgety people who are always saying:

"I don't like the way you have been cutting my steaks," she snapped, as she ran her gloved hand over the round of beef. "You should cut them as I direct."

"What kind of a cut do you wish, madam?" asked the butcher, as he sharpened his knife.

"Why, you have been giving me high cuts and there is too much fat at the top. I want a low cut."

The butcher could stand it no longer.

"Low cut!" he protested. "Madam, you're not buying a ball gown. This is beefsteak."

It's So

The Rivals

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

Two young men met on the crowded city street and shook hands, gingerly rather than suspiciously. Each scanned the other in a fathoming sort of way, as though seeking to read his thoughts or to determine from general appearance or facial expression how the world had fared with him, for they had not met to speak for two years.

There was a sharp contrast between the two. Alden Dale, plainly but neatly dressed, suggested the student and thinker.

Garland Eyre, flashing eyed, mobile of lips, restless and erratic in his movements, suggested the typical broker, ever on the alert and under a strain. He covertly observed the suit-case, momentarily constructing a theory as to its presence. "Off on a trip. I see he remarked.

"Why, yes," replied Alden in his straightforward way. "I'm going home for a week or two."

"Wish I could arrange to do that. Believe I'll try," said Eyre, his underlying purpose camouflaged, for Alden detected the thin disguise of generality. "I'd like to loaf around the old burg for a spell. How have the fates dealt with you, Dale?"

"Pleasantly," answered Alden. "I was admitted to the bar in August and they honored me with an appointment with the Law Protective league. The compensation is only a livelihood, but it is useful work and fine legal training, and I have written a book or two, and that has helped out."

"Show you something!" bolted out Eyre, and he took a bankbook from his pocket. "That's me!"

His were all money values, as he showed the chronicle of bank balances approximating thirty thousand dollars. "Promoted the Casa Grande Realty company, you know," he said.

"Why, I read something lately in the newspaper that the company had failed," observed Alden.

"Yes, we hit a snag and they landed a receiver down on us", admitted Eyre lightly, "but we've reorganized. Money coming both ways, see? The investors have come on with a pro rata assessment, so we are still gathering in the shekels. Got to attend a meeting of the directors," he added, glancing at his watch and flashing his well-bounded hand effectively. "So good-by. I say, though, a pretty neat surplus for two years, eh?"

Alden went on his way immersed in thought. There was a strong distaste in his mind as he reflected over what Eyre had just told him. The Casa Grande Realty company, he remembered, was a fake, a get-rich-quick scheme, exploited in the public prints. "Milked dry by its exploiters," it was declared. "Two years!" The words comprised a text for some meditation. When the two young men had left their native village they were in love with Myrtle Robbins. By a queer coincidence both had decided to try their fortunes in the city, and in turn they had visited bluff, straightforward Peter Robbins and had intimated their feelings toward Myrtle.

"Hi!" said Mr. Robbins, "what you are after is to get me to allow Myrtle to keep up a correspondence with you? Plain—no. You are promising young fellows, and I wish you all kinds of luck, and Myrtle likes you both, but she is too young to think of a beau. In two years, when you have shown your business mettle, come back here.

So Alden and Eyre had to be content with that, and now the two-year period was up and the one thought in the mind of Alden was Myrtle. And Garland Eyre attended two directors' meeting, but, hurrying to his hotel, packed his grip forthwith and reached Virden one train later than Alden.

"In a showdown I feel pretty sure that old Robbins will favor my fat bank roll," he chirped complacently, and, being of the brassy, nose-shed kind, by nightfall of the next day all Virden knew of his diamonds and gaudy attire and bank roll. When that evening he called at the Robbins home it was in a big hired motorcar, and he found Peter Robbins in custody of himself and his glittering prospects for wealth. He fancied he had impressed Myrtle greatly, strebuming for the subdued manner to awe and admiration.

If he had been present during the visit of Alden the following evening, however, Eyre would not have felt so sure of himself. Father and daughter had heard of his quirk in the city, particularly of his writings. The modest young author was duly delighted when he found both Myrtle and her father familiar with the same. Before the week was out, in turn the young men called upon Mr. Robbins requesting permission to pay their addresses to Myrtle.

Alas! for the lofty aspiration of the reorganizer of Casa Grande. The morning paper announced the issuance of a fraud order against its promoters and a levy on the stockholders against all their bank funds, including Eyre's thirty thousand dollars. The latter found it judicious to return at once to the city to untangle his involved business affairs.

When Alden Dale called upon Mr. Robbins next day the latter viewed him with an approving eye.

"To help you on your way, Dale," said the old man, paternally, "I'll say that Myrtle has promised to go over the top on the wall of her room ever since you went away. If she likes you as well as she does your books your case is won and—I'm agreeable!"

The Boss—"Is it true that you leave your typewriter and go when the clock strikes five, even if you are in the middle of a word?"

The Stenog—"Certainly not! When it gets as near five as that I never begin a word at all."

1926

A Year of Achievement

As Seen by the Thirty-Eighth Annual Statement

Presented to the Policyholders and Shareholders of The Dominion Life Assurance Company at the Annual Meeting held on February 11th, for the year ended December 31st, 1926.

Business in Force	$93,879,207.00
An Increase of $12,000,000.
New Business, 1926	$23,226,076.00
An Increase of $4,000,000.00 over 1925.
Total Assets	$15,838,610.47
Total Reserves	$11,785,894.00
Premium Income, 1926	$ 3,157,312.72

Established 1889

Dominion Life interest earnings for 1926 had a high average of 6.95 per cent. on every dollar invested. The death rate experientially for the year was very low, being only 32.59 per cent. of that expected. The results of this highly favorable experience are to be seen in the still larger profits to be paid to Dominion Life policyholders during 1927.

Devoted to those ideals which have been at the very roots of Canadian progress, the company looks forward to the future as an opportunity for greater service, confident that the present era of development is full of glowing promise to the country and its people.

Terrible Eczema Goes Quickly

Strong, Powerful Yet Safe, Surgeon's Prescription Called Moone's Emerald Oil Has Astonished Physicians

There is one simple and inexpensive way to get rid of the danger of swollen veins and hideous, and get them down to normal, and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil directly over them, using the Moone's Bandage to support them during the day. People who have painful, enlarged veins should not neglect them for they sometimes burst and cause much misery and pain.

Moone's Emerald Oil besides being so marvelously antiseptic that it destroys germs and poisons caused by same, is such a remarkable healing agent that eczema, barbers' itch, salt rheum and other inflammatory skin troubles go in a few days.

For years it has been used for boils, ulcers, abscesses and open sores that discharge and with the most perfect success. Wallace's Drug Store will be glad to supply you.

St. Crispin's Day.

The 25th of October is "All Soles' Day," because it is the anniversary of St. Crispin, patron saint of shoemakers. In merrie old England St. Crispin day was one of gay festivities, in which all those in the shoemaking trade participated. The good saint is said to have been a shoemaker who made shoes for the poor out of leather supplied him by an angel, and he gave them away gratis in spite of the fact that they were manufactured from extra quality heaven-made leather, imported exclusively for his patrons.

Japanese Sport With Fireflies.

Besides being a business, firefly catching is a sport in Japan. Little girls pursue it with their fans, boys with wands to which a wisp of yarn is fastened. Nor do the elders disdain this sport. They also organize festival parties to visit certain spots, long known and famous, to witness the beautiful spectacle of the fireflies swarming. Special trains, carrying thousands of visitors, are run during the season to Uji, the most renowned, to behold the Hotaru-Kassen, or Firefly battle.

Test of Perfect Hearing.

There are rays of light which the eye cannot see, and there are sound waves which the human ear cannot catch. Ask yourself if you can hear the cry of a bat. Any person who, at the age of forty, is able to hear the thin squeak of the bat, has reason to congratulate himself on being possessed of exceptionally good hearing. The squeak is too high—it has too many vibrations per second to be heard by any ear that is not very delicate.

The old cottager addressed his dog thus "You are only a dog, but I wish I was you. When you go to bed you just turn round three times and go to sleep; when I go to bed I have to look up the place, wind the clock, put out the cat, undress myself, listen to a lecture from the missus, and carry the baby round the room half the night. Then when you wake up in the morning you just stretch yourself and you are up; I have to light the fire, put on the kettle, and get my breakfast ready. Then when you die you are dead; when I die I have to go somewhere else."

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Chorus Girl (as reported in London Opinion)—What did your people say when you announced our engagement?

Scion of Nobility—The mater exclaimed "Mad!" and the governor said the same.

The Man With Asthma almost longs for death to end his suffering. He sees ahead only years of endless torment with intervals of rest which themselves fraught with never ceasing fear of renewed attacks. Let him turn to Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy and know what complete relief it can give. Let him but use it faithfully and he will find his asthma a thing of the past.

"Dis sho' am a desultory day," remarked Rufus Lee pleasantly, lifting his weather-beaten hat and bowing to the dusky Miss Johnson.

"Law, Misto Lee," replied that lofty lady, "Ah fin' it supernaturally frigidity dis mornin'."

"Go 'long, Miss Johnsing," said the brave Mr. Lee, nonplussed, "Yo'-all am so economikal."

Externally or Internally, It Is Good.—When applied externally by boys, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil opens the pores and penetrates the muscles, touching the seat of the trouble and immediately affording relief. Administered internally, it will act like lightning in the throat which induces coughing and will relieve affections of the bronchial tubes and respiratory organs. Try it and be convinced.

Piano tuners complain that the jazz fad has ruined the public ear so that people no longer know it when their pianos need tuning. That shows how little some folks realize the opportunities thrust upon them. Most any piano tuner ought to be able to do his stuff in front of a dictagraph now and win fame and fortune as a composer.

A Household Medicine.—They that are acquainted with the sterling properties of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the treatment of many ailments would not be without it in the house. It is truly a household medicine and as it is effective in dealing with many ordinary complaints it is an inexpensive medicine. So, keep it at hand, as its call for it may come most unexpectedly.

The general manager had a reputation for laying off men whenever he found an excuse. As he appeared one day, two employees began to discuss him.

"He don't look like the man we hear he is," said one.

"What do you hear?" the other asked.

"Why they say when he was at the funeral of Flannery's wife, and the six pallbearers came out carrying the coffin, he raised his hand and said: 'Hold on, boys! You can get along without two of them!'"

She Has Used Them For Over Fifteen Years

So Says Nova Scotian Lady of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Mrs. C. H. Teed Suffered With a Bad Attack of Kidney Trouble

Wentworth Station, N.S., Feb. 24th. (Special)—"I have used Dodd's Kidney Pills for over fifteen years," writes Mrs. C. H. Teed, a well-known and highly respected resident of this place. "I had a very bad attack of kidney trouble and doctors treated me, but I found your Dodd's Kidney Pills have done more for me than all the doctors. I keep them in the house and, when not feeling just right, take a few pills. My little boy had scarlet fever and it left him with bad kidneys, which caused tremendous irritation. Thanks to your Dodd's Kidney Pills, he is quite relieved now."

Dodd's Kidney Pills are purely and simply a kidney remedy. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Lame Back and Urinary Troubles, because all of these are either kidney diseases, or are caused by kidneys failing to do their work.

The Mask of Blindness

By GERALD THORNE

(Copyright, 1918, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

She had never loved Anson Burdett in a true sense, and such a thing as becoming his wife had never entered her thoughts, yet, when misfortune came upon him, there was born in the nature of Leila Raleigh pity, mingled with mistaken duty, that amazed her mother and sisters.

"I shall make any sacrifice necessary as a friend," she told them. "If poor Anson is to go through life helpless, blind, and asks me to share his troubles I will ease him at his bidding."

"Leila, you milk wild!" scolded her sister, Adelaide. "You never really cared for Anson. He has no claim upon you. It is sheer folly."

"But I feel so sorry for him," said Leila. "He certainly paid me more attention than he did to other girls."

"And out of an impulse of sympathy you would tie yourself to a man unable to make even a living? Leila, this is all sentiment," declared her mother.

Nothing more was said at the time, but Mrs. Raleigh knew that Leila was a person who always acted upon her convictions, though neither romantic nor heroic. Intensely loyal to her friends, sympathetic and tender-hearted, Leila had exaggerated her sense of duty towards a man who had never spoken to her one word of love. A strange condition of affairs had come about. There was an athletic club in Rossmore to which nearly every young man in the town belonged. It had been started and mainly supported by Wilton Porter, who had been left quite a fortune. Burdett, too, was a member, and one day, while practicing with the Indian club, Porter lost his grasp on one of them, and it whirled through the air with terrific force. Burdett stood directly in the path of the flying missile. It landed squarely between his eyes, he went down like a shot and the shocked and horrified Porter went through twenty-four hours of crushing anxiety, remaining at the hospital whither Burdett was conveyed until the physician assured him that the patient would live. Porter's heart sank, however, as he was told that it looked as though the nerves of the eyes had been paralyzed and Anson Burdett might be blind for life.

A high caliber, sensitive young man, all the joy of life seemed to have departed for Porter. He gave up all of his time to the care of Burdett.

"Hopelessly blind, perhaps," reported an expert oculist, "although in one case I've a variety that has seen some remarkable cures, but through time alone."

In the meantime Porter had become acquainted with Leila Raleigh. From the first he was attracted by her and, although he knew that she and Burdett were friendly, he never suspected that there was any mutual affection between them.

Leila kept secret even from her mother and sisters that, while she was not as yet engaged to Burdett, there was a tacit understanding between them that some day they would marry. She, however, had become disappointed in Burdett. A position had been offered by a manufacturing concern out of sympathy for his affliction, where he could answer calls at a telephone. "I don't have to drudge," he told Leila, audaciously. "Porter has plenty of money and is acting princely about it. He took away my sight—let him pay for it."

One day Burdett called upon Leila and asked her to marry him. He told her that he had an opportunity to secure a pretty little farm in Florida, where they could enjoy life without anxiety. He asked her to think it over and give her answer the next day. That same afternoon Wilbur Porter appeared and said his piece at her feet.

"It is too late," said Leila simply, and after the disappointed suitor had gone away she hurried to her room and went all that long night, though she scarcely knew why. Burdett called upon her the next morning, irrationally eager and excited.

"We must get married at once, Leila," he said. "See," and he drew a packet of bank bills from his pocket. "There is five thousand dollars, and all ours. I am going to buy the farm at once and—"

"Why where did you get all that money?" inquired Leila.

"From Porter. I went to him last evening and told him what I wanted and he said he would do anything to make me comfortable and happy with you."

"But you can't do any work on a farm," she said.

"Oh, yes, I can. Leila, I'm going to tell you a secret. I have been able to see for over a month. I just pretended not to since then, to work this scheme on Porter."

She stood facing him, trembling from head to foot. He fairly shrieked as she denounced his petty meanness, but she told him that if he did not at once return the money to Porter she would expose him to the world. Then she told him and he, even more despicable than she had dreamed, thinking more of the money than herself, disappeared that same day with his ill-gotten gains.

The truth came out, as it was bound to, and after a while Wilbur Porter received Leila's love. It had already been his—longer before than he realized.

WHERE THE WOMAN RULES

Feminism Has Flourished In Surinam For Many Years.

If you happen to live out in the jungle of Surinam, in Dutch Guiana, on the coast of South America, you will find divorce very easy.

If the husband forces the wife all she has to do is to divorce him. Public opinion, in that remote district, is strongly in favor of divorce from a bore.

It is surprising how many modern ideas exist in this region inhabited by a tribe of 20,000 bush Negroes, pure-blooded descendants of West African slaves who rebelled against their master in Surinam in the latter years of the eighteenth century.

Feminism has been flourishing there for many years and is so far advanced that the tribes and social customs are all in the hands of women. They have almost a complete matriarchy. Women keep their family names and traditions, which are in turn handed on to their progeny.

All this we learn from Mrs. Helen Metzger Vandercook, sculptress, who returned recently from a lengthy stay in the jungle with her husband, John Vandercook, scientific writer. He made a study of the "black magic" while she studied the types for her art.

"Although the jungle woman is not officially the head of a tribe or a village, she is recognized as the head of the family," explained Mrs. Vandercook. "If a woman is the end-product of a family, its name will disappear. Daughters are more desirable than sons to preserve the line of family traditions.

"When a man marries—and he marries many times—his wife does not become a member of his family or take his name. She retains her identity and her name. The children are given her name and are the property of her family. The father has no real control over the offspring, but he is very interested in them. It is not an uncommon sight to come upon a bush Negro man seated on a low stool before his wattle house crooning a quiet chant to a restive little brown baby in his arms. When the boys are old enough to go about by themselves, the father is allowed to assume a share of their education.

"The jungle woman is so advanced in thought that her modern sisters may well marvel at her accomplishments. For she has abolished warfare and established perpetual peace.

"How have they brought about perpetual peace? By the very subtle plan of making it impossible by law for a man to hand down his power or official position to his sons. Thus they have stamped out the desire of chiefs for imperial power to remain in their family, or a hierarchy system. The women know that warfare would take men away from the fields, the crops would fail, and their home life suffer. They realize that the lust for power brings about restlessness, wars, attacks, which might in time exterminate their homes. So these primitive women of the bush have evolved a system by which they save what they love most—their domestic life. That is one reason inheritances come from the mother's side only.

"Jungle women are not interested in dress," continued Mrs. Vandercook. "They wear only a twelve-inch cloth about the waist. Men wear a loincloth. Youngsters go naked until they are 7 or 8. Then clothes. The only feminine adornments are bracelets and anklets knit out of their own hair mixed with brightly-colored shells."

WALKING-STICKS.

Forerunners Used as Weapons Before Flint Arrow-Heads Were Invented.

The forerunners of our present walking-sticks were the rude staffs used as weapons long before flint arrow-heads and such instruments were invented.

From being weapons of attack in primitive days and even in the early portion in mediaeval England, when robbers were at large, the thick staves evolved into graceful wands used to denote authority in court, church, and civil life.

"Silver Stick In Waiting," a British court appointment, is a relic of the days when the silver wand presented the sovereign.

The footmen with their staves who walked alongside the royal coach in state, processions in other reigns carried stout staves to protect the sovereign, and to assist the cumbering vehicle out of the ruts.

About a century and a half ago canes and sticks fashioned as we know them to-day became popular, although in the reign of Elizabeth only heads of families carried gold-mounted canes.

The Rats' Nocturnal Army.

An Aberdeen man, when returning home in the morning, saw what appeared to be a strange dark shadow moving over an adjoining field that was thickly covered with snow. The shadow came nearer, covered with the hedge, and creeping slowly out. Then he realized he was watching an army of rats—hundreds of them—formed in a solid mass, with the exception of one or two in advance or at the sides, which he took to be officers. The ghost-like legion merged in the darkness of the next field. Little is known of these strange rat migrations, which take place usually in the night. We know that isolated farms where the rodents have been scarce may suddenly and themselves swarming in the morning.

Spotted.

Two Englishmen were out riding in India when suddenly a native dashed out from the jungle, running for his life and hotly pursued by a gigantic leopard.

"He's making a race for it," remarked one. "I can spot the winner?"

"The winner," came the dry retort, "is spotted."

Many Have Had Spanish Settlers.

Off the coast of Queensland, Australia, are the New Hebrides islands, which some scientists believe were once occupied by the Spanish, for a little way from St. Filip's bay evidences of such occupation have been dug into from time to time, along with certain other ruins, which from the little examination they have had indicate an even more remote occupancy.

What "Cenotaph" Means.

Several readers have written asking the meaning of "cenotaph." The word is derived from the Greek words "kenos," meaning "empty," and "taphos," meaning "tomb." In other words, a cenotaph is a sepulchral monument erected in honor of a person whose body lies elsewhere. — London Tit-Bits.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Mrs. Walter Cole, who died Feb. 26th, 1926.

A silent thought, a hidden tear,
Keeps her memory ever dear.
Always so good, unselfish and kind,
Few on earth her equal we find.
Surrounded by friends we are lonesome,
In the midst of our joys we are blue;
With a smile on our faces there's a heartache,
Longing, dear Eliza, for you.

Along life's dreary way;
For life has not been the same to us
Since you were called away.

And when the evening shades are falling,
And we are all alone,
There often comes a longing
If you only could come home.

DONE IN CHALK

By EVELYN LEE

Golden, glorious summer days, they haunted the fervid imagination of Ava Thurston and she wondered if ever again the flowers would seem so lovely, the birds sing so sweetly, the skies look so bright. Would their promise of a renewal ever come true? Oh, surely so! for had not God given a lasting sign it, and was he not the soul of honor, and did he not love her?

He had revealed to her his soul's innermost secrets the last day they had wandered in the woods. He loved her, but he would not ask her to bind herself to any promise. He was simply a poor, struggling artist, he frankly told her. His chance meeting with her, the rare natural beauties of her environment had given him the inspiration of a great picture. He was going back to his city garret studio to toil for her and for fame!

Springtime had merged into summer, and now the landscape was sere, but for over two months Ava had received no word from the man she loved. Formerly every letter had breathed hope and faith in the success of his great life effort. Then there had come utter silence. The girl grew anxious, then distracted, fear filled. Was she never to see him again? Had failure, a new object of affection influenced him to forget her?

"Why do you not hear from Mr. Browning any more?" her brother, Walter, a lad of sixteen, solicitously inquired. "You know, Ava, he was surely to come to see us again."

But Ava only shook her head sadly and went away with tears in her eyes. Walter had fastened his faith irrevocably upon Browning, who had discerned prospective artistic genius in the lad. He had taken pains to direct and instruct Walter and the day he left had made him a present of a set of crayons. It had been a pleasant reminder to Ava to watch her ambitious brother with pencil and pad evenings making some quite presentable sketches of familiar home surroundings. Two pictures that he made, one of Browning from memory, and one of Ava posing for him, indicated what the former had said of him, that he possessed a natural gift for portraiture.

But Walter had been ambitious and had cherished his aspirations secretly, even from Ava. At the rear of the house was an old unused barn.

This space had become the studio of the young artist, for here he could undertake large efforts with his crayons. He had finished one or two canvases and it was his delight to view them. One rainy morning Walter crept up into the barn attic. He was surprised to find there lying upon a heap of old horse blankets a stranger. His pillow was a bundle done up in a piece of oilcloth, his attire half suggestive of the tramp. At all events he appealed to Walter as a picturesque subject for portrayal. He was fast asleep and Walter set at work at a vacant space on the side wall to reproduce him in chalk.

Walter completed the portrait entirely to his satisfaction and left the loft. He forgot all about the mysterious stranger until later in the afternoon, when he saw his father talking with a man who had driven up in an automobile with two others. All of them he recognized as town officers.

"The man got away with over fifty thousand dollars in cash and securities from the bank," the sheriff was saying as Walter came up. "He was seen later by a farmer carrying a package done up in oilcloth. We have details of his dress," and the speaker described the subject of Walter's morning portrait. "Keep a keen look-out," proceeded the official. "A reward of five thousand dollars is offered and we will divide it with anyone giving us a clue to the identity of the man."

"Suppose—suppose," burst out Walter suddenly, "you could see a picture of the man, would that mean anything to you?"

"Would it be anything to us?" repeated the sheriff excitedly. "Why! that would be all we need."

"And if I can show you such a picture, do I get half the reward?"

"If it leads to the arrest of the man, yes."

"Come with me," directed Walter, and as he revealed his last artistic effort he explained the circumstances of its construction.

"The rest is easy," proclaimed the sheriff jubilantly, and sped away with his men to overtake the fugitive within twenty-four hours.

It was a proud moment for Walter Thurston when his father was given a check for half of the reward.

"Father," he said, "will you let me have some of the money to go to the city and study art? I want to be like Browning, too. It is the only work I like to do," and there was no gainsaying the ambitious little fellow.

Ava bade him a fluttering good-by. "Write me everything," she whispered to him, and only so far expressed openly her mingled hope and dread.

But it was all hope, the news that came a week later. Norris Browning had been ill at a boarding house and amid his fever and delirium he could not be told that his famous picture had been purchased for a large sum by a wealthy art connoisseur.

"Our dear friend is better now," wrote Walter. "He talks of no one but you. And very soon you will see both of us."

Respectability is the state of never being caught doing anything which gives you pleasure.

"Wonder what movie actors do with their big salaries?"

"They out most of it in alimony, I guess."

SERGE BLOOMERS

For gymnasium wear or girls' sport wear of every description. This grade is made from exceptionally strong All Wool Serge.

Garments are well proportioned and cut with ample fullness to allow freedom.

The workmanship on these garments is exceptionally well performed. Priced $3.50 each.

Early Showing of Spring Millinery

Week end shipments from outstanding Canadian manufacturers make our present Millinery assembled most unique in variety and style. Presented are exact copies of successful Paris styles and reproductions becomingly modified. In general, Spring styles are simple—sophisticated but wonderfully feminine. Fashion is still partial to small shapes. Many head-moulding types suggest clever brims that turn up with a dash at the front. Others are daringly cut away at the back.

Much chic is "tucked" away into the newest crowns, drooping brims tell of Spring smartness, while face framing brims are softly flattering. Crochet Straws, Grosgrain Silks and Felts are fashionable fabrics and are used singly and in clever combinations.

Our group buying system has procured for us excellent values this season. We invite you to see the new styles, and the better values now on display.

Mrs. J. G. Ettinger and daughter, Miss Bessie Ettinger, and Mrs. W. C. Jenkins, of Kingston, also Russell Watts, of Elm Creek, Man., were with Mrs. Geo. Watts, on her birthday anniversary, Feb. 17th, at her daughter's, Mrs. H. J. Smith. Mrs. Ettinger and Miss Bessie remained for a few days, as did also Mr. Watts, who is a grandson of Mrs. Watts'. — Mr. Fred Rutledge and sister, Mrs. John McConnell, of Sydenham, spent Wednesday at B. L. King's. — Miss Lizzie Venton is visiting her sister, Mrs. Vernon Smith, Kingston. — Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Mohan spent a few days last week with relatives in Napanee. —Mrs. S. J. Sproule and son, Fred Sproule, spent the week-end as guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Crowe, Ernestown.—The annual at home, given by the High School on Thursday evening of last week in the Town Hall, proved to be the social event of the season. There were one hundred and eighty invitations, and the attendance was very large. The hall appeared like a fairy land with the beautiful and brilliant gowns worn by the ladies. The delicious refreshments, including ice cream, were served from elaborately decorated tables. The excellent music was furnished by the Odessa orchestra. During the first part of the evening games and cards were indulged in. The prizes for the contest were won by Thora Frink and Reta Hagerman. Mrs. J. E. Mabee, Mrs. O. Babcock and Mrs. Holmes poured tea, and Mrs. S. J. Sproule, Mrs. C. Snider and Mrs. Nelson Smith cut the ices and cakes. The prize for the lucky spot dancers was won by Miss Biddoff and Mr. McLelland. — The many friends of John Morrison were sorry to hear that he passed away last Sunday night, after a long and serious illness, although only confined to his bed for a short time. The deceased was born near here and practically all his life was spent in Odessa. He was widely and favorably known, and will be greatly missed by his relatives and friends. Besides the widow, there are left to mourn his loss, two daughters, Mrs. John Graham, Watertown, and Mrs. Harry Foster, Toronto; also one son, Frank Morrison, Toronto, fall being present awaiting the funeral), and four grandchildren. Arrangements are being made to have the funeral on Thursday afternoon.

A SILENT PROPAGANDA

By OTILLIA F. PFEIFFER

Mrs. Jason Brown lived in the show mansion of the town in Afton Terrace. Her sister, Mrs. Ernest Parks, more humbly resided in a modest little cottage in Arbor Place. The former conceived herself to be the social queen of Brampton. The latter was content to be able to clothe herself and her family respectably and pay the household bills when due.

The Browns lived high through the sufferance of Miss Althea Driscoll, their niece, and floated along on credit. All Brampton knew the circumstances of their rise in the world socially. A brother of Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Parks had died leaving a fine home and quite a fortune to an orphan daughter. He had appointed Mr. Brown executor of the estate and, on account of his sister, a very liberal compensation for his services as guardian of Althea. The sequence was that the Browns moved from modest quarters into the Driscoll mansion rent free, and were lavish in expenditures, as they all came out of the estate.

At once Mrs. Brown began to bloom forth as a devotee of fashion and society. She grouped about her a special clique, feted and feasted them and the humble Parks family, not being considered eligible for admission to the charmed circle, were practically ignored.

Not that they minded it much, for they were not of the kind that flaunted in false colors. Then, besides, they had the love and confidence of Althea. She was a bright, heartsome girl, and very soon saw through the thin veneer of her guardians. They had tried in vain to induce her to treat the Parks' people as inferiors, but nothing could spoil her. There was scarcely a day that she did not pass a part of it in the company of her favorite aunt and her little ones.

For two years Althea had been away at a select seminary, and this gave the Browns an opportunity to spread out more than ever. Their guardianship was nearly at an end, according to the terms of the will, and those who professed to know hinted that Jason Brown was growing quite reckless in his use of the Driscoll resources. One day a fine looking, gentlemanly appearing young man came to Brampton whose evident good-breeding and courteous ways commended him on sight as "an eligible" by the Brown set. It was reported that he was sent on the mission of looking up some law matters. He lived at the best hotel and had an automobile, but made the mistake of his life, as Mrs. Brown gave it out, by taking up with the Parks people. Mrs. Parks was taking the tired-out Mrs. Parks and the children out for a regular airing, he fell many degrees in the favor of the social queen of Brampton.

"A very presentable young man," observed that critical lady to her close friends," and I understand he comes from a creditable family; but we must draw the line strictly."

"Why, what do you mean?" was inquired.

"He seems to favor the Parks contingent. Of course, they are my relatives, but they do not belong in our class. Mr. Throop seems to enjoy their company and that of their kind, and I have cancelled an invitation to him to my next reception, not caring to take any risks."

"Oh, dear, no! Selectness in everything, dear Mrs. Brown," was submitted, and to others when inquiries were made concerning the newcomer, Mrs. Brown simply looked mysterious and shrugged her shoulders. This was the cue to her servile followers, and Sidney Throop was ignored purely through a systematic propaganda of silence.

"I think it your duty, Jason, to probe and resent the mysterious operations of this young man," observed Mrs. Brown to her husband. "What business he has looking into our affairs?"

"I'll give him a piece of my mind," was the rejoinder, and the next day Sidney Throop, doing some writing at a desk in his attorney's office, was confronted by Jason Brown with the words:

"I've come to find out why you are making inquiries about my private affairs."

Throop arose and closed the office door. "To save you trouble, if you must know," he answered, "I have been acting in behalf of your niece, who has authorized me to gather up information looking to a termination of your powers as administrator."

Jason Brown turned pale. "How is that your business?" he blustered.

"Just this: to make it easy for you to resign without the public being apprized of your irregularities. I must use plain words, Mr. Brown. Althea wishes to save you humiliation and disgrace."

"Althea!" ejaculated Brown.

"Exactly—my wife. We were married quietly two months since."

Mr. and Mrs. Brown left Brampton a month later for New York, where the former had been offered a very lucrative position, but the community was only partly deluded.

The Parks group were placed in charge of the old homestead and Althea and Sidney made their home with them, all hands under next day mentous circumstances, happy as the day was long.

The Boss—"Is it true that you leave your typewriter and go when the clock strikes five, even if you are in the middle of a word?"

The Stenog.—"Certainly not! When it gets as near five as that I never begin a word at all"

HIDDEN LIVES

By ALVAH J. GARTH

For a serious misstep Evan Reed served eight years in a state penal institution. He left the grim, frowning institution a chastened man. He had served an apprenticeship in the plastic art and knew how to construct plaster center pieces and stucco figures. Transferred to the marble yard, he had tried his hand at rough sculpture and naturally sought work in these kindred lines when he became a free man.

But Evan Reed had lost the impulse of harmonious contact with the great outside world. He found it impossible to evade telling where he had acquired his knowledge of the trade. Work was desultory and one day, after walking ten miles to a little inland city, weak, hungry and discouraged, he crept into a public building, fairly ill, and succumbed under a spell of faintness.

Reed came back to consciousness lying on a lounge in an office. Seated at a desk was a fine-featured, well-built man, whose general presentment suggested substantial and mental power. As Reed awakened he came to him. Upon the windows was the inscription: "John Ward, Contractor," and to all appearances he answered to this name.

"Feeling better?" he inquired, scanning Reed critically. "We found you outside there. What was it?"

"Hunger, I guess," replied Reed bluntly.

"Able to get to the restaurant downstairs?"

"With the prospect of a square meal?" and Reed smiled wanly. "I think so."

John Ward extended a bank note with the direction: "Get what you need and come back. I want to talk with you."

When Reed returned he found his almoner seated at his desk, a faraway expression upon his face. "My friend," he said, "trying to learn your identity I found a letter written by the chaplain of a prison."

"I should have shown it to you," declared Reed spontaneously.

"Tell me all of it," suggested Ward, and Reed recited his story.

"You are headed on the right path," spoke Ward. "To prove to you that I believe so I offer to employ you."

Reed held his benefactor in a species of adoration. John Ward's generosity, integrity and helpfulness to all humanity had become a household word in Weston. Pride, gratitude, love had been generated in the soul of Reed through the rare confidence this good Samaritan reposed in him.

Ward had come to Weston ten years previous with his little orphaned child, Evaline, and had steadily won his way in popular esteem. She was a young lady now and, as time went on, Reed became an occasional guest at the home of the benefactor.

He loved Evaline Ward, but never did he betray his emotions. He felt that she was far from his humble, disgraced life. Like some faithful watchdog, however, he was ever alert to guard her, to protect and further the interests of her father.

Then a strange menace came to John Ward. There appeared at Weston a man who recognized Reed as an ex-convict. He terrorized Reed by threatening to betray his past unless the latter lent himself to his unholy scheme. Reed was appalled when the soulless blackmailer proved to him that Ward himself had been a convict.

"You are to find out certain identification marks," instructed the creature, Dalton. "We will divide the price of our silence."

It was then that the old Evan Reed awoke. One evening he went to an appointment with Dalton, armed with a revolver. "I will shoot him down as I would a dog—this infamous scoundrel who would bring exposure and misery upon those I love," he firmly resolved; but heaven saved him from the guilt, for that day Dalton was crushed to death in a street accident.

The menace was removed, but a year later John Ward died. He left his affairs in charge of Reed as executor, in the latter accepted it as a holy trust, the daughter, Evaline, evincing a confidence in Reed that was almost pathetic.

Do Unto Others-

Paying your bills promptly is one of the best ways to follow the Golden Rule.

FIRST--In fairness to the merchant or professional man who has invested cash and time in the merchandise or service you have received, you should reciprocate the favor of credit by taking care of your obligations in reasonable time.

Your merchant or professional man does not require security. He demands no interest--yet he is actually loaning you cash.

SECOND--In fairness to your own good name and reputation, your bills should be paid on time.

You are granted credit according to your past record. Your character is the basis for confidence in your ability to pay.

Do your part. Pay your bills promptly. If you can't pay all at once, pay half or whatever you can, and see to it that your creditor KNOWS you are playing the game SQUARE.

That's one way we can all add to the good name of Napanee.

BAY CIRCUIT.

The people of Sand Hill Church on Hay Bay held their annual teameeting and entertainment on Thursday evening last. The musical part of the program was furnished by the Hay Bay Choir, while Miss Milling delighted the audience with her readings, and Mr. Barrett, of Napanee, acted as chairman. Every number on the programme was greatly enjoyed by the audience, which numbered about one hundred and sixty. Mr. Barrett's remarks added greatly to the enjoyment of all. The Sand Hill people are lined up to the reputation of furnishing good things to eat and a first class entertainments. We will surely take pleasure for their next anniversary.—Sunday was so stormy that all services were called off for the day, as all our roads were blocked by the snow.

The Gift of Fate

By ALVAH JORDAN GARTH

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"It's too bad!" said Lena Dawes to her husband. "Everything looks so nice except the bare floors."

"Won't they be just the thing for the dancing features of our housewarming?" questioned Norman Dawes.

"You see, I've got a good deal of pride," added Lena, "and I want to appear as cozy and comfy as possible, with so many of my old school chums coming."

"Now, don't you get worrying," consoled Norman. "If any remarks are made, just blandly inform the critics that the high cost of living wouldn't permit new furniture and rugs at the same time."

"Well, we two are happy and contented, anyway, so what does it matter if some ill-natured critic like Mrs. Parmly inspects our belongings with a magnifying glass, and says mean things about our being threadbare and shoddy, and all that? She called me that once, Norman—but I'm not shoddy, am I, dear?"

"You? Why, you're solid pure gold, my pet," cried Norman fervently, and Lena tried philosophically to subdue her vain longings. Their little new home was her idol, and she wanted to have it as perfect as possible during the coming house-warming function.

Fate seemed to enforce a reminder of that coveted parlor rug. It was about noon when footsteps sounded in the hall, and there stood a thin, black-eyed man, dark-skinned and wearing a fez and a gaudy sash. He carried a thick, folded fabric over his arm, and suggested the foreigner and traveling peddler.

"Oman Kluva It is, lady," he said in melodiously appealing accents. "They tell you at the Persian consulate that what Omar says is always true. Rugs immaculate, lady—only the best. Perhaps high in price, but they last for generations, and for good, honest people like you, payments as you please. Your parlor? Wonderful lady, but my sample exactly fits."

"No, no!" demurred Lena, lifting a detaining hand as her visitor made a movement as if to unroll and display the rug he carried, but with a deft, materialistic movement, he gave his burden a twirling fling, and it settled down over the parlor floor without a wrinkle.

"Oh, the beauty!" irrepressibly exclaimed Lena, and her sparkling eyes feasted with delight upon the marvel of beauty.

The exquisite colors, the unique pattern blendings, the perfect harmony of the costly rug with draperies and wall decoration seemed suddenly to transform the room into a kingly apartment. Omar Kluva was about to dilate upon its excellencies when, chancing to glance out into the garden, through the open window, he gave a vivid start and his eyes dilated. Lena suspected nothing strange, but with an earnestness that was positively agitated, Omar Kluva gasped out:

"Lady, the flower! The sacred sun rose of Lathsy! Here, so far from home, in an alien soil! Oh, lady, can I see more? Can I purchase one of the blooms at any price? It is not for myself, though I am overjoyed, but for my sick brother who, wearied and ill in an unfriendly land, is pining for something of his native country."

The quivering finger indicated a high-towering stalk, a purity, indeed, which had grown from some seeds given to Norman by a foreign traveling salesman, who had told him that it was an Asiatic novelty. The blossoms were large as a sunflower and, growing in towerlike profusion, resembled a cluster of rich red roses.

The impetuous visitor hurried from the room into the garden. Somewhat startled, Lena followed him. He reached the plant and regarded it with eyes of ecstasy.

"Oh, lady!" he said, tremulously fondling one of the blooms, "it will bring home to poor Azif, and its seeds will cure his distemper."

"It will get seasick, and you shall have all the flowers you like," said free-hearted Lena. But when she returned, Omar Kluva and one of the blooms had vanished. Norman came home, to hear the strange story. He was lost in admiration of the rug. Then on a card attached to its underside he traced the words, "Omar Kluva and Brother, 22 River Street."

"We must hunt up this strange visitor of ours, Lena," he said, and after supper they sought the living place of the Kluvas. He occupied two rooms in a large tenement building, and he salaamed to the ground as Lena appeared.

"See," he said, pointing to a couch on which a man, his prototype, lay, holding in his hand the sun rose bloom. "He sleeps peacefully and with a smile on his face. A sight of the flower alone made him better."

"You forgot to take away your rug—" began Lena, when Omar Kluva made a gesture of extravagant dissent.

"Ah, lady! Like in a fairy story, fate sent you the gift. It is yours, for the love and gratitude of Omar Kluva and his brother."

Witchcraft in History.

The idea of witchcraft is world-old and appeared among primitive peoples. In Europe women was considered the almost exclusive possessor of magical powers, but in India and Africa witchcraft had been known for years.

Respectability is the state of never being caught doing anything which gives you pleasure.

ARE BEES ARTISTIC?

Flowers Are Colored In Order to Attract Insects to Them.

Are bees artistic? They are, declares H. Munro Fox, writing for the Forum Magazine. In fact, says Mr. Fox, they are among the class of insects that see such a great variety of colors that it is we who could be considered colorblind. It is of paramount importance to nature lovers to know whether insects are colorblind. For why are flowers colored? The naturalists say they are colored in order to attract insects to them. The reason why it is essential to flowers to receive the visits of insects is, of course, that pollen must be carried from one flower to another. When a flower is fertilized with pollen produced by itself, the resulting offspring are weaklings. But when the pollen has been carried to the flower from another plant, the offspring are vigorous. It is the insects that do this useful work, receiving in return the nectar which the flowers provide for them, and which is their food.

How could bees be persuaded to choose colors? Difficult though this proposition appears at first sight, it is really extremely easy. A series of differently colored pieces of paper are placed in a row. Food for the bees is placed on one of the colors. The bees naturally make for the food, which they smell. After this has been repeated a few times, the pieces of paper are again prepared for the bees, but the food is omitted. The bees still make a bee-line for the color upon which the food previously had been placed. In this way insects can be trained to fly to any desired color.

Apparently, then, the bees appreciate the color differences between the pieces of paper, and it is still to be that the different colors impressed the bees merely as shades of grey. That this is not the case, and that the bees really do see the color tints, is proved by the fact that the color to which the bees have been trained to fly cannot be replaced by any tint of grey whatsoever. And that the bees are not even partially colorblind, but quite distinguish the same range of colors as ourselves, is evident from the fact that, once trained to fly to a certain color, they make no mistake afterward. They never in error fly to a wrong color.

So the conclusion that the lower animals are color-blind was wrong. They are not color-blind, but can recognize the same color differences as a normal man. Nor is this all. Recent research has shown that some insects at least can see colors of which we have no idea. They can appreciate colors which we cannot by any stretch of the imagination picture to ourselves.

CAN YOU READ GESTURES?

Use Gesture Reading as an Aid to Judgment.

Practice will enable a person to keep his or her features under such perfect control that nothing can be read from them. But gestures can never be wholly controlled. They are part of our personality.

Gestures say they are the physical extension of mental movements and exhausted by speech. For example, you hear that someone has had a bereavement. Your mind and your sympathies speed to follow. And if you are very sympathetic, you will make the gesture of some pity—a hand on the other's shoulder. That is a harmonious gesture.

To use gesture reading as an aid to judgment—as, for instance, when someone is endeavoring to persuade you to do or buy something — the gestures must be studied and classified. Of the latter, they never "time" with the word or phrase they are intended to emphasize. They are perceptibly late. Distrust those who make them.

Natural gestures may be good or bad. If downward, they reveal dislike, contempt, or lack of sincerity. If upward, liking and honesty of speech. Gestureless persons are usually clever, and make good, loyal friends.

BAMBOO MOST USEFUL

Few Plants Do So Many Things for Man.

There has lately been an inquiry into the question, What is the most useful plant in the world? and the prize has come to the bamboo. It is said that the East, South Africa, and the West Indies could not dispense without it.

The bamboo is a hollow reed which may grow to a great high or a hundred. Sometimes its stem is round, sometimes square, and the square kind is very useful for ladders or scaffolding. All sorts of things, massive or delicate, are made from the stems. Houses are built of them, and they make water-pipes and "pipe" music. Bows and arrows, prison cages for criminals, handles for agricultural implements, parasols, umbrellas, and rods fits for bad boys! The young roots make good food, and so do the seeds, which can be cooked like rice or used for a beverage, while the leaves can be used for thatching or weaving into clothes and mats.

"Ghost Money."

"Money" and other articles made out of tinfoil, and intended for the use of departed spirits, provides the town of Shaoching, China, with a curious and profitable industry.

All day long the din of thousands of hammers pounding on the anvils can be heard, and the production of these symbols for departed spirits is said to bring in £3,000,000 a year.

The symbolic money is made by hand, the tinfoil being hammered out on anvils until a surprising thinness is obtained. Although the "money" is intended for use on the other side, there is a considerable traffic in the ashes of the fires burnt at the tombs of the departed, the "money" placed. The tin is extracted from the ashes and used again to make more "money."

Silence That Terrifies.

Some years ago Mr. Galton, the famous anthropologist, invented and constructed a whistle which, by means of an adjustable plug, could be rendered so shrill that presently it ceased to be heard by human ears. But here is the curious part of it—after the sound of the whistle had ceased to be audible to any human ear, a dog was still able to hear it, and came readily when it was blown.

Death.

Death is not terrible—when you think how many dear ones you will hie be following—and they'll be some where—waiting—that all the people of history came to die one time—why it is very natural and gentle—not awful at all. Only hard for those lonely ones it leaves behind. Sad for them, and because of any work unfinished.—Exchange.

Remarkable Family.

At Waltham Cross, England, Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Hitchcock are heads of a family of five sons, four daughters, 23 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren. Among them they play 45 instruments, seven granddaughters the organ, pianoforte and violin and two great-grandchildren the organ.

Javanese Poor Coffee Makers.

Travelers say that nowhere in the world is coffee, as a drink, worse than in Java, where the coffee bean is supposed to be at its very best. The Javanese drink a coffee essence that is of 12 strength, bottle it, and pour a few drops into a cup of hot water when they desire refreshment.

Ancient "Currency."

Among some ancient tribes even and sheep served as a medium of exchange, ten sheep being reckoned equivalent to one ox. The Latin word for money is pecunia, and it is derived from the word pecus (cattle), showing that pecunia (money) means property in cattle.

Lake's Peculiar Migration.

Near Valdosta, in Georgia, there is a lake three miles long and three-quarters of a mile wide, with an average depth of twelve feet of water, which disappears every three or four years and then comes back again. It disappears into natural subterranean passages, taking two or three weeks in the process and, leaving a beautiful sandy basin. After a month or so the water begins to come back, and in a couple of weeks it is the same old lake.

At Sea.

There is nothing in life that gives one such a sense of distance, of infinite remoteness, as the setting of the sun or moon at sea. It defines the immeasurable leagues of water which separate you from those you love with a sharpness that is rarely felt at other times. It is the only mark upon the circle of the ocean and courts you into a reckoning which there is something too vague in the bare and infinite horizon to invite.—William Clark Russell.

Old "New Amsterdam."

In 1664, on the 20th of September, Peter Stuyvesant, the Dutch governor of New Amsterdam, signed the articles of surrender delivering the colony into the hands of Colonel Nicholls, the English commander. Several days previously the island had capitulated, but Stuyvesant was reluctant to admit defeat. The British immediately changed the name of the city to New York in honor of the duke of York, later James II, who was then at the head of the British army.

Moving Wheat in the Soudan.

One of the most novel craft encountered on the Nile is the grain boat. It is fashioned of willows and grass, and is propelled by two men, who sit in the stern and wield a pair of oars or paddles. Occasionally a sail is hoisted. These boats are capable of carrying three to four hundredweights of cereals, and are the chief means by which the wheat is carried from Khartoum to Omdurman.

Origin of Dollar Mark.

Some claim that it is a modification of the English symbol (£) for the pound. Another explanation is that it came from the letters U. S. written one over the other. Yet another theory is that the two upright marks represent the pillars of brass before the temple of Solomon, which early appeared on our coins and became intertwined with a scroll.

Entertain Grand Encampment Officers

Rev. J. W. Hibbert, Grand Patriarch, of London, and A. G. Parks, P.G.M., Grand Scribe, Toronto, paid an official visit to Mt. Ararat Encampment No. 16, I.O.O.F., on Monday, February 21st. Afternoon session opened at 3 o'clock. Dinner was served in the banquet hall at 6.30 p.m. at which both Grand Encampment Officers gave stirring addresses. The Brothers were admitted to Patriarchal Degree at the regular evening session, after which a smoker and lunch was served, lasting until the wee small hours. The concensus of opinion of the Patriarch was that Grand Patriarch J. W. Hibbert gave one of the most beautiful orations that they had heard in Napanee. Mt. Ararat Patriarchal Degree team will journey to Gananoque Encampment No. 89 to confer Patriarchal Degree on March 8th, 1927.

Confirmation at St. Mary Magdalene Church

The Right Rev. Dr. Seager, Bishop of Ontario, made his first official visit to St. Mary Magdalene's Church on Sunday last. He celebrated the Holy Communion in the morning and in the evening administered the rite of Confirmation to a large class of candidates presented by the rector. His sermons, both morning and evening, were deeply thoughtful and impressive. He also addressed the Sunday School at its noon session. Unfortunately some of the candidates from outside the town were prevented from being present by the impassible roads, but the congregations were good in spite of the storm. The Bishop remained over for a reception given him by the congregation on Monday, and also, by invitation of the Principal, addressed the pupils of the Collegiate Institute.

TOWN COUNCIL

Council met in regular session on Monday evening, Mayor E. J. Roy in the chair.

Present—Councillors Simpson, Kimmerly, Fitzpatrick, Jewell, Howitt, and Dunbar.

Minutes of last regular meeting were read and confirmed.

Some of the local carters appeared before the Council Board and asked to be enlightened as to the question of their license fee for the privilege of doing carting within the municipality. They also expressed their dissatisfaction with place provided for a carter's stand.

This matter was referred to the Market and Police Committee.

Messrs. W. J. Doller and Geo. T. Gibbard addressed the Council concerning a grant toward the work of the Victorian Order of Nurses. They asked that a grant of $500.00, the same as last year, be made again this year, as this amount was necessary to successfully carry on the work in Napanee for this year. A request was also made that the Victorian Order of Nurses be given the privilege of holding a tag day on one of the days of the Lenten Fair.

On motion of Councillors Howitt and Kimmerly, a grant of $500.00 was made toward the funds of the Victorian Order of Nurses, and the request for the privilege of holding a tag day during Fair week, was granted.

Mrs. Lockyer addressed the Council concerning the securing of a transient trader's license for the privilege of conducting a florist business in Napanee, by her son, located on John St.

Referred to the Finance Committee to report.

Mr. Frank Maracle addressed the Council as a representative of the Napanee Citizens' Band. He stated the members of the Band would like the Council to increase their annual grant, in order that a competent leader might be procured for the band.

Councillors Simpson, Jewell and Fitzpatrick were appointed a committee to confer with the members of the Band, and report back to the Council.

On motion Mr. Frank Maracle was appointed custodian of all the Band instruments owned by the town, now in possession of the Citizens' Band.

The Town Property Committee were given instructions to have the Town Hall heating system put in proper condition. Also that the doors on the Fire Hall be repaired immediately.

Moved by Coun. Simpson, seconded by Coun. Jewell, that the request of Mr. Pidgeon for a pool and billiard license be granted.

The motion was carried on the following division:

Yeas—Messrs. Boyes, Dunbar, Fitzpatrick, Jewell, Kimmerly, Roy, and Simpson.—7.

Nays—Mr. Howitt.

Coun. Kimmerly presented a verbal report to the Council on his trip, as the town's representative, to a meeting held in Cobourg recently by several municipalities to discuss the question of the recent raise in the rate by the Hydro Electric Commission. There were twenty-one municipalities represented. An Association was organized with a President, 1st and 2nd Vice-Presidents, and a Treasurer. Also an Executive Committee, composed of one member from each municipality represented. It was decided that the Executive Committee appear before the Hydro Electric Commission and demand an explanation for the increase in the rates. Coun. Kimmerly stated that a representative of the Hydro Electric Commission had been present and had explained to the meeting that the Commission would be pleased to meet any deputation and explain fully every detail in connection with the recent raise in rates. Mr. Kimmerly said the impression he gathered from the remarks of the Commission's representative was to the effect that eventually all power would be sold in bulk to each municipality, they to do their own distribution.

On motion Coun. Kimmerly was granted $10.00 to cover the costs of his trip.

On motion the Light and Social Welfare Committee were instructed to investigate the necessity of placing an electric light near the railway crossing on Thomas street.

A By-law was passed amending By-law No. 1194, in reference to the issuing of licenses for liverymen and motormen. Heretofore licenses issued on the 31st day of August in each year, and the amended by-law now makes all licenses expire on the 31st day of December. This amendment was made to simplify the situation, by making the above referred to licenses expire at the end of the year.

The chair occupied by the Mayor at the Council meetings is in a very dilapidated condition, and the Town Property Committee was instructed to procure prices for a new and suitable chair.

Accounts.

The following accounts were ordered paid:

"Mrs. Briggs of the Poultry Yard"

Robin Young People will present this first class comedy in Bell's Orange Hall, on Friday evening, March 11th. Two hours of genuine fun. Come and enjoy the treat of the season. A round of hearty laughs for young and old. A play of superior merit interpreted by artists of well-known literary ability should insure an audience that would tax the accommodation of the building. Come early. Admission 25c. and 15c. 8a

Disastrous Fire.

Thursday night last fire completely destroyed the large storage warehouse owned by Fred A. Hart, located on the south side of the river, just east of the town bridge. Just about midnight, an alarm was rung in, and although the firemen made a quick response, the fire had gained such a start that it was impossible to save the building, and it was burned to the ground. There was stored in the building a considerable quantity of seed peas and beans, and other articles, all of which was practically destroyed. The building was a very fine structure and was owned by Mr. Hart. Mr. A. C. Parks, of Hay Bay, who at that time used it as a cold storage plant for his apple crop.

ST. ANDREW'S ORCHESTRA DELIGHTS LARGE CROWD

St. Andrew's United Church School Room was filled to capacity on Friday evening, when the Church Orchestra gave a concert. The Orchestra, which is only three years old, has by hard work won a well deserved reputation which was well sustained on Friday last.

The concert consisted of overtures, duets, trombone solos, and xylophone solos. The Orchestra was assisted too by Mrs. Arthur Kimmerly, soprano soloist, Mrs. Valkman, contralto soloist, and Mr. Caldwell, tenor. Mr. Don Scott interested and entertained the audience with his selections on the Xylophone.

Several members of the Orchestra appeared as well in a short sketch, which was humorous and entertaining and tended to diversify the programme. A brief one-act comedy, staged by Miss McKim, entitled "The Doctor" portrayed the great possibilities of the medical profession, and created a good deal of fun.

After the concert, those taking part were entertained to lunch by the ladies of the congregation, and on all sides were heard words of praise for the performers, and especially for Mr. MacGregor, whose untiring energy and musical ability had made possible a splendid musical evening.

BASKETBALL.

On Friday evening, the Boys' Junior and Senior Basketball teams motored to Trenton to play the return games in the Bay of Quinte League. In both games there Napanee had been victorious, winning the junior game by a score of 24-23, and the Senior game by a much wider margin. But on their own floor, Trenton were much more at home and put up a much better game.

They were successful in the Junior game by a score of 22-18. The Senior game was very closely contested, the score at half time, being 9-8, with Trenton leading. But in the second half Napanee felt more at home and began to pull up a safe margin of points, and the first whistle blew with Napanee on the long end of the 29-18 score.

The line-ups were as follows:

Trenton Juniors—Campbell, Asts. forwards; Longden, centre; Carter, Corkill, guards; Marshall, spare.

Napanee Juniors—Vick, Reid, forwards; Way, centre; Graham, Anderson, guards; Miller, Gibson, Wartman, spare.

Trenton Seniors—Reynolds, Nelson, forwards; Taylor, centre; Cory, Purdy, guards; Langdon, Smith, Asts. spares.

Napanee Seniors—Ballard, Merritt, forwards; Wright, centre; Cowle, Deline, guards; Caswell, Gibbard, Wartman, Vick, spares.

The teams are very much indebted to Mr. Geo. Gibbard, Mr. Harold Anderson and Mr. James Moffat for the use of their automobiles in transporting the boys to Trenton. Without the aid of interested friends in town, it would be impossible to have these inter-school games.

POULTRY ASSOCIATION BANQUET

The annual banquet of the Napanee
Poultry Association took place Wednesday evening, at the Paisley House, when the President of the Association, Mr. J. Hayes, called the gathering to order, he faced an attendance that filled the seating capacity of the large dining room. The quality of the cuisine fully retained the already enviably reputation of mine host Fitzpatrick.

The musical programme was prepared by Mrs. Powell, with Mrs. Mc-Cann, Miss McMillan, and Mrs.
Baughan, accompanist, and it would be very difficult indeed, to have placed an entertainment more suitable before an audience. The speakers included the Mayor, Mr. Wagar,
Secretary Chamber of Commerce;
Capt. Hughson, and Dr. Marcellus, of the Agricultural College, Guelph, and the Secretary of the Association pointed out in his report, besides the educational privileges enjoyed by its members, the Association is working in harmony with the Town Council and Chamber of Commerce in bringing trade to the town and protecting same in many ways where possible. There is not a merchant in Napanee who is not profited more or less by the Napanee Poultry Association. Besides public spirit, which should be in the minds of all who have the best interests of the town at heart, would be a reason why every one doing business in Napanee as well as those residing directly in Poultry, should lend support to this organization.

After a vote of thanks was moved and carried to the speaker of the evening, Dr. Marcellus, and the artists, the meeting dispersed with "God Save the King."

The recent heavy snow storms have blocked the roads, causing much work for the men to open them up. One day it was quite impossible for the mail courier to get through.—A new leader arrived at the home of Mr.
Dan Sagriff's last Wednesday, in the person of a baby girl.—Mrs. Edith Alceived the sad news of the death of his brother, Henry Salisbury, which occured on February 17th at his home in New Westminister, B.C. The many friends of the family extend their sympathy to the family and brothers and sisters in their bereavement, for Henry was born and brought up in this neighborhood, and visited within this community for a number of years after his marriage, later going

West, where he located near Perdue, Sask., building up a beautiful home there, but through failing health sold his home and went to British Columbia, where he passed away, leaving a wife and three daughters, one of whom are married; three other children having predeceased him within a few years of each other.—Mrs. Wm.
Jackson has returned home from her visit in Toronto, with her daughter,
Mrs. N. N. Sutton.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed.

Hill spent an evening recently with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson, listening in on the radio.—Mr. and Mrs. Jackson took in the play, entitled "His Uncle's Niece", put on by the Aprisorelle Dramatic Club in the League Hall at Yarker, on Tuesday night, in aid of the I. O. L. of Colebrook.—We extend a welcome to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Reeves to our neighborhood, who have recently moved on Mr. Garnet Jeffrey's farm.

OBITUARY

On Friday morning, February 18th, 1927, Joseph B. Lucas, one of the oldest and most highly respected residents of Moscow, was peacefully away, following a lingering illness of many months, in the 96th year of his age.

Deceased was the second son of the late John Lucas and Mary Ainsworth, pioneer settlers of this community, and was born on the Lucas homestead, one and a half miles North of Moscow, on March 29th, 1831.

In July, 1862, he married Emily
Amey, eldest daughter of the late Jacob Amey and Ann Potter, who predeceased him in 1918. To this union there were two daughters, Mrs.
J. H. Lucas, of Moscow, and the late Mrs. H. N. Huffman, who died not so died in infancy.

Following his marriage, the late Mr.
Lucas settled on a farm two miles west of Moscow, and resided there continuously until the date of his death, a period of sixty-four years. He was one of the best farmers in the Township of Camden and took a keen interest in everything pertaining to agriculture as well as every movement for the betterment of the community.
He was honest and upright in all his dealings, and no stranger was ever turned away hungry from his door.

In 1873, the late Mr. Lucas associated himself with the Masonic Order, by becoming a Charter Member of Victoria Lodge A.F. & A.M., No. 296, Centreville, Ontario, and in 1921 was made an Honorary Member.

He was converted early in life and united with the Wesleyan Methodist Church, continuing throughout all his years an active member — and a valued member of the Trustee Board.

The funeral, which was held on Tuesday, the 22nd day of February, in the Moscow United Church, was largely attended, and the floral tributes, gifts butes silently indicated the very high esteem in which the late Mr. Lucas was held.

NEWBURGH

The Young People's League of the United Church had a splendid attendance and a programme of unusual interest last Tuesday night. Besides the special musical numbers and addresses by Miss H. M. Paul, Dr.
Mounce and Rev. Mr. Anderson, a very entertaining contest was enjoyed by all. At the close of the programme
Dr. Mounce was presented with a sterling Case of silverware, fitted with complete ebony fittings, and the following address :—

Dr. Mounce,—It is with sincere regret that we learned of your decision to leave our town, and yet we congratulate you on the opportunity of further study in a special line of your chosen profession. In our Church, Sunday School, and Young People's League, we have greatly appreciated your interest and help, knowing how uncertain and busy is the life of a physician. Many people in this vicinity will greatly miss you, as you have been not only a physician but a friend to all, especially to the poor and needy.

We ask you to accept this Dressing Case as a kindly remembrance from us, and be very well assured it is a token of our sincere regards to yourself and wife, we hope, always express to you the fact that we shall ever remember you kindly, and we pray that you may find success in your larger sphere and greater usefulness in the service of suffering men and women.

And to Mr. and Mrs. Mounce, also, we offer our best wishes as you return to your old home place carry with you these little gifts to remind you of your many friends in Newburgh.

Signed on behalf of the Young People and friends.

Emma Shorey, President.
Percy M. Gerow, Secretary.
Mrs. C. J. Winter, Treasurer.
Rev. H. P. Anderson, Pastor.

Mr. and Mrs. Mounce were remembered also by a silk scarf and a pierced brass basket. The address was read by Miss Hazel Winter, and the presentations made by Mr. Gordon Milligan,
Miss Edna Paul and Miss Wilhelmina
Files.

Dr. Mounce leaves this week to pursue his studies in Boston, and Mrs.
Mounce is spending a few days with friends in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wartman enjoyed a visit with their friend, Mrs. R.
Price, Wesley.

Mrs. Ed. Nugent is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. Dennison Parry spent Wednesday with her sister, Miss Ella Yeomans.

Undertaker Wartman has purchased a McLaughlin motor hearse.

Mrs. James Farley has been enjoying a visit with her two sons and niece, Mrs. Denison, of Napanee, and with her son, Mr. Ray Farley, Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Robeson, of Bath, and Mrs. Frank Wales, of Napanee, visited on Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs.
Jas. Wales.

Mrs. Mrs. Orison Benn, of Sills-ville, spending a few days with Mrs.
Jas. Wales.

Mrs. Mildred Winter, of Kingston,
Sundayed at home.

Mrs. A. Weeks, of Lyndhurst, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Fluke.

Mrs. Fred Wales, of Switzerville, is the guest of this week, after being in the hospital for the past two weeks.

Mr. Charles Carter spent a few days in Shannonville.

CAMDEN EAST

We have been having somewhat milder weather than last week. The cars are seen once again after being stepped for a few days on account of bad roads.—Dr. Carmen Salisbury, of the United States, is spending a limited time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. Salisbury, and other friends.—
The Ladies' Aid met at their annual meeting in the United Church, for the purpose of electing their officers for the coming year.—The many friends of Mrs. J. Amey were sorry to hear that she was under the Doctor's care, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. K.
Valentine, Odessa. We all hope for a speedy recovery.—Mr. and Mrs. W.
Stewart and Mr. and Mrs. B. Amey spent a few evenings with the latter's brother, Mr. Bell, of Desmond, who has been very sick.—A quiet wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs.
Skinner, on Wednesday, when Miss
Norma Clark became the bride of Mr.
Russel Clodd. The young people have the best wishes of the community.—
The W. M. S. are holding a special prayer meeting at the home of Mrs.
Chas. Husted this Friday afternoon.—
The many friends of Dr. and Mrs.
Huxtable will be glad to welcome them back in our midst again. We will also be very sorry to lose Dr. Mounce, who is leaving Newburgh.—Owing to the bad roads there was not a very large crowd at the Bank Hall, on Saturday evening, when Mr. Horton showed pictures on "Ten Nights in a Bar Room" and other scenes. However,
Messrs. Ferguson and Clarke, Napanee, were present, and the proceeds amounted to $8.00.—Mr.
Frank Baker is moving from the house formerly owned by Mrs. Jack Skinner to the house owned by Mrs. Greenway.
Mr. C. Rogers has Mrs. Skinner's house.—The sick of our village are all improving.

DR. SOLANDT AT THE HISTORICAL

The Historical Society was well served on Friday, when Dr. Solandt addressed the gathering. He dealt with one of the most pressing problems in our national life—the relation of the town and country and causes for the present disparity between them. Tracing back he showed that the reason lay in the lack of intellectual and cultural training of the adult life of Canada. Most people feel their education is completed when they leave school. The consequence is that we have developed an adult population who are not satisfied with the great humanities, but desire change, excitement and exhibit much impatience to take the place of that which only the mind can supply.

Dr. Solandt showed how Great Britain had seriously faced this problem.
The Government appointed a royal commission to investigate.
Their report was to the effect that adult life should be given more serious consideration by the University and educational institutions. Since the report Great Britain had systematically undertaken to institute lectures, reading circles and study groups all through England, and hundreds of thousands of people were now attending these regularly and receiving help from the best trained leadership in the Empire.

Dr. Solandt pointed out the failure of Canada as now organized in Canada to produce unselfish leadership. Apart from the wealthy sons of graduates, the great number who receive a higher education at the public expense use that education simply as a means to make more money for themselves.

The solution lay in the extension of the privileges of the university to a wider field and a new emphasis on the great humanities in education.

Dr. Solandt closed the meeting to hear Dr. Solandt, heard one of the most constructive addresses heard in Napanee in a long while.

In the Legislature

Toronto, Feb. 26th.—Hon. Dr. Monteith presented to the Legislature on Tuesday what the member for Bault Ste. Marie later in the week described as a "sunshine" Budget. Ontario's son Government has finally overcome the long series of deficits commencing with its inherited shortage of $15,000,000, and for the fiscal year of 1927 the treasurer budgets for a surplus of $156,000. This is notwithstanding the fact that $3,000,000 will be turned over as a first payment toward debt retirement, and that tax reductions already announced will amount to some $2,500,000. Revenue for 1926 increased by $4,200,000 over that of 1925. The revenue estimate for the current year includes $3,500,000 from government liquor sales, which presumably covers approximately six months.

* * * *

The new treasurer was in good form in his initial budget speech, and managed to cover a great deal of ground in an hour and a half, which is rather less than usual time. In conclusion he said: "We believe this government has introduced a new era in tax reduction. That is going to be continued. We are going to continue to have a watchful eye on the public debt, and provide for debt retirement as has been mapped out, and still we hope at time goes on to have further reduction of direct taxation to relieve the ratepayers of this province."

* * * *

Supplementary estimates brought down with the budget total $3,032,750. This is for the fiscal year ending October 31st next. Hydro accounts for $535,000 of this, of which $50,000 is for the Georgian Bay system; $10,000 for rural distribution on the St. Lawrence and Ottawa systems; $125,000 for Central Ontario and the remainder for Niagara system. A Rural Hydro in the Niagara zone calls for $250,000 alone. A number of grants which may not be listed by the daily press are as follows: Continuation Schools, $10,000; Trustees' section O.E.A., (additional) $5,000; inspection of public schools, additional, $30,000; departmental examinations, (additional), $25,000; Belleville School for the Deaf, (additional), $9,900; Pruning and distribution of pictures to schools, $2,000; Surveys in mining areas (additional), $2,000; Erecting ponds and buildings for propagation of fish, game animals and birds, (additional), $30,000; Experimental Fur Farm, $12,500; Sturgeon Falls Training School, repairs, etc., $3,267; Northern Academy, Monteith, repairs, etc., $3,500; Boys' training school, Bowmanville, (additional), $59,650; Nipissing, new jail, (re-vote), $50,000; instruction, inspection and grading in connection with dairy products, (additional), $10,000.

* * * *

There is also in the supplementaries an item of $28,000 for the wolf bounty and services and expenses in connection therewith. In this connection government figures show that in the past year there were destroyed 1,022 timber wolves, 2,690 brush wolves and 107 pups. In 1923, when a bounty of $40 was paid, 955 wolves and 945 pups were captured, the government paying $53,217. In the past year, with a bounty of only $15, the number shown above were captured, an increase of about 196 per cent., and the cost was but $51,994. It is reported that the record for the current year indicates a similar increase over last year in wolf destruction.

Mr. Raney's bill to prohibit political contributions by brewers and distillers, public contractors, lessees of mining lands, etc., was subject of two hours' discussion on Wednesday afternoon, and was allowed to go to the Standing Committee on Privileges and Elections. The Progressive leader in this occasion based his presentation largely upon occurrences in British Columbia, as disclosed by evidence before the customs inquiry commission. W. F. N. Sinclair, Liberal leader, argued that no special classes of corporation or individual should be named in the bill—it should take in all or none. He was of the opinion that only compulsory voting would get to the root of the evil. Premier Ferguson, while concurring in the principle of the proposed measure, said it was not well drawn, and some of its provisions were quite impracticable. He had no objection to the electrions committee trying to iron out the bill and make it presentable.

* * * *

The Prime Minister, closing his remarks on the contributions bill, noted Mr. Raney's emphasis on brewers and distillers. He said: "My friend confines it to what I suppose he would regard as the 'publicans and sinners.' The Government is dealing with all classes of people, outside that. The principle is no different when the control of the liquor traffic is taken over on a new basis, because we have been controlling and administering it for a long time, and those who had it to sell were just as anxious, I have no doubt, to share in the four or five millions of purchases we make as they will be in the purchases of the future. My view is that it is on a par with a great deal of the attempt to deceive ourselves about what is going on. Under the system under which we are still operating, when my friend was attorney-general he did not hesitate to take almost $1,250,000 from the dispensaries for sale of liquor and put it in the public treasury, and that is only four or five years ago. Nobody has hesitated to take a fair profit and put it in the treasury for public use, and it is all nonsense to talk about tainted money. It is a business recognized as legitimate if properly controlled, and there is no reason we should not be frank with the people. It is a luxury, and people who desire to enjoy it or deal in it must be prepared to contribute something to the general public good of the province. That is the theory on which we have been going and shall continue to go."

* * * *

Much interest centered about the fate of a private bill, for which George Shields, Toronto, was sponsor, relative to the Presbyterians of Beaverton, what is known as "the old stone church", a mile and a half or two miles from the town, the several church properties in the community having passed to the United Church by terms of the union bill. Notwithstanding predictions by those opposed to the bill that its acceptance would bring numerous similar petitions from all parts of the province, the Private Bills Committee on Tuesday reported the measure to the House, with only one change, which was not of controversial nature. After presentation of argument for and against by Lt. Col. Cameron and Melville Tudhope, the Committee voted 43 to 10 in favor of considering the bill, and the various clauses were passed without further division. The members who voted "Nay" were Messrs. Anderson, (Peterborough); Fletcher, (South Essex); Kemp, (Lincoln); Mitchell (Simcoe E.W.); Proulx, (Prescott); Raney, (Prince Edward); Sandy, (S. Victoria); Taylor, (North Grey); Whitesell, (S. Ontario), and Scott, (South Oxford).

* * * *

Mr. Lethbridge's bill "respecting the rights of widows in the estates of their Deceased Husbands"—which is the same measure as introduced by Harold Fisher, West Ottawa, last year, received some support in the House on Monday, and was allowed to go to the Legal Committee, which body, Premier Ferguson suggested, should consult with such officials as the Public Trustee, Official Guardian, etc., as he felt sure the measure would not be acceptable in present form. The bill aims to remedy a condition by which a man may will to others than his wife all personal property; dower entitled her only to one-third of real property, which may comprise but a small part of the estate. The premier said: "Any of us can appreciate the hardship which some wives have under the present law, and I will be glad to see if there is not some way we can ameliorate that condition. Perhaps there ought to be provision whereby, if a man is contemplating a will depriving his wife of a sufficient portion of the estate, and has any grounds, moral or otherwise, he could get a declaration of some kind while all parties are living. But when a man is dead, who had in his possession the confidences of domestic life and undoubtedly in many cases the best reasons for not entrusting his wife with a large portion of the estate, for a judge to revise that man's judgment after he is dead and practically wipe out the solemn testamentary document that he has deliberately executed is rather a serious thing."

On Thursday the budget debate was carried on by P. F. Miller, Haldimand, as Liberal critic; H. C. Nixon, Brant, for the Progressive group, and Hon. James Lyons, former minister of lands and forests, who will continue next Tuesday. The Opposition took the course of deducting certain items of revenue from the calculations and declaring that the governments had a larger deficit than reported. The gas tax and motor vehicles tax revenue was "just a godsend", in the opinion of Mr. Miller. He also reverted to the finances of the Ross Government, and Mr. Lyons later twitted the Haldimand member with having to go back so many years "to find respectable ancestry for the Liberal party!" He recalled his first vote in New Ontario, the election in which the famous steamer "Minnie M." figured, and said: "They crowded the boat with voters and filled the hull with booze, and got the voters from the Soo to Michipocoten to vote. They sank so many ballot boxes in the rivers and lakes that the price of tin hasn't come down since. I mention these things owing to the high moral tone assumed by the member for Haldimand. Let me tell him the Liberals of to-day were not friends of New Ontario. They milked New Ontario dry. They didn't spend a dollar on roads, and they alienated much of our timber."

On Friday afternoon, Hon. G. S. Henry introduced amendments to the Highways Traffic Act, Highway Improvement Act and Vehicles Act. As anticipated, the speed limit for motor vehicles was raised from 25 to 30 miles per hour, and lighting of all vehicles on the public highway after dark will be made compulsory.

The Nursing Mother

Often Finds Herself Weak and Feeling Worn-Out

The nursing mother more than any other woman needs rich blood and plenty of it. The demands upon her health are many and severe. Housework and the care of her children exact heavy toll, while hurried meals, broken rest and indoor living tend to weaken her. No wonder she is often indisposed through weakness, headaches, backaches and nervousness. In this condition the blood will always be found weak and watery, and relief will come by the use of enriching the blood. For this purpose Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is the best blood-making and nerve restoring medicine you can buy. Thousands of mothers have found new health and strength. As an example of this Mrs. Sarah Cortez, Ellenstown, N.B., says: "While nursing my baby I became run-down, very weak and nervous. My head ached all the time and I was not able to do my work. I had often read of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and began using them, and what a blessing they proved. Before I had used a half dozen boxes I felt like a new person, and by their continued use for a while I was entirely restored to my former health and strength. I take pleasure in recommending Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to everyone suffering as I did."

You can get these pills through any medicine dealers or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

HEARTS OF GOLD

By T. B. ALDERSON

In half a century Bloxton had scarcely changed. Farms, stores and residents passed from generation to generation, few moved away, few strangers came to reside. It was an old-fashioned, steady going town, revering its ancient landmarks, and interest centered in community welfare solely.

There was an ideal homelikeness and comfort to its one hotel that charmed Ralph Disston, and a certain geniality in the greetings of people he had never met before. At the end of a week the tall, handsome young man, with the pallor of frail health in his face, disclosed the object of his visit and was welcomed with open hands and hearts.

Disston had been employed in mercantile lines in the city, and his labors had resulted in a breakdown. Physicians had advised life in the open, and it seemed possible when he was apprised that his half uncle, Reuben Page, at Bloxton, had left him the farm that had been in the family for over seventy years. What ready money the latter possessed had been distributed among his sisters.

Disston found the old farm neglected and run down. But that could readily be attended to, John Paxton, his nearest neighbor, told him. Perhaps, too, an acquaintance with Gladys, his daughter, had a good deal to do in influencing Disston. She was a sun-browned, wholesome young woman of twenty-two, brisk, industrious and happy spirited, and she acted as guide and adviser in taking Disston over his newly acquired domain.

People warmed up to him after he made it known that he was the heir to the Page farm. Then Disston made the community more friendly than ever when two men, Ezra and Ben Cooper, brothers, called upon him.

"Your uncle has let us each occupy fifty acres where the farm touches the creek since we were boys, free gratis," Ezra Cooper told Disston. "I suppose we've got to pack up and leave now?"

"Not at my request," replied Disston promptly. "I would miss having you people around to help me out when I make blunders. You can stay right where you are on the old arrangement."

Disston made an arrangement with the Cooper brothers to work the crops on shares until he secured a better tenant. Everybody sympathized with him, and there were tears in the eyes of Gladys as she stood by his side viewing the ruins of the old barn. Disston had to arrange with a neighbor to do what carting was required and the setback seriously impeded his plans.

Disston detected a symptom of suppressed excitement in Gladys as she came over early one morning and asked him to go with her to service some flowers just beginning to bloom. He was somewhat surprised at this infringement on working hours on the part of this practical little girl farmer, the more so when she dallied after gathering the flowers and two hours sped away.

"Now, let us get back to the house through the little grove," she spoke when they regained the vicinity of the house and then, just as they cleared this, she exclaimed in a joyful tones:

"Now look! What do you see?"

What Ralph Disston saw held him spellbound. In the yard was a brand-new barn wagon of the latest type. Attached to it were two superb black horses, young, strong, shapely. Animals and vehicle were decorated with ribbons, and as they approached them they saw a card attached to the wagon which read:

"From true friends to the new farmer."

"Dear Mr. Disston," spoke Gladys, "there is not a person in Bloxton who has not joined in this gift. They always help when anybody is in trouble—just as you did with the Cooper boys."

It took all the morning for Ralph Disston to get over the vast surprise of the day. He had certainly come among people kindly and loyal as own brothers and sisters, and he felt sincerely in his heart that his lines had indeed fallen in pleasant places.

"Well, what do you think of it, friends?" submitted John Paxton coming over from his home. "I tell you when these whole-hearted Bloxtonites take a fancy to a man, he's fixed for life. Next thing they'll be finding a wife for you, hey?"

"I hope they do," rejoined Disston promptly, with a glance at his pretty companion.

"And I hope," he added, audaciously, "they won't go far to find her," and Gladys flushed red as the flowers in her hands.

Visitor—"Well, Tommy, how are you getting on at school?"

Tommy (aged eight)—"First rate. I ain't doing as well as some of the other boys, though. I can stand on my head, but I have to put my feet against the wall. I want to do it without being near the wall at all."

Iron Ores Formed by Bacteria.

Geologists are realizing more fully as they extend their studies the magnitude of the work done by plants and animals in building up and tearing down parts of the crust of the earth. Even microscopic organisms perform a large part of this work. Pasteur long ago showed us the deadly power of bacteria in disease and their efficiency in promoting fermentation, but their influence on the fertility of soils and their work in expediting rock decay are still subjects of scientific study.

The Elderly Woman.

The world's first historian was an old woman—and still, in every primitive community, she is the living storehouse of communal memories. The world's first sage was an old woman, echoing the hoarded wisdom of generations into proverbs and maxims. In all probability the world's first doctor was an old woman, though here she was displaced rather early. After ages of neglect she is coming once more to be appreciated at something like her value.—Chicago Journal.

Thick Coal Bed.

The brown coal beds of Victoria are said to be the thickest in the world. At Morwell 780 feet of coal has been passed through in a bore of 1,010 feet. The four principal areas of occurrence cover approximately 1,200 square miles of an average thickness of 70 feet. The depth of the coal seams below the surface varies from 60 to 500 feet, the averages being near to the first figure.—Exchange.

Couldn't Be Supposed to Know.

I helped my little niece on her tricycle over a crossing by taking hold of the front part of the tricycle and lifting it onto the sidewalk, writes a correspondent. She explained that that was not the right way to do it; I should have pulled her up by the handle, and then, with a sweet desire to find an excuse for my ignorance, she quietly added: "But, of course, you wouldn't know how, because you are not the mother of a child."

The Oil for the Farmer.—A bottle of

Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil in the farm house will save many a journey for the doctor. It is not only good for the children when taken with colds and croup, and for the mature who suffer from pains and aches, but there are directions for its use on sick cattle. There should always be a bottle of it in the house.

Strong Canadian Banking House Offers Bonds of Canadian Department Stores Merger

Issue Secured by Consolidation of Twenty-one Stores Located in Ontario and Quebec — Earnings Three Times Bond Interest Requirements.

Toronto, Feb. 26th.—Following the formation of Canadian Department Stores, Limited, which is a consolidation of 21 department stores located in the principal cities of the Province of Ontario and one store in Montreal, Municipal Bankers Bond and Sales Corporation of Toronto is making an offering of $4,250,000 7% per cent. First and Refunding Mortgage Income Gold Bonds of this company at 100. There will be delivered with each $1,000 bond of this issue five shares of the no par value common stock of the company. Of the above issue, approximately $2,700,000 have been purchased by former owners of the constituent companies, and are being taken in payment for their properties.

Incorporated in 1926, Canadian Department Stores, Limited, took over old established firms which have been in successful operation for a period averaging more than 44 years, and in many cases are the leading merchandising institutions in their respective cities. The Province of Ontario, which comprises about one-third of the population of Canada, absorbs more than 46 per cent. of the merchandise distributed in the Dominion, and contains over 36 per cent. of the total homes of the country. The territory served by the stores embraces more than 50 per cent. of the population of the Province.

The above issue is secured by a direct mortgage on the fixed assets of the company now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only to $2,500,000 first mortgage 6½ per cent. bonds to be presently outstanding. After giving effect to the consolidation and the financing in connection therewith, net tangible assets, including fixed assets, amounts to approximately $8,672,000. As a further security, no dividends will be paid on the common stock, if such payments reduce net current assets below $2,000,000.

Net earnings, after deducting all operating expenses and annual interest requirements of the first mortgage bonds, but before depreciation, have averaged $538,581 annually during the past five years, or nearly twice the annual interest requirements of this issue. It is estimated that the very substantial economies resulting from the consolidation, through centralization, will result in an increase in net earnings to at least $1,000,000 available for these 7 per cent. bonds, or more than three times the interest requirements.

After 1930 an annual sinking fund will be provided for the bonds of 2 per cent. In addition to the 6½ per cent. and 7 per cent. bonds referred to, the company will have outstanding $1,500,000 7 per cent. preferred stock and 250,000 common shares of no par value. The management of the company will be under the direct supervision of G. H. Rennie, President and General Manager, who previous to his appointment was for several years Assistant General Manager of the Robert Simpson Company, Toronto.

The visitor to the lawyer's office stopped short in amazement.

"I say, old man," he exclaimed, "whatever has happened to your face? Had a motor smash or something?"

The lawyer shook his head.

"No! You remember that case the other day, when I defended a man charged with assault? Well, I made a strong plea for him, on the ground that he was a fool rather than a criminal."

"Yes, but—"

"Well, I did it so well that the man was acquitted."

"But—"

"You see, my client waited for me outside!"

Sleep is the great nourisher of infants and without peaceful sleep the child will not thrive. This cannot be got if the infant is troubled with worms. Miller's Worm Powders will destroy worms and drive them from the system, and afterwards the child's rest will be undisturbed. The powders cannot injure the most delicate baby, and there is nothing so effective for restoring the health of a worm-worn infant.

The maid-of-all-work gave notice.

"But," protested her mistress, have we not always treated you like one of the family?"

"You have," replied the girl, "an' I've stood it as long as I'm goin' to."

Study Neolithic Man.

In Java is the great temple of Borobodoer, temple of the many Buddhas, which was unearthed some years ago, and is known to have been built in the fifth century, and right near it is the lesser temple of Mendoet. Further north, in the Dardenella Straits, are the ruins of an ancient city whose streets were waterways just as those of Venice are today. A visitor visits are made to these virgin islands and one feels almost like a discoverer of new lands. It is well to remember that there is nothing new, even under the tropical sun.—Exchange.

"Is This the Mighty Ocean?"

In his autobiography, James G. Huneker, the critic, says of his first view of the ocean: "When I saw the sea it was as flat as a temperance lecture. I was disappointed because of its wet monotony. I quoted Landor to help me out: 'Is this the mighty ocean?—Is this all? Like the girl in the Steadhal novel, who found love insipid, I felt like asking: 'Is that all?'"—"Steeplejack," by James Gibbons Huneker.

Worth the Labor Involved.

In the old days, the Ceratopsian, or horned quadruped dinosaur, provisionally named the Eo ceratops, roamed the Red Deer valley, in Alberta, Canada, and at Steveville, 125 miles southeast of Calgary, W. E. Cutler excavated a fine ossified specimen of this huge creature. One side is almost intact. Mr. Cutler had to cut through twelve feet of rock to clear away the skeleton. He had been excavating on this one specimen for eight months.

New Way of Serving It.

Emily wanted a tea party one afternoon, so after she arranged her tea set for the important event her mother and I sat at the little table beside her. Her mother started to pour the little tea pot and turning to Emily asked, in a very formal way, "Miss Emily, will you have yours with or without?" After seriously thinking a moment, Emily replied, "Within, please."—Exchange.

In Seattle.

The man who stopped a stranger to say: "What's that on your face?" and then, when after a moment of puzzling silence, answered himself: "Your nose," returning from the hospital said he was convinced that Tennyson was right in concluding that "a sorrow's crown of sorrows is remembering happier things."—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

Substitute for Gold.

What is said to be a serviceable substitute for gold is obtained by combining 94 parts of copper with six parts of antimony and adding a little magnesium carbonate to increase the weight. It is said that this alloy can be drawn, wrought and soldered very much like gold and that it also receives and retains a golden polish.

There Is Hope, as Munyon Said.

Bill Steedum says that if a young married couple can live through September without having a fatal quarrel over whose duty is to get up and get the extra cover, the chance is pretty fair to live until the next crop of mate pie season, anyhow.—Wilmington News-Journal.

Simple Explanation.

Pierre was trying to solve an example in arithmetic, but it came out 2 cents less than it should, over and over again. So I offered to help him: when all of a sudden he said: "I bet I know now what the matter is. I ought to add 2 cents for war tax."—Exchange.

Appetite of Birds.

Birds are usually voracious eaters. Some birds consume two and a half times their weight of food in twenty-four hours. The heron, which has the light weight of four pounds in spite of its size, is a striking example. Wild pigeons are among the greediest eaters.

Novel Table.

A novel table for workshops can be turned and locked in thirty-two different positions to save the labor of moving objects on which work is being done.

Baby's Own Tablets Are of Great Value

To All Mothers Having Young Children in the Home.

No other medicine is of such aid to mothers of young children as is baby's Own Tablets. The Tablets are the very best medicine a mother can give her little ones during the dreaded teething time because they regulate the stomach and bowels and thus drive out constipation and indigestion; prevent colic and diarrhoea and break up colds and simple fevers.

Concerning Baby's Own Tablets, Mrs. John A. Patterson, Scotch Village, N.S., says:—"I have six children, and all the medicine they ever get is Baby's Own Tablets. I would use nothing else for them and can strongly recommend the Tablets to all other mothers."

Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Prince of Wales."

The title was first conferred on Prince Edward, afterward King Edward II. of England, in 1301. He was born at Carnarvon, Wales, and the story goes that the king presented the new-born child to the Welsh as their native prince who could speak no word of English. The idea of using the title for the heir apparent to the British throne was introduced by Edward III. who in 1343 invested his son, the Black Prince, with the principality. From that time the title has been borne by the eldest son of the reigning king.

Early American History.

Plymouth was the first permanent white settlement in New England and dates its founding from the landing of the Pilgrims, Dec. 21, 1620. The iron works on the banks of the Saugus river, established in 1642, were the first iron works established in America. A small iron pot cast there in the first forge in America is now the property of the city of Lynn and is in a glass case in the Lynn public library.

Mrs. Fred Young spent Friday last in Kingston, attending the funeral of Mrs. Elwin Young.

Mrs. P. J. Normile spent last week with her sister, Mrs. Charlie Delore, Tweed.

Mr. James Laughland is in Montreal this week.

Miss Mildred Perry, who was in town for the funeral service of her grandmother, the late Mrs. Hawley, returned on Sunday to Toronto.

Mrs. Frank Bell is spending the week in Toronto.

Mrs. Herbert Beatty spent a few days in Toronto last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johnston, of Dorland, returned from Chicago on Monday.

Mrs. Minnie Miller, who has been visiting her father, Mr. Sidney Miller, returned this week to New York.

Mr. Albert Giroux accompanied the remains of his wife to Napanee on Tuesday, where interment took place.

Mr. John Peinell was in Ottawa last week.

Mr. James Roblin is in Montreal this week.

Mrs. John Thompson is the guest of Mrs. Fellows, East Street.

Mr. Beatty, of Brockville, has assumed his duties as Principal of the Collegiate Institute.

Dr. Stolzault was the guest of Mr. and Mrs. James Moffat during his stay in Napanee.

Mrs. M. Young left Saturday for Hamilton to visit her daughter, Mrs. Neils Sommerville.

The friends of Miss Hazel Hart, Smith Falls, are glad to hear that she was successful in passing her International Violin examination of the Toronto Conservatory of Music at the Mid-Winter examination, which was held in Ottawa.

Mr. Albert Giroux, of Brockville, and two sons, of New York; Mr. R. B. Young, General Manager of Canadian Government Merchant Marine, Mrs. Trealle and son, of Montreal, and Rev. J. A. Hadley, who were in Napanee on Tuesday for the burial of the late Mrs. Albert Giroux, were guests of Mrs. Chas. A. Graham, during their stay in town.

Shirley Boyce, interesting young pianist, of Los Angeles, started concertizing in Europe with a brilliant success in Munich. Supplementing her concert appearance with a programme at the American Embassy, being asked to play before the social and musical elect of Munich, she has succeeded in establishing an enviable reputation in that center of German culture, and is now on her way to appear in Copenhagen, Paris, and The Hague. She will return to the United States in the Spring.—Los Angeles Times.

DEATHS

JARMIN—At Lime Lake, on Friday, February 25th, 1927, Elijah Jarmin, aged 84 years and 4 months.

HAWLEY—At Napanee, on Saturday, February 26th, 1927, Matilda Perry, relict of the late William G. Hawley, in her 87th year.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Egbert and Ford Thompson, who died March 1st, and March 18th, 1921.

Four years have passed as if on wings,
But love for lost ones ever clings;
They suffered much but with patience bore,
Physicians were in vain.
God above in his great love,
Relieved them from all pain;
We loved them, yes we loved them,
But Jesus loved them more.
And he has sweetly called them
To yonder shining shore;
The sacred grief that lies in our soul
No human eye can trace;
For many a broken heart lies hid
Beneath a smiling face.

Sadly missed by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers. 9ap

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Fred Rikley, who passed away March 2nd, 1921.

She suffered much, with patience bore
Physicians were in vain;
Till God above in his great love
Released her from all pain.
She did not fail to do her best,
Her heart was true and tender;
She worked so hard for the ones she left,
That's something for us to remember.

Sadly missed by daughters, Grace and Ruby. 9ap

ODESSA

The funeral of the late John Morrison was held on Thursday afternoon of last week from his home, and was largely attended. There were many beautiful floral offerings. The out-of-town relatives attending were Mr. and Mrs. John Graham, Watertown; Mrs. Harry Foster and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Morrison, of Toronto. The pallbearers were John Kenny, Winslow Thompson, Arthur Fraser, T. C. Graham, Wm. Daugherty and Orange Babcock. The remains were placed in Wilton vault, to be interred in Wilton cemetery later. Rev. Geo. C. McQuade officiated. Deceased was in his seventy-third year. — The Ladies' Aid Society met at the home of Mrs. S. J. Sproule on Wednesday afternoon of last week. There were thirty-five ladies present to enjoy the interesting meeting and lovely lunch. — Oswald Snider returned last Wednesday from spending a few days with his sister, Mrs. Ernest Sharpe, Toronto.—Mrs. Robert Cairns and little son, Billy, returned last week from visiting her son, Harold Cairns, Windsor. She was accompanied by her daughter, Miss Ruth Cairns, who spent the winter months there.—Cecil Denyes, of the Pedlar Roofing Co., Oshawa, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Denyes. — Miss Carrie Emmons and Miss Harvey, of Kingston, spent the week-end with the former's brother, Douglas Emmons.—Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith and Mrs. James Smith, of Parrott's Bay, spent Thursday the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Smith.

—Mr. and Mrs. Byron Caton, of Toronto, are visiting relatives and friends.—Wm. Vrooman, of Kingston, is visiting his son, Herman Vrooman. — Miss Alice Swift, who has been spending the past two weeks with her brother, J. L. Swift, returned to her home in Cobourg last Saturday.—Almon Fraser, who has been visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Fraser, and other relatives, has returned to his home in Calgary.—Hugh Mohan is visiting his sister, Mrs. Leo Lawlor, Philadelphia, N.Y. — The many friends of Mrs. J. L. Swift are delighted to hear that she has fully recovered from her recent illness.—Wilmer Metzler's sale of farm stock and implements on Thursday afternoon of last week was largely attended by anxious buyers. Mr. Metzler contemplates leaving the farm in the near future. — The euchre and dance in the Town Hall last Friday night, under the auspices of the Women's Institute, in aid of the Public Library, was a wonderful success. There were twenty-one tables of progressive euchre, and the following were the won by Mrs. Charles Morrow, Bath, and Mr. H. Mac Rowe, Cataraqui, and the lone hand prize by Clarence Thompson, Ernestown Station. Harvey Smith won the prize for selling the most tickets. After lunch, the Odessa orchestra furnished excellent music and the floor of the large hall was crowded to capacity with pleasure seekers until long after the small morning hours. About $100 was taken at the door.

—A large number of the relatives and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Metzler met at their home on Monday evening and presented them with a handsome silver tea service and silver sandwich plates. The address was read by Sidney Clark. Mr. Metzler is leaving the farm and intends moving in the D. O. Frink residence on Wilton Avenue for the present, which is being vacated by Mr. Frink moving into the dwelling over his general store.

BETHANY

A number of teams are busy hauling gravel for the roads.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Miller and daughter, of Oshawa, are visiting friends here.—Mr. and Mrs. Chambers, of Little Creek, visited in our midst Tuesday.—About sixty attended the social evening given by the Ladies' Aid at Mr. Conger's on Monday evening and had a very enjoyable time.—Mrs. L. Howell and babes spent Tuesday at her father's, Mr. Geo. Burtch.—Mrs. W. Hicks is visiting her parents, M. and Mrs. J. Davis.—Mrs. Hyatt, of Deseronto, is visiting at Mr. Joe Hicks'.—Mr. and Mrs. H. Martin entertained a number of friends on Wednesday evening.—Some from here attended the sale of Mr. Wm. Adolphustown, on Wednesday.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Spencer were "at home" to a number of friends on Thursday evening.—Our roads since the soft snow and rain are in a very bad condition.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving memory of Flossie Beatrice, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Young, who departed this life March 5th, 1922.

As we loved her so we miss her,
In our memory she is dear;
Sadly missed, remembered, loved for, always,
Bringing many a silent tear.

Sadly missed by Parents and Brother. 9ap

Mr. James Robinson, of Cape Vincent, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Robinson. — Mrs. M. Pringle, who met with a serious accident a few weeks ago, is able to be around again.—Mr. and Mrs. Donald Fitzpatrick spent a few days this week with Mr. and Mrs. J. Chambers, Fredericksburgh. — Many are the expressions of appreciation of the work of Miss R. C. Duff, of the Ontario W. C. T. U., who has been in our midst for several days. During her stay Miss Duff gave six addresses on "Scientific Temperance," and on Tuesday evening the audience which attended the open meeting of the local Union was regaled by a most illuminating analysis of to-day's situation at home and abroad. The good wishes of our community go with Miss Duff as she continues to carry on the splendid work for which she is so well adapted.—Miss Jennie Reid, of St. Catharines, is the guest of her uncle, Mrs. Louis Innis.—Mr. Stewart Mowers has bought Mr. Ross Dudgeon's farm.—Messrs. A. C. Tummon and F. L. Amey motored to Odessa on Monday. — Mr. Geo. McCormick, of Michigan, paid a flying visit to his sister, Mrs. Sam Winter, on Tuesday. — Miss Wilma Jackson entertained a number of her friends on Wednesday evening.

New Details Make Hats Look Different

Paris, February 15th.—"Oh, for a change in hats". Many of us sigh as we buy our fortieth felt and wonder if sweetheart or husband will notice it. Usually he doesn't, of course, and, if we object to the lack of attention, exclaims : "But, my dear, it's exactly like the last".

Truly it can be said that the millinery silhouette changes very little; and, when it does, the change is so subtle as to be only apparent to the practiced eye. It is, however, no fault of the milliners.' Obviously women like the prevailing styles or they wouldn't be so extraordinarily faithful to them. The only thing for the modistes to do is to make for variation of detail, and that is going on all the time.

Crowns have undoubtedly realized their highest ambitions, and are now tending toward more ordinary planes. High-draped models still exist, of course, but there are many of more formal proportions

Felts, for women find it harder to part with them than with their best beaux, still remain the most favored headwear. The newest Panama is a "frosted finished" successfully sprayed on and which looks most attractive when viewed in the charming Spring colorings. Others, have straw facings, either in self or contrasting themes. An increasingly favored way is to fold or crease part of the crown and jab it into place with an ornamental pin.

Our Spring and Easter Millinery have arrived in splendid numbers. Early shoppers will find ample collections, offering individual selections. We invite your inspection.

$25.00 — Young Men's 1927 Spring Suits — $25.00

They're new, they're smart, they're fresh, Spring goods. The style is an intermediate English model, three-button double-breasted sack, soft rolled lapels to second button, natural shoulders, medium fitting, without vent, semi soft fronts. The materials are Plain Blues, Blue and Brown grounds with neat mixed stripes. Coats are lined all through with Art Silk. The cloths are serviceable. Splendid fitting garments. We stand back of them, so that you are absolutely protected. Plain Blues and Fancy Mixed Blues will be more popular this spring than ever. Best values to be had for the price, $25.00. See them.

OBITUARY

Mrs. Albert Giroux.

At the General Hospital, last evening, following an illness of two months, the death occurred of an esteemed resident of Brockville for the past fifteen years, in the person of Mrs. Albert Giroux, 127 Perth street.

The deceased was born in Quebec City, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Price, and about 28 years ago she removed to Napanee, where she remained until 1912, when the family came to Brockville to reside.

Besides her husband, well known operator at the Union station, she is survived by three sons, Messrs. Edwin Giroux, Newark, N.J.; Albert Percy Giroux, Atlantic City, N.J., who were at their mother's bedside when she passed away, and Mr. Sidney Norman Giroux, of Southport, England.

A member of St. Paul's Anglican Church, the late Mrs. Giroux was an active worker in the Women's Auxiliary and A. Y. P. A. She was a devout Christian woman, who was beloved by all with whom she had been acquainted and in her passing the town of Brockville loses a highly respected resident.

The funeral will be held to-morrow, (Tuesday) morning, at 11 o'clock, from the family residence, 127 Perth street, to St. Paul's Church, where the service will be conducted, and later the remains will be taken to Napanee, for interment. — The Recorder and Times, Brockville, February 28th, 1927.

Pall bearers in Brockville were H. I. Alberry, Jas. Fitzpatrick, G. G. Grother and Geo. W. Warwick. At Napanee the following acted as pall bearers : J. L. Boyes, P. Gleeson, F. H. Perry and F. B. Allison.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The sermon subject for next Sunday is "Past Feeling". — Mrs. Thomas Young's class of boys in the Marlbank Sunday School have a social evening in the home of their teacher on the 22nd of February, and had an enjoyable time in raising $10.00 for the M. and E. Fund. Mrs. Allen's class of boys are engaged in a similar undertaking on Thursday of this week. — Good sized audiences on Sunday night at Tamworth, and on Monday night at Marlbank, thoroughly enjoyed the illustrated lecture on "Our Mission Work in West China". — Mr. Elijah Jermain, a member of our Marlbank congregation, passed away, in his 85th year, on Friday, February 25th. He was one of the oldest and most respected members of the Lime Lake community. The funeral service was conducted in the home, and his body laid to rest in the cemetery about half a mile east of the home where he had lived so long. The congregation extends to the bereaved family their heartfelt sympathy.—At a meeting of the Tamworth Ladies' Aid held in the home of Mrs. L. P. Wells, last Tuesday afternoon, all the officers except the President, were re-elected for the ensuing conference year. Mrs. Thos. Milligan, the efficient President, refusing to serve another year, Mrs. C. Lochhead was elected.

MOSCOW

On Friday, Feb. 18th, the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Amey, to the number of about 160, gathered at their home to spend an evening with them before their departure for Yarker, where they will reside in future.

During the evening the following address was read by Mrs. Amos Hoffman, and Mr. Fred Clarke presented Mr. and Mrs. Amey with a beautiful oak kitchen cabinet.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Amey.

A few weeks ago the news of Moscow was that some of the residents were leaving Some have gone, and, now, we, the friends of this vicinity, have gathered here to bid farewell to the next, Mr. and Mrs. Amey, before they depart for their new abode in Yarker. We are truly sorry to see you leave us, and only wish you were to reside here for an indefinite time. But since you have deemed it to your advantage to go there, we are at least thankful that it is only five miles away

Mr. Amey is one of our own "boys" and we all know he has been a willing helper at all times. As a young fellow, Charlie was well liked by all, and his amiability has won him a host of friends. Then he became a man and brought to our midst a wife, whom all have learned to love. Mrs. Amey has been one of our workers, on whom we could always rely. If it were Red Cross work, Mrs. Amey would help; if Church work, she would help, and similarly with Institute, or any other beneficial enterprise.

You have been an asset to the community, which shall feel deeply its loss. But our loss is another's gain, and we are certain your generosity and kindness will be appreciated wherever you go.

This cabinet is only a small token of our sincere good wishes on your departure. May it be a slight reminder of your Moscow friends, whose feelings are expressed in these lines:

I would flood your path with sunshine,
I would fence you from all ill,
I would crown you with all blessings
If I could but have my will.
Aye, but human love may err, dear,
And a power, all wise, is near,
So I only pray God bless you
And keep you thro' future years.

Signed on behalf of Moscow friends.

Mr. Amey made a feeling reply to the address, expressing his regret at leaving Moscow, and thanked all for their beautiful gift. Mrs. Amey also expressed her appreciation of the kindness of her Moscow friends.

The evening passed quickly in music, games, dancing and social intercourse, and cake, sandwiches, and coffee were served.

One of the oldest residents of Moscow has passed away in the person of Mr. Joseph Lucas, Sr., who lacked a very few weeks of being ninety years of age. The aged gentleman, although for some time an invalid, retained his mental faculties to a remarkable degree, and enjoyed very much the visits of friends and relatives. He leaves one daughter, Mrs. J. Lucas, who tenderly cared for him in his illness. Another daughter, Mrs. Henry Huffman, and his wife, who was formerly Emily Amey, predeceased him. The funeral service was held in the Methodist Church, the pastor, Rev. Mr. McKenzie, officiating. The Masonic Order, of which Mr. Lucas was a member, will take charge of the burial, the remains being placed temporarily in Moscow vault.

We are having fine roads and weather. — Crows have made their appearance and spring is near.—A load of young people attended the play, "His Uncle's Niece," at Harrowsmith on Wednesday night, and all report it the treat of the season — Mr. Lamphier has moved on the Amey farm.—Major Amey is on the sick list. — Mrs. G. W. Lampkin visited her niece, Mrs. F. Grant, Sydenham, last week. — Mrs. Bell Kornbough visited Kingston and Gananoque recently.—Mr. E. Vanluven was in Kingston several days on business. — Mrs. Morley Huffman returned home from Kingston on Monday.—Mr. and Mrs. Geo. Huffman were "At Home" to a number of friends Thursday night.—The school bazaar on Friday night was a success, and all enjoyed the social evening. — Miss Marion Freeman, Yarker, spent the week end at Robert Asselstine's.—Mr. and Mrs. O. Allen visited Fred Darling, on Sunday.—Miss Idel Eckerbeck returned home for a few days.

Rheumatic Victims

Can Find Relief Through Building Up the Blood.

Pain is the symptom of rheumatism that every victim recognizes, and he generally attributes the trouble to cold, damp or changeable weather. But doctors know that thin blood is a marked characteristic of the trouble. Trying to cure rheumatism while the blood remains thin and poor, is an impossible task because there is nothing to build on. A tonic like Dr. Williams' Pink Pills that enriches the blood and frees it from poisonous impurities soon banishes rheumatism from the system. So long as the blood is maintained in a healthy condition the trouble will not return. This is not theory. It has been proved in hundreds of cases; here is one:—Mr. J. W. Rose, R.R. 2, Albany, P.E.I., says:—"For some years I was a great sufferer from rheumatism, and although I tried a great many remedies, I did not get any permanent relief until after I took Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The trouble was located mostly in my shoulders, and at times was so bad that my right arm was almost useless. Of course I suffered much pain and great inconvenience. My attention was directed to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills through an advertisement in our newspaper, and I decided to try them. I took the pills according to directions with the result that the rheumatism has left me, and I have never had a twinge of it since. If this article falls into the hands of rheumatic sufferer my advice is try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills at once."

You can get these pills from any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

It is sometimes easier to step into another man's shoes than it is to walk in them.

When a girl tells a fellow that she dreamed him last night before, it's up to him to propose, or get out of the game.

For years Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator has stood as a reliable worm preparation and it always maintains its reputation.

Cheer up, old chap; why don't you drown your sorrows?

"She's bigger than I am, and besides, it would be murder!"

The ease with which corns and warts can be removed by Holloway's Corn Remover is its strangest recommendation. It seldom fails.

"There's something radically wrong with men who drink those dangerous alcoholic concoctions."

"Radically wrong is right. They get the quart before the hearse, so to speak."

Joe—"Ophelia is a funny flapper."
Hank—"How's that?"
Joe—"Well, last night when I stole a kiss from her she landed on her chin, she said, 'Heaven's above'."

Actor—"The first night I played there, sir, the town stormed the ticket-office!"
Cynic—"Rotten luck! And, of course, you had to give 'em their money back?"

Good-bye Asthma. Persons suffering from that extremely trying trouble known as asthma know what it is to long with all their hearts for escape from a tyrant. Never do they know when an attack may come and they know that to struggle against it is vain. With Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy at hand, however, they can say good-bye to their misery and enjoy life again. It helps at once.

"You are a very backward pupil," remarked a schoolmaster, "of the hopeless sort that takes one's patience to the utmost. It seems to me that you are never able to answer one of my questions. Why is it?"

"Well, sir," the pupil replied, "if I knew all the answers you ask me, I suppose my father would not go to the trouble of sending me here!"

There is food for thought in the answer given by Mr. Thomas Hardy, O. M., the veteran author, to an admiring individual who asked him how many novels a writer could turn out in a year.

"If he's a genius," said Mr. Hardy "he can turn out, with the hardest kind of work, one; if he's a man of average ability, by straining every nerve he can turn out two; and if he's an ass he can easily turn out four."

German Lance Heavy.

"Among the most interesting of the war trophies that have found their way over here," says the Manchester (Eng.) Guardian, "are some specimens of the German lance. It is not a wooden pole, but an eleven or twelve foot steel tube. It is very heavy, and at first seems quite unmanageable to a man of ordinary strength. But two-thirds of the way down from the head towards the butt is a wrapping of thick twine to give a grip. And if you hold it there, and there only, you find that it is so evenly poised that, as one admiring observer remarked, you could write your name with it.

"There have been some descriptions of cases where these tubular lances have crumpled up in action like an overhardened steel rail on a racing yacht. Perhaps that may be accounted for by the peculiar shape of the head. There is no point or spear of any kind. Instead, there is a solid piece of iron shaped exactly like the end of a giant poker, square and quite blunt."

Her Memory All Right.

Mrs. Geddes had a new maid, and she found it necessary to repeat her instructions several times before Nora obeyed them. The mistress had told her repeatedly not to finger bowls, and one day when there were guests they were again forgotten.

"Now, Nora," said Mrs. Geddes, extremely exercised over the omission, "this is the sixth time I've had to tell you about the finger bowls. Didn't the woman you last worked for have them on the table?"

"No, mum," replied Nora; "her friends always washed their hands before they cum."

A Gentleman Fairy

By EDNA DEANE LYALL

(Copyright, 1918, by the Western News-paper Union.)

Where all the children came from Rodney Marsh could not comprehend! It seemed as if magically quick some telepathic signal had been conveyed to every juvenile in the vicinity of the great tenement row where he had paused to watch a little group make mud pies. They wore soiled, ragged garments, were barefooted, had with pity and interest the kindly faced young man studied these poor and neglected, but happy children of the city.

Marsh drew out some small change and dropped as many coins among the four urchins who were engrossed in their mock pastry task. There was a scramble, a rapturous yell, a babel of voices from doorways and alleys. Then poured into the center children from far afid near. They surrounded Marsh with grimed hands, extended and eloquent pleas for consideration.

"That is all," announced Marsh, as he detected specious repeaters in every face and started away.

Only one of the throng ran after him, breathless and bit eyed. He noted at once that she was of a different breed to the general mass, being clean, poorly, but neatly dressed, and with a winning personality.

"Oh, mister, please!" uttered the little six-year-old miss. "Are you really throwing away money?"

"Why, yes, my dear, to good little children, and I am sure you must be that."

"Mamma says so, and Auntie Phyllis," came the prompt response. "Oh, how rich you must be! But I know—you're a gentleman fairy! You see, I've been saving up to buy the big doll down at the corner. Come along and I'll show you," and the little one took his hand with a trustfulness that caused him to thrill with pleasure. She halted finally beside a show window full of toys and pointed with enraptured ecstasy at the object of her admiration.

It was marked two dollars. Marsh took out a banknote.

"Oh! does it take all that money?" cried Edith Waldron. "Please, Mr. Fairy, I can do without the doll, and I'd rather you'd buy an invalid chair for poor sick mamma."

"You sweet, self-sacrificing little cherub. You shall have the doll first, and then we will see about the invalid chair," said Marsh, and his compassion lunging and chatting to her coveted acquaintance, they went back towards the tenement row.

"There's where we live," little Edith enlightened Marsh, and she pointed to a third story window. There was a box filled with flowering plants. The windows were clean and bright and adorned with snowy white curtains. "My papa is dead and we are very poor, and Aunty Phyllis is nursing poor mamma, and she can't get about, and if any of your fairies have an invalid chair, won't you please send her one?"

"Indeed, I will!" pledged Marsh, and within the hour an invalid's wheeled chair was on its way to the old tenement. It had been a relief to mingle with the lowly and unice at least a few humble ones happy, but now Marsh's own troubles filled his thoughts. He had come to the city to find a lawsuit which, if it went against him, would mean the loss of nearly all he possessed. He knew that the claim against him was unjust, but it was in the unscrupulous hand vampires.

Marsh hunted the rooms on the third floor. He found Mrs. Waldron at an open door, noting the neatness of the place. A woman, pale and emergent, seated in a new invalid chair, greeted him.

"I understand that Miss Worth does cooking at home," spoke Marsh, "and I have some work for her if she is not too busy."

"My sister will return in a few minutes. Won't you be seated, Sir?" said the invalid.

Marsh sat down in a chair near a typewriter. From a table lay a number of typed sheets. He could not help but notice them. As Mrs. Waldron wheeled herself into an adjoining room Marsh picked up one and then another of the sheets, deeply absorbed.

"It is fate!" he whispered, quite aroused to himself, for by some strange coincidence Miss Worth had been copying the papers of the opposing counsel in his lawsuit. His face tightened as he became fully aware of the testimony and witnesses to be present, made some hurried notes and now knew what points to guard in the litigation.

Bright voices and footsteps sounded outside and Marsh arose to see a young girl twenty and a child of six, bearing in her loving clasp the famous doll of the corner store.

"Oh, Aunty Phyllis!" cried Edith ecstatically, rushing towards Marsh and throwing her arms about his neck. "It's the gentleman fairy!"

Marsh blundered through his equivocal mission as best he might. He said nothing when Miss Worth discovered his identity and began work as she could be should be repaid for the cherished invalid chair. It was destined to become a family possession, however, for the day Marsh won his case he asked gentle, faithful Phyllis Worth to become his wife.

They were discussing psychical research, spiritualism, haunted houses, etc.

"Do you believe that ghosts walk?" asked one ardent soul of an old gentleman.

"Of course, I do," he replied; "there is abundant proof of the fact—haven't you ever heard the Dead March?"

A Kleptomaniac

By T. B. ALDERSON

I was heartily sorry when I made the discovery of a regular and persistent shoplifter in the Modern Idea department store. There could be no doubt as to the identity and guilt of the suspected one. She was a pretty, graceful girl of about twenty. Her winning smile and kindly eyes at once attracted the good will of the various sales clerks with whom she came in contact. For days before I detected her in her systematic pilferings I had watched her, and then interestingly, observed her, and I could not get her out of my mind and was duly shocked and sorry when I saw her one afternoon slip a dozen lace collars off the counter into a muff she carried.

Peculations at the Modern Idea had become so flagrant that its manager came to the detective agency where I was employed and stated his case. He had in his hand an array of figures showing a long list of goods missing from inventory and certainly never sold.

"It is only occasionally that our house man catches a shoplifter," said the manager. "Those detected are usually poverty stricken wretches in the line, and rarely repeat the act of stealing. Their system is clumsy, the goods taken are of little value and detection and detention give them a good scare and they rarely trouble us again. It is the bigger thefts that give us concern. When three or four rings, or bracelets, are lifted in our jewelry department, reaching high values, when five fur coats are found missing in a week and not the slightest clew to the thief is discovered, it is then that we wake up and take serious notice. These higher-ups in thievery are the pests we aim to eradicate. It is a question with us if they do not belong to a skillfully trained, organized band, and to break them up is our great purpose in view."

I don't know how it was, but although I was hardened against the professional criminal and consistently severe with such, there was born in my heart a sympathy and an interest in this fair kleptomaniac that led me through strange mental perturbations. It got so that I began to look for her daily, not as a person I was employed to run down, but as might a lover for the object of his devotion.

She came to the store regularly three times a week and always at the same time, remained nearly two hours and made a regular business of her peculations. There was nothing stealthy in her methods. Her pretty face and bright, pleasing ways disarmed all suspicion on the part of the clerks. I observed that she noticed her transfer from a box half a dozen pairs of gloves to her capacious muff right before the eyes of the clerk, whilst she was chatting pleasantly with the floor manager, and then, as she turned away safe with her spoils, there came to her face a smile of such evident satisfaction that it appeared as though the zest of theft was to her the keenest enjoyment.

It had become my duty long before the end of a month to report and arrest this clever and apparently professional shoplifter. I had jotted down details of over twenty specific peculations, running from a bolt of priceless lace to a package of needles. My mind had become so filled with the girl and her doings that there was a sort of fascination about it all. I shadowed her to her home one evening. She had a room in a respectable apartment house, but when I guardedly explored her room I found that she turned over that she was Miss Alice Leslie, that she had no friends or associates, could live snugly within her means and devoted her time at home reading and writing.

One day I had followed her from floor to floor of the store and saw that she was talking with a clerk at one of the counters and had incidentally secreted several articles in some secret pocket in her skirts. When she turned to go out of the store I placed my hand on a neighbor and I sat alone awaiting her return. My attention was directed to an open desk. I noticed a written sheet. There was a list of every theft in which she had been involved at the Modern Idea, with audacious details as to the articles and their value.

When she appeared a strange impulse seized me. I could no longer play the sleuth. I was under. Love battled with duty. I told myself so I was and my entire interest in her.

She finished when I indicated a hope-less case of kleptomania as she uttered the words:

"Detected at last! Why, you have spoiled a pretty story, Mr. Arlington! In two months I would have finished my story in a daily newspaper, 'One Month as a Kleptomaniac.'"

"Indeed!" I exclaimed, "I am overjoyed—more so when our budding friendship expanded into the realms of fervent mutual love.

First Broadcast in Eskimo Tongue

"ATATAPSI, ilsiaraualub ok'arkattiringmasi tawa," may appear merely a typographical jumble, but if given the phonetic values of the French alphabet these groups of letters take on meaning which render them quite clear to the Eskimo inhabitants of Chesterfield Inlet, Southampton Island and other territory approaching and within the Arctic Circle. To the natives in the District of Keewatin and bordering the western shores of Hudson Bay these phonetic sounds would tell them that they were here being addressed by their "Father, the High Priest," in other words, Mgr. Arsene Turquetil, of the Order of the Oblates of Mary Immaculate, and Apostolic Prefect of Hudson Bay.

These phonetic groups form part of the message in syllabic characters shown above which is the written language understood by the Eskimo and Indian peoples in the northern parts of the Dominion.

The message was broadcast by Mgr. Turquetil from CNRO, the Ottawa station of the Canadian National Railways, Radio Department, and being transmitted in the Eskimo tongue was the first occasion on which that language had been used in a broadcast. At the same time, the prelate spoke in French, then in English, so that all listeners-in might understand what was being said.

Neither Eskimo nor Indian possessed a written language before the advent of the white man, although the Indians had a picture language, which is rather different. A white man invented a written language, first used by the Crees, then adopted by missionaries of various religious beliefs, until today it is in general use. This written language has been picturesquely termed "Birch bark talking," due to the use of bark and burnt stick in the early stages of its development.

The syllabic characters are the invention of James Evans, an Englishman who landed in Canada in 1829. Son of a sea captain who had remained long afloat owing to the Napoleonic wars, young Evans received a longer schooling than usual, during which time he displayed a remarkable aptitude for history and language. After his arrival in Canada, Mr. Evans obtained employment as a school teacher and, in course of time, served at various places in Ontario and ultimately advanced to missionary service in the Methodist Church. Mr. Evans encountered many language difficulties when his work led him among the aborigines and he set to work to devise a means of establishing communication on a more general scale than then possible.

THE TABLE KNIFE.

Origin and Development Since the Stone Age.

The knife with which you cut your meat to-day is the result of a slow development from the most remote ages. The bronze knife cannot long have existed before necessity prompted the use of a crude cutting instrument with which game might be killed and divided.

The knife was chipped out of flint or stone. Sometimes it was made from shell or the bones of animals or sharpened pieces of tough wood.

For ages the same implement served indiscriminately on the field of battle, in the chase and at meals. Finally it took different shapes according to the use to which it was to be put.

When history opens men are already using knives of copper. Soon what later on was added to the copper, and bronze instruments resulted. Bronze continued in favor until the time of Caesar, but iron had come into use a thousand years before. The steel of Damascus gradually took their places.

At the beginning of the Christian era table knives were still without favor. That they were used to a limited extent is indicated by the fact that ivory-handled knives were found in the Roman tombs, besides dishes of food. There are certain monuments depicting banquet scenes, at which the guests were provided with knives, but ordinarily the food was cut before being placed upon the table. We learn from Clement of Alexandria that by the second half of the second century the use of knives at table had become common in the Roman empire.

But certain it is that until the 14th century the table knife did not appear to a great extent. Up to that time the guests attending a dinner party provided their own knives or used their fingers. Within another century, however, the table knife became so popular that three distinct kinds of knives were manufactured.

During the first half of the 17th century Cardinal Richelieu, the founder of the French Academy, became offended by the rude manner in which pointed knives were used and thereafter caused his knives to be rounded. Before long the fashion was generally adopted, and the pointed blade, which, in lieu of a fork, had been useful in picking up pieces of meat, was abandoned. Since the 17th century the forms of table knife has remained substantially as we know it.

Dietetic Habits.

Some people seem to think that a vegetarian is a curiosity. A rough calculation shows that the population of the world, after estimated approximately at 1,600,000,000, is said to be divided as to dietetic habits about as follows: Strict vegetarians, 100,000,000; practically vegetarians, but eating a little fish or flesh, 450,000,000; eating meat only once a week (on high days and holidays), 500,000,000; eating meat daily and sometimes more than once a day, 400,000,000.

Queer Epitaphs.

Queer epitaphs are frequently fakes; but the following really appears in a Yorkshire churchyard: "Elizabeth, the wife of Richard Barkisland, passed to eternity on Saturday, 21st of May, 1797, in the seventy-first year of her age. Richard Barkisland, the latter spouse Uxorious, was interred here, 26th Jan., 1806, in his eighty-fourth year. Such an unloving uxorious may be is not explained."

Mr. J. Mandeville Suffered With a Sore Back.

Bennou, N.B., March 3rd, (Special) —The following is another of the many letters of praise which we are continually receiving. It comes from Mr. J. Mandeville, a well-known resident of this place, who writes: "I was troubled with a sore back for a long time. I took four boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and, about the time the pills were finished, my back was as well as ever. I cannot praise these pills enough."

It is on account of the good work that Dodd's Kidney Pills do, that they occupy such a prominent place in the family medicine chest. So many of the ordinary every-day ills come from sick kidneys. Rheumatism, bladder and urinary troubles, backaches, and kidney disease can be traced directly or indirectly to sick kidneys.

To be assured of real good health, keep the kidneys sound by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

In Dubious Garb

By RALPH HAMILTON

(Copyright, 1919, by the Western Newspaper Union.)

"Dear, dear!" mourned and pitied Alvin Prince, and stood looking down at a human form lying prone upon the straw-littered floor of an abandoned shelter shed at a remote corner of his farm.

He was a genial old soul, this pleasant-faced, kind-hearted decron, selectman and the prop and stay of sterling uprightness and dignity in the community. He had been passing the shed, when he fancied that a groan proceeded from within. He dropped across the threshold sill, startled and puzzled, gazed down at the recumbent figure. It was that of a young man with a refined cast of features, his eyes closed in sleep. Two further discoveries of the farmer brought a serious expression to his face. One hand was abrased and bleeding, and a cut in the head showed a second recent injury.

"A convict—an escaped convict," soliloquized Prince. "Poor fellow! And he's badly hurt. What is my duty in the case? He looks likely, and perhaps a mother, a sister is worrying about him. There isn't anything of the criminal in that face. Shall I protect him?"

The decision was quickly made. Prince proceeded across the farm, got to the house, made up a bundle and, hitching up a horse to the old family carryall, started back the route he had come.

"Mother and Zelda away," he soliloquized, "and I don't see Zeph anywhere around. That just suits me."

Zeph Barnes was the handy man about the farm. At that moment he was making his way past the shed to the house. His coarse face puckered as he discovered its inmate. He scented a mystery as he saw Prince returning. He wondered if there was any reward offered for the apprehension of convicts and, climbing to the shallow loft in the structure, waited for developments.

These materialized with the arrival of Prince. The latter proceeded to disrobe the stranger. He made a bundle of the incriminating convict garb and threw it into an old manger, attired him in a suit of his own, lifted him into the wagon and drove to the house. He got his involuntary guest to bed, applied lotion to his wounds, and wondered what his story would be. When consciousness was restored, Alvin Prince gently inquired if the injuries were painful.

"I think only a stumbling fall," replied his guest. "Let me see. Where was I? What was I doing? I'm all dazed. My name is Wilbur Thorne. I have a home, but I left it for wandering a long time ago. I've kept going with all kinds of jobs. You must be a pretty kind sort of a man to take in a stranger this way."

"Oh, that is all right," declared Prince lightly, and felt a certain delicacy about referring to his convict suspicions.

Mrs. Prince and her daughter Zelda came home two days later from a week's visit to a relative, to find the interesting-looking stranger insisting upon doing some light work about the farm. They were so used to the charitable impulses of the husband and father, that they did not question him when he told them that he was taking care of his visitor until he got on his feet again.

His frank, engaging ways won the favorable opinion of Zelda and her mother, and as the weeks drifted on Wilbur Thorne became so useful and so happy that Prince had not the heart to either question him or turn him away.

He had not noticed that a bond of mutual liking was being cemented between the two young people, but Zeph Barnes, himself secretly in love with Zelda, though the latter detested him, was witness to an interview between Thorne and herself when the latter confessed his deep affection for the farmer's daughter. Just before dusk that evening, just as the family were seated on the lawn, Mr. Prince reading, Mrs. Prince at her knitting and Zelda and Thorne looking over a pictorial magazine, there appeared Zeph Barnes and a man whom the farmer at once recognized as the town marshal.

"There's the man," spoke Zeph, pointing to Thorne. "He's an escaped convict, and here—" and he tore open a bundle under his arm, revealing the convict's garb in which Prince had first seen Thorne.

"Why! you give me a link in the past always a mystery to me," exclaimed Thorne abruptly, arising to his feet with an animated expression on his face. "I were that suit the day I got hurt. Where did you ever get it, Zeph? You see, Mr. Prince, my last job was playing the convict for some movie people over beyond the village. I took a casual stroll in it while waiting for my part in the scenario, had a bad fall, and—and I guess you can tell how you found me."

Zeph's dress back crestfallen. The marshal, however, insisted on some close questioning, and Wilbur Thorne was forced to tell that he was the son of a wealthy man with whom he had quarreled to become a wanderer. A repentant trunt, now that he had won Zelda's love, was willing to ask parental forgiveness, and a week later Alvin Prince was glad to accept Wilbur Thorne as his son-in-law.

Zam-Buk
ITS ROMANTIC STORY
A World Search for Rare Medicinal Herbs.

It is not commonly known that countries so far apart as China and Spain, Japan and England, and Tasmania and France have to be searched for the species of herbs used in the manufacture of that world-famed healing balm ZAM-BUK. These herbs are, many of them, rare and costly. They need to be gathered just at the right season when their juices and medicinal contents are at their very best.

Gathering medicinal herbs in Tasmania.

Zam-Buk is the true successor of the herbal healing balms of Ancient Rome; with the important addition of modern skill in addition to its rare herbal composition, has the rich centuries-old knowledge and manufacturing skill to bring it to a pitch of perfection probably never equalled in the ancient world.

The different medicinal qualities in Zam-Buk are beautifully balanced. The healing side with the antiseptic, the soothing with the germicidal, it is powerful, yet not too stimulating, and has just the right lubricity for removing scurf, scales, crusts, sprains and pains.

Thus Zam-Buk is a useful, reliable, and highly concentrated, medicinal dressing for really obstinate needle pain, skin disease, deep-seated eczema, and grow more healthy skin. Moreover, users of Zam-Buk have perfect confidence which alone comes from the knowledge that it is a refined herbal preparation and not an artificial ointment composed of pore-clogging fats and crude drugs.

Zam-Buk is invaluable in all aching, inflamed, and diseased conditions of the skin, whilst its swift antiseptic healing makes it the ideal first-aid dressing for burns, scalds, cuts, etc. It is also the soothing remedy for piles. This is a surprising tip on cleaning aluminum, but it works. Try it. One may scour and scrub with no result. Put the dish in the stove, empty, and light the gas, but do not turn it up high. In a little while all the marks will vanish from the inside. Turn upside down and put it back. In a little while the dish will be like new, you will find.

Idleness.

I am not the only one that condemns the idle; for once when I was going to give our minister a pretty long list of the sins of one of our people that he was asking me about, I heard with: "He's dreadfully lazy." "That's enough," said the old gentleman, "all sorts of sins are in that one."—C. H. Spurgeon.

Paradox of Rail Wear.

In a single track line railroad the wear on the rails is seldom greater, and is frequently less, than in a double-track line, says the Scientific American, an apparent paradox which is probably explained by the reversal of direction of traffic, which tends to neutralize goldrolling actions in the surface of the rail-head.

Continental Caligraphy.

The English are said to produce the best handwriting of all nations; the Americans come next; the French write badly, especially the ladies; the Italians very poorly, the Spaniards scarcely legibly. The two last named nations continue to use many contracted letters.

Water and Sheep Raising.

In parts of Australia, where the average yearly rainfall is not more than ten inches, a square mile of land will support only eight or nine sheep. In Buenos Aires, the same area, with thirty-four inches of rain, supports 2,500 sheep.

The Pine Cone.

So hard is the cone of a pine in our western forests that the imprisoned seeds cannot be propagated in the ordinary way. The best way is to burn the cone over a fire until it bursts, when the seeds escape. Forest fires give these cones their chance.

GARDENING SERVICE

Although winter still "lingers in the lap of spring" it is not too early to start plans for the garden that one has dreamed of during the winter months. Experience is not necessary for there is really no mystery about growing flowers and vegetables. With a little planning, some healthy exercise and a small outlay of cash, the ordinary backyard of weeds and spindly grass flanked by unsightly fences and leading to a garage and chicken house may be changed into something upon which the eye will delight to dwell. Those beautiful vistas of broad lawn sweeping up to an informal bed of flowers, or those prim rows of green topped vegetables are not hard to obtain. Given a seed catalogue, a spade, and a bit of vision, anything in the garden line is possible.

Planning the Garden.

One can put in a garden without a plan, but the results are apt to be disappointing. It is advisable to take an evening off this week and lay out the vegetable plot on paper. Even if the backyard is only a matter of a few feet each way, it is surprising the amount of crisp vegetables which may be grown, particularly if one uses a little care in laying out. Of course where space is less limited a full year's supply may be grown easily. Where the garden is large enough to permit horse cultivation, the job is a simple one. Make all rows thirty inches apart, except those for some of the taller or more spreading sorts such as corn, tomatoes, or cucumbers, which should have a full yard between. When it is quite possible to use a horse, carrots, beets and such can be cut down to twelve inches and beans and peas to fifteen or eighteen. This of course is rather narrow. It is a good plan to have alternate rows of quick maturing stuff like lettuce, spinach, or radishes, which will be used before the rows of later maturing vegetables spread out. In order to get the most of the sunlight, run the rows north and south. To conserve space, stake tomatoes and have all climbing vegetables next the fence. It is advisable to grow the flowers fut cutting in with the vegetables as these plants are seldom allowed to reach the ornamental stage. Many of them such as sweet peas are not attractive and do best under regular vegetable garden conditions. A few showy annuals such as poppies, zinnias, and perhaps a few cosmos in the corners or at the end of the rows will not be wasted here as they add a touch of color to the otherwise solid green.

Laying Out the Flowers.

Little planning is necessary in laying out the annual flower garden. Here straight rows, so desirable in the vegetable patch, must be avoided at all costs. The most attractive layout is the informal one. This however, does not mean a jumbled mass. Best results are obtained by grouping all varieties of one type and color in clumps, with the shorter stuff such as alyssum and ageratum at the front, zinnias, marigolds, asters and a score of other medium sized plants farther back, and along the rear the cosmos, dahlias, and similar plants. Another point to remember in planning the annual flower garden is that a succession of bloom is most essential. A good flower garden should make a show from early June until frost. California poppies and cornflower or bachelor's buttons may be counted on for early bloom, and these along with the annual larkspur and cosmos may be sown on the late snow. Calendulas, candytuft and coreopsis, which also can be planted early, will start blooming in early summer. Nasturtiums and marigolds, if the flowers are kept picked off, will be covered with bloom throughout most of the season. Zinnias, salpiglosis, verbena, ageratum, cosmos and petunias will supply plenty of late summer and fall bloom.

Keep Plants Covered.

This is the hardest season of the year on perennial plants. Just now when the sun is mounting higher and becoming warmer climbers and shrubbery on the south side of the house particularly are liable to start bringing sap up from the roots. After sunset there is an abrupt drop in temperature, and this sap may freeze and burst the tiny cells inside the stems. This damage is not noticed until later on when but weakly sprouts are sent out or perhaps none at all. On the shady side of the house there is less danger, but it is well in every case to make sure that roses, ivy, and shrubbery are well covered around the roots. Perennial border too may need some attention in this connection. Straw, old flower stocks, leaves and such make the best cover.

Order seeds early of you want to be sure of getting the best varieties.

It is time to look over cold frame and hot bed sashes to make sure that all the glass is in good shape.

Pick out a few novelties in both flowers and vegetables, but let the proved varieties be the main crops.

Seed labels, stakes, and trellis work may be prepared now.

Look over last year's garden plan and study it for improvements.

March Weather Dangerous to Baby

On Account of the Very Sudden Changes in Temperature.

Our Canadian March weather—one day bright, but sloppy, the next blustery and cold—is extremely hard on children. Conditions make it necessary for the mother to keep the little one indoors. They are often confined to overheated, badly ventilated rooms and catch colds which rack the whole system. To guard against these colds and to keep the baby well till the better, brighter days come along, a box of Baby's Own Tablets should be kept in the house and an occasional dose given the baby to keep his stomach sweet and his bowels working regularly.

Baby's Own Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowels and thus relieve colds and simple fevers and keep baby fit. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CONCERT AND PLAY.

On Thursday evening, March 10th, in Grace Church Sunday School Room, under the auspices of The Helping Hand Bible Class. The concert will consist of monologues, musical reading, solos, Orchestra and Xylophone numbers; ending with a play, "A Sweetheart for Two". Admission, 25c. and 15c. 9a

The Day of Prayer.

All the women of the town are invited to the Hour of Prayer, held in Grace United Church, this (Friday), March 4th, at 3 p.m. "From the rising of the sun unto the going down of the same, the Lord's name be praised". Few ideas have so seized the imagination of the women as this of a pilgrimage in every land to one meeting place—the mercy seat of God. When the earth begins her diurnal round on March 4th, the women of the Orient will be seen wending their way to the place of prayer. As the day proceeds, those of other lands join the throng along the way, until from East to West one vast concourse of women will have met with one impulse which makes them kin and the whole world be caught together with a net invisible but full of potential strength.

People of Napanee District Entertained in Toronto.

On Thursday evening, Feb. 24th, a very enjoyable dance took place at Sourcetan Hall, on Dovercourt Road, Toronto, when Mr. Jack Dunn, of Gladstone Ave., formerly of Camden East, undertook to gather together all in the city who had formerly come from the Napanee district, to have an old-fashioned party. A large crowd turned out and many old acquaintances were renewed. The music provided was by old time fiddlers, and was all that could be desired to both square and round dancing, until long after the midnight hour. Lunch was served by the ladies present. Those present represented the following places: Newburgh, Camden East, Yarker, Colebrook, Moscow, Enterprise, Tamworth, Centreville, Napanee and Belleville.

Bad Accident Prevented.

Displaying a remarkable presence of mind and unusual coolness in the face of danger, Harold Groome, eldest son of Menzo Groome, Napanee, recently prevented a very serious accident. During the horse races held on the ice at Stella, the horse he was driving, owned by Mr. Lyons, headed directly for the large crowd of people. The horse was going at a good rate of speed, when, quick as a flash, he rose from his seat on the sulky and crawled along the shafts, from which position he was able to vault on to the horse's back, and by grabbing the bridle was able to pull the horse aside, and later bring it to a stop. Many people who saw the heroic deed, stated that it was a splendid exhibition of courage and prevented serious injury or accident to any one.

Bethany Ladies' Aid.

The Ladies' Aid of Bethany appointment, on the Bay Circuit, have arranged with the Hay Bay Young People to give their two plays in the Church on Friday evening, March 11th; at 8 o'clock. Besides the two plays there will be music by two artists from the Hayburn orchestra. Lots of good clean fun, lots of laughter. Admission 35c. Bethany Church, Friday, March 11th, 8 p.m. 9a

Trinity Anniversary.

The special preacher at Trinity Church Anniversary services will be the Rev. T. E. Holling, B.A., of Cambridge St., Lindsay. Mr. Holling has held important pastorates in Vancouver, Winnipeg, and Ottawa, and will be heartily welcomed on his first visit to Napanee. Mr. Will Hockewell, of Detroit, is always a great favorite in his home town, and will sing both on Sunday and Monday. As usual, the men of Trinity congregation are serving dinner on Monday from 6 to 2. 9a

HOCKEY

DESERONTO AND OSHAWA PLAY INTERSCHOLASTIC FINAL HERE TO-NIGHT

What promises to be one of the best hockey games of the season is the game to-night between Oshawa High School and Deseronto High School for the Interscholastic Championship of Ontario. Deseronto have a tremendous task on their hands, as they have a three-goal lead to overcome, but Coach Whitton, of Deseronto, is confident that his lads will win the game and the round. Deseronto are playing this game on Napanee ice, as the ice in their own rink is gone, owing to the mild weather of last week.

This is the game that Napanee people have been waiting for, and for excitement it will not be lacking. Deseronto have backed their boys all winter, and they will be in Napanee tonight by the hundreds. Every car in Deseronto is being engaged for the evening, and already several sleigh loads are coming down for the event. Oshawa, too, are confident that they can hold their own, and a big delegation will accompany their team.

Oshawa has a real smart team, and three of their players, Rowden, Little and Black, were with the Oshawa Shamrocks in the Junior O.H.A., and advanced into the semi-finals, being eliminated by St. Michael's, Toronto. Rowden is the star of the Oshawa team and will be plenty of watching. Deseronto has a smart team, and they are all "99-minute" men. Whitton at centre, Dellor and Brinyea compose the forward line, and they have a nice burst of speed and are real hockey players. Deseronto won the title last year, going through the season without a defeat, and Tuesday night was their first defeat of this season. It should be the best game of the local season.

DR. R. H. SWITZER DIES OLD INJURY BLAMED

Injuries sustained in an automobile accident three years ago were given as the cause of the death on Friday of Dr. Robert H. Switzer, former Camden osteopath.

Dr. Switzer, who resided at 5141 Chestnut Street, Philadelphia, never entirely recovered from injuries to his stomach after being in a crash in Northern Pennsylvania. His condition became serious, and he was removed Wednesday to a private hospital at Pentywinth street and Wayne avenue, where he succumbed. He was 42 years old.

The deceased was born in Canada, and came to this city when a boy, receiving his education in the Stevens school here. He later studied at the American School of Osteopathy, Kirksville, Mo., where he received his degree at the age of 21. He practiced in Camden until 15 years ago, and since has practiced in Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

He founded the Philadelphia chapter of the Iota Paw Sigma, and was a member of the Philadelphia Lodge of Elks. He was the son of Mrs. Adelia and the late Robert N. Switzer, and is survived by his wife, Mrs. Catherine Switzer, and a brother, J. H. Switzer, a Camden Attorney.

Funeral services will be held two o'clock, Sunday afternoon, at the funeral parlors of John S. Berkelbach, Broad street and Germantown avenue, Philadelphia. Dr. John D. McIlhenny, pastor of the Church of Resurrection, Philadelphia, will officiate, while the members of the Iota Paw Sigma will act as pallbearers. Interment will be made privately in Arlington Cemetery, Lansdowne, Pa.

Daffodils, 5 Cents, Friday and Saturday.

60 cents per dozen. Choice quality. Dale Estate stock, on special sale at Hooper's Drug Store.

Cod Liver Oil is undoubtedly the best builder for a child underweight, and Howard's Emulsion is perhaps the most pleasant form of administering it. 35c., 60c. and $1.20 at Wallace's.

WEDDING BELLS

The home of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnston was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Wednesday, February 23rd, 1927, when their only daughter, Minnie, was united in matrimony to Robert Stewart Gendron, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gendron, Ardendale, Rev. Harold E. Frair officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. To the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, she took her place beside the groom. The bride looked charming in a gown of powder blue georgette and satin with touches of silver. She wore a bandeau of silver leaves and carried a bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley. Grey slippers and hose completed the costume. Miss Irene Gendron, sister of the groom, acted as bridesmaid, and looked very pretty in orchid georgette and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses. Dorothy Barr, niece of the groom, and Gwendolyn Johnston, niece of the bride, becomingly gowned in mauve crepe, made dainty little flower girls.

Mr. Fred Johnston, brother of the bride, acted as best man.

Following the ceremony a dainty wedding breakfast was served, after which the happy couple left amid good wishes and showers of confetti for a trip to Montreal and other points, and on their return will reside at Smith Falls.

The bride travelled in a French blue needlepoint coat trimmed with grey fox fur, and small hat to match. She carried a grey purse, the gift of the groom. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a platinium brooch, and to the best man a gold tie pin. Only the immediate relatives attended the wedding. Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Barr, Toronto, and Dorothy, Russel Gendron and Wm. Kimberley, of Smith Falls.

HOCKEY

DESERONTO WINS INTER-SCHOLASTIC HONORS

Deseronto 2, Oshawa 0.

Defeating Oshawa Collegiate in Port Hope, on Tuesday night, by 2 to 0, the Deseronto High School won the inter-scholastic final for the Central Ontario hockey title. It was the third game of the play-offs, the teams each having won their home game 6 to 3, leaving the round 9 to 9. Both schools took large delegations of student supporters. Oshawa fans went by bus and Deseronto on a special car attached to the C.N.R. train.

Deseronto were much the better team and an element of luck only kept them from increasing their two-goal margin. Doc Rowden of the Oshawa junior team, in company with Art Black and Ty Little, also of the Shamrocks, were literally checked dizzy for the full sixty minutes and the rain of body checks which were handed them reduced their effectiveness.

Whitten, midget centre man for Deseronto, was the best man on the ice. He is one of the fastest junior players ever seen here, and Deseronto have a player that can be hard to duplicate. Playing the full sixty minutes he literally tied the Oshawa forward line in knots. Cole, who scored Deseronto's first goal, played a stellar game, and during the first period was in on top of the net on various occasions. Bruyea made seven trips to the penalty box and accounted for the second goal on a nice effort. Detlor, playing right wing for the easterners, turned in a fine game and Sparling's play with a clever poke check. McVicker in goal while he had an easy time, turned aside a good many difficult drives. Little was the best man for Oshawa. The teams :

Oshawa—Goal, McNally; defence, Peterson and Hubbel; wings, Rowden and Black; centre, Little; subs, Carver and Young.

Deseronto—Goal, C. McVicker; defence, A. McVicker and Cole; wings, Bruyea and Detlor; centre, Whitten; subs, Green and Cochrane.

Referee—Baird, of Belleville.

Deseronto 6, Oshawa 3.

One of the most exciting games of hockey ever staged in Napanee was played here on Friday evening between Deseronto and Oshawa High Schools. This was Deseronto's home game and was played here because of lack of ice on their open rink.

The motor city boys came to Napanee with a three-goal lead in the series, and shortly after the game started scored another one, leading them four up. It looked like a herculean task for Deseronto to even up, but that lead, but this they did and made the game a tie on the round.

The first period ended 2-1 in favor of Deseronto.

The second period proved to be Oshawa's downfall. The play of the whole team became demoralized and the Deseronto boys, taking full of this stanza, the total score being 5-2.

The third period was a whirlwind. Each player gave his best, but Deseronto scored after several minutes of play and shortly before the game ended the Oshawa team scored also on a lucky shot, which, had the Deseronto goalkeeper let alone, would have gone wide. He struck the puck with his stick and it was deflected into the net. This period ended 6-3, a total of 6-3 in favor of Deseronto.

The score in Oshawa was exactly the same, with Oshawa the winners, thus the round ended in a tie.

Jack Barrett, of Belleville, refereed the game in his usual efficient manner.

One of the best hockey matches of the season was played at the Napanee arena, last Saturday evening when the fast Hayburn team crossed sticks with the Bath boys. The game was hair-raising from start to finish, and kept the spectators on their tip-toes all through the game. The ice being in fairly good condition made the game a little more exciting. The game had just nicely started when F. Young, star defence player of the Bath team, pulled the first goal for Hayburn, Hayburn came back to life and scored, making both teams tie at the end of the first period. In the second period Northmore and Haselton scored for Bath, while Hayburn tallied one goal. Thus the score was 3-2, in favor of Bath. In the last period Hayburn tried hard to equal the Bath goalie was too much for them. On the Hayburn team the outstanding players were the Dickson boys, Ray Dickson, in goal, guarded the net like a professional and tried his best to keep the "rubber" on the outside. On the Bath team, Northmore, Young and Haselton were the stars. Their back-checking and combination was a treat for any fan to watch. C. Young, Calver, and Hoardson played well the forward line, while Crowe and Barrage were ready to relieve them. Bowden, star left wing, was in the fray all through. Our speedy wing player never fails to be in the scoring line, and always tallies a goal or two for his team. F. Covert handled the game to the satisfaction of both teams, and he certainly knows how. Both teams played home feeling as bright and happy as when they went over, and the "sporty" feeling was in us all.

SUCCESSFUL ENTERTAINMENT AT BATH

One of the finest and most varied entertainments ever held in the village of Bath, was presented to a capacity audience, in the Masonic Hall, last Friday evening, by the Y. P. S. of the United Church.

The program of this excellent entertainment was in charge of Mrs. E. Horn, Mrs. H. Vanalstine, Mrs. Arthur Sams and Mrs. (Rev.) Ross; the two former ladies having the management of the literary department, Mrs. Sams directing the refreshment question, and Mrs. (Rev.) Ross preparing the musical numbers and presiding at the piano throughout the proceedings of the evening.

The Pastor having taken the chair by the request of the Society, the program was opened by a full chorus, entitled "The Song of the New Crusade", rendered by the members of the Y. P. So, and at the conclusion of the song, the whole audience joining in the Lord's Prayer. The program consisted of the following :

Male chorus, entitled "My Ship is Coming In", by Messrs. C. Young, S. Calver, G. Davey, W. Twitchett, E. Whittaker, and the Pastor.

Recitation, "Coming Thro' the Rye", Miss T. Shepherd.

Piano solo, "The Butterfly Song", Miss C. Davey.

Monologue, "Johnny Reads the Newspaper", Mr. Cecil Horn.

Vocal solo, "In Days of Youth", Mrs. E. Whittaker.

Male chorus, "Along the River of Time We Glide".

Solo, "Juanita", (voice and harp), Miss Margery Huffman.

Monologue, "Original Selections", Mr. Crowe.

Short Play, entitled, "The Rest Cure".

Vocal solo, "Danny Boy", Rev. Mr. Ross.

Plantation song, "Old Black Joe" Sheldon Calver.

The following is the caste of the play, William Twitchett, Miss Thelma Shepherd, Mrs. H. Vanalstyne, Miss Mills and Miss Evelyn Young.

The door receipts amounted to about $60.00, but the greatest bit of all was the unqualified pleasure and delight which the evening's proceedings afforded the large audience, and the young folks are to be congratulated, and are worthy of the highest praise, for the excellent way in the program received an encore.

VIOLET INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Violet Women's Institute was held on Thursday, March 3rd, at the home of Mrs. J. McCormick, with thirty members and visitors present.

The roll call was answered by suggestions for the programme for the coming year.

An excellent paper on current events, was given by Miss E. McMillan and Mrs. MacIntyre also a duet by Mrs. Ray Brown and Miss E. Garrison, which was enjoyed by all. This motto was adopted : "I am one, but I am one; anything I can do, I ought to do; anything I ought to do, God helping me, I will do."

Plans were made for social evening to be held at the Brick School House, on March 18th. Good programme and lunch will be served. Admission 25c. Everybody welcome.

The meeting was then brought to a close by singing the National Anthem followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. J. McDonald, on April 7th. Everybody welcome.

ENTERPRISE

At the Women's Institute held at the home of Mrs. Mellow, on February 25th, a good programme was given. A number of readings were listened to with interest, also an excellent paper by Miss Reed, entitled "Reading and Books". Some of the thoughts it contained were : "Books are inspiring friends, always at hand when we need them". "A person who reads little or truly by the books he reads than by the company he keeps". "If we were to read as much as we do our conversation would have plenty of time in which to improve." Mrs. Ed. Fenwick and a number of the ladies of the Institute have just finished a very successful course in Dress and Home Dressmaking under the able supervision of Miss Broadfoot and Miss Hicks. It was decided to send a committee of ladies to visit the school in order to see if anything was needed in the improvement to be made. An excellent lunch was provided by the President after which the meeting closed in the usual manner.

OBITUARY

Mrs. W. S. Herrington.

Deep grief was felt throughout the town on the afternoon of Sunday, March 6th, when the news spread of the death of Mrs. Herrington, wife of Warden S. Herrington, K.C. Mrs. Herrington's health had been impaired for some time, but she had been able to continue most of her usual activities, and had appeared to be regaining her strength. Her final illness was but of a few hours' duration, and the end came with unexpected suddenness.

Mrs. Herrington was a very prominent and public-spirited member of the community, and was an enthusiastic and energetic worker in every good cause. For many years she had been identified with the Children's Aid Society, and at the time of her death was head of the Women's Finance Committee of the Victorian Order of Nurses. During the war the Red Cross work benefitted by her labours, and it may be said that no movement for the welfare of the community failed to draw from her a sympathetic and substantial support. But what elicited the most untitled devotion of her time and her talents was the work of her Church. In Sunday School, Choir, W. A. and almost every form of church activity, her earnest zeal was manifested. For several years she had been President of the Church Women' Guild, and upon its work were lavished her time and her efforts, while her gifts of leadership and her personal popularity ensured that coöperation which so recently resulted in the achievement of the society's main objective—a new Church, in the town, and in a very wide circle of friends, will Mrs. Herrington be greatly missed.

The funeral service was held in St. Mary Magdalene's Church, on Tuesday afternoon, conducted by the Vicar, Rev. Rural Dean Coleman, assisted by Rev. Messrs. A. H. Coleman, A. H. Creegan, R. W. Spencer, and J. deB. Wright. The church was filled to the doors. The hymns, "For All the Saints" and "Abide With Me", were well rendered by the large choir, and Mr. Norman Rathbun sang very beautifully "Rock of Ages".

Mrs. Herrington was the daughter of the late William Tilley, who was Science Master at the Napanee High School about forty years ago. Besides her husband she is survived by three children, Miss Helen, of New York; Mrs. T. D. Sneath, of Boston, and W. Harold, of Kingston; and by one brother, J. Fred Tilley, of Toronto. A brother, Major William Tilley, died in England, about 1 year ago.

WILTON LADIES' AID

The March meeting of the Wilton Ladies' Aid was held at the home of Mrs. A. W. Hepburn on Wednesday afternoon, March 2nd. With the President, Mrs. Earl Ferry, in the chair, the meeting was opened by singing hymn 325, after which Rev. Mr. Mitchell led in prayer. Mrs. F. P. Sharpe chose the XXIV Psalm to be the lesson for the meeting. Mrs. Hepburn, who had been asked at our February meeting to see if the Murvale boys could come to us some time in March, reported that they were willing to come. We decided to have them with us Tuesday, March 15th, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid.

Rev. Mr. McQuade now took charge of the meeting, and the election of officers took place. The officers for the ensuing year are :—

President, Mrs. A. Ear' Ferry; 1st Vice President, Mrs. Fred F. Sharpe; 2nd Vice President, Miss Gladys Wallace; Secretary, Miss Blanche Babcock; Assistant Secretary, Mrs. Erwell Miller; Treasurer, Mrs. Geo. Embersley; Press Reporters, Miss Gladys Wallace and Mrs. Fred F. Sharpe. A Programme Committee, consisting of Mrs. Bernard Mills, Mrs. John Carr and Mrs. Fred Sharpe, were appointed to arrange the programmes for the next three months. We arranged at whose home we would hold our meetings for the coming year, and at present the Ladies' Aid meets. We voted that the following year would end December 31st, instead of March 31st, as from now on the Church year ends December 31st.

The meeting was closed by singing hymn 349, "Take Time to be Holy", and Rev. Mr. McQuade leading in prayer.

At the close of the meeting, our hostess served delicious refreshments.

WILTON PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

The annual meeting of the Wilton Presbyterian congregation was held in the Church last Thursday evening, March 3rd, with a large and representative attendance on hand. The meeting was called to order by the chairman, Rev. W. S. Moffett. After the singing of a hymn and prayer offered by the minister, the regular routine of business was taken up. Reports of the sessions, officers, and managers, were given in detail, and satisfactory report showed the finances in a flourishing condition with a substantial balance on hand, after the minister's salary and all debts were paid to date. Rev. Mr. Moffett, after the close of the year, in virtue of the prosperous conditions, it was unanimously voted that the present minister, Rev. W. S. Moffett, receive a substantial increase in stipend. A committee was appointed to look after the social welfare of the church, and they have decided to have a St. Patrick's Banquet on March 17th. The entire programme will be provided by the members of "Kingston's Little Brown Jug".

After the business was all dispensed with, the meeting was adjourned for a social evening, refreshments provided by the ladies—being served by the younger members of the congregation. Taken altogether, the evening was voted, by all present, a decided success.

The Canadian Departmental Stores, Limited, a recent consolidation of 22 department stores, located in the principal cities in Ontario and Quebec, announce their board of directors. This directorate, composed of outstanding business and financial men, will be as follows:—

Mr. G. H. Rennie, President, and who is to be the general manager, and who for the past several years has been Assistant General Manager of the Robert Simpson Company, Limited, of Toronto; Wm. Flavelle, President Victoria Loan & Savings Co., Ltd.; Chas. M. Reid, President Ritchie Co., Ltd.; Duncan Ferguson, President Duncan Ferguson Co., Ltd.; E. J. Coles, President E. J. Coles Co., Ltd.; Chas. Austin, President Chas. Austin Co., Ltd.; H. B. Bristol, President A. Bristol & Son, Ltd.; George Wright, President Robert Wright, Ltd.; J. C. Engel, President H. H. Engel, Limited; W. E. F. Bryans, President Bryans Limited; J. W. Robinson, President Robinson Co., Ltd.; James Ogilvie, President Ogilvie-Lochead, Ltd.; A. A. Fournier, President A. A. Fournier, Ltd.; R. A. Beamish, President Beamish & Smith, Ltd.; P. A. Huntington, President Huntington's, Limited; W. C. Cressman, President Cressman Co., Ltd.; R. Robinson, President Maclaren Co., Ltd.; I. L. Matthews, President I. L. Matthews Co.; F. M. Stafford, President F. M. Stafford, Ltd.; James Smith, Fenton & Smith; T. H. Pratt, President T. H. Pratt, Ltd.; T. A. Neely, director, Montreal Rail & Water Terminal, Ltd., Director of Municipal Bankers Corp., Ltd.; D. W. Gordon, Director of Municipal Bankers Corp., Ltd., and Director of Canadian Rail & Harbor Terminals, Limited.

The consolidated business experience of these men, who are responsible for the profitable operation of their business in various cities augers well for the success of this consolidation.

The stores entering the consolidation are located in the following cities and towns: Belleville, Stratford, Woodstock, Chatham, Picton, Brockville, Lindsay, Hanover, Sault Ste. Marie, Napanee, Brantford, Ottawa, North Bay, Midland, Peterboro', Huntsville, St. Catharines, Port Arthur, Montreal, Sudbury, Pembroke, and Hamilton.

The owners of the stores chosen in the various cities throughout Ontario and in Montreal have been quick to recognize the great buying advantages to be gained in centralized purchasing and feel that this consolidated buying power assuredly will place them in a position to offer merchandise wider in variety, up to the minute in style, and at much better prices.

The Canadian Department Stores, Limited, will be the first chain of dry goods stores to operate in Ontario and have the advantages previously mentioned of acquiring businesses long established and successfully operated.

ERNESTTOWN WOMEN'S INSTITUTE

A wonderful manifestation of interest is seen each month when so many ladies come together for the regular meeting of the Ernesttown Institute. Mrs. J. B. Sharp acted as hostess this month, the meeting being held on Tuesday, March 1st. The confinon procedure was followed, but particular mention must be made of the helpful common sense suggestions received for spring cleaning. The correspondence was read by the secretary, and included a letter of thanks from Mrs. Baker for flowers sent, and a letter from the superintendent treating on the summer series public meeting, which event we are all looking forward to with eagerness.

Several matters of importance occupied the attention of all. Among them arose the question of putting in readiness a community hall for meeting purposes, etc. The committee in charge of this problem consists of the two vice presidents and the directors, and their aim is to have everything in order for the April meeting.

Mrs. Wiseman, as speaker of the visiting committee, reported on the work under their supervision. Also committees were formed to arrange for the programme and lunch for next month.

Our programme was very interesting throughout. Mrs. Priest gave her usual well-planned notes of current history, and Mrs. Andrew Miller and Mrs. Claude Thompson delighted all their listeners with their solos. The action contest proved a decided success. Many varied and beautiful pieces of handiwork were on display. We were highly honored in having three ladies with us, Mrs. Edward Kavber, Mrs. William Fretts and Mrs. Clarence Sharp, members of sister branches, to act as judges. The prize, a silver tea strainer, was awarded to Mrs. Harold Kilgannon. Miss Muriel Miller gave a praise-worthy paper on a woman's unique endurance and stability, the character involving Nurse Warburton, who met with such thrilling experiences on her lecturing trip through the Rockies.

Delicious refreshments of sandwiches, cake, and tea, were served. If all is well, the next meeting will be held on Tuesday afternoon, April 5th, in the community hall. Will each member come with a helpful suggestion for next year's programme.

A young woman went into a stationer's shop in a country town and asked to see some notepaper. After selecting what she desired, she hesitated for a moment.

"Do you make any reduction to clergymen?" she asked.

"Certainly, madam," said the stationer. "Are you a clergyman's wife?"

"N-no," replied the girl.

"Ah! a clergyman's daughter?" suggested the stationer.

"N-no," was the hesitating reply. Then she leaned across the counter and spoke in a confidential whisper: "But if nothing happens I shall soon be engaged to a theological student."

If Miller's Worm Powders needed the support of testimonials they could be got from mothers who know the great virtue of this excellent medicine. But the powders will speak for themselves and in such a way that there can be no question of them. They act speedily and thoroughly, and the child to whom they are administered will show improvement from the first dose.

Address and Presentation

On Monday evening, February 21st, 1927, a number of friends and neighbours gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Wartman, and presented them with the following address and presentation, before their departure to their new home at Portsmouth.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Wartman,—Time brings many changes. Some of them are very unwelcome, but it seems quite necessary. It is one of these changes that has brought so many of your friends to your home to-night. We have known you for a number of years and now as you are leaving this community we desire to express to you our regrets at your going, and also to assure you that our very best wishes go with you to your new home at Portsmouth, and shall always welcome you back again.

While we regret your leaving, we sincerely hope that it will be to your advantage, and as an expression of our best wishes for your success, we ask you to accept these chairs, and may they remind you of your friends of Elm Beach.

Signed on behalf of your friends.

G. K. C. IN AMERICA.

How This Continent Impressed the Famous Englishman.

"I have never managed to lose my old conviction that travel narrows the mind," says Mr. G. K. Chesterton in "What I Saw in America."

"When I had looked at the lights of Broadway by night, I made to my American friends an innocent remark that seemed for some reason to amuse them. I had looked, not without joy, at that long kaleidoscope of colored lights arranged in large letters and sprawling trade-marks, advertising everything from pork to pianos, through the agency of the two most vivid and most mystical of the gifts of God—color and fire. I said to them, in my simplicity, 'What a glorious garden of wonders this would be to any one who was lucky enough to be unable to read.'

"New York, considered in itself, is primarily a place of unrest, and those who sincerely love it, as many do, love it for the romance of its restlessness. I do not think the dollar is almighty in America. I fancy many things are mightier, including many ideals and some rather crude ideals.

"The American talks about his work, and the Englishman about his holidays. I went to America with the notion, not of satirizing prohibition; but I soon found that well-to-do Americans were only too delighted to discuss it over their meals and wine. They were even willing, if necessary, to dispense with the nuts.

"Now prohibition, whether as a proposal in England or a pretence in America, simply means that the man who has drunk less shall have no drink, and the man who has drunk more shall have all the drink. It means that the old gentleman shall be carried home in the cab drunker than ever; but that, in order to make it safe for him to drink to excess, the man who drives him shall be forbidden to drink even in moderation. That is what it means; that is all it means; that it all it ever can mean.

"English farce describes a man as being in a hole. American fantasy, in its more aspiring spirit, describes a man as being up a tree. The chief difference between the humdrum English business man and that of the rustling American business man is always late. It is not so much that Englishmen are stupid as that they are afraid of being clever; and it is not so much that Americans are clever as that they do not try to be say stupider than they are."

The Bath Habit.

In the eighteenth century the bath was a seen-never, and was known almost a thing unknown. It was scarcely ever used, or at least infrequently. It was by no means an indispensable toilet necessity. And most of us can recall the time, muses an exchange, when Saturday night was religiously dedicated to the weekly bath. That is why we all appreciate the story of the woman who wrote her friend, "We just moved into a new apartment. It has the cutest bathrub. I can hardly wait until Saturday night."

RESOLUTION OF SYMPATHY

Forest Mills, Ont.,

Mrs. William Kerr,

Dear Friend,—At the last regular meeting of Forest Mills L.O.L. No. 2044, a resolution was passed expressing the deep sympathy of the officers and members of the lodge with you and the members of your family in the bereavement which removed a loving permeat chicken mash, and all feeds for brooder chicks, a pen receiving crude cod liver oil as a vitamine supplement made the greatest gains throughout the test and was the only pen in which there was no indication of rickets or leg-weakness. Fifteen chicks from this experiment, suffering from leg-weakness to such an extent that they were unable to walk, and one of which was practically unable to move, were fed cod liver oil at the rate of one teaspoonful per bird the first day and the same amount per five birds from that day on. Eleven days after the commencement of treatment all chicks, except the one previously mentioned, could run around normally, while by the fourteenth day even that one was completely cured. The chicks were then put on a standard ration and there was no sign of rickets over a period of four months. During 1926 the experiment was repeated. The pen receiving refined cod liver oil made the greatest gains and signs of rickets again were present only in chicks not receiving the oil. During 1926 fourteen chicks, suffering from leg-weakness in varying stages of severity, were in good condition and gaining weight after seven days of treatment with refined cod liver oil.

Conditions That Call For a Tonic

Symptoms That the Blood is Thin Should Not Be Neglected.

Weak, lacking in strength, energy and ambition, nervous, sleepless, poor appetite, digestion disturbed—these are the symptoms of a great majority of people who have been benefited by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. The great value of this medicine in cases of this kind is proved by the statement of Mrs. W. Henaher, Kingston, Ont., who says:—"Following a severe cold I was left in a run-down, nervous condition; I had pains in the back and limbs and could scarcely move about. I did not sleep well at night and was despondent and discouraged. I decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and can truthfully say that after the use of six boxes, the change in my condition was nothing short of marvellous. The pains vanished, I slept well, had a good appetite, and in every way felt well and strong. I also gave the pills to my daughter, who was in an anaemic condition and feeling quite miserable, and in her case, too, they restored health. I hope my experience may help some other weak person."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont. A little book, "Building Up the Blood," which contains many useful health hints, will be sent free on request.

In the Legislature

Toronto, March 8th.—The Legislature sat until after midnight Thursday, and thereby cleaned up the list of speakers in the Budget Debate, with exception only of the Premier and leaders, who will wind it up on Tuesday, commencing with W. E. N. Sinclair. The Prime Minister will conclude the discussion of the budget, in accordance with a common practice in recent years, and the way will then be clear for the Liquor Control bill. No official intimation as to the details of the latter has been given out during the week, and consequently such comment as came forth in the budget debate was necessarily rather general. Revi. A. C. Calder, Conservative member for West Kent, reminded the Opposition that the Cabinet was fully seized of its responsibilities in seeking to achieve a solution of the problem before the province, and he expressed a hope that gentlemen on the other side of the House would be big enough, when the bill came down, to appreciate the fact that such solution had at last been attained.

* * * * *

An Opposition so numerically small as the combined Liberal and Progressive groups in this House might be excused for being apprehensive that their suggestions as to legislation would not be entertained. An incident of the week, however, served to make clear that the government has no intention whatever of using "steam-roller" methods. On Monday, P. W. Pearson, (Lib., North York), in debate on a government bill to amend the Wages Act, proposed a change, but said, "I suppose it is no use to kick, on this matter." The Prime Minister at once challenged the statement; the views of the Opposition were heard at length, and the outcome was an alteration in the proposed exemption for purposes of garnishee. An amendment to the Marriage Act was similarly charged by the government on the same day, in deference to a suggestion from the Progressive group. The government has no idea of taking the ground that all its bills are perfect, and is quite willing to hear representations from any quarter in the words of the Premier to the House: "That is what we are here for."

* * * * *

Answering a question on the order paper in the name of Mr. Raney, the Prime Minister on Tuesday gave figures as to bonuses paid for extension of rural Hydro. They show, incidentally, that no money was actually paid by the Drury Government. Following are the totals up to October of each year:—1923, $425,000; 1924, $769,422; 1925, $598,978; 1926, $520,691; authorized for present year, $275,350. Total authorized by Orders-in-Council $2,-457,567.11.

* * * * *

Hon. James Lyon, former Minister of Lands and Forests, contributed to the Budget debate an address which was note-worthy for its grasp of administration and development in Northern Ontario. In comment on the record of the previous administration, the member for Sault Ste. Marie told the House that the Drury Government just prior to the 1923 election cancelled fire rates amounting to $45,-000, due from the Great Lake Paper Company on the Pic, Black Sturgeon and Long Lac limits. On the Ferguson Government's tax reductions, he said:—"The government has reduced the income tax so that there will be a saving to the people of approximately $1,000,000; reduction of amusement tax means approximately $760,000, and will affect 60 per cent of the patrons of amusement houses. There has been an elimination of the billiard and bowling alley tax, approximately $100,-000, and a reduction of $5.00 in the motor license fee, about $2,000,000. That is an aggregate saving of $4,000,-000 to the people of Ontario."

On Thursday evening Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary, greatly interested the House with an extremely businesslike outline of his department's work in connection with Public Institutions. Demands of the service have been gradually increasing, and there is a need for new buildings. One proposal is for a building at Woodstock, to take care of 500 epileptics. A building is needed for accommodation of 150 criminal insane, now at Guelph. In the eleven Ontario Hospitals last year there were 3,000 patients, and Mr. Goldie pointed out that 1,100 to 1,200 are aged or senile persons whom it would be quite safe to send home, but unfortunately many of them have no home or friends, and there is nothing but for the government to provide for them. The minister forecasted a broadening out in occupational therapy, with a view to keeping inmates of these institutions employed. A class of instructors is now in training by Toronto University. Mr. Goldie also announced that Dr. Ryan, Superintendent of Hospitals, had been selected for the post of general superintendent of hospitals.

* * * * *

There will evidently be no increase opposed at present in the provincial grant to hospitals. Mr. Goldie's statement on this was as follows:—"With regard to public hospitals that receive government aid, we are receiving requests and delegations all the time applying for increases in government aid. I sympathize with them. I was on a hospital board myself and I know what they are faced with. Many a hospital director has his name on the back of a note in some bank. They deserve all they can get, and I would like very much to recommend that the money grants be increased, but we are by the government, but also the municipalities. I do not think, however, I would be well advised in making such a recommendation for this year, at least. Last fiscal year we paid the general hospitals $743,000; Sanatoria $389,000; Refuges $115,000, and Orphanages $46,000. With industrial schools $71,000, and Children's Aid, $68,000, we paid in 1926 for these purposes $1,519,000. We will have to go slow, and it is hardly fair to put it up unless the municipalities themselves pay more."

* * * * *

W. G. Weichel, (Conn., North Waterloo) proposed during the budget debate that legislation be passed to require the covering of "Pyrex," the increasingly popular substitute for anthracite, the member pointed out, absorbs 10 to 20 per cent. water, and yet in many cases dealers pile it in the open. The result is that the poor man pays a considerable sum for moisture in his fuel, when living costs are already high enough.

* * * * *

In the standing committee on agriculture, Friday morning, J. Locke Wilson, superintendent of agriculture and horticultural societies, presented a review of the work of his branch. A discussion developed regarding horticultural societies, and Mr. Wilson reported that the number in the province is now 280, with 70,000 paid members. One result of this growth is that the provincial grant of $20,000 has to be spread very thin, and amounts only to 11 2-5 cents on each dollar of expenditure by the societies, and 9 cents on membership. Mr. Wilson said a deputation was coming to see the minister about getting the grant increased. T. J. Mahoney, Wentworth, suggested that the membership fee of $1 might be increased, but the superintendent pointed out that it is desired to bring in those who cannot afford more than that amount, and interest them in home and community beautification. William Newman, K. Victoria, remarked: "It is one of the best dollars invested in the province. Rather than increasing it, it would be better to charge 50 cents and get more in." Mr. Wilson reported that there are 350 agricultural societies in Ontario, with paid membership of 221,000. Their total expenditure for agricultural purposes is $345,-561.

* * * * *

New regulations under the Dairy Products Act have now been issued by the Department of Agriculture, a few of which are quoted here:

"All cream not used for human consumption or for the manufacture of ice cream or confections, which is collected or assembled shall be graded, weighed, sampled, tested for butter fat and paid for according to this Act and regulations.

"All grading, weighing, sampling, testing and paying for cream shall be done at a creamery, except where a permit has been granted by the Director of Dairying, and said Director shall grant such permit only in such circumstances as appear to make it necessary for the equitable carrying out of these regulations, and each permit shall specify where such work shall be performed.

"A first class certificate may be granted to a cheesemaker who has in the previous year manufactured 93 per cent or over of first grade cheese; who keeps himself and his assistants clean and tidy, his factory and its surroundings in a clean, tidy and sanitary condition, who can properly operate the Babcock Test, and who holds a Dairy School diploma, or its equivalent, or has had experience of two years or more as a maker in a cheese factory prior to 1927.

"A second class certificate may be granted to a cheesemaker who has in the previous year manufactured not less than 88 per cent. of first grade cheese, and who keeps himself and his assistants clean and tidy, and his factory and its surroundings in a clean, tidy, sanitary condition."

The regulations for granting of certificates to buttermakers are worded almost exactly similar.

Further, "A permit may be issued to a maker who is unable to qualify for a certificate, but who in the opinion of the Director of Dairying has had sufficient experience and training to justify him in undertaking to act as a temporary maker. Permits shall not be issued to any person for more than a total of two calendar years."

* * * * *

The township school boards bill is not likely to be called for some time yet. The Premier assured that interested shall have due warning, and opportunity to hear the debate. There was a reference this week, however, when an Opposition member was stressing the need, in his opinion, for more practical instruction on agriculture in the public schools, which he thought were educating young people away from the farms. The Prime Minister said: "The idea will be greatly developed by adoption of the township school board, where you will have a larger school and can develop more lines of study. In the little school, your curriculum is crowded. I believe with the larger unit a great deal can be done."

Saskatchewan Lady is Very Enthusiastic About Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. E. M. Tatton Gave Them to Her Little Boy, Who Was Suffering From Urinary Trouble.

Waldron, Sask., March 10th. (Special)—"Ever since my little boy was born he has suffered with involuntary urination," writes Mrs. E. M. Tatton, a well-known resident of this place. "I thought he would grow out of this. Then he did not do so at kindergarten. I thought it was pure laziness and used to spank him, until I discovered it was not the child's fault, but kidney weakness. I tried Dodd's Kidney Pills with great success, and he is entirely cured now. My husband and I use them frequently whenever we have pains in the back."

Dodd's Kidney Pills have become a family remedy because people have proved them and found them good. They help Rheumatism, Lumbago, Diabetes, Dropsy, Backache, Heart Disease and Urinary troubles, because all of these are either kidney diseases or are caused by the kidneys failing to do their work.

No other pen can give the lasting, satisfying service that the Waterman's give! Once try the point that suits your hand, and you and Waterman are friends for life. We have installed a separate case, containing one of each kind of point made, and in a minute you can find your own personal pen. Look them over, at Wallace's, Napanee agents.

An English merchant who was in Athens on business was so hospitably entertained by a Greek acquaintance that he returned to his hotel in a slightly fuddled condition, with the consequence that he overslept. On waking up he rang the bell for hot water, and when the man arrived the Briton asked languidly what hour of day it was.

"It is nearly midday, sir," came the reply, "you slept through a couple of revolutions."

The Poor Man's Friend—Put up in small bottles that are easily portable and sold for a very small sum, Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil possesses power in concentrated form. Its cheapness and the varied uses to which it can be put make it the poor man's friend. No dealer's stock is complete without it.

THE DAY OF PRAYER

For six years women have met for prayer and intercession on a day specially set apart, and this year all over the world, in the Orient and Occident, an international and interdenominational Hour of Prayer was observed on Friday, March 4th. In Grace United Church over a hundred women, representing Mary Magdalene, Grace, Trinity and St. Andrew's churches, met for praise and supplication. Prayers were offered for China, India, Japan, the Moslem world, other foreign fields and workers, the League of Nations and international relations, also for the young people of Canada, of our land and home and national life.

Miss Gandier gave a wonderfully uplifting address on Prayer. It is a natural universal instinct, and the door of prayer should be opened continuously, but we do not avail ourselves of that opportunity. It opens the way for God to do what He wants and thus releases opportunity for God to work by, for and through us. The greatest way to the heart of white or black, civilized or savage is by way of the Throne of God, and strength, vision and peace are granted whether or not prayer is answered. Someone has said, "Who rises from his prayer a better man, his prayer is answered." Gen Gordon said, and Luther too, "the busier he was the more time was needed for prayer. Real prayer is the most intence act a man performs."

Mrs. Hooper presided, and others taking part were Miss Alma Thompson, Mrs. Reddick, Mrs. A. E. Paul, Mrs. Tanton, Mrs. J. S. Miller, Mrs. Coleman, Mrs. N. Bradshaw, Mrs. H. J. Bristol, Miss Rook, Mrs. Gilbride, Mrs. Laughland.

The General Confession and Lord's Prayer in unison opened the service, and was closed by Prayer of Thanksgiving.

We invite you to choose your requirements while our assortments are new and fresh. Price from $1.00 to $3.25 each.

Afternoon Dresses, Especially Created for the Shorter Women

In this "life that we lead" the requirements of the "shorter" women are about the same as those of her taller or more perfectly proportioned sister.

Both attend the same social functions, play the same games, attend the same sporting events,—in fact, her dress requirements are identical, and one must be as fashionably and as smartly gowned as the other.

In our Spring collections of gowns will be found a clever assemblage of dresses that have been especially created for shorter women. These dresses possess all the chic and charm that fashion artists can create; they introduce the cleverest silhouettes, featuring tucks, pleats, insets, tiers, panels, ties, bows, as well as the most authentic color combinations.

Sizes from 16½ to 24½. Prices $17.50 to $32.50.

Spring Housedresses in Martha Washington and Other Good Makes

Every woman appreciates a good house-dress, and every woman has her own idea as to what constitutes a good house-dress. Our Spring house-dress purchases have been delivered. In our opinion and in the opinion of several women who have already chosen, we have a mighty commendable assortment,—featuring styles and materials that are bound to suit every woman's requirements.

These dresses come from high class factories, manufactured under the finest conditions. Sizes are well proportioned, materials are serviceable, while the range of patterns introduces a unique variety of pleasing changes.

We invite you to see these dresses, compare the values, examine the finish and workmanship, to try them on.

Small, medium, regular and O. S. sizes are obtainable.

Priced from $1.00 to $3.25 each.

The Last Word on Easter Millinery Smartness for comfort buy McLaughlin-Buick

For solid comfort in all weather, for the comfort of luxuriously easy riding — the very real comfort of security imparts — BUY McLAUGHLIN-BUICK.

Summer or winter—heat or cold—rain or shine—the season's make little difference to the owner of a McLaughlin-Buick closed car with Fisher-built body, its one-piece VV ventilating windshield, its deep upholstery and the countless detailed refinements of appointments and equipment.

Rubber Engine Mountings, an Engine Vibrationless Beyond Belief, Cantilever Rear Springs, Low Pressure Tires—are responsible for the sense of absolute ease and comfort that accompanies a ride in McLaughlin-Buick.

Add to these features of motoring comfort the feeling of security inspired by the dependable McLaughlin-Buick engine (protected by every conceivable precaution, Oil Filter, Air Cleaner, Gas Strainer, Crankcase Ventilator, Thermostatic Water Control), by the safe, sure McLaughlin-Buick Mechanical Four-Wheel Brakes, by the convenience of the Adjustable Beam Headlights and by the knowledge that McLaughlin-Buick Service facilities cover the continent.

Gerald Loucks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Loucks, had a miraculous escape from being killed on Tuesday, March 1st. While at Roblin delivering bread for Holland's bakery, the horses ran away, throwing Gerald underneath the truck, dragging him for some distance. The right leg was badly injured. He was cared for and given first aid by Mrs. Hartin until Dr. Horton arrived and dressed the wounds. Later he was removed to his home here, where he is under the doctor's care. Much sympathy goes out to Mr. and Mrs. Loucks, as just three months ago their oldest son, Gladwin, was burned to death at a furniture factory in Toronto, where he was employed as a finisher.

We are having delightful weather at time of writing. — Mr. Anthony Kennedy was called to Toronto to the bedside of his brother, Timothy, formerly of this place, who has suffered a stroke of paralysis. — Mr. Jacob Clancy is very low at time of writing. — Miss Rosamond Duff, of Toronto, gave a very interesting talk to the young people of the United Church. — Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Cummings, of Napanee, are visiting friends in this vicinity. — Hazel Cummings, nurse-in-training, is attending Jacob Clancy. — Mrs. E. Kelly has moved into the house lately vacated by Ed. Cummings. — We are pleased to learn that Albert Keller is improving, after his serious operation in Kingston General Hospital.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

Miss L. Gandier, sister of Rev. Dr. A. Gandier, Principal of Knox College, has been secured to give the Thankoffering address for the W. M. S. at Marlbank and Tamworth next Sunday morning and evening respectively.

The Marlbank Young Ladies' Mission Circle will put on a pageant in the Marlbank Church on Wednesday evening, March 16th, entitled "The Voices of Women."

Mrs. Lyman, whose home was just east of John Milligan's, passed away last Monday morning. The funeral service was held in the church at 2 p.m. on Wednesday. The first funeral service conducted on the pastoral charge by the minister was that of Mrs. Lyman's father, Mr. John Lott.

The attendance at both Sunday School and Divine Worship last Sunday at Tamworth was considerable above the average. Why not do even better next Sunday?

Don't miss "The Path Across the Hill," to be put on by the Y. P. S. in the Town Hall next Saturday evening. The proceeds go toward their pledge to the M. and E. fund.

MARLBANK

A number of our young people attended Hornerite service in Westplain on Sunday evening. — The Mission Circle will present a missionary pageant in the United Church next Wednesday night. — Mr. H. Fitchett is slowly recovering from pneumonia.—Mr. Barkley and Mr. R. Young spent Saturday in Belleville. — Mr. Arthur Brownson and family are preparing to move to Wilton, where he will manufacture cheese during the coming summer.—Miss Toms, Pine Grove, was the Sunday guest of Miss N. McCutcheon.—Mrs. Howard Armstrong, Napanee, returned home on Wednesday morning, after spending a week with Mrs. D. Axford. — Mr. John Hinds, Selby, spent last week-end with his daughter, Mrs. W. E. Wilson. — Mr. Allen Botting has moved to Mr. S. Mulroney's house, from Enterprise, and is employed on the C. N. R. section. — "Miss Fearless & Co." are planning a trip to Selby on Friday, March 18th, where they will present their play in the Town Hall.

TRINITY CHURCH ANNIVERSARY SERVICES

In every way the Anniversary Services of Trinity United Church on Sunday and Monday last, were a great success.

Rev. T. E. Holling, of Cambridge St., Lindsay, was the special preacher, and he gave two inspiring sermons to crowded congregations.

The men of the congregation served dinner on Monday, and nearly six hundred people partook of the good things provided. A splendid concert program followed the dinner, the artists taking part being Mrs. A. F. Hansuld, Miss Catherine Baird, Professor W. T. Baird, and Mrs. W. D. Dockwell. The singing of Mr. Rockwell, both on Sunday and Monday, was a source of delight to the large crowds that listened. The financial was reached, in one of the best anniversary week-ends in the history of the Church.

WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

On the eve of March 1st a pleasant surprise was sprung on Mr. and Mrs. W. Wilson, "The Elms", Lonsdale, Ont., the occasion being the fifty-first anniversary of their wedding.

The guests, numbering over fifty, included their daughter, Mrs. Ernest, one granddaughter, Miss Helen Paul, two sons-in-law, and the brothers and sisters and their families of both bride and groom.

The table was beautifully decorated with streamers of gold crepe paper fastened from centre of ceiling to each corner of the table where a gilt star gave a dainty finish. The centre-piece was a minature bride and groom dressed as was the custom of half a century ago. On both sides were bouquets of Oriental poppies and daffodils. The wedding cake, which was a four-story, was greatly admired when the groom of eighty years lit the fifty-one yellow candles.

After supper an address was read by Miss Hogarth, and the sons-in-law presented Mr. and Mrs. Wilson each with a walnut chair, Windsor design, in addition to this was a silver cream and sugar set from Mr. and Mrs. Ernest.

Games and social chat were indulged in, the "young folk" tripping the light fantastic to music supplied by a great nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.

Cards of congratulation were received from relatives in Seattle and Flint. Guests were present from Enterprise, Newburgh, Selby, Lonsdale, Kingston, and Port Huron, Mich.

The following was the address: —

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Wilson.—We are gathered here this evening to honour you on this, the fifty-first anniversary of your wedding. We trust that you may be spared to enjoy many more of them. We appreciate your exemplary living, your unfailing sympathy and your kindness. Your very presence is an inspiration.

You have endeared yourselves very much to our hearts. A token of our esteem we ask you to accept these chairs.

Signed in behalf of relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Wilson.
Mr. and Mrs. Albert McCullough.

Dr. Pierce—"Better let your husband do it. He's a golfer, and is great at slicing."

An Oil Without Alcohol.—Some oils and many medicines have alcohol as a prominent ingredient. A judicious mingling of six essential oils compose Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil, and there is no alcohol in it, so that its effects are lasting.

The Sister—Captain Randall proposes in this letter. I wonder if he really loves me—he's only known me a week.

The Brother—Oh, then, perhaps he does!

The Oil of Power.—It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil that it will remedy every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. It has achieved that greatness for itself and its excellence is known to all who have tested its virtues and learned by experience.

"And the other half?"

"The officials used that to investigate the embezzlement."

Women and Asthma. Women are numbered among the sufferers from asthma by the countless thousands. In no climate can relief be found, helpless in the grip of this relentless disease unless they have availed themselves of the proper remedy. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy has brought new hope and life to many such. Testimonials, sent entirely without solicitation, show the enormous benefit it has wrought among women everywhere.

"Vat does honesty mean?" asked Cohen.

"Vell," replied Isaacs, "it's difficult to say our finer natures I have no doubt we shall all of us meet in a Better Land." Turning to the official in charge of the program he said: "I don't think I spoke too long, did I?" Unfortunately the operator did not switch off the microphone at quite the right moment and part of the reverend gentleman's query was transmitted. So listeners heard the conclusion this: "... we shall all of us meet in a Better Land—I don't think."

A preacher was broadcasting an address. He concluded an impressive peroration with these words: "If we obey our finer natures I have no doubt we shall all of us meet in a Better Land." Turning to the official in charge of the program he said: "I don't think I spoke too long, did I?" Unfortunately the operator did not switch off the microphone at quite the right moment and part of the reverend gentleman's query was transmitted. So listeners heard the conclusion this: "... we shall all of us meet in a Better Land—I don't think."

First and Refunding Mortgage Income Gold Bonds

7% Series "A"

To be dated: March 1st, 1927. To mature: March 1st, 1947.

Principal and interest payable in Canadian gold coin of the present standard of weight and fineness at the offices of the Montreal Trust Company in Toronto. Interest cumulative at the rate of 7% per annum from March 1st, 1927. First year's interest payable March 1st, 1928; thereafter payable March 1st and September 1st in each year. Interest and sinking fund to be paid exclusively out of available Net Income as defined in the Trust Indenture. Redeemable as a whole or in part on any interest date on 60 days' notice at 105 and accrued interest. Free from Dominion, Provincial and Municipal normal taxes ordinarily withheld at the source. Fully registered bonds in denominations of $1,000, $500 and $100.

MONTREAL TRUST COMPANY, TRUSTEE.

Approximately $2,700,000 of these Series "A" bonds are being purchased by former owners of the constituent companies, and are being taken in payment for their properties.

CAPITALIZATION

(Upon completion of consolidation and financing in connection therewith)

	Authorized	To Be Outstanding
First Mortgage 6½% Bonds	$ 2,500,000	$2,500,000
First and Refunding Mortgage Income Gold Bonds, 7% Series "A" (this issue)	*10,000,000	4,250,000
7% Preferred Stock	4,000,000	1,500,000
Common Stock (no par value)	250,000 shares	250,000 shares

*Additional First and Refunding Mortgage Income Gold Bonds may be issued in series under the conservative restrictions of the Trust Indenture, which provides that future Bonds may be issued only for refunding purposes or for the acquisition of additional stores up to 60% of their appraised value.

Mr. C. H. Rennie, President, and who is to be General Manager of the Company, summarizes from his letter to us as follows:

Company: Canadian Department Stores, Limited, has been incorporated for the purpose of effecting a consolidation of 21 department stores operating in the principal cities of the Province of Ontario and one store operating in Montreal. The individual stores have been established and in successful operation for an averaged more than 44 years, and in the majority of cases are the leading merchandising institutions in their respective communities. The population of the Province of Ontario represents approximately one-third of the entire population of the Dominion. The Province absorbs more than 46% of the merchandise distributed in Canada, and contains over 36% of the total homes in the country. The territory served by the stores to be owned by the Company embraces more than 50% of the population of the Province.

Security: The First and Refunding Mortgage Income Gold Bonds will be secured, in the opinion of counsel, by a direct first mortgage on the fixed assets of the Ottawa store and all the other fixed assets of the Company now owned or hereafter acquired, subject only to $2,500,000 First Mortgage 6½% Bonds to be presently outstanding.

A consolidated balance sheet of the amalgamating stores as of December 31, 1926, as certified by Neff, Robertson & Co., chartered accountants, after giving effect to the consolidation and the financing in connection therewith, and including fixed assets, as appraised by Canadian Appraisal Company, Limited, shows net tangible assets of approximately $6,672,000. The Company covenants that it will pay no dividends on its capital stock while any of these bonds are outstanding if such payment will reduce its net current assets below $2,000,000.

Earnings: Net earnings, as certified by Neff, Robertson & Co., available for interest on these Series "A" bonds for the ten years ended December 31, 1926, after deducting all operating expenses and annual interest requirements of the First Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding, but before deducting depreciation and certain non-recurring charges, have averaged $851,851 annually, or nearly twice the annual interest requirements of this issue. In no year of the above period have such net earnings been less than the combined annual interest requirements of the First Mortgage Bonds to be presently outstanding and First and Refunding Mortgage Income Gold Bonds to be presently outstanding.

It is expected that centralized buying of merchandise from large manufacturers and economies to be effected through consolidated operation will result in a substantial increase in net earnings from even the present volume of gross business. Based upon specific assurances from many manufacturers and wholesalers and a careful survey of possible operating economies, it is estimated that the net earnings available for bond interest for the first full year of consolidated operation will be in excess of $1,000,000, or more than three times the interest requirements on these Series "A" Bonds.

Purpose of Issue: The Series "A" bonds are being issued in part to the former owners of the constituent companies in payment for their properties and in part for cash to provide funds for the retirement of constituent company indebtedness, working capital and other corporate purposes.

Sinking Fund: A sinking fund, starting March 1st, 1930, payable out of available net income after paying all interest on these Bonds, equivalent annually to 2% of the largest amount of Series "A" bonds ever outstanding, is designed to retire bonds through purchase at or below 105 and accumulated interest or through call by lot at that price. In addition to this regular sinking fund, it is provided in the Trust Indenture that after the payment in any one year of dividends of $250,000 on the Common Stock an amount equivalent to 20% of any further dividends paid in that year will be set aside and used as an additional sinking fund for the retirement of bonds of this issue.

Management: The management of the Company will be under the direct supervision of Mr. G. H. Rennie, President, and who is to be General Manager, and who for the past several years has been Assistant General Manager of Robert Simpson Company, Limited, of Toronto. Mr. Rennie's executive staff and the Board of Directors will be composed largely of men previously associated with the successful operation of the various constituent companies.

These bonds are offered when, as and if issued and received by us, subject to the approval of all legal details by Messrs. Hearst, Mills & Hearst for the Company and Messrs. Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt of Toronto for the Trustee. Delivery will be made in the form of temporary bonds or interim receipts on or about March 15, 1927.

Price: 100, to Yield 7%

There will be delivered with each $1,000 bond of this issue 5 shares of the no par value Common Stock of the Company.

Orders may be telephoned or telegraphed at our expense.
A Descriptive Circular will be mailed upon request.

A Simple Treatment For Children's Colds

Cold in the head is very common at this time of year, especially in the very young. Neglect of a cold is prone to lead to serious consequences. To relieve all congestion of the system is the first step in treating a cold, whether, in infants or adults. For the very young, Baby's Own Tablets are the ideal means of doing this. Containing no narcotics or other harmful drugs they soothe the child's fretfulness, relieve its suffering and ensure convalescence.

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for relieving indigestion, constipation and colic. They check diarrhœa; break up colds and simple fevers; promote health-giving sleep and make the dreader teething period easy. The Tablets are the one medicine that a mother can give her little ones with perfect safety as they are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs. They are sold by all medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Moved by F. E. Foster, seconded by J. P. Dorland, that this Council adjourn till call of the Reeve. Carried.

A. C. DAVIS, Clerk. J. S. JOHNSON, Reeve.

BY-LAW NO. 335.

A By-law to authorize the Head and Treasurer of the Corporation of the Township of Adolphustown to borrow certain sums to meet the now current expenditure.

Whereas the taxes levied for the current expenditure of the said Corporation for the year have not yet been fully collected, there being uncollected of such taxes a sum not less than the sum hereby authorized to be borrowed;

And whereas the sum of Three Thousand Dollars is required to meet the now current expenses of the said Corporation, and it is expedient to authorize the Head and Treasurer to borrow the said sum;

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the Township of Adolphustown as follows:—

1. That the Head with the Treasurer of the said Corporation be, and therefore are hereby authorized under the seal of the Corporation to borrow from the Standard Bank of Canada, the sum of Three Thousand Dollars required to meet the now current expenditures of said Corporation.

2. That the Head, with the Treasurer aforesaid, be, and they are hereby authorized to pay, or allow to the said bank, interest on the said sum so borrowed at the rate of 6 per cent per annum.

3. That a promissory note or notes, covenant, or agreement, sealed with the Corporate seal, and signed on behalf of the Corporation, by the Reeve and Treasurer, be duly executed and given to the said bank as aforesaid as security for the repayment of the amount borrowed, with interest thereon as aforesaid.

4. That the Standard Bank of Canada be, and is hereby appointed banker of the Corporation, and is hereby authorized to pay and honor all cheques and orders for the payment of money, made, signed or drawn in the name of the said Corporation by the Reeve and Treasurer, and further to accept for deposit to the credit of the Corporation all cheques, drafts, notes, bills and other negotiable instruments endorsed in the name of the said Corporation by the Reeve and Treasurer.

Passed in open Council, this 28th day of February, in the year of our Lord One Thousand Nine Hundred and Twenty-seven.

A. C. DAVIS, Clerk. J. S. JOHNSON, Reeve.

BY-LAW NO. 336.

A By-law appointing a Road Superintendent for the Township of Adolphustown, in the County of Lennox.

Whereas it is desirable that the laying out and supervision of all work and expenditure upon improvement and maintenance of roads within the exclusive jurisdiction of this township, should be under the supervision of a road superintendent, acting under the direction of this Council;

And whereas it is the desire of this Council to take advantage of The Ontario Highways Act, and to receive the Government grant as provided in Section 11, Sub-section (1) of the said Act.

Be it therefore enacted by the Municipal Council of the Corporation of the said Township of Adolphustown, and it is hereby enacted;

1. That Arthur Wright Allison is appointed Road Superintendent in the said township to act as aforesaid in accordance with the provisions of the said Section 11 of the said Act, from the 28th day of February, 1927, and during the pleasure of the said Council.

2. That the said A. W. Allison shall be paid at the rate of $3.00 per day for such time as he may be so employed.

3. That it shall be the duty of the Superintendent to lay out and supervise all work and expenditure on roads within the exclusive jurisdiction of the Township Council, and to conform to such general regulations as the Department of Public Highways may prescribe.

4. That all By-laws or parts thereof, and all or any resolutions of said Council contrary hereto or inconsistent herewith, be, and the same are hereby repealed.

5. That a certified copy of this By-law be forwarded by the Clerk, without delay, to the Deputy Minister, Department of Public Highways, Highways Administration Building, Toronto.

Read a third time and passed this 28th day of February, 1927.

A. C. DAVIS, Clerk. J. S. JOHNSON, Reeve.

I, A. C. Davis, Clerk of the Corporation of the Township of Adolphustown, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of By-law No. 336, passed by the Council of the said Corporation, on the 28th day of February, 1927.

A. C. DAVIS, Township Clerk.

BY-LAW NO. 337.

A By-law to provide for expenditure on roads in the Township of Adolphustown, during the year 1927.

Whereas the regulations of the Department of Public Highways of Ontario require that the expenditure on Township Roads under the Ontario Highways Act, and amendments thereto, shall be provided for annually by Township By-law.

Therefore the Council of the Municipal Corporation of the Township of Adolphustown enacts as follows:

1. The sum of $300.00 is hereby appropriated from monies raised by taxes, for expenditure upon construction on the roads in the said Township during the year 1927.

2. The sum of $800.00 is hereby appropriated, from monies raised by taxation, for expenditure upon maintenance and repair on the roads in the said Township during the year 1927.

3. The said monies shall be expended under the direction of the duly appointed Township Road Superintendent.

4. All work on which the said monies shall be expended shall be performed in accordance with the last revised regulations respecting Township Roads issued by the Department of Public Highways of Ontario.

5. The Clerk shall transmit two certified copies of this By-law to the Deputy Minister, Department of Public Highways of Ontario, within thirty days after the passing thereof.

Passed at Adolphustown, this 28th day of February, A.D. 1927.

A. C. DAVIS, Clerk. J. S. JOHNSON, Reeve.

I, A. C. Davis, Clerk of the Corporation of the Township of Adolphustown, do hereby certify that the foregoing is a true copy of By-law No. 337, passed by the Council of the said Corporation, on the 28th day of February, 1927.

A. C. DAVIS, Township Clerk.

Who are the firms MOST ALIVE?

That is the question every good buyer asks himself before establishing a new connection. Other things being equal, his answer is, "The firms that are most alert to solicit business and fill orders."

Such firms depend upon the telephone because it enables them to be alive. Those who use the telephone the most are necessarily the most alert.

Many subscribers who used to think they had to make a Person-to-Person call now find that they reach the person they want with Station-to-Station calls. They are quicker and cheaper.

Every Bell Telephone is a Long Distance Station.

Fraternal Visit to Gananoque.

Mount Ararat Encampment No. 16, I.O.O.F. Patriarchal Degree Team, paid a fraternal visit to Gananoque Encampment, No. 89, on Wednesday evening last, and exemplified this beautiful degree to seventeen candidates, one of whom was His Worship Mayor Wilson. At the close of the encampment, a very sumptuous banquet was served by the Rebekka Assembly, at which the usual toasts were proposed. Mayor Wilson and Geo. T. Mastin, P.D.D.G.P., proposing the toast to the visitors, spoke in glowing terms of the manner in which the degree was exemplified. U. M. Wilson, P.G.P., E. R. Todd, Degree Master, and W. H. Roe, P.C.P., replied on behalf of Mount Ararat Encampment.

Birthday Party.

On Friday evening, March 4th, about forty friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kirkpatrick, in honour of the anniversary of their birthdays. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick were taken completely by surprise. The evening was spent in contests, music, etc., which was thoroughly enjoyed by all. Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick were the recipients of many beautiful presents, one of which was a bouquet of white carnations, presented by Mr. Stalker on behalf of the Sunday School Class, of which they are members, wishing them many happy birthdays together. That, of course was a surprise, but Mr. and Mrs. Kirkpatrick expressed their appreciation in a few brief words. Luncheon was then served, and the main feature was the cutting of the birthday cake, which was prettily decorated with lighted candles, after which the party dispersed, wishing both many happy returns of the day.

OBITUARY

Thomas Harvey

The funeral of Thomas Harvey, who passed away on Monday at the home of his cousin, Mrs. Robert Gorman, Bleecker St., Picton, was held Wednesday morning, service being in St. Gregory's Church, Rathbun Bay, Father Crawley sang requiem mass. Deceased, whose home was in Tamworth, has been spending the winter with Mrs. Gorman, and although in poor health, was able to be about until recently, when he took worse and passed away at the age of seventy-one years. Mr. Harvey was a bachelor and is the last of his family to go. The remains were placed in Glenwood vault and will be taken to Centreville for burial in the spring.

The play entitled "His Uncle's Niece" put on by the Harrowsmith young people, was attended by a good crowd, who enjoyed it fully.

Rev. Mr. Spencer, of Camden East, was in the village on Monday.

The roads are not very good, being affected by the recent thaws.

Misses Georgie Huffman and Florence Allen, of Moscow, spent Monday at Mrs. W. J. Allen's.

Miss Hattie Amey has returned from Toronto, where she spent the winter with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Edwards.

Two deer wandered fearlessly through the village last week. The local game warden on Saturday followed their tracks toward Camden East. As far as he went they had not been hunted or disturbed. It is unusual for deer to venture into the more settled parts of the county, and shows that they must be quite plentiful in the north.

Mrs. Lyall Milsap is visiting her mother, Mrs. Connolly.

STRATHCONA

Who is it that is finding fault with the weather now for this time of year? Sun shining on both sides of the fence, and cars and buggies running in full speed again, which makes us think Spring is not far away. Any way, we have had a real nice winter, and most grand sleighing, but Spring coming with her new life makes us welcome it once again.—We have been getting some surprises in our village of late, when on March 3rd the Rev. A. H. Hoare became the husband of Miss Nettie Kinman, daughter of Mrs. Mary Kinsman, of 97 Victor Ave., Toronto. Then we had to learn that on March 2nd, Miss Edna Mowers, of the Napanee Road, became the bride of Mr. Benson Smith. Edna is quite sure the people of the village and neighborhood join in wishing both parties every success for future happiness, and should troubles arise we hope they will be small ones.—W. J. Finlay has returned home from his usual business trip. — Mrs. Frank Haines and family, of Point Anne, spent a week at the home of Mr. Ed. Hinch.—Mrs. Foster Best has returned from Ottawa, where she was holidaying for a time.—Mrs. Frank Tompkins has returned from the bedside of her sick mother, whom we learn is some better at time of writing.—Mrs. William Murphy, who has been sick for some time, has now with her, her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Hall, from New York City, caring for her. We all are hoping that Mrs. Murphy soon has taked a change for the better.— Mr. Roy McLean is, with others, enjoying his new radio very much.—On Monday night, March 21st, there will be a public meeting of the Library of this village, at 7.30 p.m., at which all members and members are invited to attend, please. As this is the second meeting now, call and know that business is done yet.—Sunday School at 1.30 p.m. preaching service at 2.30 p.m., with the Rev. T. H. P. Anderson in charge. All are welcome.

BETHEL

The snow is fast disappearing with the recent heavy rains, and by all appearances Spring is here as the robins and crows have returned with their merry songs. — Several farmers have tapped their sugar bushes, and report sap running good.—The play given at Colebrook on March 11th, by the Petworth Dramatic Club, was well attended from this neighborhood, and all were well pleased.—Miss Ethel Miss Anna Dwyer accompanied Miss Lauta Aloombrack home from school one night last week.—Sunday visitors were Mr. Ed. McKnight spent last week with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Ann and Mrs. Wm. Jackson on Sunday evening.—Mrs. Robt. Galbraith spending a week with friends in Napanee and Odessa.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson spent Monday in Camden with the latter's father, Mr. John Simmons.—Mr. and Mrs. M. Burns spent last Thursday evening to tea with Mr. and Mrs. Justus Gilligan.—Mrs. Edith Alcombrack has returned home from the visit with friends in Kingston and Elginburg.—Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Woodhouse and daughter, of Yarker, with Mr. and Mrs. Levi Salisbury, on Sunday.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens with Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Jeffrey, on Sunday, for dinner.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jackson spent part of last week with her brother and family, Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Simmons, at Bickerd's Corners.—Mr. and Mrs. Jim Hamilton with Mr. and Mrs. Jay Hamilton, on Sunday night for tea.—Mrs. Perry Alcombrack and family and mother called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens, on Wednesday evening.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewis entertained to dinner on Tuesday night last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hinch and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Sampson and Mrs. Roy Sampson.

HAWLEY

The weather is getting quite springlike.—Miss Mildred Seeley spent a few days recently with her friend, Miss M. Phippen, Conway.—Mr. and Mrs. Ed. McClaughery — Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Creighton's. — Mr. and Mrs. Morley Galt spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. C. Perry.—Mrs. Perry Alcombrack and family and mother called on Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens, on Tuesday evening.—Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lewis entertained to dinner on Tuesday night last week.—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hinch and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Sampson and Mrs. Roy Sampson.

BETHANY

The weather would make you think that Spring is here. While some are driving the car, we have seen some fast. Belleville bay is clear as far as Forester Island.—Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Davis attended the funeral of friend on Monday evening.—The play given in the church on Friday evening last, by the young people of Hay Bay, was enjoyed by those who saw it. Sorry a large audience did not attend. — A pleasant evening was spent at Mr. E. Conner's, on Wednesday, when they entertained a number of friends.—Our roads are in a very bad condition for travelling.—Mr. and Mrs. W. Sweet are "at home" to a number of friends on Wednesday evening.—Weather does not look like a big farm of sap this spring, as the frost and snow are nearly gone.

NEWBURGH

An unusual occurrence took place on Sunday, March 13th, when what is known as the tithe offering, deposited in banks, caused by the ice formation at the rear of Mr. Wagar's blacksmith shop, to have flowed down Main St., carrying with it large cakes of ice. The greatest damage was done at the Orange Hall, where the platform at the main entrance was completely moved from its position.

Mr. and Mrs. Korah Lee and two little daughters, of Yarker, were at Mr. McNeely's on Sunday.

Rufus Grant, of Bell Rock, is a visitor to Newburgh this week.

Mr. Stanley Hanes visited Mr. and Mrs. Ivor Malone.

The regular meeting of the Young People Society was held on Tuesday evening. After the regular devotional exercises by the President Miss Storey, Miss H. Fralick took the chair and introduced Miss Duff, who gave a fine address on the work of the W.C.T.U. Solos were rendered by Mrs. Fraser Allen and Mrs. F. Switzer, instrumental by Newburgh band; also a duet by a number of young girls. A large crowd was present to enjoy the evening.

Miss Duff, of Toronto, travelling Secretary of the W.C.T.U., is visiting our village this week, and on Monday she visited the schools at Wesley, and Hinds, and spent the week-end at the W.C.T.U. She was accompanied by Miss H. M. Paul. On Tuesday she spoke at the L. T. I. meeting at the school.

The sale at Mr. Anson McKeown's brought a large crowd to the village on Wednesday.

The Newburgh party was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. McKeown on Monday evening, prior to their departure to Napanee, where they will reside. During the evening Mr. G. H. Bray, on behalf of the gathering, presented them with a club bag. Mr. and Mrs. McKeown will be missed in the village, where they have lived for the past few years. At the Free Methodist Mission they were presented with refreshments served. Mr. and Mrs. McKeown in a few well chosen words thanked their friends for the gift.

Rev. T. H. P. and Mrs. Anderson and family were called to Toronto on account of the death of Mrs. Anderson's mother, Mrs. Lawrence. Mrs. Cook formerly lived with Mrs. Anderson, at Selby, but latterly was living in Toronto.

CAMDEN EAST

We are having beautiful springlike weather. Our snow has disappeared, and the roads are seen once again.—Mr. W. Paterson, of Hamilton, a former resident of this place, spent a few days with Mr. A. TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The subject for next Sunday is "Behold, I Make All Things New." A Jubilee celebration of our Central Indian Mission.

In spite of bad road conditions good audiences at both Marlbank and Tamworth greeted Miss Gandier. We understand that the Thanksoffering at both places registered an advance over last year. Miss Gandier's address was full of interest and much appreciated by both congregations.

The Reidville W. M. S. held their last meeting at the home of Mrs. Geo. Kellar at the home of Mrs. G. Wagar, on Thursday, March 3rd, and elected the following officers:—President, Mrs. R. J. Wilson; Vice President, Mrs. B. Wagar; Sec., Mrs. Thos. Wilbur; Cor. Secty., Mrs. A. Hyland; Treasurer, Miss M. Close; Assistant Treasurer, Mrs. B. Lochhead; Mite Box Secretary, Mrs. A. Pingland; Stranger Secretary, Miss Libbie Reid. The Reidville Mission Band and Mrs. Wagar was much appreciated, and profound regret expressed at their leaving the community. The Thankoffering service of the society will be held next Sunday afternoon.

The play entitled "The Path Across the Hill", given by the Y. P. S. of Tamworth, last Saturday night, was a pronounced success. Even though it was the first attempt by a number of the players, they acquitted themselves with great credit. In spite of unpropitious weather and roads, there was a fair attendance, and the gate receipts were $40.00. The Orchestra rendered good music between acts. The Ladies' Aid of Cafuden have invited the Y. P. S. to repeat their play there.

In the Legislature

Toronto, March 12th.—The week in the Legislature had the Liquor Control Bill as chief feature in legislation, as the debate thereon will no doubt be the outstanding item next week. Some of the bill's main features had been correctly forecasted, but among the points made clear by perusal of the actual clauses are the following:—Supreme administrative authority in the Hanna commission, with enforcement of the law, like all other laws of the province, through the attorney-general's department; permits to persons over 21 good for one year, and to transients for one month; no public advertising of liquors; constables need no warrant for search. No liquors may be consumed in a public place. Druggists may use alcohol only as a solvent or preservative, and sale of essences and extracts is rigidly restricted. Any person convicted of selling is to be imprisoned upon first offence. The Act is to come into force upon proclamation, probably May 15th.

* * * * *

Presentation of the Bill to the House was an occasion of dramatic features. Galleries and floor of the House were crowded with interested visitors, who by reason of time required for printing of the Bill were kept waiting until 5.35 before the Premier moved first reading and sent copies to the Opposition leaders and press gallery. There was applause which lasted several minutes, when he rose to speak, and when it finally died down in deference to the Premier's uplifted hand, the several Liberal members supporting government control started a new tribute of applause on their own. Mr. Ferguson said in part: "There are three outstanding features in the legislation to give effect to our temperance policy. The most important is provision for a strong, capable and highly efficient Control Board. Secondly, there is the scrupulous observance of the pledges given the public by the Prime Minister during the election campaign. These pledges gave the assurance that the bill would be in the interests of real temperance. Thirdly, the Government relies for the success of the law more upon wise administration than upon the statutory enactments, which, of necessity expressed in legal terms, are not easily understood by the public, and because they are dried and inflexible, cannot be adapted to varying and changing conditions that have to be met. The Bill, therefore, deals rather in broad principles and confides the application of those principles within well-defined limitations to the Control Board. Its object is to eliminate as far as possible illegal trafficking in intoxicating liquors that has led in the past to such widespread and serious abuse. It is the sincere desire on the part of the Government to put into operation a system of handling liquor that will meet with general public approval and thereby create a more wholesome respect for the laws of the province."

* * * * *

The week opened with the passing, on Monday, of a resolution expressing unanimous opposition of the House, irrespective of party, to the federal bill which would renew the Georgian Bay Canal charter for the Sifton interest. The Legislature took this stand on non-political grounds, Premier Ferguson's resolution being seconded by W. E. Raney, and in the belief that the charter renewal would mean the gift to a private corporation of a provincial power asset worth possibly $100,000,000. A further interesting feature of the debate was a declaration by Premier Ferguson of the government's interest in the progress of Eastern Ontario, and its willingness to embark upon a policy of elaborate propaganda and publicity to attract industries to it.

* * * * *

For the first time in many years, the Budget Debate ended on Tuesday without a division of the House. No amendment had been submitted by either Opposition, and the Treasurer's motion to go into Committee of Supply was adopted without a dissenting voice. The debate was closed by W. E. N. Sinclair, and Premier Ferguson. The former confined his criticisms largely to the size or disposition of various items he had tagged in the Public Accounts; and some of which he himself did not appear to understand too well. The Liberal leader is always listened to with interest by the House, but he does not inflict very serious damage in the role of critic. Premier Ferguson dealt with a wide range of subjects, and included an interesting statement on rural hydro, which opened the possibility of a different financial arrangement which would permit much more rapid extension of hydro to the farming community. "I do not know why," he said, "when we are putting expenditures for highway construction into capital account, money spent on construction of transmission lines should not go into capital. I am not an expert, but I am going to suggest that the Treasurer ask somebody, because I think the charge should be carried on through future generations, and if we do that we will be able to expand this service much more rapidly than we can today, because we must have an eye to the amount of money available." The Premier announced that the government had spent to date for extension of the advantages of hydro to rural dwellers a total of $2,457,000.

* * * * *

There was an interesting allusion in the premier's speech to the relative standing of provincial and federal administrations in relation to business conditions. The Ontario government, Mr. Ferguson said, had been able so to handle the great wealth-producing resources of the people as to stimulate industry and bring more money in the country. "What the government at Ottawa does," he said, "is regulate how much you can afford to ship out and how much you can buy from your competitors in some other country ship in to drive you out of business. (Applause). We have to-day are endeavoring to maintain a high standard of living in this province. Then,

MR. R. A. BOVAY.

Mr. Roy A. Bovay of Trenton, Ontario, writes very highly of "Fruit-a-tives" for removing the cause of nervous headaches.

"I wish I could tell every sufferer in the world what wonderful work they have done for me"—he writes—"for years I was much troubled by headaches, nervous dyspepsia and biliousness. Then I commenced taking "Fruit-a-tives". Thanks to these wonderful tablets I am once more entirely well."

Are you, too, afflicted with nervous headaches? Quite probably they are traceable to lazy bowels, stomach, kidneys or liver. What you need is the gentle, natural help of "Fruit-a-tives" which is made from fruit-juices blended with tonics. "Fruit-a-tives" is nature's own ally in promoting health and happiness. Amendments to the Highway Traffic Act, which passed committee stage on Wednesday, included the anticipated features of a 35-mile speed limit; compulsory lighting of all vehicles on all roads, and also provision for a sign on the back of motorcars equipped with four-wheel brakes. Opposition to the compulsory lighting of horse-drawn vehicles has not entirely passed out, and there was a suggestion that it be made to apply only to county and provincial highways, but Mr. Henry pointed out that these constitute only 29 per cent. of the whole, and said that a checkerboard system would be dangerous. A suggestion from A. Belanger (Russell) that all that plenty of time should be given the farming community to become acquainted with this provision met with a more favorable response from the government. Premier Ferguson stated: "Perhaps the bill might be suspended to come into effect a few months hence; but the public must get ready, for it is coming into force. We believe the public are prepared to accept it and conform to it." The Prime Minister added that he thought the Highways Department could work out a uniform type of lamp that could be furnished at low cost to the farmers.

Conservatie strength in the House has been increased by one, and now totals 75, as result of the decision of Karl K. Homuth, Labor member for South Waterloo, to join the ranks of Government supporters. He was elected on the government ticket in 1923, and believed he could be of greater service to his constituency as a government supporter.

A pleasant tribute from a Liberal member to one phase of government activities came on Thursday afternoon from William Newman, for North Victoria, in regard to the Experimental Fur Farms maintained by Hon. Charles McCrea's department in Mr. Newman's riding. It has been established to devise the best methods of breeding fur-bearing animals, and assist the 700 fur farmers of the province. An experienced man is in charge, and the place is stocked with muskrat, fox, fisher, beaver, etc. When the estimates were under discussion Mr. Newman rose from his place in the Opposition to say: "I do not pretend to know fox farming, and I may be thought a poor Liberal, but I want to give credit where I believe it is due. This industry requires experimental work, the name as agriculture, and I believe that the government is wise. I have been on this farm, and believe they are doing good work, and will do still better." (Applause).

The Municipal Law Committee on Friday morning approved an amendment to the Public and Charitable Institutions Act making the medical health officer of any township bordering on a city or separated town the only authority to sign orders for admission of indigent patients to hospitals. Legislation passed a year ago gave reeves and councillors the power. In emergency cases, a hospital superintendent may admit indigents, but, according to a further new subsection even in those cases "the liability of the county shall not continue beyond seven days from the admission, unless the medical officer of health of such township gives an order in writing approving of such admission."

Presentation and Address

On Friday evening, March 4th, about forty friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Carnahan met at their home to bid them farewell before leaving for their new home in Batavia, N.Y. After a social time in cards and singing, the following address was read:—

Dear Friends,—We have met here this evening to express to you our regret at your leaving our midst. In the few years that you have lived among us you have made many friends and proved yourselves helpful neighbors and friends. In every way possible you have always lent a cheerful and helping hand and the community feels that your departure will leave a vacancy not easily filled. In our Ladies' Aid, Mrs. Carnahan has been most faithful, and as President last year, fulfilled her duties most loyally.

We ask you to accept this club bag and hand bag as small tokens of our appreciation and good wishes, and may our Heavenly Father's choicest blessings be with you in your new home.

Signed on behalf of your Gretna friends.

MRS. LAURA PARKS.
MRS. WILL JOYCE.

Mr. and Mrs. Carnahan made a feeling reply to the address, expressing their regrets at leaving Gretna, and thanked all for their beautiful gifts.

An Oil of Merit. — Dr. Tmomas' Eclectric Oil is not a jumble of medicinal substances thrown together and pushed by advertising, but the result of the careful investigation of the healing qualities of certain oils as applied to the human body. It is a rare combination and it won and kept public favor from the first. A trial of it will carry conviction to any who doubt its power to repair and heal.

How to OUTSPEED your COMPETITORS

B—, a merchant in Vancouver, took the first train to Toronto to secure a big order.

J—, his rival in Vancouver, called the Toronto customer on Long Distance and sold him over the telephone before B's train had reached Calgary.

The safest move, always, is to get the prospect on the telephone at once. If you can't sell him over the telephone make an appointment. Then he will wait for you before placing his order.

Many subscribers who used to think they had to "run to town" to Person-to-Person calls now find that they reach the person they want with Station to Station calls. They are quicker and cheaper.

EDISON A NEAR CANADIAN

U. E. LOYALIST FAMILY

Grandfather in War of 1812 — Electrical Wizard's Father a Mackenzie Rebellion Sympathizer.

Thomas Alva Edison, the electrical wizard, who invented the incandescent light, the phonograph and who has patented some 900 discoveries, many of them of paramount importance, has just celebrated his 80th birthday. Edison comes of U. E. Loyalist stock, and narrowly escaped being born in Canada. Back in 1783 his great-grandfather, an ardent Tory, and married to one of the Ogdens after whom Ogdensburg was named, moved from New Jersey to Nova Scotia. In 1811 the Edisons migrated to what is now Bayham township, Elgin county, and here the inventor's father, Samuel Edison, was born.

Father and 1837 Rebellion

When the War of 1812 broke, Captain Thomas Edison, grandfather of the inventor, was fighting the Yankees, and during the conflict the enemy entered the log farmhouse on Cook's Creek where he had left his wife. The invaders gobbled up his live stock and used the house as a hospital, but presently British redcoats came up and drove the Yanks away. In 1829 the Edisons founded the village of Vienna, Ont. Thither, in the troublous days of 1837, came a company of soldiers to arrest Samuel Edison, blacklisted as a strong sympathizer with William Lyon Mackenzie, former mayor of Toronto. But Samuel, father of the future electrical wizard, escaped on foot to Port Burwell, jumped aboard a schooner loading with lumber, and hidden among the planks, was carried out on Lake Erie. Landed down the shore, he reached Detroit in safety.

"Candy Butcher" on Grand Trunk.

In future Samuel Edison lived in the States, where, of his seven children, the three younger were born. But they often visited Canada, and Thomas, the youngest of the family, spent several summers at Vienna as a child. A number of Edisons still inhabit the neighborhood, and there are Edison graves in no less than five local cemeteries.

In years to come Thomas Edison operated a key in the G.N.W. offices at Toronto for a short time, before he was moved to Stratford Junction as night operator for the Grand Trunk. That was in the year 1863. A few weeks later John Duncan, living to-day at 516 Ontario street, got orders to proceed to Stratford and take over Edison's job. The eighteen-year-old telegrapher, it seems, had been asleep at his post and allowed two trains to collide. Some new-fangled electrical device he had installed on his desk had failed to work. No great harm had been done. Nevertheless, Tom Edison didn't report to Toronto as requested, but flew the coop to Detroit. He hadn't relished the idea of a session on the carpet of the head office. When Mr. Duncan reached Stratford the boys showed him the weird cog-wheel arrangement which had failed to function.

Learned Telegraphy

Born in 1847, Thomas Edison was by 1859 hustling for a living as "candy butcher" and newsboy on a Grand Trunk train running between Detroit and Port Huron. In 1862 he was printing the first paper ever published on a moving train. That same year he saved the life of the little daughter of J. U. Mackenzie, the station master at Mount Clemens, Mich., who in gratitude taught young Edison the art of telegraphy.

Edison quickly became a fast operator, but not content with that, he started in to improve telegraphy. His cog-wheel device cost him his job at Stratford Junction. At Memphis he was fired because instead of concentrating upon his task of sending messages and dashes his mind was working on a plan to send two messages over a wire in place of the one then possible. In Louisville he was discharged for spilling sulphuric acid through a ceiling upon bank furniture.

Invention Brings $40,000.

In 1869 Edison applied for his first patent, one for an electrical vote recorder. In 1869 he reached New York, and had to beg a meal. But he got a job as operator with the Gold and Stock Telegraph Company, and when they found he could repair a broken machine, he became superintendent at $300 a month. About this time he perfected his duplex and quadruplex systems of telegraphy. In 1870 he got his first big sum of money for an invention—$40,000 for stock tickers. Between 1872 and 1876 he worked on many inventions, including the multiplex system of telegraphy, and his invention about this time of the carbon telephone transmitter made telephony a commercial proposition. In 1877 came the phonograph, and in 1879 the incandescent lamp—both in an infant stage. Between 1880 and 1882 he installed at Menlo Park the first lifesized trolley car. Soon afterwards visitors to Toronto Exhibition were thrilled with trolley car rides on the grounds for 10 cents a go—in a car made on similar lines. Improvements in arc lighting, generators, dynamos, and in wartime discovery of a system of manufacturing synthetic carbolic acid, are among Edison's numerous contributions to industry.

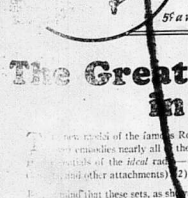
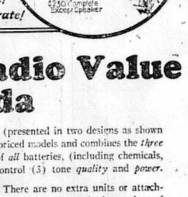
a New Model ROGERS BATTERYLESS A/C RADIO





No Batteries
No Chemicals
No Charger
No Aerial

Just Plug In Then Tune In
3 Minutes to Install!
5¢ a week or less, to Operate!

The Greatest Radio Value in Canada

The new model of the famous Rogers Batteryless Radio (presented in two designs as shown above) remodies nearly all of the features of the higher priced models and combines the three essentials of the ideal radio—(1) Total elimination of all batteries, (including chemicals, and other attachments) (2) Simplicity of tuning control (3) tone quality and power.

It is found that these sets, as shown above, are complete. There are no extra units or attachments to buy. They are built complete in the factory in Toronto. Every part is the product of engineering staff, perfectly co-ordinated, balanced and tested as a finished product.

The Rogers model is the result of three years steady research and development and represents, we believe, the greatest radio value in Canada. It operates direct from any light socket, on either 25 or 60 cycle alternating current. You simply [illegible] ground wire, then "Plug in—and tune in." No fussy connections, no batteries or attachments and in most cases no aerial.

It takes about 3 minutes to install a Rogers—less than five seconds to tune it in—and it costs only 5 cents a week to operate it. Yet it will bring in stations from coast to coast with uniform everlasting power, just as though you bought new batteries every day.

Hear it in Your Home

These sets have just been released for sale. They are the latest 1927 Models. Let us demonstrate to you their wonderful quality of tone and show you the tremendous advantage of a Rogers Batteryless—that forever eliminates the bother and expense of ordinary radio. You are bound to want a "Batteryless." Why not start right!

Details of This New Model

This new model is a five-tube A/C set, using alternating current direct to the tubes for power. (The only set in the world that can do this.) It has a two-dial control with degrees and wave lengths both shown on the indicators, making it simple to locate any station. Volume control and oscillation control are two other features.

The "Cameo" Console

This design, in a beautiful walnut cabinet with a Rogers Junior Symphony Speaker built in, is a masterpiece of tone and beauty. It will harmonize with the finest furnishings, yet is small enough to fit most any nook.

The Model "Ninety"

This design is for those to whom space is a factor. It is compact, being only 9" x 18", with the power unit separate. It is encased in art-metal and will fit on the corner of any table, shelf or bookcase with the power unit concealed.

Either of these Models can be purchased on convenient terms, spread over three to twelve months.

PUTS AN END TO BUNION PAINS

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains.

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moone's Emerald Oil night and morning.

Ask Wallace's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. Such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

THE NEW ADVERTISING

A large crowd had gathered about the wailing lad. He was a miserable-looking little wretch, not more than seven, and his howls were loud and terrifying.

"What's the matter, child?" asked a sympathetic woman.

The boy cried on loudly for a moment or two, then looked round at the large audience he had assembled. Lifting his voice, he shouted loudly:

"Yer, lady, I'm hot. Will somebody take me home to G. H. Woods, the champion tailor of Mile End, who is offering knock-out bargains in suits and overcoats, flannel trousers, and oddments at record prices?"

Gregg—"A man's an idiot to be absolutely certain of anything."

Bragg—"Are you sure of that?"

"Positive."

GARDENING SERVICE

"Pearls Without Price"

Many a city business man has figured out his gardening operations on cost accounting basis and found that he lost money. He would have saved cash had he bought his vegetables at the grocer's, his figures tell him, but like most conclusions reached in this manner they are wrong because based on assumption of positive value to intangibles. The city business man with all the money in the world could not buy in the market the quality he raised in his own garden. If a grocer sold his vegetables, fresh picked from the garden to order, he would charge accordingly, and some reliable figuring might be done. The economy would be overwhelmingly in the favor of the home garden in this case. Added to this is the fact that gardening is a pleasant hobby, the greatest economizer of health, and the only source of the very highest quality of vegetables for the table.

Suitable Vegetable Varieties.

The Central Experimental Farm at Ottawa recommends the following list of vegetable varieties as suitable for planting in this part of Canada: Asparagus, Washington, satisfactory from the standpoint of disease resistance and a good cropper; Beans, Pencil Pod Wax, Round Pod Kidney Wax, Stringless Green Pod with Kentucky Wonder Wax and Early Wonder Golden Pod as pole sports; Beets, Flat Egyptian Early Model, Detroit Dark Red later. Cabbage, Golden Acre, as a round-headed first early, followed by Copenhagen Market Enthuizen Glory as mid-season, with short stem Danish Ballhead for winter storage. Cauliflower, Early Snowball and Early Dwarf Erfurt. Carrots, Chantenay and Danvers. Corn, Extra Early Cory, Golden Bantam, and for later use, Stowell's Evergreen. Cucumbers, Perfection. Celery, Golden Plume. Lettuce, Grand Rapids, Iceberg, Muskmelons, Hearts of Gold or Hoodo, Miller Cream or Osage, Bender Surprise and Emerald Green. Onions, Yellow Globe Danvers, Prize Taker Yellow Globe, Red Globe. Peas, Thomas Laxton, Blue Bantam, Hundredfold, Stratagem, Parsnip, Hollow Crown. Radish, Scarlet Turnip White Tip, French Breakfast. Spinach, King of Danmark and New Zealand, which is a perpetual variety. Squash, Golden and Green Hubbard or vegetable marrow may be used for early use. Tomatoes, Avon Early as first early followed by Earliana with John Baer and Bonny Best as the main crop. Turnip, any table turnip. It is well to remember that the quality of the seeds is even more important than variety. After all few but the most suitable varieties of garden vegetables are grown and if high quality, fresh seed is purchased half the gardener's worries are over.

Holidays and the Garden.

If at all possible the urban gardener should take into consideration the time of his summer holiday when he is planting his flowers and vegetables. Of course, in the perfect garden there will always be a good show of bloom and a steady supply of salad material from the first of June to frost, but in the amateur's layout there is usually a time when the garden is at its best. This should not come when the owner is away at some summer resort or on a distant motor tour. One can quite easily arrange to have things come on at the full either in July, August, or September. If the gardener is going away, for instance, in July, it is best to delay planting of gladiolus, dahlias, and the main annual flowers grown from seed until a week or two later than usual. The same rule should be practised with beets, carrots, corn, tomatoes, and melons. When this is done, the main crop, of both flowers and vegetables will come on in August. If one is not taking holidays until August, however, it is well to get some flowers and vegetables in as early as possible, and the balance in very late, so that there will be a show before going away and a second one after arrival home. In any case, it is well before leaving the garden for a few weeks in the summer to cut everything well back, particularly buds and flowers, to mulch well with grass clippings or straw to conserve the moisture when it is not possible to have a neighbor turn his hose over the fence, once in awhile, so that top growth will be checked while one is absent.

Order new varieties of gladiolus and dahlias early. Stocks of these are soon exhausted.

Never attempt to lay out a vegetable garden without previously drawing up a plan on paper.

When the soil will crumble after being pressed between the hands, it is ready to dig. If it sticks in a ball, it is too wet and should be left for a day or two.

In accordance with a suggestion of Premier Ferguson in the House on Wednesday, the Municipal Law committee has appointed a sub-committee to look into the provisions generally of the Cemetery Act. It is composed of H. G. Nixon, Russell; Hon. L. Monteith, Alex. Mewhinney and T. Birkett, and will meet next Tuesday afternoon. The Prime Minister on Wednesday said: "I have been glad to notice that there has been wide interest taken in this House in the preservation and beautification of old, historic cemeteries. It is a shame and disgrace the way some are neglected, and a real effort is being made to improve them in that respect. Many members are interested and some have suggested legislation. I suggest that perhaps the Municipal Committee might appoint a sub-committee to consider the two or three Cemetery Bills already in the House and be prepared to make some recommendations."

Enterprise S. S. Class No. 4 Star Banner.

A social afternoon was held at the home of Miss Ila Cronk, Enterprise, on March 12th, for election of officers, which opened by singing Hymn 404, "Hear the Pennys Dropping", followed by the Lord's Prayer in unison. The teacher, Mrs. D. B. Wagar, was re-elected, and Mrs. E. Raymond as assistant. The following officers were elected: President, Miss Ila Cronk; 1st Vice President; Miss Muriel Brown; 2nd Vice President, Miss Bessie Cooper; Secretary, Miss Alice Kirkham; Treasurer, Miss Madeline Spratt; Organist, Miss Lillie Wilson. Misses Ila Cronk and Muriel Brown are the Sick Committee. Press Reporter, Muriel Brown. The meeting closed by singing Hymn 423, "Away in a Manger", after which a very delicious lunch was served by the hostess.

Robinson's Week of Fashions

March 18th to 24th, Inclusive

Removing the Wrappings of the Spring and Easter Fashions in a "Week-Long" and a "Store-Wide" Exhibition of New Merchandise.

We courteously invite you to this Big Review of Authentic Styles and Colors in Coats, Frocks, Sports Wear, Woollens, Wash Goods, Accessories, Home Furnishings, Men's Wear.

Spring Fashion Week

FOR FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, MARCH 18th AND 19th

Special displays of Women's and Misses' Wearing Apparel, Millinery, Accessories, Men's Wear.

FOR MONDAY AND TUESDAY, MARCH 21st AND 22nd

Special displays of Silks, Woollens, Wash Goods, and Trimmings.

FOR WEDNESDAY AND THURSDAY, MARCH 23rd AND 24th

Special displays of Curtain Draperies, Floor Coverings, and Home Decorations.

"Spring Styles"

The wrappings have been removed from the Spring Fashions. Our present assemblage of Wearing Apparel, Millinery and Accessories, translates the style news completely, smartly, accurately.

In these Opening Displays will be exemplified: the smart colorings, the fashionable fabrics, the vital differences between this and last season's styles, the changes in Millinery modes, the clever Spring accessories; all the ins and outs of the Spring mode, as created by master designers on the two continents.

These "Spring-time" collections, that "make the mode", are neither extreme or bizarre, but they do revel in excellent materials, clever designing, unique ornamentation and rare value.

Important Features that Count for Spring

The revival of all the tones of Blue.
The Degrade color combinations.
The increasing use of Belts, buckled snugly.
The bloused and bolero Silhouettes.
The frock with jacket to match.
The Compose Costume—two colors, two materials.
The vogue for Pleats, Pin Tucks, Strappings.
The use of Silk Scarfs for smart accessories.
The square and the cardigan neck-line.
The continuance of the smaller hats.
The popularity of "Felt" for Spring hats.
The universal use of "Fur" for coat trimmings.

Dr. Stewart and Dr. Young To Be In Napanee Sunday

On Sunday Napanee is to have the rare privilege of hearing two men who are authorities in their own field. Dr. Stewart is the man who wrote "The Laughing Buddah". He is a noted student and writer of Chinese problems, and probably knows as much about China as any individual in Ontario. Just now China is much in the limelight and the address of Dr. Stewart is very timely. Dr. Stewart will be at St. Andrew's Sunday morning, and in Trinity in the evening.

Dr. Colin Young is one of the most outstanding authorities on the non-Anglo Saxon problem in Canada. For years he has devoted all his time to the work of the non-Anglo Saxon in Canada, first under the Presbyterian Church and now under the United Church. He has a great message to tell of these strangers within our gate. Dr. Young will be at Trinity Sunday morning and in Grace in the evening.

For Good Used Cars go to the Dealer who sells Good New Cars

THE popularity of the new models is one reason for the high quality of our stock of Used Cars. It is not necessary for us to take every car offered in trade, nor is it necessary for us to make an excessive allowance on the Used Car to sell a new one. Therefore our stock of Used Cars is limited to machines in good running order, many of which are no more than broken in. Look over the list below.

ANCIENT ORDER OF FROTH BLOWERS

Charity has many handmaids and henchmen. Some may be of severe aspect, when the motive is the compelling one of duty; others, animated by compassion, may make their service a thing of grace; and yet others—not the least beneficent—may add to their goodwill a cheerfulness and good-fellowship that form a strong bond between giver and receiver. In the last category we might include the singularly named Ancient Order of Froth Blowers.

The order, which is only 2½ years "ancient," had a romantic origin. One day that distinguished London surgeon, Sir Alfred Pripp, saved the life of Mr. Temple, a City man. In token of thanksgiving, he sought means to help a charity for East End waifs and strays in which Sir Alfred and Lady Pripp were interested, and the Order came into being. Its membership has grown rapidly through all classes and in all climes; the 200,000 mark was passed recently, and applications were then coming in so fast at the London headquarters that rules and insignia could not be issued without an average delay of ten days.

The income of the Order goes to charities. Most of it is derived from the entrance fee of five shillings—which brings an amusing book of rules and a set of silver and enamel cuff-links, marked "A.O.F.B."—but an elaborate system of fines adds considerably to it. Of £16,000 given to Sir Alfred part was expended directly by himself and his wife in the charity for which they are personally responsible, and part to the funds of other charities. Local "vats," as the branches are named, devote some of the contents of their "coat boxes", in which fines are deposited, to charities in their districts; a proportion is placed at Sir Alfred's disposition.

The terminology of the Order is curious. An ordinary member is a blower; whoever recruits 25 new members becomes a Blaster; 100 new members a Tornado; and there are higher ranks such as Typhoon, Breeze, Vertical, Cyclone, and Grand Hurricane. Women members, who are now being added, are known as "Fairy Belles". Meanwhile the anthem of the Order, "The More we are Together, the Merrier we'll be," sung to an enticing tune, is having a huge vogue.

Almost Helpless With Rheumatism

A Nova Scotia Lady Tells How She Found Relief.

Among the well-known residents of Nineveh, N.S., is Mrs. William Silver, who tells for the benefit of other sufferers how she found relief from a severe attack of rheumatism. Mrs. Silver says:—"In the early fall of 1926, I contracted a cold which developed into a severe attack of muscular rheumatism. In fact, it almost totally disabled me, and I suffered great agony most of the time. After trying in vain to get something to relieve me, I decided to take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, which I had heard highly recommended. I may say that the quick relief they afforded really surprised me, and after taking some six boxes of the pills every twinge of the rheumatism had gone, and I am now feeling better than I have been for some years past. The pills not only banished the rheumatism, but helped me in many other ways."

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and stomach trouble. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best of physical condition and cultivate the resistance that will keep you well and strong. Sold by all druggists or sent by mail at 50 cents a box by The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Many a young fellow is just a chip off the old blockhead.

Many mothers can testify to the virtue of Mother Graves' Worm Exterminator, because they know from experience how useful it is.

The suggestion that hospital nurses should be allowed to wear shorter skirts has met with strong opposition. Obviously the only alternative is a campaign in favor of longer gurses.

Fond Father (to daughter)—"Grace, Charlie has asked my consent, etc."

Daughter—"But, papa, I don't want to leave mamma."

"Well, you can take her with you."

"Accused, you are sentenced to two years' imprisonment. Have you anything to add?"

"No, but I should very much like to deduct."

Motorist—"I say, can you drive a car?"

Stranger—"No, boss."

Motorist—"Splendid. Stay here and watch my car a little while, will you?"

"Will you join our indignation meeting to-night?" the old army officer was asked. "We want to make a strong protest."

"With pleasure, sir. Er—what's the protest about?"

Health cannot be looked for in the child that is subject to worms, because worms destroy health by creating internal disturbances that retard development and cause serious weakness. Miller's Worm Powders expel worms and are so beneficial in their action that the systems of the little sufferers are restored to healthful-ness, all the discomforts and dangers of worm infection are removed, and satisfactory growth is assured.

Luck seemed to be on the side of the visitors' team, and the home enthusiasts were feeling very blue as the football match progressed.

Supporters of both sides were engaged in heated argument, and angry words flew like sparks from a smith's anvil.

"What our team needs," said one of the home side supporters, "is a good coach. Then we'll show you people what real football's like."

"It's t' contrary," snorted his angry rival. "What your team needs more than anything else is a good strong hearse."

Took A Friend's Advice And Received Benefit

So Says Mr. J. F. Kuss, Who Used Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Manitoba Man Suffered With a Weak Back and Was Unable to do Anything.

Roblin, Man., March 17th. (Special) —Two years ago, early in the fall, while I was working for a threshing outfit I got a weak back, which at times attacked me so badly that I was unable to do anything. A friend advised me to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial, which I did. The results were great. I have had no trouble since. Words cannot express my thanks to Dodd's Kidney Pills."

This testimonial comes from Mr. J. F. Kuss, who resides at this place.

Dodd's Kidney Pills strengthen the kidneys and put them in shape to do their full work of straining the impurities out of the blood. With pure blood there is good health all over the body.

Don't experiment with things you think will do you good. Get Dodd's Kidney Pills from the druggist. They are cheap enough, and all druggists stock them.

An Open Letter to our Customers

OUR business, together with twenty-one other large retail firms in the leading cities of Eastern Canada, has been merged into CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED—Canada's newest and largest system of chain stores.

On this occasion we wish to thank our thousands of customers for their patronage during the many years that we have been in business. It is through your loyalty that we have been able to keep steady pace with the growth of the community.

But a brighter day is dawning—we will be better able than ever to serve you efficiently. In the union of these long established and successful stores has been founded a buying strength that will benefit you directly in your future purchases. In our store you will find a wider range of merchandise of highest quality priced below all competition.

Although this business is part of the CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED, it will continue under the same local management. This is your assurance of shopping here in the future with the same confidence and satisfaction as you have had in the past.

Our faith in the future of CANADIAN DEPARTMENT STORES LIMITED is shown by the fact that we are one of the largest share-holders in the new company. The economies effected by cooperative and large volume buying in the first markets of the world will be reflected in a still greater turnover of business and lower prices to all old and new customers. The chain store method is now the modern principle of the most economic merchandising, the world over.

Canadian Department Stores Limited is purely a Canadian enterprise, controlled by Canadians and continuing under the same local managements that have been most successful even in Canada's worst business years.

Faithfully yours,

THE ROBINSON CO. Ltd.

OBITUARY

Nancy Milligan Fraser

There passed away at the General Hospital, Kingston, on December 1st, 1926, on her 75th birthday, Nancy Milligan Fraser, after an illness of nearly two years, battling with pneumonia. Her parents were Peter and Rachel Beeman Fraser. She was born in the Township of Camden, Lennox County, on December 1st, 1851. She is survived by one sister, Mary, the wife of the late Wilber Gerow, and three nephews, Allan Gerow, of Hamilton, Ont., Don Gerow, of Buffalo, N.Y., and Grant Gerow, of Cleveland, Ohio.

At the age of 17 years, at a revival meeting held at the school house, by Rev. Mr. Wright, she was converted, and continued to live the Christ-like life all her days, a living example of Christian faith, and at the last parting with her sister, "I am ready to pass on and be with our dear ones gone on before."

At the age of 21 years she was married to Robert S. Milligan, by Rev. Mr. Clark. After spending a few years on the farm, they moved to Napanee and were in the mercantile business; later locating on the Palace Road, taking up farming, near to the home of her parents, to whom she was a great comfort. Her mother was an invalid and a sufferer for some years with dropsy, dying in her 70th year. Then Mrs. Milligan cared for her father until his death. They then entered into real estate business at St. Catharines, Toronto, and Town of Simcoe. While farming at Petrolia, her husband, Robert S. Milligan, was stricken down with heart trouble and dropsy and died, leaving a loving wife, after 46 years of life together. Nancy then went to Buffalo for a time, and then to Washington, D.C. While there she had a call to come to George A. Fraser, at Austin, Washington State, as he had parted with his life partner. This seemed like a very rational idea, for two lonely mortals at the end of man's allotted time of life, and were married, becoming Nancy Fraser again. Mr. Fraser was in the employment of the Government, being elected County Auditor of the County of Austin for 4 years, (2 terms). He was also elected 2 terms, (4 years), as County Treasurer. As his health was failing him and a celebration was to be held at his birthplace, Napanee; also a call from Nancy's sister, Mary Gerow, who had been suddenly bereft by the death of Wilber Gerow, they bid adieu to their many friends at Austin for hence in Canada, to lay their bones away among friends and the old soil. Nancy, wherever was her home, was a worker in church and Sunday School, teaching a class of either girls or boys. Many of the people of to-day in the districts in which she has lived, will remember Nancy Milligan as their Sunday School teacher. She belonged to all societies connected with the church. She was also connected with the Rebekah Order of Oddfellows at Austin. Her home was always open and a Christian welcome extended to all. Her smile and kindly manner won for her friends that never forsook her, and her memory will only be forgotten as generations pass. She has gone to her rest that she has spent her life work to secure, and man's allotted years has been hers. She has gone and her good work remain a sample of her goodness.

MAKE CARE OF BABIES EASIER

Stomach disturbances and constipation are responsible for much of the peevishness of babies and young children. When the baby is cross or irritable the mother should not resort to so-called soothing mixtures to correct the trouble, for in the majority of cases these mixtures simply drug the child into an unnatural sleep. What is needed is a gentle laxative that will sweeten the stomach and regulate the bowels. Such a remedy is found in Baby's Own Tablets. They are easy to take and guaranteed to be entirely free from opiate and narcotics. Concerning them, Mrs. Jos. Toussaignant, Ste. Sophie, Que., writes:—"I would like all mothers to know that I feel there is no other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets. I always keep a box in the house and their prompt use never fails to restore my little ones to health." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

WATCH AND PURSE FROM CITIZENS TO MR. ALAN SWAYNE

Recognition Given For Rescue of Lady From a Watery Grave

The citizens of the town paid a striking tribute to the heroism of Mr. Alan Swayne, when he was given a public presentation in the Town Hall, on Tuesday evening. The auditorium was filled to capacity, many being accupied and many being compelled to stand at the rear of the room as well as on the stage.

The occasion was to recognize in some tangible manner the feelings of the citizens of the town generally to Mr. Swayne for his action on Feb. 7th when he plunged into the waters of the Mississippi, without thought for his own life, to rescue a young lady who had fallen from the railway bridge into the river. It will be remembered that on that date Miss Annie Pretty and her sister were crossing the bridge as the evening Pembroke local was coming in. The younger girl was able to reach the safety of the steps at the side of the bridge but Miss Annie fell into the icy waters of the river and was at once carried down by the falls at the bridge separating the two Bates & Innes factories. Mr. Swayne was at the office of the above firm at the time and he at once rushed to the river bank and plunging in brought Miss Pretty to safety.

A couple of weeks ago a committee was formed and subscription lists were opened at a number of business places. The response was most wholehearted from citizens for all walks of life in the town. As a result the committee was able to purchase a most beautiful gold watch and had the following inscription engraved thereon: "Presented to John Alan Hope Swayne by the citizens of Carleton Place, Ont., for his heroism in saving a life from drowning Feb. 7th, 1927." This watch, together with a purse of gold, was presented to Mr. Swayne on Tuesday evening.

On Tuesday, 15th inst., at 4.30 p.m., at the Chateau Laurier, Ottawa, Ont., Canada, His Excellency the Governor General presented a gold medal of the Royal Canadian Humane Society to our friend, Mr. Alan Swayne—of Carleton Place Canadian, Carlton Place, Ont., March 10th, 1927.

RAISE GAS TAX, LOWER MOTOR FEES

Consideration is being given by the Ontario Government, to changes in the license fee for automobiles and the tax on gasoline with the view of more equitably fixing the source of revenue for the maintenance of the highways of the province. Representations have been made to the government on behalf of the motorists in the rural districts and the northern parts of the province where, owing to the climatic conditions automobiles are in use only about seven or eight months in the year, and it is claimed that even with the recent reduction of $5.00 in the license fee the motorist in the urban areas have an advantage because they are able to operate cars almost the year round.

Speaking at Hamilton Friday night, Premier Howard Ferguson repeated the statement he has already made in the Legislature to the effect that he is in favor of further reduction in the license fee and an increase in the gasoline tax and while no decision has been reached by the government on the matter, it is forecast that next year there will be another reduction of $5 in license fees and an increase in the gasoline impost from three to five cents a gallon.

Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways and Public Works, stated this morning that many changes being considered were not based solely on revenue, but "it is a matter of placing the burden where it belongs." It was only right, he said, that the motorist who wanted to use the highway the year round should pay more towards the upkeep of the roads and this would be met by an increase in the gasoline tax. It would also mean that the tourist would pay his share of the road maintenance giving relief to those who were only able to use the roads six or seven months of the year.

Sandy—"There's Crichton's cow broken into our yard again. What shall I do?"

Mrs. Sandy—"Well, don't stand there doing nothing. Milk her and put her out."

Moved by Mr. Conger, seconded by Mr. Keech, that Wilmot Post be paid his account re statute labor, ballast, and driving fields; also stone and blasting material. Total $17.20.
Moved by Mr. Keech, seconded by Mr. Conger, that the communication from the Annual School Convention be filed. Carried.
Moved by Mr. Garrison, seconded by Mr. Sexsmith, that the communication from Mattie C. Schryver be laid over until the next session of this Council. Carried.
Moved by Mr. Garrison, seconded by Mr. Keech, that the Maple Leaf Institute be granted $10.00 as usual. Carried.
Moved by Mr. Conger, seconded by Mr. Sexsmith, that Messrs. Conger and Garrison be a committee to see about getting the crusher moved into Kent's road, near Kent's stone pit, and get the stone crushed and put on the road where it was graded. Carried.
The following accounts were ordered paid:—

The Municipal World, dog tags	$ 7 70
M. J. Sills, work and postage	95
Ray F. Price, work and material, Big Creek bridge	1 50
Geo. Vankoughnet, stove pipes	4 85
Wm. Fretts, refund of dog tax	1 10

Moved by Mr. Garrison, seconded by Mr. Conger, that no account for poor be paid unless the name of the indigent appears on the account.
Moved by Mr. Garrison, seconded by Mr. Conger, that the report of the Reeve re statute labor, be taken down in the minutes. Carried.
The Reeve reports that he interviewed Mr. Muir and the Hon. Mr. G. S. Henry, re statute labor, and they said we could go back to statute labor, they had no jurisdiction, but if we did go back we would lose our grant for expenditures in 1926, which grant will be over $2000, whereas if the present course continues, they intended to try to give us 75 per cent on expenditure on the Palace Road, on road from the Collins farm to Highway, the road from Cherry Corner to the station, also for No. 11 road from Hay Bay to Woodcock's school house.
Moved by Mr. Keech, seconded by Mr. Sexsmith, that No. 2 Polling Subdivision, North Fredericksburgh, be divided into two polling sub-divisions, No. 2 Polling Sub-division to extend from Leonard Pitchett's and Elisa J. Fields' on the east, to Wm. Goodman's on the west, and W. S. Nolan's and Thos. Bell's on No. 11 road, and Polling Sub-division No. 4 to extend from Isaac Pitchett's on the east to Fred Spencer's on the west, and to Newton Parks' on No. 1 road.
Moved by Mr. Conger, seconded by Mr. Sexsmith, that all unpaid taxes must be paid by the 1st day of April, 1927. Carried.
Moved by Mr. Garrison, seconded by Mr. Carrion, that this Council adjourn to meet on the first Monday in April, at 1 o'clock p.m.

buy McLaughlin-Buick for beauty

BEAUTY is revealed in every line of the Greatest McLaughlin-Buick Ever Built—in the rich blendings of the Duco colors—in the smart upholstery and interior trim.

Door-handles, window regulators and other fittings are of a style and quality which would grace any custom-built car.

See the gleaming nickel on radiator and lamps—see the rich, jet-black tires and rims, the natural wood wheel-spokes, the ultra-fashionable shades of Duco on the Fisher-built bodies—see the exquisite lines of the bodies themselves, each a masterpiece of the body builder's art.

See the Greatest McLaughlin-Buick and you will have seen a perfection of beauty that no automobile, even the world's most expensive, can rival.

It is the great volume of McLaughlin-Buick production that makes possible the many values at prices at which the Greatest McLaughlin-Buick is obtainable.

Buying on the Installment Plan

PURCHASING commodities by buying "a dollar down and a dollar a week" has grown into great popularity. Often the object purchased is worn out before it is paid for, and the buyer continues to pay. Buy yourself a fortune on the installment plan by placing regular installments of your earnings in the Standard Bank savings account. The money is always available for use if required, and there is no depreciation, but accruing interest adds time after time.

A Vast Outlay.

Some idea is gained of what an enormous job it is to look after the telephone requirements of the community when we learn from the Bell Telephone Company's Annual Report that additions and betterments to the Company's property in 1926, made up of land, buildings, central office equipment, outside plant and subscribers' equipment cost, $16,978,127. 11a

St. Andrew's W.M.S.

The March meeting of St. Andrew's W. M. S. was well attended, and an interesting program provided. A short prayer service for China was held before the regular hour of meeting. Miss Gandier read the Scripture lesson. Mrs. Valkman had an excellent paper on Chapter V. of the Study Book, "New Days in Old India". The Misses Lancaster played a piano duett, and Mrs. Gilbride dedicated the offering. Mrs. Craig and Mrs. Pringle were tea hostesses, and all stayed to enjoy the social half hour.

Hon. J. S. Martin At Rotary Club.

The Napanee Rotary Club held a farmers' lunch at their meeting this week. Each Rotarian invited a farmer friend as his guest, and about 50 people were present. The Hon. John S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, was the guest of honor and spoke on the subject of better relations between farmer and townsmen. He also related his experiences with the work that service clubs are doing along this line. Other guests were Dr. Ming, M.L.A., Mr. Anthony Rankin, and Mr. P. Gleeson and W. J. Wiggins, President and Secretary of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce, and several Rotarians from Kingston, Belleville, Montreal, and other places. Besides community singing, selections were rendered by Mr. Jack Caldwell and Mr. Marvin Rathbun, of Deseronto.

OBITUARY

The Late M. C. Bogart.

The death of Mr. M. C. Bogart on Monday last came with unexpected suddenness. Mr. Bogart, who had been on a trip to the South for the winter, returned on Sunday, apparently in the best of health. On Monday he was at his business. In the evening he took suddenly ill and in spite of every effort to relieve him, he finally succumbed about midnight.

In the person of M. C. Bogart Napanee loses another of its stalwart citizens. He was of United Empire Loyalist stock and had inherited their spirit of patriotism and devotion. For years he served the town and county in various capacities, and was honored by being at one time the Warden of the County.

But his chief interest always lay at the church of his choice. He was a devoted member of Trinity Methodist Church, was on most of its important committees, and at his death held the position of Recording Steward.

His interests were not confined to the local church by any means. He was on the Dominion Finance Board of the former Methodist Church, and was a Secretary of the Laymen's Association of the Bay of Quinte Conference.

Mr. Bogart expressed his Christianity in a practical manner in a great many ways, and his gifts of money to Albert College will always stand as a great token of his interest in the religious education of the young.

A gift of a new set of chimes for the organ in Trinity Church was the latest of his acts of generosity in the town.

The funeral was held on Thursday from Trinity Church, members of the Board acting as pall-bearers. Rev. Mr. Tanton conducted the service. On the platform with him were the ministers of St. Andrew's and Grace, and Dr. Baker, of Albert College, Belleville.

A great number of people from outside the town were present to pay their last respects to the deceased.

More Old Coins.

Mr. J. W. Courtney, of Newburgh, showed us a fine collection of old coins last week, which dated as far back as 1787, and many of the year 1812. The most interesting among them were American gold pieces of the following denominations: Two and one half dollars, 1855; one dollar, 1850; one-half dollar, 1872, and one-quarter dollar, 1875.

Mr. Roy Garrison also showed a Half Penny Token dated 1812.

In the Forefront.

Although business conditions were not uniformly good throughout 1926, the number of telephones gained during the year was 40,840, the Annual Report of the Bell Telephone Company points out. The total of Bell telephones in service in Ontario and Quebec on December 31st last was 630,161. Add to this total, the 122,786 telephones operated by independent companies and connected with Bell exchanges, and you have a development which places the two provinces in the forefront as regards this important service. 11a

A Progressive Barber.

Mr. J. Harry Keller, the popular John St. Barber, has installed a complete Ladies' Private Beauty Parlor in connection with his up-to-date tonsorial parlor, where Mlle Jeanette Pickworth, late of one of Toronto's leading beauty parlors, is prepared to Marcel and cut in the latest style; also Shampooing and Facial Massaging. All tools sterilized. Mr. Keller was the first in Napanee to use the Sanex Sanitary Neck Strip, which prevents the short hair from going down the neck when cutting. It is absolutely sanitary, as a fresh strip is used for each customer. Mr. Keller is to be congratulated upon completing such an up-to-date Ladies' Parlor. He has three barbers, so that his many patrons will be assured of courteous and prompt service. 11a

MAPLE LEAF INSTITUTE

The regular meeting of the Maple Leaf Institute was held on Thursday, March 3rd, 1927, at the home of Mrs. Harold Scrimshaw, with eighteen members and some visitors present.

It was decided that our Institute would have a Sewing Class the last two weeks in May. The class is to be held in the Town Hall. It was also decided to buy dishes and spoons.

A reading was then given by Mrs. Ray Perry, "Heart to Heart Talk With Busy Mothers and Homemakers" Music was given by Mrs. Scrimshaw. Another reading by Miss Cummings, "Thirty Years' Growth of the Women's Institute". Another selection of music was given by Mrs. Scrimshaw. Plans were then made for another euchre and dance to be given on Tuesday evening, March 15th 1927, in the Town Hall.

The meeting closed by singing "God Save the King". Mrs. Perry's refreshments were served by committee in charge. A hearty vote of thanks was later tendered our hostess, and also the hinch committee.

The next meeting will be held on Monday, 14th, 1927, at the home of Mrs. Wesley Cummings, Morven. Everybody welcome.

Gimme a "Smile". It's a good drink.

WORKERS AND PUBLIC WARNED

Precautions Regarding Use of Ethyl Gasoline Are Recommended by Investigator

Dr. J. G. Cunningham, of the Provincial Department of Public Health, who has been making investigations concerning ethyl gasoline, reports to Hon. Forbes Godfrey that, apart from manufacture and blending, the practical dangers to workers at service stations and garages are: 1. Contact with the fluid, as at filling stations, and to a lesser extent in garages and repair work. 2. Inhalation of lead dust wherever spills and splashes of the fluid have dried. 3. Exposure to exhaust fumes. Where ethyl gasoline is used the exhaust may contain lead in the form of very finely divided particles of lead, which, unlike the carbon monoxide in the fumes, does not diffuse rapidly, but hangs in the air. Garage workers employed all day in such atmosphere could easily inhale dangerous amounts of lead, and the ordinary dangers of any car owner running his engine in an unventilated enclosure are increased by the addition of lead to his fuel.

Precautions Recommended.

Precautions recommended by Dr. Cunningham are that pumps and containers should be labelled "Ethyl gasoline containing tetraethyl lead," and that both workers and the public should be warned against skin contacts and against the use of ethyl gasoline for cleaning or any other purpose than motor fuel. Dr. Cunninghath further says they should be warned against the increased danger from exhaust fumes, and in repair shops and filling stations, etc., special attention should be paid to ventilation and prevention of dust.

TAMWORTH UNITED CHURCH

The sermon subject for next Sunday is "Doing What Jesus Says."

The Sunday School and preaching service had to be withdrawn as Mud Creek bank last Sunday, on account of the flooded basement, which put the furnace out of commission.

The Young Ladies' Mission Circle of Marlbank have been asked to repeat the pageant, "Women's Voices," next Sunday night.

Petitions for and against a liquor store in Tamworth are being signed. A goodly number signed the petition against a liquor store after the service last Sunday night.

The congregations of Tamworth and Reidville will hold their annual meetings on the evenings of April 12th and 13th respectively.

The Tamworth W. M. S. on Tuesday evening elected the following officers for the ensuing church year: President, Mrs. S. White; 1st Vice President, Mrs. E. Huffman; 2nd Vice President, Mrs. A. E. Thornley; Recording Secretary, Mrs. D. Floyd; Corresponding Secretary, Mrs. W. McKnight; Press Secretary, Mrs. S. Gilmour; Strawer Secretary, Mrs. J. A. Brown; Mite Box Secretary, Mrs. L. P. Wells; Treasurer, Mrs. E. Carscallen; Mission Band Superintendent, Miss B. Millgan; Assistant, Miss Hattie Reid; Secretary Christian Stewardship, Mrs. James Donovan; Secretary for Missionary Monthly, Mrs. Stan. Haggarty.

Presentation and Address

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lemmon, of Violet, opened their very hospitable home on Monday evening, March 7th, when the friends and neighbors gathered to say good bye to Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Stevens and little son, Ernest, who are leaving our midst for their new home at Bethel.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens are an entertaining young couple who will be much missed in our neighborhood, but with such a bright outlook before them, we feel our loss is some one else's gain.

A beautifully worded address, endorsed by the Scouters, Wells Smith and Peter Forbes, and signed by many of their friends and neighbors, was read by Mr. E. A. Wright, and Mrs. Roy Rose presented the address of honor with a well filled purse.

Mr. Stevens replied in a few well chosen words for Mrs. Stevens and himself. Though visibly affected and taken by surprise, both warmly welcomed all to their new home at Bethel. Dainty refreshments were served by the ladies, and cards and dancing brought to a close a very happy evening.

TOWN COUNCIL

The regular meeting of the Council was held in the Council Chamber on Monday night.

The members present were Reeve Boyes, Councillors Howitt, Jewell, Fitzpatrick, Dunbar, Kimmerly and Simpson.

His Worship Mayor Roy presided.

A letter was read from M. Eleanor Herrington, acknowledging the Council's expressions of sympathy for the family in their late bereavement.

A letter was also read from Kate M. James, thanking the members of the Council for their resolution of condolence to the relatives of the late Mr. James, Consulting Engineer, of Toronto.

A communication was received from Jamieson Bone, Belleville, advising the Council of an auction sale of road equipment in their possession. Filed.

Coun. Fitzpatrick, Chairman of Streets, reported that the main thoroughfares of the town had been cleaned. He also drew the Council's attention to the dumping of ashes on the streets by householders. There is a by-law that prohibits ashes being emptied on the street. Property owners or tenants must have the ashes drawn away or spread out, otherwise proceedings will be taken against the offenders.

A motion was made and carried, that the Standard Paving Co. be notified that the storm sewers on East St. were not put down below frost, in consequence of which they frame up this winter.

Reeve Boyes reported that the County Council had appropriated the sum of $22,500 as the County's share for a permanent pavement on Centre street, and that they would spend $150,000 on County Roads in 1927.

Coun. Kimmerly, who represented the Council on a deputation that waited on the Hydro-Electric Commission in Toronto, in the matter of an explanation for certain increases in the Hydro rates, handed in the following report :—

Memorandum Submitted by the Central Ontario Power Association to the Hydro Electric Power Commission of Ontario, March 16th, 1927.

The Deputation representing the Central Ontario Power Association respectfully request answers to the following questions and explanations of the matters referred to :

1. An explanation of the difference between the value (actual and replacement) of assets in the Central Ontario Power System as appraised by the Engineers of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission and the amount paid therefor by the Government, as appears thus :—

Purchase Price (1916)	$8,350,000
Appraised replacement value (1914)	5,046,088
Appraised actual value (1914)	3,987,319

2. The appraised value and the amount paid for each unit in the system purchased by the Government at the time of purchase, and the proper disposition of all capital additions to the various units of the whole System, taking into account the necessary items for depreciation on the various units of the system since the date of purchase.

2. The annual profits and losses on each unit in the Central Ontario System (showing receipts and expenditures and including fixed charges on capital. Also the disposition of the profits and allocation of losses.

4. A statement of the rates charged annually throughout the system since the purchase, including the rates charged on all contracts.

5. A tabulation of 1926 rates and the increased rates of 1927 throughout the system, showing the percentage of increase to all consumers, wholesale and retail.

The Central Ontario Power Association by its deputation submits to the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario the following requests :—

(a) That the previous rates prevail until the information requested above is supplied and an opportunity given to the various municipalities and customers to examine rates, proposed increases and other essential features.

(b) That a scheme be devised for writing off the difference between the amount paid by the Government and the appraised value of the system, and also the losses on non Hydro-Electric units.

(c) The equitable distribution of rates throughout the Central Ontario System.

Coun. Kimmerly said the deputation and members of the Hydro Commission met at the King Edward Hotel. C. A. Magrath, Chairman of the Commission, cordially welcomed the municipal representatives, and trusted they would often meet to discuss matters connected with Hydro-Electric power. The main reason for raising the rates, he said, was the increased development of horse power and the acquisition of property rights. To the other questions submitted the answers were more or less of a technical nature.

On motion the Street Committee were given power to place stop signs on the streets warning motorists.

The Council instructed the Clerk to notify Mr. Fred Perry to put the telephone poles belonging to his company in proper condition, or remove the same.

The advisability of preparing a by-law to license and regulate restaurants in Napanee was discussed in Council. The Market and Police Committee will take the matter up, and report at next meeting.

HON. JOHN S. MARTIN AT NAPANEE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

At a banquet of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce held at the Paisley House on Tuesday evening, Mar. 15th, it was proposed that the Chamber of Commerce co-operate with any other public function in this County or vicinity towards the participation in the Confederation Jubilee this year by commemorating that historic spot in Adolphustown, which was the boyhood home of that great Canadian statesman, Sir John A. MacDonald.

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, was the speaker of the evening and dealt mainly with agricultural subjects in his address. Patrick Gleason, the President of the Chamber of Commerce, presided.

The banquet was largely attended, there being fully 125 men present, not only from the town, but also from many points throughout the district. The Warden and members of the County Council, which was holding its March session last week, were also the guests of the Chamber of Commerce. The gathering was called to order by the newly-elected President of the Napanee Chamber of Commerce, Patrick Gleason, who welcomed the guest of honor and the warden and members of the County Council. Seated at the head table were : President Gleason, the Hon. J. S. Martin, Warden Henry Young, Dr. Ming, M.L.A. for Frontenac-Lennox; A. M. Rankin, ex-M.L.A. for Frontenac, and C. W. Hamby, ex-M.L.A. for Lennox.

Hon. John S. Martin

The distinguished guest, who is a most fluent and pleasing speaker, expressed his great pleasure at being present, and briefly referred to the great loyalty of the early settlers in this portion of Ontario.

Mr. Martin then dwelt at some length upon trade conditions which existed prior, during and since the great war, and said that although many nations and states had had hard work in adjusting trade since the consummation of the war, none came through with flying colors as did the Province of Ontario.

The Dairy Industry

The speaker then touched upon the subject of dairying, which he said had a great future before it. Among the many figures which were quoted a few outstanding ones are worthy of mention. In 1927 the United States imported from Canada 500,000,000 lbs. of milk, and 78,000,000 lbs. of cheese.

Ontario, which is the great cheese producing province in Canada last year produced 115,000,000 lbs. cheese and had supplanted Wisconsin in the markets of Great Britain. This state for years held full sway in the Old Country markets, but lost the trade through the manufacture of an inferior grade of cheese which the Englishman would not buy.

Co-operation Needed

Mr. Martin also spoke on the breeding of cattle and the poultry industry, the latter department which is doing a great practical work to-day. The speaker concluded by saying that co-operation must be the keynote of the people to-day, as each class is dependent upon the other. A hearty vote of thanks was then tendered the guest of the evening.

Entertainment Features

During the dinner hour old-time songs were played by Walters' Orchestra, and the male quartette, consisting of Messrs. Caldwell, Ward, Shannon and Vandervoort, sang two splendid numbers, with Miss Beatrice Baldwin as accompanist. Miss Daly was heard in a humorous solo.

Other Speakers

Brief addresses were given by Warden G. H. Young, and G. Anson Aylesworth, Reeve of Newburgh, who on behalf of the County Council, thanked the association for the honor of being present. Dr. E. Ming, M.L.A., A. M. Rankin, ex-M.L.A., C. W. Hamby, ex-M.L.A., and J. S. Johnson, Reeve of Adolphustown, likewise spoke briefly.

Other speakers were John Hayes, President of the Napanee Poultry Association, and Mr. Beattie, the newly appointed Principal of the Napanee Collegiate Institute.

Quebec Man Used Dodd's Kidney Pills With Beneficial Results.

Mr. C. Lafulippe Suffered With Kidney Trouble and Found Dodd's Kidney Pills Very Beneficial

Lambton, P.Q., March 26th, 1927. (Special.)—"I have suffered with my kidneys and have passed many nights without being able to turn in my bed," writes Mr. C. Latulippe, a well known resident of this place. "I have taken three boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills and they have completely relieved me. I always keep a box in the house and take them from time to time."

Mr. Latulippe's trouble came from the kidneys as is evidenced by the relief he got from Dodd's Kidney Pills. When the Kidneys become clogged or out of order, the circulation becomes sluggish, the impurities are not strained out of the blood and the result is weariness and lack of energy all over the body. This condition is not only disagreeable but dangerous as well. The impurities in the blood are the seeds of disease.

Guard against these diseases and get back your accustomed energy by using Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The "Non-Essentials"

By Elliot Mann Washington

There were four elevators in the big bank building and their six conductors had been notified that they were "non-essentials." It was marvelous how promptly each fitted himself into another position more in accordance with the views of the government.

The result of a city-spread propaganda was a scarcity of substitutes. Only one elevator was running Monday morning and delayed office tenants began to grumble.

The agent of the building was in a quandary of distress. Men were not to be secured at a day's notice, and he told his trouble to the chief clerk of the bank. The latter was a practical patriot. Inside of an hour he had invaded the room, given over to the typists and adding machine force.

"Young ladies," he said, "announce a possible variation in your labors for a day or two. We must impress into service six substitutes for our retired elevator conductors. Our starter will give ample instruction, and to the variety and novelty of the occasion will be added double pay. Who enlists for the good of the country?"

A dozen willing enthusiasts crowded forward and Myra Davenport was crowned. The elevators were "womaned" and by noon the devoted sextette was in fine command of the unwonted running, exquisitely safeguarded lifts. The depletion of the usual force kept the other girls three hours beyond the regular quitting time, and it was nearly six when while passing the elevators, her friend, Alma Drury, conspicuous, hailed Myra.

"Oh, Myra! come here a minute, will you?" she cried out. "Don't you want to take my place tomorrow?"

"I would be proud to," replied Myra. "My sister brought me word this afternoon that Ned Warren, to whom I am engaged, is coming in the morning to say good-by before navy duty," explained, Alma. "You look disappointed then they did not select you to run one of the elevators, so you can take my place tomorrow, if you wish to."

Myra was stirred up with the novelty of the occasion and made four trips. "By run it up and down alone, just for practice," she said, and Myra made her first independent ascent. She shivered a little as she allowed the elevator to run over a foot above the last floor. Its top jarred against the cable support. Then she paled a trifle, for all her efforts failed to lower the car.

Myra was fairly frightened as she sought to unlock and roll back the door. It stuck fast. She bent all her force to move it, but budged it so suddenly that she fell half out of the car, her head struck its edge and she lay insensible.

"The mischief! what is this?" uttered a young man, reaching the top step of the last stairway and observing the motionless figure of the young girl. The presentment puzzled him, but lifting Myra in his arms he carried her through the open doorway of an office and placed her upon a couch, next to a great armchair in which a little golden-haired child lay rolled up asleep. Then Warren Bliss wetted a towel and applied it to the bruise on Myra's forehead. She roused up finally.

"Oh! where am I? What has happened?" she fluttered, and then, reassured at the sight of the lovely little child, she tried to be composed. Bliss told her of how he had discovered her and she recounted the story of her escapade.

He smiled sympathizingly at the recital, and as she arose to go, uttering her thanks for his kindly aid, he said:

"A happy thought has come to me, Miss Davenport. I am an architect, and have been struggling with the typewriter to get out twenty pages of specifications that must leave in the first morning mail. I arranged to sit up all night over the task, and my little motherless one here begged to stay with me. I have ordered supper from a restaurant, and as you are a typist, you could materially help me out of my trouble, if you will. The benefit to myself would be inestimable, and as to the recompense it would be worth a great deal to me. My little daughter will keep you company. You two shall be rulers supreme over the outer office there, while I retrace and perfect the plans."

The little girl awoke. Instantly she was interested in Myra, who telephoned to her mother that she had an opportunity for some night work. The supper arrived. Then Myra sat down to her task. At daylight Mr. Bliss ordered a taxicab, the important documents were mailed in time, he insisted on seeing Myra to her home, became acquainted with her mother, and after his departure Mrs. Davenport found a twenty-dollar bill on the table.

"And I made enough extra to buy a new hat!" boasted one of the exigency elevator conductresses.

"And the double pay helped me out with my room rent!" added another.

But Alma broke in mischievously: "Myra Davenport beat you all—she won a beau!"

Myra blushed, for there was a semblance of truth to the statement—a "beau," who, before the year was out, became transformed into a loving, devoted husband.

AUTOMATIC SKY CAMERA.

Highest Peak of Mechanical Perfection In Aerial Photography.

The highest peak of mechanical perfection in aerial photography has been reached in a new camera used at the R.A.F. School of Photography at Farnborough, England.

When the pilot wishes to take a photograph of the ground below him, he presses a button, which sends an electric current through "PS," as the camera is known. The camera does the rest. It takes one hundred photographs at regular intervals on a strip of film nine inches wide, without fault or stop, unless the pilot stops it.

It sets its own time for exposures, and five seconds before each photograph is due a red light appears on the dashboard and warns the pilot so that he may tilt his machine to the desired angle.

After the photograph has been taken, the roll moves along and prepares to take another snap, while the word "set" appears on a dial in front of the pilot. The same process is repeated one hundred times, when the camera automatically stops.

The pilot can also take pictures in the intervals between the regular snaps by pressing another button. Dials and pointers denote how many exposures have been made, at what intervals, the length of the exposure, and whether the camera is ready for another picture.

"PS" will shortly be used on an aerial survey of little-known country in Rhodesia, where its ability to take a chain of hundred pictures will be an obvious advantage, as they can afterwards be linked up into a plan.

WHERE ANTS EAT MEN.

Mr. Cecil Gosling Tells of His Experiences on the Amazon.

A land where ants eat men was discovered on the Manore, one of the great tributaries of the Amazon, by Mr. Cecil Gosling, formerly British Minister to Bolivia, who describes a perilous journey which he made through some of the wildest parts of South America, in an interesting book, "Travel and Adventure in Many Lands."

Mr. Gosling on one occasion had lost himself in the forest when he came to a half-caste's hut.

"What do you suppose would have been your fate if you had been really lost?" said the half-caste.

"The jaguars might have eaten me," said Mr. Gosling.

"That is possible," said the half-caste, "but it is far more likely that you would have been devoured by ants. You would have seen the ants collect round you from all sides.

"Instinct would have compelled you to go on, but the time would not be far distant when, exhausted by lack of food and water, you could go no farther. You would have lain down, and the ants would have collected round you in myriads and would have eaten you."

Mr. Gosling travelled at times through forests inhabited by wild Indians who shoot at sight with poisoned arrows, a wound from which means death. He had to go without bread for seven months.

BURIED IN A GLACIER.

Broken Alpen-Stock Recalls Tragedy of 1870.

A broken alpen-stock bearing the name "Dr. J. Bean" was found by guides at the foot of the Glacier des Bossons, which "flows" down from the summit of Mont Blanc. This find brought back to memory the most terrible accident in Alpine history, when eleven climbers perished on the summit of the mountain in violent snowstorms which lasted for a week.

In September, 1870, Rev. G. McCorkindale, of Glasgow, and two Americans, Dr. Bean and Mr. Randall, set out from Chamonix with eight guides, and reached the summit in doubtful weather. When they began the descent a snow-storm started, and not one of the eleven was seen alive again.

Later, a party of guides found the bodies of five victims, including the clergyman and Dr. Bean, but the other six have never been discovered. It is probable they will eventually follow the alpen-stock. The glacier travels at the rate of 500 feet a year.

The longest period that a glacier or ice-river has retained its dead is forty-one years, the victims being Dr. Hamel and his guides, who perished on Mont Blanc in 1820, and whose bodies were found at the terminal of the Bossons Glacier in 1861.

Bobbed Tails for Birds.

A representative of a tribe of birds which includes the only kind in the world known to practice self-decoration has arrived at the London Zoo.

It is a Carthaginian Motmot, from South America, and is eminently conservative, its relative is known as the Racket-tailed Motmot.

Racket-tails are not uncommon as natural adornments of many birds, but the Motmot produces his artificially, for he bites away the vane on each side of the shaft or the two middle tail-feathers until the desired shape is obtained.

If excessive vanity prompted the Motmot's ancestors to nibble their tails, as is probable, this would account for the habit becoming instinctive.

It is evident at any rate, that the females learned to regard the racket-tailed suitor as specially desirable, otherwise the "fashion" would have died out.

Rook.

Rook is a common bird of the crow family. It is quite numerous in the northern districts of Eastern Canada. During the breeding season rooks form colonies, building their nests in the tops of tall trees. The rook of our north country is black and considerably larger than a crow.

The Highest Building.

The highest building is the Woolworth in New York City, height 792 feet.
